NAZIS IN 'HEART OF FRANCE'

Drive to Chaumont and Thru Maginot Line Into Alsace

AID FOR ALLIES AGAIN PLEDGED BY ROOSEVELT

Arms Shipments to Grow Weekly.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—President Roosevelt this afternoon made public the reply he cabled to the "last supreme appeal" Paul Reynaud, French premier, sent Friday asking for immediate American aid to save France. The text of the Reynaud appeal was not made public.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the United States government is making every possible effort to enable the allies to obtain arms and each week will strive for shipment of more planes, artillery, and munitions to Britain and France.

At the same time he expressed admiration for French courage in the struggle against the Nazi invader and gave assurances that this government will not consider valid any attempts to "infringe by force the independence and territorial integrity of France."

No Military Commitment.

Mr. Roosevelt cautioned the French premier that his emphatic cable carried no implications of American entry into the war. He pointed out that only congress and not the President can make military commitments.

The text of the President's reply to the French premier was released after he conferred for more than an hour with Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, and Count de Saint-Quentin, the French ambassador, on the war situation. It was reported at the White House that the conference was sought by the two envoys.

Lord Lothian told White House newspaper men afterward that it was a general conversation covering the entire situation. He declared that it was "only an informal meeting" and that "we had no formal communications from our governments to make."

Asked if the situation had been cleared up as a result of their talk with the President, Lord Lothian said, "It cleared up something in our minds." He said, however, that "no decisions were arrived at."

TEXT OF REPLY

"I am sending you this reply to your message of yesterday which I am sure you will realize has received the most earnest, as well as the most friendly, study on our part.

"First of all, let me reiterate the ever increasing admiration with which the American people and their government are viewing the resplendent courage with which the French armies are resisting the invaders on French soil.

Point to Previous Aid.

"I wish also to reiterate in the most emphatic terms that, making every possible effort under present conditions, the government of the United States has made it possible for the allied armies to obtain during the weeks that have just passed airplanes, artillery, and munitions of many kinds and that this government so long as the allied governments continue to resist will redouble its efforts in this direction.

"I believe it is possible to say that every week that goes by will see additional material on its way to the allied nations.

"In accordance with its policy not to recognize the results of conquest of territory acquired thru military aggression, the government of the United States will not consider as valid any attempts to infringe by force the inedependence and territorial integrity of France.

Pledges Continued Help.

"In these hours which are so heart rending for the French people and yourself, I send you the assurances of my utmost sympathy and I can further assure you that so long as the French people continue in defense of their liberty which constitutes the cause of popular institutions thruout the world, so long will they rest assured that material and supplies will be sent to them from the United States in ever increasing quantities and kinds.

"I know that you will understand that these statements carry with them no implication of military commitments. Only the congress can make such commitments."

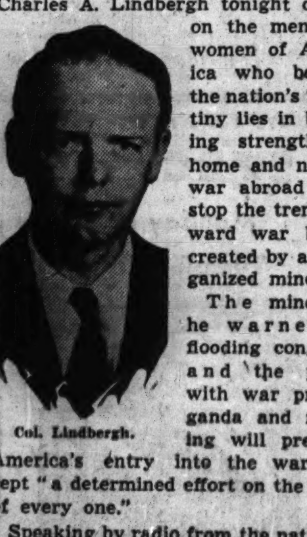
COL. LINDBERGH ASKS NATION TO CURB WAR FEVER

Charges Minority Is Periling Future.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight called on the men and women of America who believe the nation's "destiny lies in building strength at home and not in war abroad" to stop the trend toward war being created by an organized minority.



Col. Lindbergh.

The minority, he warned, is flooding congress and the press with war propaganda and nothing will prevent America's entry into the war except "a determined effort on the part of every one."

Speaking by radio from the nation's capital, Lindbergh urged organization in every community against warmongers in order that the life and energies of America will not be occupied with war for the next several generations.

Favors National Defense.

Lindbergh cautioned against confusing the question of national defense with the question of entering the European war. He declared that no one believes in defense more than himself, but he opposes arming to enter a European war.

The noted flyer asserted that the "dabbling we have been doing in European affairs can lead only to failure in the future as it has in the past." If the policy continues, he predicted, America will not remain a great nation.

Mentioning American shipment of arms and other gestures in behalf of France and Britain, he said:

"We have been doing to England and France what they did to Abyssinia, to Czecho-Slovakia, to Poland, to Finland, and to Norway—we have encouraged them to hope for help we cannot send.

Pointed Toward Failure.

"Yet with these examples before us, we still continue in this course—the same course that led England to failure abroad and weakness at home, a course that will lead us, also, to a disastrous and unsuccessful war if we persist in following it."

Lindbergh said it is useless to talk of sending American troops abroad now, because it would take months to create an expeditionary force. He cautioned that before making a war decision, America must consider that German armies may gain domination of all Europe. In that case the United States, if it went to war, would be faced with the problem of invading a continent defended by armies larger than any it can put in the field.

"No people ever had a greater decision to make," he said. "We hold our children's future in our hands as we deliberate, for if we turn to war the battles will be hard fought and

Finds War Does Not Jar Routine of Europe's Life

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 15.—European civilization outwardly has many things in common, despite the war. THE TRIBUNE correspondent found this to be true during a trip thru all the belligerent powers on the continent before returning to England following the fall of the Netherlands.

In walks about the streets, rides on street cars, and visits to cafés, restaurants, hotels, theaters, and movies any one would have found it difficult to tell what country he was in were it not for the differences of language, points of view on the war and, of course, knowledge itself.

A month ago I left Holland to go to Berlin. Three weeks ago I was in Milan, Italy, two weeks ago in Paris, and this week I arrived in England by boat from a French port, completing a trip circumscribing the entire front of what already has become the greatest battle ground in world history.

No Signs of War.

I hired an automobile in Amsterdam, Holland for the trip to Germany. Not once on the way to Bentheim, a frontier town, was the car stopped by guards to inspect my credentials. After passing the necessary frontier formalities, I put up at the village hotel for the night.

In the hotel the tavern keeper and his cronies sat around drinking beer and playing cards. At the railroad station in the morning, while I was changing my money to buy a ticket to Berlin, two G. S. P. [secret police] officers inquired if I had brought the money I was changing into the country with me. I told them I had, and started to show them my passport but they were not interested. They wanted to see the receipt for the money and I showed it to them.

The passenger train revealed no sign that the nation was engaged in war. In the dining car everything was neat an dclean, even to the paper towels in the washrooms. For lunch I had broth, one pork chop, potatoes, vegetables, bread, butter, and cheese, for which I had to furnish ration coupons, and ersatz [synthetic] coffee. The coffee is drinkable only

First Story of Nazis in Paris

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

PLACE DE L'OPERA, PARIS [By courier plane to Berlin], June 15 (AP).—The Swastika banners of Nazi Germany, unfurled by the Austrian vanguard that Adolf Hitler significantly sent as the first of his troops to occupy Paris, floated today from atop almost every prominent and historic structure in this German-captured capital of France.

It is recalled that last Jan. 30, in a speech commemorating the seventh anniversary of the Nazi rise to power, Hitler twitted Edouard Daladier, then premier of France, for having expressed pity for Hitler's native Austria, and warned:

"Oh, Monsieur Daladier, you're going to get to know my Austrians. You're going to make their acquaintance."

An American correspondent, I find myself in Paris as the guest of the German army even before the main forces of that army have arrived.

Hitler Is Expected.

Only the Austrian vanguard is here. Other divisions have passed thru the city, hurrying on to battle without pause. The bulk of the army of occupation is not here yet, but is expected to start arriving before this cable is received in America.

[The cable was written at 9 a. m. yesterday.]

[The Tribune de Geneve of Geneva, Switzerland, last night printed a dispatch from Paris stating that German troops were preparing the palace of Versailles for the arrival of Hitler.]

A City that Appears Dead.

This city seems dead. I just do not recognize Paris again. Seventy per cent of its population has fled.

From the Hotel Crillon, where once President Wilson of the United States addressed French crowds, the swastika is flying.

The banner also is flying from atop the Quai d'Orsay, [the French foreign office]; from the Arc de Triomphe, under which lies buried France's unknown soldier of the world war; from the historic city hall, and from the Eiffel tower.

On first entering Paris last night, we drove to the tomb of the unknown soldier in the twilight. Men and women, some weeping, were there.

Hard looks from the French were relaxed somewhat when the German officers in our party removed their hats and gave a salute for the unknown hero.

As a background to the Arc de Triomphe, the sky was disfigured by an enormous, ugly cloud of smoke emanating from the region around St. Germain. That suburb apparently was in flames from artillery fire.

To countless American tourists who know Paris it is probably as incomprehensible as it was to me that the old Paris appeared to be a ghost city when I entered. We came by way of the Clichy gate. No Germans were visible anywhere along our drive thru this section. A few citizens at corners or gathered about radio loudspeakers gazed at us in curiosity.

The familiar cries of Parisian newspaper vendors were missing. Along the Champs Elysees only one café was open, all else was deadly silent.

City's Beauty Unmarred.

A preliminary tour of the main sights of beautiful Paris indicated that no damage has been done anywhere. I visited the Louvre, Notre Dame cathedral, the Invalides, the Quai D'Orsay, the Place de la Concord, the museum, the chamber of deputies, Place Vendome, city hall, and the Sarah Bernhardt theater.

From the American embassy the Stars and Stripes were displayed.

Paris was quite another city when the fountains at the Place de la Concord were not playing, when taxi drivers were not honking, when book stalls were not doing business along the Seine, and when all business life was at a standstill.

As our party passed thru Amiens on the way to Paris we noted evidence of the good marksmanship of Germany's bombers. All around Amiens' priceless cathedral, the largest ecclesiastical edifice in France, everything had been blown to bits, including the bishop's residence. The cathedral itself, however, was untouched.

PICTURE PAGE.

On page 6 are the first pictures of the Germans in Paris, sent from Berlin to New York yesterday by radio and to Chicago by Associated Press wirephoto. Also on page 6 are maps of the Maginot fortifications now under German attack and of the general battle front in France.

WIN VERDUN; CROSS RHINE; VOW TO WIPE OUT ENEMY

BORDEAUX, France, June 15 (AP).—Germany's armies threw a battering ram across the Rhine and into Alsace tonight in the face of the guns of the Maginot line.

Deep behind the Maginot line other Nazi columns—more than 100 miles due west of the crossing of the Rhine—plunged over the Seine and touched the heights of Chaumont, some 135 miles southeast of German engulfed Paris.

The government met for 3½ hours "somewhere in France." President Lebrun, Premier Reynaud, Generalissimo Weygan, Admiral Jean Darlan, the navy chief, and Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, the air chief, were there. In their grave position they dealt with the results of Reynaud's "final" plea for more American help, for "clouds of airplanes." The cabinet meets again tomorrow.

Vow No Separate Peace.

The semiofficial Havas agency said there would be no separate French peace with Fuehrer Hitler. Its dispatch was from London.

Official reports, the only ones available, said "a few detachments" of Germans crossed the Rhine after the most violent of bombardments. The Maginot line, however, was not broken at "the point of resistance," tonight's communique insisted.

The armies of Paris fell back "in the best of order."

The German armies of Champagne, seeking to engulf the French and to render the Maginot line helpless from the rear, were forced to fight one great battle after another.

In Heart of France.

Tonight these German armies had crossed the Seine at Romilly, some 65 miles southeast of Paris; had increased their pressure between Troyes and St. Dizier, still further east, and had sent advance guards to the region of Chaumont, which is the capital of the Haute-Marne department and lies between the Marne and the Suize. This is in the heart of France.

In the west, the high command said the situation was unchanged.

There was violent fighting west of Louviers, a city 50 miles southeast of the German taken port of Le Havre.

But, it seemed, the French were holding this German push toward the rest of the channel ports. South of Louviers, another battle went on in the region of Evreux.

Flood Maneuver Fails.

BASEL, Switzerland, June 15 (AP).—French efforts to flood the Germans out of the foothold they had secured on the French side of the Rhine, 40 miles north of Basel, were reported tonight to have failed. The French dynamited a great dam a few miles from Basel, apparently hoping the flood waters would frustrate the German attack across the river, but the Nazis retained their position.

Details were lacking here on the means used by the Germans to span the river, but even the French admitted that the Nazi troops had accomplished what military experts heretofore called a "suicidal action."

Narrow Point of River.

The place they chose for the crossing was between the German village of Breisach and the French village of Neuf Breisach on opposite shores of the Rhine at one of its narrowest points.

Tonight French and German artillery fired sporadically at forts north of Basel while the sound of incessant firing came from the Breisach region, where a tremendous battle was raging. The French rushed reserves into the action in their attempt to blast the Germans out of their foothold on the west bank of the river.

Altho the Germans apparently captured several minor forts, they remained under heavy fire from powerful Maginot line guns before Colmar.

200 Danish Unemployed Go to Jobs in Germany

COPENHAGEN, June 15.—The first group of 200 Danish unemployed workers who have enlisted to take jobs in Germany, left Denmark today. In all 2,400 have "volunteered." Most of them are unskilled laborers.

Pound Mighty Forts Into Submission; Push Ahead.

BERLIN, June 15. — With Verdun smashed and the Maginot line broken on a broad front, Germans tonight vowed anew to drive on until the French army is annihilated.

"One no longer discusses the terms of a possible Franco-German armistice," the Germans declared. They want an unconditional surrender, and it is assumed therefore that any attempts by third parties to bring about negotiations for an armistice are futile.

The Germans were hopeful that the French, after the fall of Verdun and the penetration of the Maginot line south of Saarbrucken, might decide to give up the struggle.

Cause for Celebration.

The name of Verdun, which spelled mourning for hundreds of thousands in the last world war, has had a sinister ring in the ears of the Germans ever since. When they were told this evening that Verdun had fallen, those who had seemed hesitant to rejoice over the conquest of Paris, started celebrating.

Germans contended that the French garrison at Verdun could have held out longer despite the heavy artillery fire and the fierce attacks of German dive bombers. They saw in the fall of the famous fortress city proof that the morale of the French troops is sapped and that the French army no longer is in any position or condition to resist continued attack.

The high command announced that in addition to capturing Verdun and breaking the Maginot line, German troops had advanced beyond the southern foothills of the Argonne mountain range. These troops were expected to cut off those of the enemy who may attempt to escape from the Maginot line.

Communications Bombed.

In a further effort to imperil the Maginot line garrison, the German air force bombed roads and railways linking the French fortified area to the rest of France. Air attacks were concentrated on the triangle formed by the fortresses of Metz, Verdun, and Belfort.

"Many trains were destroyed and many railroad lines interrupted," the Germans said. In other parts of France, German airmen bombed airfields, railroads, and retreating troops.

It was an exciting day for the Germans, with the high command straining to keep the population informed thru the issuance of frequent communiques. The first, which was released as the attack on Verdun progressed, reported the storming of Fort Vaux and the capture of Fort Marre.

Success Against Line.

Then came the communique reporting the success against the Maginot line. It said:

This whetted the appetite of the Germans for the third pronouncement, which declared:

"After breaking thru the line of forts on both sides of the Meuse, the city and citadel of Verdun, heavily fought for in the world war, was taken by us."

Still More Details.

This, however, did not sufficiently express the Nazis' satisfaction at the accomplishment of such a significant feat. More details of the attack on Verdun were given in the following report:

"To raise the Nazi war flag over the citadel of Verdun, German troops had to fight thru a line of outer forts. Two of these forts at Vaux [five miles northeast of Verdun] were stormed and taken this forenoon. Other troops coming from the north and west took Dead Man's ridge, overlooking Verdun, yesterday. Now Verdun has fallen.

Shells Rain for Hours.

"Crushing bombardment, particularly from bombing planes, apparently had the same paralyzing effect on the Maginot line as they did on defenses

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK BY ITALIAN SUB; 39 MISSING

Two Trawlers Hit Mines in Home Waters.

LONDON, June 15 (AP).—The admiralty today announced that H. M. S. Calypso, an antiaircraft cruiser, was sunk in the Mediterranean by an Italian submarine. One officer and 38 men were missing.

Enemy mines sank two trawlers, the Myrtle and Ocean Sunlight in home water, it was also announced.

The 4,180 ton Calypso had a normal complement of between 400 and 437 men. She was built in 1917.

Third Cruiser Lost.

The admiralty said it was feared there were no survivors of the Myrtle and that eight were missing from the Ocean Sunlight.

Britain previously has lost two other cruisers, the 9,550 ton Effingham and the 4,290 ton Curlew, in Norwegian waters.

Meantime, the entire crew of 50 of the 7,549 ton Italian steamer Timavo was landed at Durban, seaport of Natal, South Africa, yesterday from a British naval vessel and taken to a military camp to await internment.

Italian Liner Sunk.

TENERIFE, Canary Islands, June 15 (AP).—The crew of the 4,786 ton Italian liner Fortunata, which a French destroyer shelled and sank off the Canary Islands, reached land today in lifeboats.

Sink French Destroyer.

ROME, June 15 (AP).—A dawn naval attack on Genoa in which the French lost a destroyer, and the occupation of French territory on the Alpine frontier were reported today by the Italian high command.

The Italian advance across the frontier, experts indicated, was part of the plan for German and Italian soldiers to break French resistance. The high command said that "some localities beyond the border" were occupied.

With France crushed, Italian sources explained, both axis powers could attack the British—the Germans striking at England while the Italians assaulted British bases in the Mediterranean.

Hail Naval Feat.

The Fascist press hailed as a heroic naval feat the sinking by an old torpedo boat, the 967 ton Calatafimi, of a French destroyer which sailed with eight other French warships to bombard Genoa and the Ligurian Riviera.

Italians said the torpedo boat and heavy fire from coastal batteries drove off the French warships but not until three persons were killed and 12 wounded.

10 Killed in Raids.

The Genoa naval raid casualties were among 10 civilians killed and 53 wounded during the last few days in naval and air raidds on Turin, Genoa, Savona, Imperia and Venice.

An aged woman was slightly hurt, authorities announced, by the explosion of an antiaircraft shell against a building in Rome when planes believed to have been French flew over the capital yesterday and scattered leaflets.

Mussolini, sure of his people, allowed the leaflets to be published.

"The Duce wanted war. Here it is." The leaflets said in Italian. "France has nothing against you. Quit and France will quit."

Blast American Planes.

Italian aerial machine gunners riddled a shipment of brand new planes from the United States in an attack on an airport on the Provence coast of France, the Milan newspaper Corriere Della Sera reported.

The newspaper said the planes were reduced to wreckage by the flyers who raked the field where they were lined up from a height of 75 feet.

ROBBED BY AUTO BANDITS.

Isadore Schwartz, 5710 North St. Louis avenue, told police yesterday that he was robbed of $50 by two armed men who entered his car at Wells and Madison streets, ordered him to drive to 14th street and Ashland avenue, then forced him from the car.

BRITISH CAPTURE 2 ITALIAN FORTS GUARDING LIBYA

Battles on Border May Put Egypt in War.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, June 15 (AP).—Egypt moved rapidly tonight toward a full war footing, preparing to join her ally, Britain, in fighting Italy at the moment her territory is invaded.

Indications that this might come soon were seen during the day in the sharp fighting between Italian and British troops on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier and the continuous action of the royal air force in bombing enemy positions.

The capture of the Italian forts of Capruzzo and Maddalena was announced. Four officers and 100 men were reported taken prisoner.

Italians Attack Outposts.

A communique stated that enemy planes had attacked the Egyptian outposts at Salum, Shegga, and Weshka, but that damage was slight.

The Egyptian attitude toward these isolated thrusts was not immediately defined. The government — which thru the premier had warned that Italian attacks on Egyptian territory would bring a declaration of war against Italy—was tensely watching developments.

Parliament was held in readiness for emergency steps.

Speed Up Defenses.

Informed sources said they could not see how Egypt could long remain out of the conflict, because it was almost certain that the Italians would attack in an effort to reach allied bases.

Measures for the defense of Alexandria and other important towns were speeded. All civilians here were advised to leave immediately. Special trains carried thousands of old men, women, and children into the interior villages.

Italian bombers also continued attacks upon the British naval base on the Island of Malta in the eastern Mediterranean and upon the British air and naval base at Aden, just east of Italian Somaliland.

Bomb Ethiopia.

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, June 15 (AP).—Direct hits by the South African Air Force on Italian barracks and buildings at two undisclosed places in southern Ethiopia were reported today.

Signs Bill Allowing Latin Americans to Buy Arms

Washington, D. C., June 14. (AP).—President Roosevelt today signed legislation throwing open federal arsenals and United States shipyards to Latin American republics for construction and purchase of naval vessels and war material. Transactions must be on a cash basis under the law.

FRENCH RESISTANCE UNWAVERING, CONSUL HERE IS INFORMED

Rene Weiller.

Rene Weiller, French consul general in Chicago, announced yesterday hat he had received the following telegram from the foreign ministry of the French government:

"Contrary to the assertions made by the German radio, which pictured the French resistance as broken and the French government as disorganized, the French army continues to resist heroically along the whole front and against the general offensive of the enemy by inflicting enormous losses of men and material.

"As to the government, its installation in the provinces, under such conditions as were foreseen 10 months ago, has brought no prejudice to its political and administrative ability and it has known no hour of interruption.

"The entry in the war by Italy has stimulated the energy of the government and the nation, which are all the more resolved to carry on the war without faltering and without the least hesitation, in full accord with Great Britain."

ROOSEVELT'S 'AID NOTE 'GENEROUS,' ASSERT BRITISH

LONDON, June 15 (AP).—Official British circles said tonight that President Roosevelt's "generous response" to French Premier Paul Reynaud's appeal for aid "meets with the sincere gratitude of the British people."

These officials described as especially welcome Mr. Roosevelt's assurance of aid in planes and munitions to the allies as long as they continued to resist.

They added that his caution that his promises of help carried no implication of military commitments was "fully understood and appreciated."

GERMANS TAKE VERDUN; SMASH MAGINOT LINE

Pledge Annihilation of France's Army.

in Belgium, which were patterned after it.

"German troops stormed in while swarms of stukas [dive bombers] dived to attack, and artillery of all caliber rained shells on the forts and pillboxes hour after hour.

"In the world war Verdun was the northern corner of a fortified line established against Germany which then was of the same importance as the Maginot line today. When Maginot built the fortified line bearing his name, old fortresses from Belfort to Verdun were to form a strong second defense.

"Verdun was given an important rôle to protect the flank of the Maginot line against possible German advance thru Belgium. The old fortress was therefore renovated and modernized at great cost.

"Wide Front" Breached.

"Now the Maginot line has been breached south of Saarbrucken on a broad front. The fortresses of Metz, Toul and Belfort are exposed to encirclement, and there exists the possibility of getting at the French Rhine front from the back and rolling it up.

"Thus France's entire western fortification, most famous world wonder of our day, collapses.

"Conquering by an audacious coup de main dash, even if supported by heavy artillery and dive bombers, was only possible if the garrison [of the fort] was extremely weakened or morally so shaken that it could not resist."

Great Losses in Last War.

In the world war, Verdun stood as a vital key at the eastern extremity of the trench line in France. It was defended and attacked with appalling losses, the French admitting nearly 350,000 casualities, and the Germans 330,000.

In the attack on the Saar front today bunkers, artillery, and infantry positions as well as columns of French troops were bombed and shelled by Stukas and heavy artillery The high command said that this attack, opening Friday, resulted in the capture of numerous defenses, including a strong bunkers group at Saaralben [west].

Retreating French troops were given no chance to recuperate by the Germans. "Merciless pursuit" is the watchword of the fast moving Nazis.

Ambush French Troops.

Never since the days following the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo was a pursuit carried out as mercilessly. The Germans point to Gen. August von Gneisenau as the supreme master of pursuit and annihilation. On the evening of the battle of Waterloo, the Germans say, "Napoleon's army was beaten but more or less intact. A week later the French emperor commanded only a few scattered remnants of his former proud army. Driving his men on to the point of utter exhaustion, Gen. von Gneisenau marched and rode Napoleon's army to death."

Smashing ahead thru the battered and fleeing French, strong German tanks units have left the French behind and occupied bridges and cross roads. These tank units lie in ambush, spreading death and destruction among the retreating French infantry and motorized forces.

The French troops which the Germans encounter on their southward push are, the Nazis declare, "mostly new units hastily formed out of the remnants of defeated divisions and reserve troops."

Thousands of Prisoners.

The high command asserted that the Germans had taken more than 200,000 prisoners since the start on June 5 of their great drive against France. This, combined with the allied forces captured in the Flanders pocket, made a total of 730,000 British and Frenchmen taken prisoners since May 10, when Adolf Hitler invaded the Low Countries. The 1,000,000 Belgian and Dutch prisoners are not, of course, included in this figure.

Germans were given only a few details of their troops' entry in Paris. The 21st anniversary of the Treaty of Versailles is nearing. The Germans expect their government and its master showmen to stage impressive ceremonies in Versailles for the purpose, as they put it, of "obliterating the day of shame of 1919."

BULLITT LAST HEARD FROM THURSDAY NIGHT; NO FEAR FOR SAFETY

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—The state department said today that it last heard from William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, on Thursday night, but that no apprehension was felt for his safety.

A department official explained that communication between this country and Paris was cut off, and added that he did not know when it would be resumed.

Put Guard at Embassy.

New York, June 15 (AP).—A German military guard has been placed around the American embassy in Paris, and Ambassador William C. Bullitt "probably has been asked" to remain within bounds of the embassy buildings for several days, Edwin Hartrich, Columbia Broadcasting system correspondent, said in a Berlin broadcast today.

He said German military authorities had taken similar steps, with regard to American officials, in the occupations of The Hague and Brussels.

FRENCH FLYERS DROP LEAFLETS IN ROME 'RAID'

ROME, June 15 (AP).—The government today released news of an air raid over Rome early yesterday in which planes dropped leaflets, indicating the raiders were French.

"The Duce wanted war. Here it is!" The leaflets said in Italian. "France has nothing against you. Quit and France will quit."

Anti aircraft batteries went into action against the planes, one of the shells hitting a house where the explosion fatally wounded a woman.

Vatican City inhabitants said some leaflets fell within the papal precincts, and added that the flyers dropped flares on parachutes leading to the conclusion that they were taking pictures.

ALLIES TO TAKE 'FATEFUL' STEP, BRITISH REPORT

Say Next 24 Hours May Decide Battle.

LONDON, June 15 (AP).—A fateful decision by allied commanders in the field was reported today by British sources, which said the next 24 hours would tell the tale in the fight for France.

There was no hint what that decision was. But Britain summoned a new class of 300,000 [men 28 years old] to the colors, called for volunteers for the air force, and dipped into her home defense reserve to back exhausted armies in France.

London spokesmen declared the British would fight to the last drop of blood.

Plan to Arm Even Women.

A group of members of parliament was called to meet Tuesday to consider "arming the population" against invasion.

The call was issued by Clement Davies, a Liberal-National member. He declared the people, including women and any boy "who can throw a ball," should be given "hand grenades, bombs, pistols—anything."

King George VI. has turned over a number of his sporting guns to local defense volunteers.

Armored Divisions Strike.

Fresh armored divisions, the iron cavalry shock troops of the new British expeditionary force, smashed at surging German waves "on a front as wide as France" to give the poilus rest.

They had the support from the air that British Tommies asked for when they returned from the battering at Dunkirk with the cry, "For God's sake, give us planes."

Waves of British bombers, apparently working closely with the ground troops, splattered German spearheads south of the Seine with explosives just ahead of allied counterattacks.

At the same time, other flights of British planes dumped heavy bombs on military targets in Germany's Ruhr valley and Rhineland, and on troops at Baden. Ammunition supplies at Bergen, Norway, also were bombed. The air ministry acknowledged the loss of six bombers.

Allies "in Agreement."

An authoritative London quarter denied reports that France has been driven to the verge of separate peace and declared the "allies continue as hitherto in close consultation and complete agreement."

A British statement declared: "The German and Italian propaganda machines have today been more than usually active in the circulation, thru their innumerable and devious channels, of a variety of rumors designed to shake the mutual confidence of the allied peoples. The main theme, of which there are many variations, is that disagreement exists between the British and French civil and military authorities.

"Stories to this effect have been reproduced in many languages from German and Italian wireless stations. In authoritative London quarters tonight attention was directed to origin of these rumors, which are completely devoid of foundation. It was stated that allies continue as hitherto in close consultation and agreement."

Tell of Blows by Air.

An air ministry communique said "bombers of the R. A. F. were actively engaged in support of the allied forces over the fighting zones south of the Seine," and added:

"Others attacked and severely damaged a concentration of enemy aircraft at Merville airdrome near Neuve Chapelle . . . Bombers renewed their attacks in Germany. . . . In southwest Germany an attack was made on heavy concentrations of troops and materials in the state of Baden. . . . Aircraft of the coastal command destroyed large supplies of ammunition on the quay at Bergen and returned safely."

The heads of the governments of Austrial, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa have cabled France pledges of support.

The resignation of members of the former Chamberlain government "who are blamed for the present reverses" will be asked in commons by Com. Oliver S. Locker-Lampson, Conservative member and a veteran of service with armored car units in the world war.

Spanish Press Jubilant Over Tangier Occupation

MADRID, Spain, June 15 (AP).—The morning press was jubilant today over the occupation of the international neutralized zone of Tangier, Morocco. The Falangist newspaper Arriba declared it "signifies the presence of Spain in the world." While all papers joined in praising Gen. Francisco Franco, the influential A. B. C. emphasized that the occupation yesterday was "provisional." The paper called Franco "the vortex of a nation traveling toward historic destinies like an arrow from a bow."

PRESIDENT EDGES U.S. FURTHER INTO WAR, HOLT SAYS

Senator Cites Note to Reynaud.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—Charges that the Roosevelt administration is edging the United States further into the European war were heard in the senate today.

Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] led the attack on the President's war policies. He read to the senate Mr. Roosevelt's latest message to Premier Paul Reynaud of France, in which the President promised that "so long as the allied governments continue to resist" the United States will "redouble its efforts" to assist them.

Asks: What Commitments?

"The President," Holt declared, "is quoted as saying to Premier Reynaud: 'I know that you will understand that these statements carry with them no implication of military commitments. Only the congress can make such commitments.'

"Get that, senators. He says that only congress can make such commitments, and he only modifies his commitment by one word—'military.' What other commitments has he failed to mention?

"Congress only can declare war, but a President can take us to the edge of it."

Holt renewed his attack on the self-styled committee to defend the United States by aiding the allies, which President Roosevelt encouraged by indorsing the committee's "Stop Hitler Now" newspaper advertising campaign. William Allen White, chairman of the committee and editor of the Emporia, Kas., Gazette, expressed the real purpose and effect of the President's speech accusing Benito Mussolini of stabbing France in the back, Holt said.

Quotes White's Statement.

"Here is what William Allen White wrote in his newspaper," Holt continued. "He said: 'The President's moving speech, which took us to the brink of war and carefully left us there, was a wise and necessary move. . . . But this in indeed our war which the President's speech moved us into by executive ukase.'

"Here is a man who did the spade work behind these moves. He admits that we are in the war by the President's own statement. Mr. White and the President agree. Congress only can declare war, but a President can take us to the edge of it. Perhaps he can stop us there. We hope he can. But what if he does not?"

Senator Ernest Lundeen [F.-L., Minn.] interjected that the administration is releasing not only army and navy airplanes and artillery but reserve stocks of powder to the allies.

"I wonder if the senator has noticed the press speaking of proposed convoys?" Lundeen asked. "We are supposed to go into Europe now—into these dangerous waters—and convoy this material in order to save this world empire on which the sun never sets."

Holt at this point placed in the record data on the age of so-called obsolete naval bombing planes released to the allies. Information given to him by the navy, he said, shows that these planes cost $45,000 each and were sold to the Curtiss Aeroplane company, for resale to the allies, for $44,990 each, or a loss of $10 a plane. Twenty-two of the 50 planes were delivered to the navy between March 7 and April 10 of this year and the oldest of the lot was delivered on May 16, 1939, Holt said.

NAZI VICTORY WOULD KILL EVEN IDEAL OF LIBERTY, BRITISH TOLD

LONDON, June 15 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Leopold C. M. S. Amery, secretary for India, warned today that if Adolf Hitler's "merciless" onslaught on an "ill prepared world" succeeds it will be "an end to the Magna Carta and all it has stood for" on both sides of the Atlantic.

L. C. M. S. Amery.

Speaking in connection with the 725th anniversary of the Magna Carta, Amery declared in a broadcast that the document is a "living bond" between Britain and the United States.

"Defeat of the allies would mean not only loss of their own freedom," he said. "It would mean extinction of freedom even as an ideal among mankind."

TWO CLAIM BABY LOST IN AIR RAID ON NETHERLANDS

THE HAGUE, June 15 (AP).—Two tearful mothers, each claiming a baby boy whose parentage was obscured in the confusion of a bomb explosion in a maternity home during the conquest of the Netherlands, asked a local court to make a "judgment of Solomon" today.

The plaintiff said that on May 10, when a bomb struck the home, she handed her 10 day old baby out a window to a pedestrian who took it to an air raid shelter. She accused the defendant of taking possession of it there.

The defendant contended that the baby, now 7 weeks old, was her own. Two unidentified babies were killed by the bomb, and the possibility was raised that one of these belonged to one of the mothers.

Rumanian Pact Lengthens Workday in Arms Plants

PHIL LA FOLLETTE WARNS OF DRIVE BY WAR MONGERS

Madison, Wis., June 15 [Special].—Former Gov. Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin tonight asserted, on his return from a visit to Washington, his belief that there is a definite plan in the capital to put the United States into the war.

"I was informed," said La Follette "that messengers for the administration have been seeking pledges from congressmen that they will vote to make the United States an avowed combatant in the European struggle.

"In view of the momentous decision which the American people will have to make, I think it is the duty of every man to make known his views. As an opponent of all proposals that would involve the United States in a foreign war I have requested speaking time on the Mutual radio chain. No partisanship should be allowed to stand in the way of a true understanding of what a declaration of war would mean."

KEEP HANDS OFF DUTCH E. INDIES, GOVERNOR WARNS

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, June 15 (AP).—Governor General Tjarda Van Starckenborch-Stachouwer again warned all nations to keep "hands off" the Netherlands East Indies as he opened the volksraad [parliament] today.

He said a 25 per cent gap in Indies imports, caused by German capture of Netherlands sources of supply, will be filled from allied, Japanese, and United States sources, and announced an increase in taxes equivalent to $20,000,000 a year.

The Japanese consul listened intently but the Italian consul, still technically fulfilling his duties, did not attend.

TELLS WARRING POWERS TO LET U. S. LINER ALONE

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—The United States notified belligerent governments today that she expects "no interruption or molestation by air, naval or military forces" of the American steamship Washington homeward bound from Europe with American war refugees.

The Washington sailed from Galway, Ireland for New York this morning with 2,442 persons aboard—1,872 passengers and 570 crew members.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO FINANCE ARMS THRU RFC

Turns Down Proposal for Resources Body.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—The senate today passed a bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to finance private industries engaged in the production of munitions and also to create government agencies to engage in producing munitions. The RFC bill which now goes to conference with the house, is a major part of the administration's 5 billion dollar armaments program.

The bill was passed on a voice vote. Previously the senate, also by a voice vote, rejected an amendment by Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] to create a war resources administration, as proposed by the war department's industrial mobilization plan, with full powers to allocate armament production to private industry and carry out the national defense program on a mass production basis.

Would Concentrate Powers.

Leaders of the Roosevelt administration opposed the Taft amendment on the ground that President Roosevelt already has appointed a national defense advisory commission.

Senator Taft said his amendment would center all powers to manufacture and procure supplies for the army and navy in a single agency.

"That power today is utterly and completely scattered," he said. "One day we give the power to the war department and the next day we give it to the RFC. It also rests in the navy department. Mr. Hopkins [Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins] also has something to say about it.

Six Departments at Work.

"Mr. Knudsen [William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation, now a member of the national defense advisory commission] is apparently doing most of the work toward planning some kind of industrial preparedness, but Mr. Knudsen has no legal authority except as the President may approve what he recommends.

"In addition we have the procurement division of the treasury. So we have six different departments dealing with this question of furnishing equipment and military supplies. Today there is no person who can coordinate the activities of those departments except the President and he has not time. Furthermore, it presents the uncomfortable position that at any time one department may find that the President has approved something which Mr. Hopkins recommends that the other department did not know anything about and which conflicts with some policy it has been pursuing.

"I do not know that this bill makes the matter any more confusing than it already is, but who in the United States is going to decide whether we shall go into manufacturing war supplies?"

Senator Taft did obtain the adoption of an amendment limiting the RFC's manufacturing powers to arms, ammunition and implements of war, as defined by the President's proclamation under the neutrality law. As reported by the banking and currency committee, the bill would have permitted the RFC to create corporations to engage in the manufacture of any "equipment and supplies necessary to the national defense," as determined by the President.

In addition to armament, the bill authorizes the RFC to finance private corporations to acquire and carry strategic and critical war materials and to create government corporations to acquire and carry such materials.

U. S. DONORS OF CASH TO ALLIES THANKED BY BRITISH EMBASSY

The British embassy in Washington, D. C., in a letter received last night by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, expresses thanks to "the many individual American citizens who, in these times of stress, are demonstrating their sympathy and support for the allied cause" by sending money direct to the embassy for mercy and military uses.

To save time and effort, however, the embassy suggests that contributions may be sent to the British Red Cross society, 14 Grosvenor crescent, London, S. W. 1, or the Personal Service league, 41 Lowndes square, London, S. W. The league specializes in civilian relief, the embassy explains.

The embassy adds that donations may be sent to the American Red Cross; the American Society for British Medical and Civilian Aid, Inc., 46 Cedar street, New York City; the British War Relief Society, Inc., 620 5th avenue, New York City; and Bundles for Britain, 484 Park avenue, New York City.

EUROPE AT WAR? YES! BUT PEOPLE ARE MUCH ALIKE

Taxicabs Available.

Altho taxicabs were scarce in Berlin, they were available, and upon arriving at a hotel I found it quiet. Uniformed employés, even a doorman, were at work. I had a transit visa, which permitted me to pass thru Germany, but I was forced to remain in Berlin for two days for a permit to leave.

During that time I had occassion to observe what seemed to be the most perfect example of organization for total war. That is, there was a balance thru which the productivity, sacrifices, and deprivation of the civilian population were reduced to a minimum of hardship in proportion to the output of supplies and food furnished to the fighting forces. This is a goal which the allies themselves are attempting and only gradually approaching.

Food in Germany, altho simple, is wholesome. Nothing is wasted. I found myself not leaving a single morsel of anything from a simple breakfast of butter, rye bread, a confection of burned barley, and coffee, to the more filling lunches and dinners.

Office Workers Look Pale.

Soldiers, children, and outdoor workmen looked healthy, but the white collar workers' ration seemed a bit skimpy because I noted the distinct pallor of this class was similar to that existing in the middle classes of Germans during the inflationary period in 1922.

But the café, retaurant, and theater life seemed almost normal. An American embassy attaché showed me the cafés, wine and beer stubes. They seemed almost what they were 10 years ago. Now and then radios were turned on but usually, as in France and England, the crowds did not pay much attention to them.

The attaché told me the German people had been bored by the communiques on war news and even now were taking an interest only so far as the operations indicated a development in the war against England.

Think Britain Only Enemy.

As he talked a German communique on the operations in Norway and Belgium was being read, but the crowd seemed uninterested until something was said about British troop being trapped in Flanders. Conversation at all the table seemed to ceased as if by a signal as attention was concentrated on the broadcast.

"See," the attaché said, "that's what I mean. They think here they have only one enemy and that is England, and they will do that any time England is mentioned."

In going to Milan I crossed over the Brenner Pass. It was impossible to buy Italian lire in Berlin, and what was more I had to pay in foreign exchange altho my ticket was issued thru to Milan and part of the trip was made in Italy. I discovered in Italy a lack of confidence in the German mark.

Trip to Milan Routine.

The trip to Milan might have been a routine jaunt in peace time. At Innsbruck, Austria, many Italians were buying postal cards at the railroad station. I learned they were part of the thousands of Italian workmen employed on Austrian farms.

Despite reports to the contrary, I saw only a few troops at the Brenner Pass and, as the train progressed thru the beautiful lake country of northern Italy in the warm sunshine, the war seemed hardly more than a state of mind.

Altho this was 10 days before Italy declared war, Americans still were not required to have a visa to enter Italy and, outside of satisfying themselves I had an American passport, the frontier authorities seemed totally indifferent to my activities. So far as I know, my telephone calls to Switzerland and the dictating of my dispatches to Chicago were not even listened to.

Finds Life Normal.

Civil life in Milan as normal despite the fact that at least 100 Italians informed me that Italy would be in the war within a week or 10 days. They seemed to take it in a matter of fact, resigned sort of way either because they thought "Mussolini knows best" or because they were afraid to say anything against him.

British subjects in Milan were taking the advice of their consul and getting out, but there were several unable to do so because they could not get money from London. Banks refused to accept British pounds, which also caused hardship. In the face of these difficulties, one woman in a travel agency told the manager, "Well, I guess there is nothing to do for me but to be interned. I will tell them I am Irish."

An Australian who had a family and was trying to draw $4,000 so he could return to Sydney sighed, "I guess that is what we have got to do also. We are still traveling as if the entire world were living in peace."

Monte Carlo Deserted.

I went by train to Monte Carlo, where I made connections for Paris. The famous gambling resort was deserted except for a few foreigners, mostly elderly Englishmen. But even here the natives were going about their daily life as if nothing were happening.

The Paris fast train kept its schedule altho the enemy already had captured Dunkirk. Even the French people seemed indifferent or resigned to the fate that appeared to be overtaking them. "It can't be helped," was the general expression. A British newspaperman who was traveling with me to Paris, said he had heard some French people talking against the British but outside of this and an incident at the point of embarkation there was no further evidence of this feeling.

Parisians were getting ready to leave the city but they were calm. Stores, shops, cafes, restaurants, and hotels continued to function as if the war was not going on. Outside of Paris, on the way to a channel port, the train was held up for hours by the congestion of Belgian and French refugees at railroad stations.

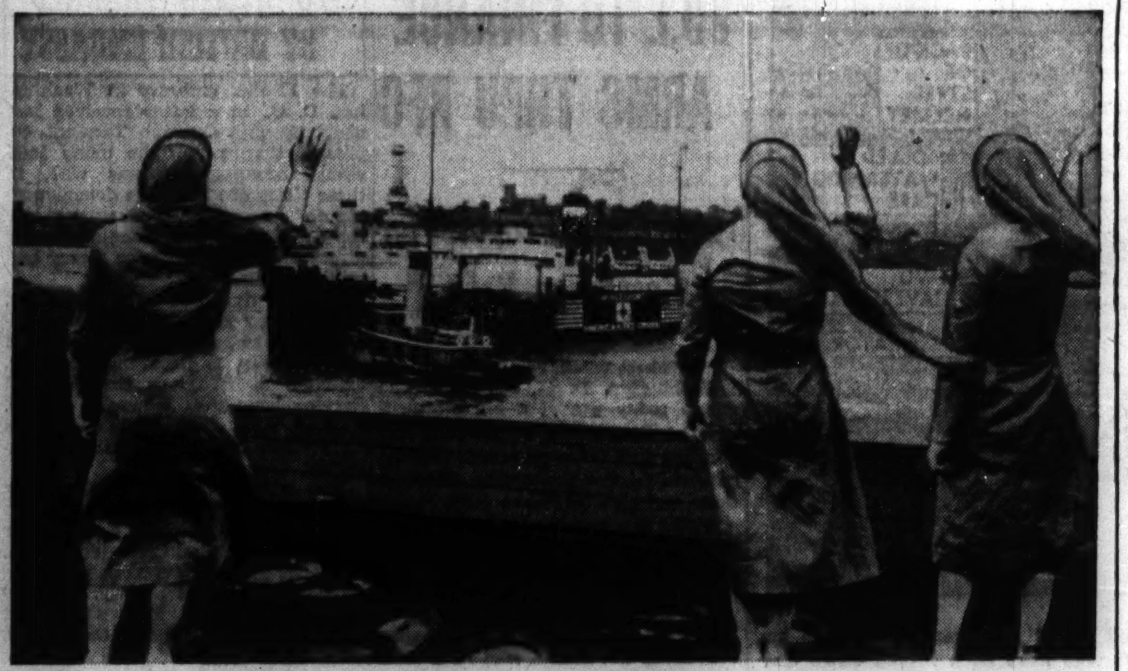
Misses Boat at Port.

The train, because of the crush of refugees, missed the boat and for days I waited at the port for another ship. I was in a cafe when a British girl read a British newspaper headline out loud, "British Make Heroic Evacuation of Dunkirk." A French officer quickly finished his drink, looked at her and said, "I was in Dunkirk. I am sick of being a hero," and walked out.

The ocean water for miles off the French and British coasts was covered with oil. It was said this had been caused by ships sunk in the fighting at Dunkirk.

I reached London just in time to hear parliament debate the advisability of prohibiting horse and dog racing. It was feared the presence of 30,000 cars at the Derby races the day before, altho necessary for the "relaxation of workmen," might be regarded as "fiddling."

Red Cross Mercy Ship Sails for Spanish Port



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The Red Cross mercy ship McKeesport as she sailed from New York yesterday for Bilbao, Spain, with a million dollar cargo of food, medical supplies, and trucks for France. The departure was delayed when the crew demanded a bonus of a month's pay after the destination was changed from Bordeaux to the Spanish port.

Flags for Safety

New York, June 15 [Special].—Her sailing delayed more than an hour and a half when the crew balked at a change in the port of call from Bordeaux, France, to Bilbao, Spain, the American freighter McKeesport, flying the flag of the American Red Cross, left here today for Europe with a $1,000,000 cargo of food, medical supplies, and hospital trucks for the relief of the war refugees in France.

The government owned mercy ship was scheduled to sail at noon. The seamen contended their contract had been violated by the change of the port of call. Finally they agreed to sign on for a $40 bonus. At first they demanded an extra month's pay.

On account of the swift changes in war fronts the Red Cross decided to dock at Bilbao and then ship the cargo overland to France, where the refugees are being concentrated. The American and Red Cross flags were painted on the sides of the ship and floodlights will play on the flags at night.

Policemen's Horses to Perform in Annual Thrill Show

POLICE PREPARE SPINE CHILLERS IN SHOW JULY 14

30 Will Attempt Ride on Five Motorcycles.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Capt. David Flynn has forbidden his motorcycle police daredevils ever again to attempt a 65 foot leap thru space from an inclined ramp. He says he'll make them save their necks whether they want to or not. And so they are busy devising other ways of chilling your spine at the third annual Police and Fire Thrill show.

No. 1 thriller in their program this year will be a 30 man balancing act on five motorcycles. Last year a hushed crowd watched 24 riders attempt a similar feat on four motorcycles, and burst into cheers as the motorcycle men made their way across the field. This year's balanced formation is said to be the largest ever essayed by trick motorcycle riders.

In Soldiers' Field July 14.

The thrill show will be presented in Soldiers' field on July 14. It is sponsored by the Chicago fire and police departments and the Chicago park district, in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Final preparations for the city police traffic department's participation were made yesterday by Capt. Flynn, chief of the traffic division.

The 600 men under his command include the motorcycle policemen, who are being trained in trick riding by Lieut. William A. Gainer, and the mounted policemen, whose display of horsemanship will be directed by Sergt. William Kubiak.

The motorcycle men are never asked to take the risks that make their exhibition one of the most popular of the show. They volunteer, presenting their riding feats with pride. Altho many of the spectacular riding exploits are only exhibitions, as seen at the show, the skill and daring which make them possible are essential to the work of the motorcycle police, whose tasks are among the most hazardous of the police department.

The show will offer the public an opportunity to see the motorcycle division's 39 new motorcycles, which are marvels of power, speed and balance. Heavier and larger than the motorcycles they are replacing, the new machines have an official speed of 90 miles an hour. But the men who ride them say they'll do 100.

John Balek, one of the daredevils who thrilled the crowd last year with a headstand on a speeding motorcycle, promises more stunt riding this year.

The horses that the mounted police will ride in the show are ready, and soon they will begin the precision training for their performance.

Favorite of the police and fire show crowds is Silver, the handsome chestnut sorrel with the silver mane and tail—Capt. Flynn's horse.

Elderly Dannie to Appear.

Dannie, oldest horse of the department, will be there again despite his 25 years. Sergt. Kubiak will ride Junior. Richard Smith will prance in on the steed whose official name is Smith's horse, and Ed Smith will ride Snaps.

As for Tommie, one of the biggest sugar getters of the loop, he's still a problem horse. He just can't stand music, and so his fans won't get to see him in the show.

Elsie, another mainstay of the sugar industry, will be there, and she thinks there ought to be a lot of lumps of sugar in all that crowd. She collects her sugar on Wabash avenue, where her rider, Joseph Burmingham, is stationed. Elsie has a lifetime job, because her public won't allow her to quit. The word got around one time that Elsie was going to be sold, but indignant friends who keep her in sugar wrote so many letters of protest that the police didn't dare let her go.

Citizens Object to Moves.

Capt. Flynn, indeed, gets into trouble when he tries to send one of his horses to a new post. Citizens who bring down a lump of sugar every morning for that particular horse deluge him with protests.

He has to give in.

The policemen wish people wouldn't give their horses sugar. It doesn't make them fat. It makes them silly. They get so they go snooping in people's pockets for sugar and trying to look hungry, and the policemen can't get them to do their work.

But you can't make people stop feeding horses sugar. And you can't replace the horse.

Motorcycles and cars are faster, Capt. Flynn says. But they're not horses. You'd never have heard of the Charge of the Light Brigade, says Capt. Flynn, if it had rolled up at Balaklava in tanks. And, says the captain, a lifelong student of history, Sheridan's ride would sound somewhat flat if he'd made it on a motorcycle. It takes horses to capture the public fancy.

DIES OF BLOOD POISONING.

Miss Rose Lotta, 18 years old, 1509 Flournoy street, died yesterday in the Mother Cabrini hospital of blood poisoning. She became seriously ill several days ago.

U. S. PRINTS 700,000 BLANKS FOR ARMY DRAFT, PAPER SAYS

Providence, R. I., June 15 (AP).—The Providence Sunday Journal says plans to inaugurate selective military service in the United States have progressed so far that the government printing office has just completed a secret printing of 700,000 detailed draft record blanks.

The blanks were ordered by the war department, the newspaper asserts, in anticipation of congressional action at the present session authorizing selective service. A bill providing such authorization already has been drafted and is ready for introduction, the Journal adds, whenever the White House gives the word.

The newspaper asserts that the war department denied knowledge that the draft record blanks had been ordered, but continues: "It was learned unofficially that army officers in charge of mobilization plans have long urged such a preparatory measure, but were unable to obtain the necessary funds."

Under the new defense program, the Journal says, large sums have been made available "without strings."

INFANT'S BODY FOUND IN LAKE.

The nude body of an infant girl was taken from the lake yesterday at Eastwood avenue. Police said the child apparently was not more than a week old.

SPEED IN DRIVE FOR RED CROSS FUNDS IS URGED

James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, urged yesterday that the drive for relief funds here be intensified because of the urgent need in Europe.

Contributions to the Chicago campaign totaled $863,896 last night. Large amounts reported include $4,467 from the Spiegel company and its employes; $4,157 from executives and employes of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, bringing the bank's total to $16,279; $2,875 from Mandel Brothers, and $570 from the employes of Blacket, Sample and Hummert.

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, chairman of the woman's division, announced new individual contributions yesterday. The special gifts division alone has obtained $76,548 in donations, it was reported. These include a second donation of $250 from Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson; $25.25 from the Sunset Camp Service league; $872 from members of the Woman's Athletic club, making a total of $1,500 from the club, and $1,050 from the woman's special gifts division of the Winnetka branch under the chairmanship of Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling.

DRESS MAKERS' PAY ROLL STOLEN.

A $619 pay roll, left on the cashier's desk after it had been brought from a bank, was stolen yesterday from the office of Stein & Salomon, dress manufacturers at 318 West Adams street. A small, bareheaded man vanished from the reception room at about the same time as the money.

EMERGENCY TAX BILL WINS SENATE COMMITTEE O. K.

Carries Amendment to Cut Nondefense Spending.

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—A $1,007,000,000 defense tax bill, carrying a requirement that President Roosevelt cut 10 per cent from all nonessential and nondefense appropriations, was approved today by the senate finance committee.

Senator Townsend.

The bill would create 2,190,000 new income taxpayers by lowering existing exemptions from $2,500 to $2,000 for married persons and from $1,000 to $800 for single individuals.

It also would increase corporation and so-called "nuisance" taxes [levies on gasoline, theater tickets, automobile tires, etc.]; raise all personal income levies by a flat 10 per cent, and would increase the federal debt limit from 45 billion dollars to 49 bililons.

In an unexpected move, the committee wrote into the bill legislation by Senator John G. Townsend [R., Del.] to end treasury purchases of foreign silver.

Boost Amusement Taxes.

The 10 per cent spending reduction, approved 16 to 4, was among several important changes affected by the finance committee in the house-approved legislation. The committee knocked out a house provision increasing tobacco taxes and substitute a new, higher schedule of amusement levies. As finally drafted, the committ bill would provide $3,000,00 more than the house measure.

The tobacco levies, including an increase from 6 to 7 cents a package on cigarets, were estimated to yield $76,000,000 a year. The new amusement tax schedule, designed to raise approximately the same amount, would impose a 10 per cent tax on all admissions costing 10 cents or more. The house had voted to start the tax at 30 cents, instead of the 40 cent point in existing law.

The senate committee also approved an increase from 30 to 40 cents per gallon in the tax on rectified whisky.

Designated "Defense Tax."

The flat 10 per cent increase on income taxes had been tagged "super-tax" by the house, but, because Senator Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.] said that "doesn't sound good to the taxpayer," the committee amended the bill to designate it a "defense tax."

Chairman Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] arranged to start debate on the tax measure Monday, and leaders hoped for passage by midweek. Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley said he still was hopeful that congress could adjourn by next week-end.

Senators Homer T. Bone [D., Wash.], Tom Connally [D., Tex]., and Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] all prepared amendments to impose a stiff schedule of war profits taxes.

Revision to Come Later.

Leaders were expected to oppose these amendments on the ground that the legislation is an emergency measure and that any general tax revision should come later.

Senator Harry Byrd [D., Va.] said he will offer on the senate floor an amendment to make the 10 per cent increase in income taxes applicable to 1939 income. Byrd said the proposal would raise an additional $250,000,000. If his amendment were aproved, Byrd said, the treasury could immediately bill all income taxpayers for the additional amounts due.

As the bill now stands, the additional 10 per cent levy would apply to 1940 income and would be payable next March 15, the regular income tax collection date.

GERMANY SPENT MOST FOR WAR, AYRES ASSERTS

Germany has spent during the last five years in preparation for war nearly twice as much money as England and France combined, Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company said yesterday. That fact in itself goes a long way toward explaining the mighty power of the German attack during the last month, he said.

"The United States, and Japan and France spent amounts in dollars that do not differ widely among the three nations, but undoubtedly both France and Japan bought much more military and naval power with their money than we did with ours," he said. "In each case, the five year expenditure is only a little more than one-quarter as large as that of Germany."

Expenditures of Russia reached "the astonishing" five year total of 13.5 billion dollars, Ayres said. He estimated German expenditures during the five years ended with 1939 at 19.1 billion dollars; those of the United Kingdom at 6.2 billions; United States and Japan each 5.1 billions, France 4.9 billions, and Italy 3.7 billions.

6TH CORPS AREA IS 3D IN NATION IN RECRUIT DRIVE

The 6th corps area was third last week among the country's nine corps areas in the number of new recruits obtained in the current enlistment campaign. Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, area commander, announced that 987 recruits were accepted during the last three weeks and that approximately 50 recruits are being accepted daily in the three states of the area—Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Reserve officers and patriotic organizations are coöperating with recruiting officers at the 54 stations in the area.

YOUNG LEADERS KEEP HITLER'S ARMY ON MOVE

Their Ages Range from 39 to 59 Years.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 15.—How systematically Germany has been placing comparatively young leaders at the head of the nation is best proved perhaps by the large number of such men in the three branches of the armed forces.

The war is being conducted by generals who are 56 years old or under. Their commander in chief, Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, is 59.

In this way Adolf Hitler has surrounded himself with high commanding officers who are nearly his own age. Hitler was 51 years old on April 20. Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg did not become an army leader until he was 67.

Youngest Are 39.

The youngest of the new war leaders are Gen. Hans Jeschonnek, chief of staff of the air force, and Lieut. Gen. Hans Geisler, commander in chief of the naval air force. Both are 39 years old.

Lieut. Gen. Eduard Dietl and Lieut. Gen. Joachim von Kortzfleisch are 50. Both saw service in Poland, Gen. Dietl in charge of an Alpine division and Gen. Kortzfleisch commanding the 1st division at Insterburg

Admiral is 55.

Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, who commanded the advance into Denmark and Norway, is 55 and one of the youngest generals in command of an army corps. During the world war he took part in the battle of Verdun, the Aisne river and in Flanders. He commanded an army corps in the Polish campaign and was promoted to the rank of general of infantry.

One of the youngest admirals in the German navy is Rolf Carls who is 55. He commanded naval forces during Germany's action in Norway. In the Spanish war he was for a time in command of German naval forces in Spanish waters. Last year he took over the German naval forces in the east.

Gen. Adm. Alfred Saalwaechter, who holds one of the leading posts in the German navy and was greatly responsible for the naval operations in Norwegian waters, is 57.

Retain Youthful Activities.

All of these leaders have preserved a youthful elasticity of mind and body.

During the rapid advance of the Germans thru Poland, Holland, and Belgium they often slept on straw or on bare boards. They had the same food as their men and often would be with their advance guards, taking cover in roadside ditches with the youngest lieutenants.

The feat of Gen. von Reichenau in swimming across a river in Poland to reconnoiter the area is remembered by the Germans.

Many of the generals and admirals also are excellent sportsmen. That they are much closer to the mentality of their young soldiers than the old "graybeards" of the last war goes without saying.

Young Leaders Head German Armed Forces

9 CHICAGOLAND COLLEGES START PILOT TRAINING

Ground schooling will begin tomorrow in nine colleges in the Chicago area which are taking part in the expanded pilot training program of the Civil Aeronautics authority, Charles E. Cox, senior private flying instructor here, said yesterday. Approximately 1,000 new airmen will be trained in this area during the next nine months—part of 45,000 thruout the country.

"Applicants were far more numerous than expected," Cox said. "All of the schools in this area easily filled their quotas and some reported they could have supplied double the number of students called for by the CAA."

The three month courses are being given at the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, Armour institute, Lewis institute, Lake Forest college, De Paul university, Loyola university, North Central college at Naperville, and Wheaton college at Wheaton.

LINDBERGH CALLS ON AMERICANS TO CURB WAR FEVER

Charges Future of Nation Is Periled by Minority.

the outcome is not likely to be decided in our lifetime.

Weight on Generations to Come.

"This is a question of mortgaging the lives of our children and our grandchildren. Every family in the land would have its wounded and its dead."

Lindbergh reaffirmed the declaration in his last broadcast of May 19 that America is in no danger of invasion and with an adequate defense can safeguard herself against such danger.

"America stands today where the road divides—at the signpost of war and peace," he said. "Now that we have become one of the world's great nations, shall we throw away the independent American destiny which our forefathers gave their lives to win? Shall we submerge our future in the endless wars of the old world? Or shall we build our own defenses and leave European war to European countries?"

Pittman Prepares Answer.

Four hours before Lindbergh spoke, the Democratic national committee announced that Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, would deliver a radio speech tomorrow [Sunday] in answer to Lindbergh's address, entitled "Col. Lindbergh's Misconception of Our Foreign Policy."

By the announcement e Democratic administration revealed that it was prepared to condemn the flyer's speech before it knew what he was going to say.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—The text of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's address on "Our Drift Toward War" follows:

"I have asked to speak to you again tonight because I believe that we, in America, are drifting toward a position of far greater seriousness to our future than even this present war. There is an attempt to becloud the issue that confronts us. It is not alone an issue of building an adequate defense for our country. That must and can be done. Our people are solidly behind an adequate military preparedness, and no one believes in it more than I.

"But we must not confuse the question of national defense with the question of entering a European war. And it is just as important not to confuse this present war with the type of war we would have to wage if we fought against Germany. Arming for the defense of America is compatible with normal life, commerce, and culture. It is an integral part of the destiny of our nation. But arming to attack the continent of Europe would necessitate that the lives and thoughts of every man, woman, and child in this country be directed toward war for the next generation, probably for the next several generations.

Warns of War Trap.

"We cannot continue for long to follow the course our government has taken without becoming involved in war with Germany. There are some who already advocate our entry into such a war. There are many perfectly sincere men and women who believe that we can send weapons to kill people in Europe without becoming involved in war with these people. Still others believe that by gestures and applause we can assist France and England to win without danger to our own country.

"In addition to these, however, there are men among us of less honesty who advocate stepping closer and closer to war, knowing well that a point exists beyond which there can be no turning back. They have baited the trap of war with requests for modest assistance. This latter group is meeting with success at the moment.

"There is a saying that grew in the old west to the effect that a man who enjoys life should never touch his gun unless he means business; that he should never draw unless he is ready to shoot, and that he should never shoot unless he is ready to kill. Those old pioneers of ours knew from long experience that there can be no successful dabbling with death.

Wisdom of West Gone.

"But the red blooded wisdom of the old west is gone from American politics today. Our present danger results from making gestures with an empty gun after we have already lost the draw. Fortunately, the wide wall of the Atlantic stands between us and the shooting that is going on.

"This dabbling we have been doing in European affairs can lead only to failure in the future as it has in the past. It is not a policy that we can continue to follow and remain a great nation.

"Let us look at our position today. Our leaders have lost the influence we could have exerted as the world's greatest neutral nation. The driblets of munitions we have sold to England and France have had a negligible effect on the trend of the war, and we have not sufficient military strength available to change that trend. We demand that foreign nations refrain from interfering in our hemisphere, yet we constantly interfere in theirs. And while we have been taking an ineffective part in the war abroad, we have inexcusably neglected our defenses at home.

No Home Defense Plan.

"In fact, we have let our own affairs drift along until we have not even a plan of defense for the continent of North America. We have been doing to England and France what they did to Abyssinia, to Czecho-Slovakia, to Poland, to Finland, and to Norway—we have encouraged them to hope for help we cannot send.

"Yet with these examples before us, we still continue in this course—the same course that led England to failure abroad and weakness at home, a course that will lead us, also, to a disastrous and unsuccessful war if we persist in following it.

"When the subject of our participation in war is discussed, most people visualize the war that is now going on in Europe. They think of sending more arms, and possibly some soldiers. There is still very little understanding of what our entrance into European war would mean. When we talk of such a war, we must realize that we are considering the greatest struggle the world has yet known—a conflict between hemispheres, one-half of the white race against the other half.

"Before allowing ourselves to become further involved, we should consider the conditions which may exist by the time we are ready for military action. If we enter a war at all, we should prepare to meet the worst conditions rather than the best.

Need Months to Prepare.

"It is useless to talk of sending American troops to Europe now, for we would need months of preparation before we could train and equip even a small army, and small efforts do not effect great movements—witness Norway, Holland, and Belgium.

"We must face the fact, regardless of how disagreeable it is to us, that before we can take effective action in a European war the German armies may have brought all Europe under their control. In that case, Europe will be dominated by the strongest military nation the world has ever known, contoling a population far larger than our own. If we decide to enter war, we must be prepared to attack that nation. We must prepare to invade a continent which it controls.

"No people ever had a greater decision to make. We hold our children's future in our hands as we deliberate, for if we turn to war the battles will be hard fought and the outcome is not likely to be decided in our lifetime. This is a question of mortgaging the lives of our children and our grandchildren. Every family in the land would have its wounded and its dead.

War Means Dictatorship.

"We start at a disadvantage because we are not a military nation. Ours is not a land of guns and marching men. If we decide to fight, then the United States must prepare for war for many years to come, and on a scale unprecedented in all history. In that case we must turn to a dictatorial government, for there is no military efficiency to be lost.

"We should start to build an army of several million men. We will need several hundred thousand airplanes before the battling is over. And we must have a navy large enough to transport this force across the sea. This war we are asked to enter would not be a repetition of the last war. It would be more comparable to the struggle which took place between Athens and Sparta, or Rome and Carthage. It would involve the destiny of America and of western civilization as far into the future as we can see.

Halt "Empty Gun" Gestures.

"But whatever our decision may be in regard to Europe, we must start now to build our own defenses. We must stop these gestures with an empty gun. In this, we are a united nation. The only question that arises concerns how our defense can best be built.

"We must first construct a clear cut plan of defense, and have the co-operation of all American countries in carrying it out. We must insist upon military bases being placed wherever they are needed for our safety, regardless of who owns the territory involved. We must be willing to do more than pay taxes and make appropriations. Military strength cannot be purchased by money alone. Strength is a thing of spirit, of preparation, and of sacrifice extending over years of time.

"The men of our country must be willing to give a year of their lives to military training—more if necessary. And our capitalists as well as our soldiers should be willing to serve without personal profit. We must have a nation ready to give whatever is required for its future welfare, and leaders who are more interested in their country than in their own advancement.

We Have Defense Advantage.

"With an adequate defense no foreign army can invade us. Our advantage in defending America is as great as our disadvantage would be in attacking Europe. From a military geographical standpoint, we are the most fortunate country in the world. There is no other nation in this hemisphere strong enough to even consider attacking us, and the Atlantic and Pacific oceans separate us from the warring armies of Europe and Asia.

"If the British navy could not support an invasion of Norway against the German air force, there is little reason for us to worry about an invasion of America as long as our air force is adequately maintained. As far as invasion by air is concerned, it is impossible for any existing air force to attack effectively across the ocean. In the arctic regions, the severe climate and ruggedness of terrain counteract the vulnerability of shorter distances between land.

Nation at Crossroads.

"With our geographical position, nothing but the gross neglect of our military forces, or quarreling between American countries themselves, could make possible an invasion by foreign armies. America stands today where the road divides, at the signpost of war and peace.

"Now that we have become one of the world's greatest nations, shall we throw away the independent American destiny which our forefathers gave their lives to win? Shall we submerge our future in the endless wars of the old world? Or shall we build our own defenses and leave European war to European countries?

"Shall we continue this suicidal conflict between western nations and white races, or shall we learn from history as well as from modern Europe that a civilization cannot be preserved by conflict among its own peoples, regardless of how different their ideologies may be?

A Flood of Propaganda.

"You men and women of America who believe that our destiny lies in building strength at home and not in war abroad—to you I say, that we must act now to stop this trend toward war.

"An organized minority in this country is flooding our congress and our press with propaganda for war. They are spending large sums of money in advertisments. They are telegraphing, writing, and talking every hour of the day, pushing us closer and closer to the edge. Some are even now demanding a declaration of war.

"If you believe that we should not enter a European war, you must support those of us who oppose such action. We cannot stop this trend alone. Some of your representatives in Washington are already considering a declaration of war, but they are responsible to you for the action they take. Let them know how you feel about this. Speak to your friends and organize in your community. Nothing but a determined effort on the part of every one of us will prevent the disaster toward which our nation is now heading."

Excites Comment

Springfield, Ill., June 15 [Special].—The Rev. A. Ray Grummon, pastor of the First Methodist church here, has drawn on the front pages of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in his efforts to keep America out of war. He underscores sections of the pages and posts them on the church bulletin board.

"Our church is located in the downtown section of Springfield, and the bulletin board has excited considerable comment," said the Rev. Mr. Grummon.

He suggests that his methods might well be adopted by other peace loving churches.

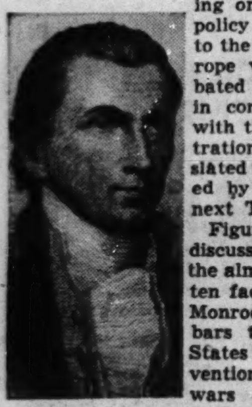
RECALL MONROE DOCTRINE BARS ENTRY INTO WAR

Congress to Debate Issue of Land Transfers.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—Aspects of the Monroe Doctrine bearing on American policy in regard to the war in Europe will be debated in congress in connection with the administration resolution slated to be adopted by the house next Tuesday.



James Monroe.

Figuring in the discussion will be the almost forgotten fact that the Monroe Doctrine bars the United States from intervention in the wars of Europe no less definitely than it prohibits interposition by Europe in the affairs of the American nations.

The resolution drafted by the state department for adoption by congress declares that the United States will not recognize any transfer of any portion of American territory from one non-American nation to another non-American nation.

May Affect West Indies.

This step is being taken to meet the contingency that Germany may attempt to take possession of the Dutch West Indies and Dutch Guiana and Danish Greenland by virtue of German occupation of the Netherlands and Denmark and might obtain title to the British and French West Indies by conquest of Great Britain and France.

The Dutch West Indies are already in the foreground of the picture. Shortly after the Nazis occupied the Netherlands British and French warships landed troops on the Dutch Islands of Curacao and Aruba and established a "protective occupation" to keep the valuable oil refineries and other resources out of the hands of the Germans. The German population was interned.

Great Britain and France explained to the United States government that they were effecting a purely temporary occupation at the request of the Dutch government and that Dutch sovereignty would continue to be recognized. The state department approved, stating that no violation of the Monroe Doctrine was involved.

The transfer of any of these European owned American possessions to another European owner would be a violation of that portion of the Monroe Doctrine which declares "that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety."

Up to the advent of this administration the Monroe Doctrine was universally regarded a unilateral United States policy. It was this country's fiat for this country's defense. Mr. Roosevelt undertook to make it a multilateral policy of all the American republics.

The Latin countries subscribed to the new policy, but their devotion to it is yet to be tested. The prototalitarian utterances of Dictator Getulio Vargas of Brazil this week indicate that his régime would not be much of a bulwark against the penetration of the European dictatorships into this hemisphere.

Message from Vargas.

Today, however, the White House made public a message from Vargas assuring the President that "Brazil will not fail him in loyalty" to the common purpose of protecting the western hemisphere against foreign influence and attacks. The message, delivered thru the Brazilian embassy, expressed regret that an address Vargas had delivered earlier in the week had been interpreted as contradictory to pan-American sentiments uttered by Mr. Roosevelt in an address at Charlottesville, Va., Monday.

The Monroe Doctrine's prohibition of further European colonization in the Americas is well known. What is not so well known are the declarations of the doctrine against American intervention in Europe. In the famous message in which President Monroe enunciated the doctrine he said:

"The citizens of the United States cherish sentiments the most friendly in favor of the liberty and happiness of their fellowmen on that side of the Atlantic. In the wars of the European powers in matters relating to themselves we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy so to do.

Policy Remains Unchanged.

"It is only when our rights are invaded or seriously menaced that we resent injuries or make preparations for our defense. . . . Our policy in regard to Europe, which was adopted at any early stage of the wars which have so long agitated that quarter of the globe, nevertheless remains the same, which is not to interfere in the internal concerns of any of its powers; to consider the government de facto as the legitimate government for us; to cultivate friendly relations with it and to preserve those relations by a frank, firm and manly policy, meeting in all instances the just claims of every power, submitting to injuries from none."

Henry Clay, when secretary of state, emphasized that the Monroe Doctrine declares that "whilst we do not desire to interfere in Europe; with the political system of the allied powers, we should regard, as dangerous to our peace and safety, any attempt on their part, to extend their system to any portion of our hemisphere."

Warns Against Entanglements.

In counseling Monroe on the declaration Thomas Jefferson, in a letter dated Oct. 24, 1823, said that "our first and fundamental maxim should be, never to entangle ourselves in the broils of Europe; our second, never to suffer Europe to intermeddle with cis-Atlantic affairs."

In 1820 John Quincy Adams, when secretary of state, repulsed the Russian attempt to get the United States into the Holy Alliance.

"The political system of the United States," he said, "is also essentially extra-European. To stand in firm and cautious independence of all entanglement in the European system has been a cardinal point of their policy under every administration of their government from the peace of 1783 to this day. If at the original adoption of their system there could have been any doubt of its justice or its wisdom, there can be none at this time. Every year's experience rivets it more deeply in the principles and opinions of the nation."

Suggested by Englishman.

The original suggestion of the Monroe Doctrine came from George Canning, British foreign minister, who proposed to the American minister, Richard Rush, on Aug. 20, 1823, a joint declaration by Great Britain and the United States against further European colonization in the Americas. His motive was to circumvent the plot of the Holy Alliance to regain for Spain the newly established republics on the American continents. Monroe, however, accepted the advice of his secretary of state, John Quincy Adams, which was to reject a joint declaration and make it solely the proclaimed policy of the United States.

Monroe proclaimed the doctrine in his message to congress on the state of the Union Dec. 2, 1823. In 1826 in the king's message to parliament Canning took credit for the doctrine when he said: "I called the new world into existence to redress the balance of the old."

EDITORIAL WARNS WAR HYSTERIA IS MENACING PEACE

Catholic Paper Hits Stand Taken by Roosevelt.

New York, June 15 [Special].—The Tablet, Roman Catholic weekly newspaper published in Brooklyn, carried in today's issue a front page editorial entitled "Americans Beware!" which attacks "a man created hysteria . . . seeking to involve the United States in another catastrophic conflict."

The idtorial particularly criticizes the address made Monday night by President Roosevelt at Charlottesville, Va., and the "Stop Hitler Now!" advertisment sponsored by William Allen White, Kansas editor.

Partisan Stand Attacked.

Of the President's speech, the editorial says:

"With much of what the President said, Americans will agree. But the masses of the people were shocked by his partisan stand and his belligerency in placing, and justifying the placing of this great nation on the threshold of a war which is not ours. The people equally regretted that no allusion was made to peace . . . the Tablet urges its readers to tell the esteemed President, their senators, and their representatives to keep America out of war and to keep war out of America."

As to Mr. White, the editorial says: "To the movement seeking to involve our country is added a flavor of hypocrisy. William Allen White and all other elderly men who want the sons of our American mothers to go to war are insisting there is a moral duty for Americans to go abroad to fight Hitler.

"Did any one ever hear of these self-designated protectors of morality and preservers of religion objecting to Stalin's liquidation of Russia? Has any one ever heard them protest against Mexico's outlawing of religion and destruction of morality, private property, and other instruments of civilization? Not at all."

The editorial concludes by saying: "The people want peace, not the sword; bread, not bullets; friendship, not fear; prosperity, not propaganda. For this reason, they iterate again and again: 'Keep America out of war and keep war out of America.' And they pray to God daily that peace may be maintained in America and for Americans."

Backs Down on Plan to Force Reliefers Into Army

Trenton, N. J., June 15 (AP).—State Relief Director Arthur Mudd today said he will rescind a week old memorandum in which he suggested unemployment relief funds might be withheld from able bodied single men eligible for military duty. The memorandum was sent to field representatives as a "suggestion" and no order was issued putting it into effect. Mudd gave no reason for his decision to revoke the memorandum.

U. S. PROBES ACTS OF ITALIAN AND GERMAN AGENTS

Baron von Spiegel.

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—An investigation is under way, Secretary of State Cordell Hull disclosed today, of reports that Italian consular representatives have engaged in political activities in this country. He also said attention was being given to a statement attributed to Baron Edgar von Spiegel, reich consul general at New Orleans, that Germany "would not forget" that the United States was giving aid to her enemies.

Von Spiegel denied today that he had made this statement, declaring that it was a "free invention" of a New Orleans States reporter who interviewed him yesterday. In reply, James E. Crown, editor of the States, said "We have absolute confidence in our reporter and the veracity of his report."

Hull commented that there had been conflicting statements in both cases, and said this country is endeavoring to assemble facts which will establish the truth. He discussed the cases after inquiry at his press conference as to a statement handed him yesterday by Don Ascanio Colonna, Italian ambassador, in which complaint was made that "some newspapers" had published reports of illegal political activity on the part of Italian consuls.

1,100 Midshipmen Reach Canal Zone; Training Cruise

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, June 15 (AP).—A series of entertainments was planned today for Rear Admiral Hayne Ellis, commanding the Atlantic squadron, his officers and 1,100 midshipmen from Annapolis who arrived on a training cruise on the battleships Texas, Arkansas and New York.

NEW MILITARY UNITS STUDIED FOR ILLINOIS

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the Illinois National Guard, said yesterday that, as a result of discussions now in progress, several new military units might be organized in Illinois.

The war department, the general said, has asked whether the state was willing and able to form new units employing modern weapons. Among the suggested elements are an additional air observation squadron, another antiaircraft regiment, a heavy artillery regiment, a 155 millimeter howitzer regiment and an antitank battalion.

"We have already answered yes to the air squadron and the antiaircraft unit," Gen. Lawton said. "There is nothing definite yet and nothing is authorized. Any new units put into service will probably be assigned to corps or army commands, as the present division organization of the 33d is complete."

RED ARMY TAKES OVER LITHUANIA; CABINET OUSTED

Berlin Hears Smetona Has Fled to Germany.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, June 16, Sunday (AP).—Reports spread among Lithuanian correspondents here early today that Lithuanian President Antanas Smetona, fleeing before invading Russian troops, had crossed the border into Germany. He was said to have been accompanied by several high officials of the Lithuanian government, which was forced out by Russian pressure.

KAUNAS, Lithuania, June 15.—Soviet troops marched into Lithuania this afternoon, putting this Baltic state like its neighbors to the north under Russian domination. The troops occupied the key cities of Vilna, Kaunas, Scaulial, Penevezys, and Raseinai after a Russian ultimatum was accepted by the Lithuanian government.

Thus Russia gained free passage for an unlimited number of Red army troops into the little country that borders Germany on East Prussia. Troops were ordered stationed in the most important centers only in "sufficient" strength to provide for the "implementing" of the soviet-Lithuanian mutual assistance agreement.

Free Hand for Moscow.

To Moscow alone, however, was left the decision as to how many men would be sufficient. Russia was left with a free hand to put a wall of troops as big as she pleased close to the far eastern Nazi frontiers.

Two hundred tanks led the Red army's advance into Lithuania. The main force of an armored division established itself in the capital. The people apparently were astonished, and food stores were stormed in a panic.

The Lithuanian government of Premier Antanas Merkys retired last night and as yet no new government has been formed. Russia is reported to have indicated that the planned formation of a cabinet under the leadership of Gen. Stasys Raschtikis would not conform with soviet wishes..

Acceptance of the ultimatum was communicated to Moscow by Foreign Minister Jousys Urbschys one hour before it expired. The ultimatum charged Lithuania violated the spirit of the mutual assistance pact by signing a secret military treaty with Esthonia and Latvia.

Pact Signed Last October.

The Russians further demanded that the former Lithuanian minister of the interior, as well as the head of the department of national security, be tried for the shooting of a Russian soldier by Lithuanian police.

It was on the basis of the mutual assistance pact—signed on Oct. 10, 1939, after Russia's seizure of eastern Polish territory, while Germany was occupying its western sections, that Moscow moved suddenly today.

Under this pact Lithuania regained Vilna, its former capital, which had gone to Russia in the German-Russian division of Poland. In exchange, Russia was granted the right to place an undetermined number of troops in Lithuania.

This was one of a series of agreements Russia made at the time. Esthonia and Latvia accepted the soviet terms, but Finland refused and promptly was invaded.

Berlin Calm Over Seizure.

BERLIN, June 15.—The Germans today accepted the Russian occupation of Lithuania with the greatest calm. They have been negotiating with Moscow extensively for the last six weeks. For a number of days last month Russia seemed to be tempted to threaten the Germans. The Russians were seriously alarmed by the tremendous increase in Nazi power. The German negotiators succeeded in quieting the Russians. The Nazis know as a result of the Finnish war how weak the Russians are, but at the moment Adolf Hitler wants no conflict on his eastern border.

He wants no "two front war" but believes in taking up the fight with his opponents one after the other. Therefore, the Germans did not object to the Russian plan to "strengthen Russia's positions in the Baltic" when Premier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov told the German minister, Reinhold von Saucken, of Russia's plans in the Baltic states.

On June 10 the soviet and the Germans signed an agreement in Moscow for the settlement of "border controversies and incidents," which reveals that differences of this kind had arisen.

Soviet Troops Near German Border

Soviet Russian troops marched into Vilna and Kaunas (arrow), Lithuania, yesterday. They also occupied three other "key cities" not shown on available maps. The action put soviet forces near the boundary of Germany.

CHINESE RECAPTURE TANGYANG; DRIVE ON JAPS IN FULL SWING

HONGKONG, June 15 (AP).—Chinese dispatches reported today the recapture by the Chinese of the City of Tangyang—about 40 miles northwest of the Yangtze river treaty port of Ichang — which the Japanese took early this week.

The report said that a Chinese offensive, aimed at annihilation of all Japanese who crossed the Han river, was in full swing, with the Chinese regaining much ground.

Japanese dispatches giving a far different picture of the battle, said that Japanese troops, in coöperation with warplanes, had backed about 15 Chinese divisions into bases in the vicinity of Ichang.

RUSSIA DRIVES TO STRENGTHEN ARMED FORCES

Spares No Resources in Training Program.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, June 15.—Gen. Krisjanis Berkis, Latvia's war minister, who has returned from a 10 day visit to Moscow, said he was impressed by efforts being made to increase and strengthen the soviet government's military preparedness.

Gen. Berkis said that on every floor of the 10 story military academy in Moscow were placards emblazoned with Stalin's words: "Cadres decide everything." [Cadres are the nucleus officers and noncoms held in readiness to train and lead troops when mobilized.]

"The soviet government is not sparing its resources, and well organized, systematic training is being given the Cadres in soviet military institutions," Gen. Berkis said. "Technical preparation, training, education, and the supply system of the army are on a high level and the Red army shows ardor in fulfilling its tasks."

Military Registry Completed.

A leading article in the Moscow Pravda declared that "if soviet youth is enthusiastic about military heroism and looks for examples in the history of our own nation, then these tendencies must be cultivated.

"Thruout the country registration of those liable to military service three months hence has been completed. These three months must be used in teaching illiterate recruits to read and write, since only literate men can be trained to use mechanical weapons upon which largely rests the success of a modern army. Youth must be reared in the spirit of burning patriotism and love for the native country."

Official Journal Suspended.

The Baltic bureau of THE TRIBUNE, which for many years has been a subscriber to Kommunisticheski International, official organ of the Comintern [Communist International], which contained both instructions of the Comintern to its agents abroad and their reports of antigovernment activities and declarations of their loyalty to this Moscow institution, has been informed that the official journal has ceased publication in Russia.

SURFACE LINES COMPILES ALIEN EMPLOYE ROSTER

Study Citizenship Status of 15,000 Workers.

One of the city's largest employers, the Chicago Surface Lines, is conducting a survey of its personnel to determine the number of aliens on its pay roll. Similar action, it was learned last night, is contemplated by several other transportation and communications companies.

The Surface Lines employs more than 15,000 men. The survey, begun last week, is expected to take several weeks. It was emphasized by company officials that there is no intention to dismiss any employés as a result of what the survey discloses.

"We decided to bring up to date our records of the citizenship status of all employés," said a spokesman. "There is no other purpose behind it. We have not had any request for information from any government source."

Might Be Asked for Data.

It was indicated that the belief such information might be requested soon was one reason for making the survey at this time.

It was said that citizenship information is available on all men who have joined the company in recent years, but that facts are missing concerning older employés.

At the Western Electric company, whose personnel compares in number with that of the Surface Lines, there has been some discussion of a similar survey, but no steps toward one have been taken.

Telephone Workers American.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company said it has no alien problem.

"Every employé is native born or has citizenship papers," said an official. It was decided in the 1920s that we would have only American citizens in our employ."

Illinois Bell has 25,000 employés, of whom 18,000 are in Chicago and about 3,000 more in the suburbs.

The survey developments recalled the announcement Tuesday by Robert J. Eitel, president of the Eitel restaurants, that all aliens must take out first citizenship papers within two weeks or lose their jobs.

Finland Pays Up

Finnish Minister Hjalmar J. Procope (right) shown handing to Herbert Gaston, assistant secretary of the treasury, check covering his country's instalment on war debt in Washington yesterday.

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—Finland paid the annual installment on her war debt today and a short time later the White House announced that President Roosevelt had signed legislation granting the small nation a 10 year moratorium on her payments.

Hjalmer J. Procope, the Finnish minister, handed a check for $159,398 to Herbert E. Gaston, assistant treasury secretary.

The moratorium resolution was rushed thru congress yesterday, and Procope noted with "deep gratitude the new sign of friendship and understanding for my country."

The state department announced that Rumania had made a conditional $100,000 payment on its June 15 installment of $1,386,870. In a letter to Secretary Cordell Hull, Radu Irimescu, Rumanian minister to the United States, said the payment was conditioned on a subsequent agreement between the two countries for settlement of the debt.

IRELAND SPEEDS DEFENSES, PUTS UP BARRICADES

DUBLIN, June 15 (AP).—Preparations for defense of Ireland were pushed ahead rapidly today. A drive for defense volunteers was intensified.

In the great Phoenix park, around the residence of American Minister David Gray, stakes were driven into the ground to prevent landing of planes. Barricades were erected on the wide park roadways.

Similar precautions against invasion from the air have been taken at airdromes and large open spaces thruout Ireland.

POSTMASTER FOUND DEAD.

Holland, Mich., June 15 [Special].—Arthur Johnson, 43 years old, postmaster at East Saugatuck, Mich., six miles south of here, was found dead in the postoffice last evening, evidently from a heart attack. He was an overseas soldier during the world war. The widow and three children survive.

4,000 DISABLED VETERANS COUNT THE COST OF WAR

Their Counsel: Keep Out of Europe's Carnage.

BY MARCIA WINN.

It is a quiet afternoon. A gentle lassitude has overtaken the 4,000 disabled war veterans scattered over the vast grounds and in the spreading buildings of Hines hospital.

Overhead drone the transport planes of peace, their swath thru the sky as unnoticed as the occasional butterflies that alight on the luxuriant shrubbery. But the men sitting in the sun have distant eyes, far remote from the green lawns of the hospital grounds, quietly oblivious of the flowering almond whose fragrance drifts toward them in the wind.

Those who saunter outdoors for the sunshine have a single topic of conversation now. Those who are bedridden in the long wards keep ear phones clamped to their heads. Those able to do so walk or wheel themselves down the long corridors to the recreation room and wait for the voices on the radio to tell them more:

Of war. Of the war fought on the same fields, against the same enemy, as the war in which they gave up their well being 22 years ago.

Two men, wearing the regulation hospital dressing gown of striped toweling, badge of anonymity and identity alike, share a bench on the lawn. One fought at Noyon 22 years ago yesterday, when he was 29. He fought, too, at St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne, and today his hair is silver. He is old at 51. The man beside him never got out of Camp Pike, Ark., but he is old at 45, and ill.

"Regardless of what happens," ventures the man from Camp Pike, "we should not meddle with this war at all."

"My opinion is the same," the other says tersely.

"The last war was a mistake," the first says. "So is this."

"We shouldn't be sending them munitions or anything," the second says quietly. "Next will be the men—the young men . . ."

Three men in wheel chairs meet in a corridor. One has only one leg. Another, a handsome, pallid man of 42, has such severe heart trouble he has to have an attendant to propel his chair. The third served 16 months in France and was gassed. The three disagree.

"I think we ought to be in it now," the man who was gassed says in a shrill, defiant voice. "We never finished it. We should go back."

"I think they are a bunch of connivers trying to get us into it," says the man with one leg. "I hope they fail. What did we gain? What did we gain that other time?"

"I'll do all I can to keep them from it," says the man with the bad heart. "Why don't they tell more about the bad side of war?"

Six men sit around a radio in the recreation hall. One is paralyzed from the hips down. One has a disfigured jaw that looks like a watermelon. They listen to a man from London talking in brisk, optimistic syllables.

"We speak the same language," says one. "That's all we have in common."

"There were 188 of us," says another, "and only 25 were killed. They say that was a good percentage."

"I sent a petition around the hospital," says a third. "About one out of 10 said he would be willing to fight again."

"Nobody wants to fight," interjects a heavy set man from the south, "but if they come here I'll be ready to go again. Sure, I know, I'm 45."

Alien Fingerprinting Bill Passed by Senate

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—Legislation requiring registration and fingerprinting of all aliens was passed by the senate today. The bill is designed to tighten federal laws aimed at subversive elements. It now goes back to the house for consideration of numerous amendments. The measure would provide for deportation of certain aliens by amending the immigration laws.

AN OVERSEAS ARMY NEEDS DOCKS.

In Norway the Germans demonstrated that without well equipped ports for the unloading of heavy military equipment an expeditionary force could be prevented from making an effective military effort. In Norway the Germans seized all the good ports. Similarly, the Germans have taken many of France's channel ports and by bombing raids are attempting to destroy the docks and cranes which are needed for unloading military supplies from abroad.

Now Hitler is presumed to be planning an invasion of the British Isles. The difficulty which the British encountered in Norway and may now encounter in supplying their expeditionary force in France will become Hitler's if he undertakes to send an army overseas. He will need landing facilities for his heavy tanks, trucks, and guns, and unless he can seize and hold good ports and the machinery that goes with them it is not easy to see how he can make a successful conquest. Even if he gets his men ashore they will lack the equipment which thus far has overcome their enemies.

He may, of course, attempt to subdue the British with bombing raids and parachute landings, but without the support of armored and mechanized units it is far from certain that these measures will prove of much value to him. He may also attempt to blockade England by attacking merchant ships from the air and destroying the fleet as well, but his successes in this kind of warfare thus far have not been striking.

Should he succeed in severing Britain's contact with the world overseas, the British might still prevent a landing in force by blowing up their docks and destroying their unloading machinery. The obstacle which the British found insuperable in Norway would then confront Hitler: He would have to solve the problem of invading a country by sea without the means of unloading supplies from his ships.

A SLAP ON THE WRIST.

Sixteen seamen who had been found guilty of mutiny aboard the Matson freighter Ewa last March in Indian waters were given extremely light sentences by United States Judge Samuel Mandelbaum in New York. Eleven were sent to jail for terms of from one to three months. The other five were put on probation.

These men had been found guilty of a crime the seriousness of which can hardly be exaggerated. In foreign waters, during war, they had refused to obey orders, engaged in a sitdown strike, prevented officers from moving freely about the ship by roping off the forecastle, and when ordered to paint the American flag on the side of the ship had refused to paint more than the stripes. In consequence, the safety of the ship, its crew, its officers, and its cargo were imperiled.

The judge said he thought the prisoners were not bad men but misguided. It is difficult to believe that professional seamen could have been unaware of the seriousness of the offense. At any rate, the light sentences handed out will serve to encourage genuinely bad men—of whom there are plenty in the merchant marine—to foment mutiny.

The influence of the communists in the maritime unions is strong. The reliability of the merchant marine is already questionable. In troubled times such as these encouragement to mutiny can hardly be considered to be in the national interest.

AN ACUTE RAILROAD PROBLEM.

Roughly 10 per cent of all the railroad traffic in the country consists of what is called less-than-carload freight. This amount of tonnage is important to the railroads and is the principal type of traffic their truck competitors are rapidly taking away from them. The average load of this type of freight in 1932 was 3.64 tons per car. There has been a slight increase in the loading since then, but not sufficient to make the business profitable.

Freight forwarding companies were organized to assemble less than carload shipments, consolidate them into carloads, forward them at the carload rate at a saving to the shipper and a profit to themselves. The average load of a "forwarding" car is about 12 tons. For five or six years railroad traffic executives have been considering proposals to adjust their less-than-carload freight rates in such a manner as to increase the loading of cars carrying less than carload or merchandise freight at what they call "quantity rates," which would be a saving to the merchandise shippers. These officials have recognized that the existing merchandise freight rate structure has become vulnerable to competition, but up to date they have not been able to overcome the inertia of their various freight associations and put the scheme into effect. Even if they could finally arrive at a definite proposal, past experience indicates that the regulatory powers of the Interstate Commerce commission would be used to prohibit its adoption.

Now bills have been presented in both the senate and house to extend regulations and control by the commission to cover the freight forwarding companies. Hearings before the senate interstate commerce committee have developed a marked difference of opinion among the carriers themselves as to the proper solution of this problem. The New York Central has recommended to the committee the passage of enabling legislation which would give the commission the power to force formation of pools for the handling of less-than-carload traffic. The witness for that company suggested the formation of three railroad-controled corporations in the three large railroad districts in a setup analogous to the handling of express traffic by the Railway Express agency.

The representative of the Pennsylvania railroad told the committee he was absolutely opposed to any such pooling arrangement and insisted that maximum efficiency in handling this type of traffic could be achieved by the railroads individually. To support his argument he listed many improvements his road had made in this service, such as greater car loadings, use of steel containers, setting up of zone concentration stations, institution of pick-up-and-delivery service, and simplification of accounting systems.

The solution of this problem should be comparatively simple if it were possible for the railroads to unite in voluntary coöperation. While they have been so busy competing with each other newer transportation agencies have been getting the business. The forwarding companies have been able to take only the cream of the L. C. L. traffic and leave the skimmed milk to the carriers to handle at a loss. What they need more than anything else is what Commissioner Eastman has called "creative planning and leadership."

WE NEED A "MECHANIZED" STAFF, TOO.

One of the unverified stories of this war is that the French general staff experimented several years ago with blitzkrieg tactics and abandoned them as unworkable. The French, according to this story, found that they could move troops swiftly enough, but that it was impossible to organize a staff to keep track of their movements, and that in the absence of staff control the maneuvers broke up in hopeless confusion.

In the current Saturday Evening Post John McCutcheon Raleigh describes the organization and operation of the Nazi troops that carried on the Polish blitzkrieg. His description, which amplifies a story he filed to THE TRIBUNE in March, serves to explain, in part at least, how the Germans have been able to accomplish what the French thought impracticable.

A principal function of staff organization is to coördinate the efforts of various types of troops, the artillery with the infantry, the infantry with the tanks, and aircraft with artillery. In the world war most of the bloody offensives failed to break thru enemy lines because artillery could not keep up with infantry. When the infantry lost touch with the guns, it was unable to make progress against enemy machine gun fire.

If the commander at the front has a variety of weapons under his immediate orders it is obvious that the need for staff work is greatly lessened. Instead of sending his appeal for assistance to the rear he has the means of assistance at hand. According to Raleigh, the Germans have gone much further toward making each unit self-sufficient than any other army.

Even an infantry regiment, he reports, is organized on this basis of self-sufficiency. It has a heavy weapons company armed with two 155 millimeter [6 inch] howitzers, a number of smaller cannon; 75 millimeter howitzers, grenade throwers, and heavy machine guns. Each battalion likewise has a heavy weapons company, using heavy machine guns and grenade throwers, or mortars, and the infantry rifle companies themselves are actually made up of light machine gun squads. Such regiments do not need to wait for the artillery to come up. They have it with them in sufficient force to overwhelm opposing infantry not so equipped. The German divisions, of course, have their artillery regiments, with heavier guns attached to larger organizations, the corps, and army.

The German panzer division, spearhead of the present drive in France, is another mixed force, composed of tanks, mechanized and motorized infantry, and mobile artillery. Here again diversification of army under a single commander has eliminated the need for much of the old type of staff work.

In the Flanders battle location of advanced German units was sometimes reported more quickly from allied sources than from their own general headquarters. This would indicate that with their diversified forces the German commanders have been given a considerably greater responsibility for conducting their operations without detailed orders from the general staff.

In our own army the conduct of the officers in coördinating various arms of the service during the Louisiana maneuvers was severely criticized. The air force hardly deigned to participate. When mechanized units were first used in our army maneuvers several years ago in Michigan one of the comments was that while troops were moving at 20 miles an hour the staff system controling them was still geared to the four mile an hour speed of marching men.

It will be useless to mechanize our army unless the staff which is its brain is also speeded up. The German solution seems to be to relieve the staff of many of its former functions by diversifying arms even down to the battalion and delegating increased responsibility to field commanders. Even so, streamlined weapons demand streamlined thinking as well. The thinking may be even harder to find than the weapons.

AGRICULTURAL TRIUMPH.

[Evening Star, Washington.]

A farmer of Columbia, Mo., owned 93 pigs, which had a bad habit of straying off the reservation, showing uncanny ingenuity in burrowing under fences. In order to prevent wholesale emigration he took a leaf out of the totalitarian book and put up an electrified wire fence on the frontier, equipped with a balanced ration of volts and amperes, not strong enough to kill, but powerful enough to keep the pigs away. They soon learned to have a healthy respect for the device.

Once this lesson had been thoroly learned by the pigs, the next step in farm economy was to shut off the power. Being in absolute control of the local information service, the farmer was able to turn off the current and keep that significant news from the pigs, so that the deluded animals still stayed home.

The farmer was now ready for the grand climax. One bright day he went out and removed the entire fence while interested neighbors assembled to watch the stampede. It never developed. The regimented pigs wistfully eyed the unguarded frontier, but none was rash enough to cross it. In this humble fashion, and with much less trouble than Marconi had, was born the latest triumph of agriculture—the wireless fence.

ENEMIES ACROSS ONE OCEAN AT A TIME ARE SUFFICIENT

In the last week the New York Daily News has published two editorials discussing American relations with Japan and suggesting that our state department would be wise to patch up its quarrel with that oriental empire, so that if we should be thrown into the war in Europe we would not be compelled to fight in both oceans. The New York paper's editorials follow:

BETTER SHUT THE BACK DOOR.

Now that we've taken the first long step toward active participation in the European war by releasing 50 navy planes to the allies, this newspaper would like to suggest that we take a certain precaution which would seem only sensible.

This stripping ourselves of 50 planes is only a beginning if the war goes on any length of time. Pretty soon we'll be urgently called on for 500 planes, maybe, as the only thing that will save civilization. After that, it's conceivable that we'll be begged by Ambassador Bullitt via trans-Atlantic telephone to send some fighting ships. In due time, if these piecemeal, unofficial efforts of ours only serve to bolster the allies instead of enabling them to give Hitler a knockout blow, our men will be called on to gang up in another A. E. F. and stream over to France.

All this appears to be contemplated by the Roosevelt administration, calmly and resolutely. And, tho we regret to say so, we have small doubt of the administration's ability to sell these successive steps into a war which it holds to be a war of actual self-defense to the American people.

We think now rather than later would be a good time for the administration to ponder three things and take some action concerning them.

1. We are now inadequately defended at home, as the President was saying a few days ago. Hence, the more weapons and men we send to Europe, the less adequately we'll be defended at home.

2. Japan is not an ally of the allies this time, as it was in the world war. Japan is mainly fighting its own war in China, but every time its spokesmen utter about the European war they show themselves more friendly to Germany than to the allies.

3. We may not be able to bring about an allied victory this time. Hitler may win, after all.

What those three suggested subjects for administration attention add up to is this: That we may find ourselves largely stripped of fighting men and munitions, on the losing side of a great war, and facing a victorious Germany across the Atlantic and a grabby, aggressive Japan across the Pacific. Imagine our embarrassment.

It seems to us that the time has come for us to try to shut our back door, so to speak, before sending our best fighting men, guns, planes, and ships out our front door to try to win another war for the allies.

We mean we'd better begin now to patch up our quarrel with Japan in the matter of trade relations, which have been jittering along on a day-to-day basis since last Jan. 26, when we abrogated the 1911 treaty of commerce and navigation with Japan.

It is too bad that Japan is still trying to enslave the Chinese nation. We still deplore that fact; but the more urgent fact is that the United States cannot lick the whole world for moral reasons or any other. We'd better make as many friends as we can, wherever we can find them, before we start out on this crusade to put down Mr. Hitler, who is a very vengeful, vindictive man, as well as a very smart man.

Be nice to Japan now, and we may well be able to double our fleet's effective strength by making friends with the Japanese navy. Go on scolding Japan, as well as Hitler and Mussolini, and we may scratch our signature on our own death warrant as a nation.

A WAR ON TWO FRONTS.

Kaiser Wilhelm II. and Emperor Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary were not very smart in 1914, when they got themselves into a war on two fronts. That initial mistake eventually enabled Woodrow Wilson to buy the United States into a war which ended successfully for the allies, tho not, perhaps, for the United States. The war meanwhile had extended to three fronts.

Hitler, tho his political morals are lower than the kaiser's, is more intelligent. He was realist enough to insure his east front by his nonaggression treaty with his pet hate, Stalin, before he baited the allies into war.

Mussolini, whose political morals are as low as Hitler's, seems to be equally shrewd. At least, when Mussolini declared war on the allies day before yesterday he took pains to specify that he wanted no trouble with Switzerland, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, Turkey, or Egypt—indicating that he may have made a deal with some or all of them.

It is the merest common sense that you have a better chance of winning a war on one front than on more than one front.

Well, the present administration may or may not be thinking consciously of buying us into the allies' second major war within a generation. But certainly a lot of straws in the wind indicate that we are headed for participation in that war.

So we've been suggesting of late that it would be common sense for us to insure ourselves against a two-front war if we can, by renewing our trade treaty with Japan and soft-pedaling the moral indignation over Japan's aggressions in China for a while.

We still deplore Japan's war on China, still hope Japan may call it off. Our proposal is based on straight common sense.

But for making this proposal we are now reproved by various liberal thinkers, who accuse us of wanting to throw China to the dogs and ignobly toady to Japan. Which seems to us to throw a light on our liberals which is most illuminating.

The bulk of American liberals are fine, warmhearted idealists who feel called on to right all the wrongs anywhere in the world regardless of the cost to themselves or their country.

To these warm hearts, to have one righteous war for an idealistic reason is good, but to have two at the same time is practically perfect.

We neither admire nor respect this attitude. It was this attitude which led Britain and France to rush to war when Poland was invaded; and at this writing Poland is long lost and there is a chance that Britain and France may presently be lost, too. Nobility of soul is fine when some intelligence goes along with it; it is sometimes disastrous when the noble souls are also dumb.

We are likewise cursed by the communists in their New York paper, the Daily Worker, for suggesting that the United States "betray" China [after selling war supplies to Japan thruout the Japan-China war]. Which also throws a light on the communists in this country.

The communists are not warmhearted, and sometimes they are not dumb. What they want is for the United States to be beaten in a war—in any war or wars—in the hope that such a defeat will bring on chaos in this country, so that the Reds can take over the government. It happened in Russia; and in the last spasms of the world war it happened in Hungary, Finland, Bavaria, and Berlin, tho the Red tide was presently swept back in those places. The comrades are forever hoping it will happen here, and are forever plotting to bring it about.

We got a wry laugh on Black Monday [day before yesterday] at noting that, while the Daily Worker was denouncing us for urging common sense toward Japan, Joe Stalin had used exactly the same kind of common sense by patching up his long standing Manchukuo-Outer Mongolia border trouble with Japan.

Between the softhearted liberals and the radical enemies of our form of government, it's a wonder that this country gets along as well as [knock wood] it does.

HOW TO AVOID GALL BLADDER DISEASE.

EVER since we were children we have heard the old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." To put it another way—" an ounce of preparation is worth a pound of combat." But how does this apply to the gall bladder? In recent years considerable study has been devoted to the questions: "Why does this apparatus become infected? Why do stones form?"

If we would keep the organ capable of performing its routine duties — namely, the concentration and storage of bile—we must make certain that it is in good health. Germs anywhere within the system may wander to this area as a place where they can reside in comfort and remain undisturbed. For example, badly diseased tonsils and abscesses about the teeth or within the sinuses are dangerous from the standpoint of general well being. But they are equally so when we think of the longing of the gall pouch to entertain bacterial guests.

This means that there are several things to consider: First, all foci should be removed. Second, vaccines made from the organisms — when injected —may help to destroy those that have found their way to other localities. Next —and probably most important—is the fact that we must make sure that the outflow of bile is free. Stones are likely to form wherever this secretion collects and stagnates. This explains why we attempt to relieve peptic ulcers or other inflammatory reactions around the exit of the stomach, as they may interfere with the outlet duct.

How much constipation has to do with the activity of this structure is not entirely clear, but it should be obvious that the regular passage of materials along the digestive tract must be possible if we expect the machinery of the liver to operate normally. In the presence of an overfilled colon, what is tantamount to stoppage may take place along the upper portion of the alimentary canal with back pressure into the gall tract. Therefore, a reasonably free bowel movement—at least once daily —should be expected in order to take care of the normal food intake. Perhaps this will mean more attention to diet, more fruits, more fresh vegetables, or enough roughage to insure evacuation of the intestinal canal.

Now, many gallstones contain a substantial amount of cholesterol and if too much of this substance exists in the blood it may be precipitated within the bile sac. At any rate, enough may be present to cause irritation. We recommend routinely that the balanced diet shall contain eggs, cream, and butter; but these products give us our largest supply of cholesterol.

Should a tendency to obesity be exhibited, the consumption of these edibles may be decreased at least one-half. A standard ration of one egg per day is adequate for those past 50 years of age. A gradual reduction in weight is advisable because too rapid a loss will cause the blood to absorb great quantities of this chemical from the body's own fat. Thus the stored cholesterol will come out into the circulation. With a slimming plan of approximately a pound per week, difficulty will be encountered but rarely.

Now comes what is apparently a contradiction—and yet it is not an about face. If we wish to stimulate the gall bladder to empty, especially in the presence of some inflammation and if the cholesterol is not high, we can accelerate the flow by feeding olive oil, cream, etc. In other words, a generous fat diet will aid the gall bladder to discharge. The reason why many patients find they cannot take fat without pain and discomfort is because inflammation is made worse whenever contractions of the sac are increased.

"Fair, fat, and forty" has been described as the ideal setting for gall bladder trouble. But no one need be afflicted if certain precautions about infections are observed—particularly if the function of the organ can be preserved.

HEAD NOISES.

W. P. writes: I take daily sunbaths but afterwards my right ear starts ringing. What causes this?

REPLY.

Prolonged exposure may lead to congestion. Other causes of head noises include stoppage of the Eustachian tubes, water in the tissues, or pressure on the eardrum. These have no relation to sunlight, however.

CALCIUM.

C. O. writes:

1. If a child cannot take milk because of eczema, will calcium tablets give the same benefit?

2. Will there be an allergic reaction to these tablets?

3. What is the ingredient in milk that proves irritating?

REPLY.

1. We employ milk not only for its calcium value but for its nourishing properties. If the youngster is sensitive to cow's milk other edibles may be substituted, but unless they contain generous quantities of essential minerals, these substances must be supplied artificially [tablets].

2. No.

3. Probably a protein.

SURGERY FOR INSANITY.

A. F. writes: Since surgery is so helpful in many diseases, why is it not used for mental ailments?

REPLY.

It is—for brain tumors, abscesses, and for the removal of some types of blood clots. Unfortunately, mental illness is not confined to a small area in the brain which can be taken out and—at the same time—preserve normal health and brain power. Scores of able scientists are hunting for the explanation of so-called insanity. We are not sufficiently intelligent as yet to identify the site or the character of the starter.

TODAY IN HISTORY

June 16, 1779

Spain joined France in war on England, already involved in war with her American colonies. Charles III. of Spain had long disliked England and feared her hold on the North American continent. He also wanted to recover Gibraltar and Minorca. Spain's principal activity was an attempt to capture Gibraltar, one of the most famous sieges in history, lasting for four years. The English garrison at Gibraltar suffered many hardships and privations, but withstood the siege until peace was agreed upon. By the treaty Spain recovered Florida, which had been in English hands for 20 years, and Minorca.

MAY BE A COSTLY PROJECT.

Chicago, June 13.—The President tells us that every resource of the United States will be utilized to provide all kinds of material aid for France and England. If that declaration is carried out, as to some extent it has been already, it is by far the most costly project of the New Deal.

During the administration of President Grant the United States established the principle of international law that if a neutral power allows its subjects to build sea raiders and to sell them to a belligerent she must pay for all damages done by that raider. The cruiser Alabama was built in England and sold to the confederate government. That one ship cost England £15,000,000.

It may be difficult to ascertain exactly how much damage an air fortress or war plane built in America and sold to the allies may do to German nationals.

The President, instead of keeping these planes at home for our own defense, allows them to be sold to the allies, well knowing that they will be used to damage German and Italian property and lives. The Geneva arbitration fully sustained the American position. R. C.

IDLENESS A HABIT.

Chicago, June 11.—I live in a region of the south side where about half the people are on relief or WPA. I have personal knowledge of able bodied persons for years on relief, who do not intend to work for a living again if they can possibly avoid doing so. They prefer to take it easy and live off the taxpayers.

The relief and WPA agencies here do practically nothing to make professional reliefers get out and get work, and they naturally oppose the use of their charges for military or any other really useful work. They want to keep them on the rolls to make an excuse for their holding their own soft, fat-salaried jobs.

TAXPAYER.

WHAT'S THE RIVER GOOD FOR?

Chicago, June 10.—Several months have elapsed since the State street bridge was razed and work on the new bridge begun. At present there is a caisson sunk on either side of the river, with not much apparent evidence of progress toward building the new bridge.

Removal of the old bridge has created a new traffic snarl in the vicinity of Wabash avenue and the river. State street car and motor traffic is now sent over the Wabash avenue bridge. During rush hours the congestion at Lake and Wabash, Wabash and Wacker, and Wabash and Grand avenues becomes a veritable tangle of men and machines.

The condition has worked a hardship on the whole section. With too few arteries for traffic under normal conditions it would seem that the immediate replacement of the State street bridge should be imperative. Every day of delay means a terrific economic loss to the community.

What good is the Chicago river to Chicago, anyway? The river is used as a highway by a few firms at the expense of the taxpayers who get nothing from it except the annoyance of retarded traffic. Chicago probably employs a larger force to administer and operate the bridge system than any other city in the world. The bridge department is one of the largest pay roll units in the city hall. What for? To provide jobs for pay rollers. C. G.

PROPOSES THE LIE DETECTOR.

River Forest, Ill., June 12.—I read of the possibility that fifth columnists are in positions in plane factories and other places. Why wouldn't it be wise to subject all workers in war armaments, starting with the blue print department, to the lie detector? A man with nothing to hide will not object—in fact, he'd be more than willing to coöperate, in order to weed out the enemies.

The results of the lie detector seem to work perfectly on the liar and should be used before we have fatalities due to tampering. Any one found guilty should be interned or shipped out of the country; not just turned loose.

L. W. BUCKLEY.

WOULD DELETE GERMAN WORDS.

Keokuk, Ia., June 9.—Why continue to feed the intolerable egotism of Hitler and his horde of barbarians by constant repetition of the German words "blitzkrieg," "panzer," and "stukas," when you possess such good equivalents in the English language? Why do you not start a movement among all the English speaking newspapers to delete the German words from all reports and articles? I realize that it will neither win nor lose the war, but it would be immediately noticed by the German copyreaders, who scan everything published in the United States to get a line on the American reactions. BEVERLY B. FOBBS.

WANTS A QUICK RESIGNATION.

St. Paul, Minn., June 10.—Hitler's luckiest break is that seven years of Roosevelt boondoggling has made us helpless. An enraged citizenship should demand the immediate resignation of that complete failure, Roosevelt, together with his useless gang.

Veteran of the Last War.

LACKS FAITH IN THE TRIBUNE.

Chicago, June 11.—THE TRIBUNE has been unable to explain how this nation could hold the position of a first or even second rate nation in a world dominated by declared unfriendly powers. In the light of your present attitude toward the war this fact leads many of us to believe you do not have the best interests of the country at heart. R. H. Y.

PLAYLOTS IN LAKE VIEW.

Chicago, June 11.—I have read Yehudi's recent inquiry as to the location of the 12 playlots he feels the 46th ward should have. Actually, the recreation commission does not undertake to construct playlots on a pro rata basis by wards, but assists local community groups to provide additional facilities they feel they need.

The 46th ward, corresponding roughly with the Lake View community, is in area one of the smallest in the city. It is also rather closely built up with homes, apartments, and commercial establishments; and there are therefore not many pieces of vacant property adaptable for recreational uses. Four lots which have been cleared and equipped by Lake View organizations are at 3505 N. Clark street, 3600 N. Clark street, 1239 Melrose street, and the northwest corner of Sheridan road and Fremont.

Playlots are considered not as universally essential facilities, but rather as supplementary to the already established recreation centers. Compared with some other sections of the city, Lake View is rich in public recreation facilities and so has less need of such supplementation. Greenview-Waveland park, the Hawthorne school playground, and the Le Moyne school playground are three excellent centers, and lying along the eastern boundary of the ward is Lincoln park with a modern fieldhouse at Waveland avenue offering an extensive program of activities.

If Yehudi knows of additional vacant property which should be developed for recreational purposes, I suggest he contact Harold Giroux, 841 Barry avenue, president Lake View Community council.

PETER J. PEEL,
Chicago Recreation Commission.

FROM A GUARDSMAN.

Chicago, June 12.—The President is doing his utmost to persuade congress to allow him to mobilize the National Guard. This means that we Guardsmen are to be forced into the army at the pay of $1 a day [$1.15 in my case]—we who have had the initiative to get ourselves a little military training.

Why does not Mr. Roosevelt give the taxpayer a break and put his "alphabet army" into the regular army? By "alphabet army" I mean those who are in unnecessary, created government positions. We, who have legitimate, honest-to-goodness jobs, would probably find ourselves unemployed when we returned; perhaps the "alphabeters" will take our jobs over.

National Guardsmen, who are in reality civilian soldiers, should be reserved for local emergencies as intended. The President should be denied the power to tinker with these units unless a national draft becomes necessary. F. W.

TAXES ON ESTATE PROPERTY.

Chicago, May 24 [Legal Friend of the People].—I ask your advice concerning the following: In August, 1939, my wife's aunt died, and when the will was read in September following it was found that she had left her house to my wife. The will went to probate in November, 1939, but the trustees of the estate allowed us to live in the house. We did some interior decorating and moved in on Jan. 10, 1940.

The 1939 tax bill has now been received, and the trustees have referred it to us for payment on the grounds that "the tax books were not delivered to the county collector until after the date of the death, and it is not our policy to consider the taxes a liability of the estate."

In my estimation the tax covers, to at least an extent of 50 per cent, a debt of the estate, as they cover the year of 1939. What is the extent of the liability of the estate under these conditions—under the law?

R. A. B.

It was held in 78 Ill. 147 that a devisee of mortgaged land takes it exonerated from the mortgage. In our opinion the same principle applies to the tax lien involved in your case. Date of delivery of the tax books is immaterial.

We would expect the court to insist that the executor pay the taxes before his final account would be approved, but it would be wise for you to check up at that time.

NORTHERN TRUST HELD LIABLE FOR ESTATE LOSSES

Order Return of $101,000 in Illegal Payments.

The Illinois Supreme court returned an opinion yesterday holding the Northern Trust company liable for a sum of about $101,000 without interest which the court ordered repaid into the estate of Louis F. Nonnast, wealthy furniture dealer. Mr. Nonnast, who died in 1930 at the age of 82, left his estate to two grandchildren, Valerie and Louis F. Nonnast of Tucson, Ariz.

Attorney Robert V. Jones, representing the heirs, estimated that with interest the total which the trust company must pay into the estate will be about $170,000. Northern Trust was conservator of the estate and later executor.

Lower Court Upheld.

The high court decision upholds an Appellate court finding that the trust company had illegally paid out certain sums from the estate. These included $26,500 loaned to Louis F. Nonnast Sons, Inc., furniture manufacturers.

A month or so before Mr. Nonnast died he was declared "a distracted person" by the Probate court. The Supreme court's decision held that the trust company should not have decided from subsequent conversations with Nonnast that he wished money from his estate used for debts of the furniture company.

Other sums which the decision said the trust company must pay into the estate include $31,949 which, the court says, should have been collected when the furniture company debts were paid off.

The trust company also was directed to repay to the estate, among various other items, the sum of $1,350 which it had permitted to be paid for a tombstone for Nonnast.

Estate Debts Ignored.

The court found that when the furniture company was liquidated other debts were paid in preference to those owed the estate, altho the estate was the major creditor.

The opinion also disallows legal fees of $11,000 and $10,000 claimed for services as conservator and executor. The court said:

"There is no proof as to the value of any of these services. An administrator, executor or conservator is entitled to fees as compensation for services rendered but not for neglect of duty."

6 MEN SOUGHT FOR WRECKING 2 WEST SIDE HALLS

Fillmore police yesterday were seeking six men who wrecked two west side halls and smashed a window in a restaurant. The six, riding in two automobiles, broke into the 24th ward communist headquarters at 3228 Roosevelt road and the hall of the All Nations League of America, 1238 South Kedzie avenue, where they broke windows and smashed desks and chairs. Then they threw bricks thru the windows of a restaurant at 3847 Roosevelt road. Capt. Louis Klatzco of the Fillmore station described the men as "over-zealous patriots."

City Loses Plea for Appeal on Back Pay for Aldermen

The Illinois Supreme court informed Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes yesterday that it had refused to rule on the city's appeal from a Circuit court order that $54,877 in pay cuts be repaid to 15 former aldermen and the estates of seven former aldermen. The high court said the constitutional question involved was decided in a previous Supreme court decision upholding Municipal court judges, who had sought restoration of pay cuts for 1932 thru 1936, the period involved.

Mrs. Gladys Mandel, 31 years old, 444 Oakdale avenue, Glencoe, leaped or fell to her death from a window of the Uptown National Bank building at 4753 Broadway early yesterday. Mrs. Mandel had been reported missing Friday by her husband, Sidney, an attorney. Mrs. Bernice Greenberg, 6645 Greenview avenue, a sister of Mrs. Mandel, testified at the inquest later that Mrs. Mandel had been ill since the birth of a child eight months ago.

New Movie Star

Twenty-one prospective movie stars, one of whom is expected to leap to fame in Metro Goldwyn Mayer's production "The Yearling," stopped here on their way to the coast yesterday morning. The future stars were 21 young deer from Ocala, Fla., and Harrisburg, Penn. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Alvin Marchant of Metro Goldwyn Mayer's studios in Culver City, Cal. All will appear in "The Yearling." One will be trained to play the rôle of the young hero's pal. A nation-wide search is being conducted by the studios for a young boy to play the part of Jody, the young hero. Spencer Tracy will star in the mature rôle.

CITY LEGAL CHIEF TO ISSUE RECORD BOOK OF RULINGS

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes yesterday asked Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, to contract for the printing of the 1939 city legal opinions in book form. The volume will be the third of such opinions published by Hodes.

Hodes said the book "will be the most complete volume of opinions of the office of the corporation counsel ever published in Chicago or elsewhere." It will have about 1,000 pages. A new feature will be an index of all 20 volumes of opinions of the corporation counsel's office, going back to the first available volume, which was published in 1872.

"Until now there has been no accumulative index of these opinions," Hodes said. "Many of the old opinions still apply to our municipal problems, and the index will be a valuable asset in the work of our office."

SEEK TO UPSET BANDIT SENTENCE OF EX-TROOPER

An appeal was filed with the Illinois Supreme court in Springfield yesterday asking a reversal of the conviction of John Howe, former state highway policeman, on a 10 year old armed robbery charge. Howe's attorneys argued that Howe had been found insane in 1930 in his first trial and could not now be found guilty of the robbery. A Criminal court jury found him sane last January and he was sentenced to one year to life in prison. Howe was seized last December as the alleged go-between in a jury-fixing case and his criminal record was exposed. Howe is now at liberty on bond pending disposition of his appeal.

Boys and girls home from school . . . the turkey hen and her poults . . . June on the farm—these are subjects touched on today by Bob Becker, outdoors editor, in his story about activities on the Tribune's Du Page county farm. You will find it in the want ad section today.

MICHIGAN GIVES LEAD TO DEWEY OVERVANDENBERG

Favorite Son Lags Behind New York Candidate.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The first results in The Tribune's preconvention straw poll in Michigan on the presidency appear today. In this state the polling of Republican and Democratic voters on the question, "Who is your choice for nomination for President?" is of special interest. Michigan's 38 delegates to the Republican national convention in Philadelphia June 24 have been instructed to work for Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as a favorite son candidate.

In today's straws Thomas E. Dewey, New York's candidate for the nomination, leads Senator Vandenberg in his home state. Dewey has 43.5 per cent of the Republican ballots. Vandenberg, who is one of the three leading contenders for the nomination, has nearly 38 per cent. His name was on top of the straw ballot.

Today's straws, 6,102, were gathered in 13 cities in southern counties. Republicans marked 3,121 ballots and Democrats 2,981.

No Contest for Dewey.

Dewey is a Michigan product. He is a native of Owosso and a graduate of the University of Michigan. Dewey made no contest for the delegates, holding to his avowed rule at the start of his campaign not to contest favorite son candidates in their home states.

The score of the Republican straws:

Dewey	1,356	43.45%
Vandenberg	1,178	37.74%
Willkie	409	13.10%
Taft	140	4.49%
Bricker	15	.48%
Bridges	2	.06%
Martin	8	.26%
MacNider	3	.10%
Scattering	10	.32%

In today's table Dewey leads Vandenberg in two canvasses in Lansing, the state capital, which has a Republican administration. He is ahead in Battle Creek, the world's breakfast food capital, and a length ahead in Kalamazoo, the "celery city," which has the largest book paper factory in the world. He is in front by a closer margin in Pontiac, one of the automobile centers. The other candidates straggle far behind.

On the Democratic Front.

On the Democratic side President Roosevelt has about 90.5 per cent of the Democratic straws. Secretary Cordell Hull, running second, has 3.7 per cent.

The tally of Democratic straws:

Roosevelt	2,697	90.47%
Hull	110	3.69%
Garner	81	2.72%
McNutt	29	.97%
Farley	23	.77%
Smith	18	.60%
Wheeler	17	.57%
Clark	2	.08%
Scattering	4	.13%

Michigan, an old Republican stronghold which swung back to the G. O. P. two years ago when it elected a Republican state ticket and 12 out of 17 Republican congressmen, is to cast its 38 votes for Vandenberg on the first ballot, at least, at Philadelphia.

The Republican delegation was picked at a state convention in Grand Rapids May 16. Congressman Roy O. Woodruff of Bay City is to nominate Vandenberg. Dewey's friends look for a switch on the second ballot unless Vandenberg shows great strength on the first ballot. Several of the Michigan delegates have privately expressed themselves in favor of Dewey in the event Vandenberg should withdraw.

4,000 OFFICERS ON RESERVE LIST TO BE CALLED JULY 1

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—The war department is preparing to order from four to five thousand additional reserve officers to active duty on short notice, as a part of the army's rapid expansion.

A large proportion of those to be summoned to command troops will be given orders next week to report July 1 or shortly thereafter, officials said. All are volunteers and will serve for periods of six months or a year each, wtih possible extensions. Most are expected to be youthful first and second lieutenants, recent graduates of college reserve officer training corps.

The $1,823,000,000 war department appropriation bill which President Roosevelt signed yesterday carries funds for active duty for 4,358 temporary officers, aside from new pilots to be trained by the air corps.

The additional officers are needed chiefly to train recruits as the army is enlarged to its full authorized peace strength of 280,000. A further enlargement by 95,000 men, provided for in the latest supplementary estimates, will require even larger numbers of temporary officers.

START MOSQUITO BREEDING SURVEY IN 3 AREAS SOON

A three month survey of mosquito breeding areas in Cook, Du Page and Lake counties will begin soon, Dr. Spencer S. Fuller of the Des Plaines valley mosquito abatement district, president and treasurer of the tri-county committee, said yesterday.

Dr. Fuller said he had received a promise from N. W. Lies, chairman of the Du Page county board, of $500 for the work, and that he already had $600 for the Lake county work and a promise of $2,000 from Cook county. The various counties also will contribute material and the work of county engineers. A Works Projects administration grant of $28,319 has been authorized, and WPA crews will conduct the survey.

Two Girl Flyers Head for Alaska on Vacation Flight

Williamsport, Pa., June 15 (AP).—Two girl flyers, employed at a Lock Haven airplane factory, took off today on a projected 8,000-mile vacation trip by air to Alaska. Alma Heflin, owner of the plane, and Marjorie McQuinn aimed for Anchorage, Alaska, via Toledo, Milwaukee, and Spokane.

SENATE PASSES RELIEF BILL OF 1,224 MILLIONS

Adds Over 113 Millions to House Measure.

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—A relief bill, loaded with provisions for national defense and a varied assortment of other matters, slid thru the senate today on a voice vote after five days' debate.

The measure was returned to the house for consideration of numerous senate changes and additions that boosted its total to $1,224,791,357 in appropriations. The house had approved a billion 111 million dollar measure.

President Roosevelt's request for a $50,000,000 war refugee fund to be spent in this country for agricultural or medical supplies and distributed to European refugees by the Red Cross or any other agency designated by the President was approved. An administration plan for noncombatant training of 300,000 CCC youths also was sanctioned.

Adds Another 100 Million.

By a 58 to 16 vote the senate also inserted a 100 million dollar fund for removal of surplus agricultural products that neither the President nor the senate appropriation committee had recommended.

Unchanged was the house total of $975,650,000 for the Works Projects administration, biggest item in the bill, altho the senate imposed various new conditions for spending this money.

Altho the relief funds are for the fiscal year opening July 1, the senate agreed with the house in granting the President authority to spend the entire WPA fund in eight months if needed. This would provide an average WPA employment of 2,032,000 persons for an eight month period.

Earmark Sum of 25 Million.

The senate earmarked $25,000,000 of these funds to help pay costs of national defense projects approved by the war or navy department. It also eliminated requirements for state and local contributions when WPA projects fall in this class.

By a 42 to 29 vote the senate refused to eliminate a provision to require that persons employed for 18 months on WPA take a holiday of at least 30 days if others are eligible for their jobs.

Both the senate and house exempted war veterans and their widows from this provision, but the senate rejected similar exemptions for heads of families 45 years or older.

Vote Farm Surplus Fund.

The 100 million dollar agricultural surplus fund could be used to distribute food among low income groups, to finance the stamp plan for retail distribution of surpluses, to help pay for lunches for school children, and for export subsidies. A similar fund of 185 million dollars previously was voted by congress in the annual farm appropriation bill.

In addition to the new surplus removal fund, the senate made numerous changes in the 115 million dollars voted by the house for rural relief loans and grants. This appropriation was cut to $75,000,000 and then an additional 125 million dollars provided thru the Reconstruction Finance corporation for loans to needy farmers.

FORD V-8 INSTRUCTION BOOK
You Don't Have to "Break-In" the Ford V-8

You can forget the tedious 500 or 1,000 mile breaking-in period with your new Ford. It is ready for normal driving immediately. You can drive it up to 60 miles an hour right from the start. After the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

This means that you can enjoy your Ford V-8 from the start—which is important particularly if you are thinking of taking a long trip—or if you use your car for business. You do not have to drag along at slow speeds.

The Ford V-8 needs no "breaking-in" because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances were correct when the car was delivered to you. The car does not need to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running.

Such precision methods are bound to result in longer life, greater economy and better performance. They are further proof of the care and quality that have gone into the making of your Ford V-8.

When FORD says they're ready—they are!

You don't have to baby your new Ford V-8 for 500 miles or so. The great engine in this car reports to you ready and rarin' to GO!

G. O. P. DELEGATES CALLED PATRIOTS FOR WAR STAND

Favor Brooks as Member of Platform Group.

Congratulations yesterday awaited delegates returning from the Illinois Republican convention at Springfield for their stand to keep the United States out of foreign wars. A movement was underway to name Wayland Brooks, world war hero and nominee for United States senator, to express this stand against war as Illinois' spokesman on the resolutions committee at the G. O. P. national convention.

Proved as Patriots.

"They have proved themselves patriots by declaring that American youth shall not be sent to foreign battlefields," Miss Vittum said. "Ours is a non-partisan organization and we would welcome similar pronouncements by other political parties."

"The Republican party stands for Americanism and peace. The Democratic party stands for internationalism and war.

"We demand an adequate national defense to protect the United States against invasion, but we insist that not one drop of blood of American youth shall be spilled on a foreign shore for the purpose of interfering in any European or Asiatic conflict."

Opposition Is Unlikely.

Little opposition is reported to face Wayland Brooks as the Illinois' member on the national resolutions or platform committee, which is expected to begin its deliberations several days before the national convention opens in Philadelphia on June 24.

Brooks has been in constant touch with the state platform committee. If United States senator he would be in the best position to help carry out the aims of the Republican platform.

However, Illinois will have no representative at the informal preconvention meetings of the resolutions committee, nor will other states which have not named their men. Brooks is not expected to be named until the Illinois delegation caucuses Sunday night.

STRONG RUSSIAN FORCE EXPECTED ON NAZI BORDER

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 15 (AP).—The march of the Red army into Lithuania today may be the forerunner of a Russian move to establish a half million troops near the German border, a foreign informant said today.

This informant, for several years resident in Latvia, said the Russians intended to garrison the strength of the Red army in Lithuania, Estonia, and Latvia, three Baltic neighbors from whom Moscow wrung military concessions last fall.

With the move of the Red army into Lithuania and the concentration of troops in the Russian-occupied part of Poland "the greater part of Russian troops are now directed toward the German border," the correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen reported tonight from Kaunas.

In a story on the swift developments following the soviet ultimatum to Lithuania the correspondent declared that observers in Kaunas believed that soviet Russia was considering "engaging in the war, having the last word, giving the decision in the war." More conservative views here were that Russia merely was expanding her sphere of influence in the Baltic where she already has bases, that she has moved now while the other powers are too busy elsewhere to raise an objection.

Court to Hear Johnson, Skidmore Plea Tomorrow

Judge John P. Barnes in federal district court yesterday set a hearing for tomorrow on a motion for a bill of particulars asked by William R. Johnson and William R. Skidmore, reputed heads of Chicago's gambling syndicate. They are under indictment for conspiracy to violate the income tax law. The government filed a brief yesterday urging denial of the motion.

CLAIMS VICTORY FOR VANDENBERG AT PHILADELPHIA

Sees Wide Support on First Ballot.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—The office of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan predicted in a statement today that he will receive votes on the first roll call at the Republican national convention from more states than any other presidential candidate.

First Delegate Claim.

The statement also expressed confidence that "this 'nest egg' support will furnish a completely dependable backlog which will grow to a majority before the voting is concluded."

This was the first delegate claim or prediction of nomination to emanate directly from the senator's office. It was made in an announcement that the Vandenberg headquarters will be opened in Philadelphia on Tuesday.

In addition to Michigan's 38 votes, Senator Vandenberg will receive first ballot support from members of 27 state delegations and the total will be well over 100, according to the senator's supporters. The Vandenberg managers are confident that Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio will defeat each other and that the convention will turn to Vandenberg.

Other Managers Disagree.

Managers of the campaign of District Attorney Dewey, who defeated Senator Vandenberg in the Wisconsin and Nebraska preferential primaries, claim that he will have around 400 votes on the first roll call and that his strength soon will grow to the 501 required for nomination. Senator Taft's managers dispute this claim, asserting that their candidate will have between 300 and 350 votes on the first roll call and that this will exceed Dewey's first ballot support.

Wendell L. Willkie, the other major contender for the presidential nomination, asserts that he could have as many as 70 votes on the first ballot if he cared to go after favorite son delegates.

DEWEY'S FORCES OPEN CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS

Taft and Gannett Workers Also in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 15 (AP).—Representatives of Thomas E. Dewey opened Philadelphia headquarters in his presidential campaign today as members of the Republican national committee began arriving to prepare for the nominating convention a week from Monday.

Dewey-for-President workers took 78 rooms in two hotels and unfurled a big blue and white banner from a Broad street hotel. Headquarters for two other nomination seekers—Senator Robert A. Taft and Publisher Frank E. Gannett—were opened earlier this week. Taft has engaged 102 rooms and Gannett has taken over the Harvard club and 48 hotel rooms.

Platform Drafters on Scene.

National committee members came in advance of the convention to draft a party platform, decide state delegation contests, and complete arrangements for the convention itself.

John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman, is expected tomorrow with his Washington staff. He will gavel the convention to order a week from Monday "at a time," he has said, "of unparalleled crisis in both domestic and international affairs, when the leadership of the Republican party is needed as never before."

Antiwar Plank a Problem.

The 50 man Republican resolutions committee meets here at 10 a. m. Monday to hew planks for the party platform. One of the toughest of the group's problems will be the wording of an antiwar plank, members predicted. As a guide in their policy making deliberations the committee will use the report submitted by Dr. Glenn Frank's program committee after two years' study.

Also scheduled for Monday is a third meeting of the arrangements committee, which might act on a proposal to have the presidential nominee make his acceptance speech at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin field as President Roosevelt did when renominated here four years ago.

J. Leonard Replogle and John Jackson, national committeemen from Florida and Louisiana, respectively, arrived today for a meeting of the national committee Wednesday to hear several contests over seats on delegations from their states and from Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, and Alaska.

The Illinois contest involves the 6th district [Cicero], where the two candidates had a tie vote.

A man and a woman were killed last night in an accident involving two cars and a freight train on an Illinois Central branch line at North avenue and Addison road, near Villa Park, Du Page county. The victims, who were in one car, were tentatively identified as Mervin H. Hubbard and Miss E. Hubbard, both of 2825 Palmer street.

In the other car were Karl Gerzan, 28, and Frank Miller, 17, both of 570 Edson avenue, Lombard, and William Byrne, 30, of 248 West road, Lombard. They had stopped their car at the crossing.

Tell Police of Crash.

According to the stories told by the three men to Deputy Sheriff Knorr Krause and Police Chief W. Z. A train caboose was derailed. Gerzan was slightly hurt.

Fred Planansky of Chicago was killed near Cedar Rapids, Ia., Friday night when his auto and another collided. His wife was injured, but an infant son escaped injury. The family's Chicago address was not learned.

An unidentified man, about 55, who was found injured Friday in front of 400 North Halsted street, died yesterday in County hospital. Police believe he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 377 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1 Of these, 295 were killed in Chicago, where 9,978 were injured during the same period.

PROBE STATUS OF EX-CONVICT SPEED TRAPPER

Right to Job as Justice Is Questioned.

Julius W. Turk, chairman of the Porter county [Indiana] board, said yesterday that county officials will investigate the status of Raymond Edgerley, an ex-convict auto bandit who is a justice of the peace in Portage township.

Turk said that Edgerley's criminal record was news to him, and promised an inquiry to determine whether he is legally entitled to hold his office. Edgerley was elected for a four year term in 1938, Turk said.

Rights Usually Suspended.

Ex-convicts are deprived of their political rights [the right to vote and hold elective office] for a period of years determined by the sentencing court, according to Deputy Prosecuting Attorney G. L. Burns of Valparaiso.

Convicts usually are barred from holding office for about five years after their release from prison, Burns said. Edgerley was released from the Michigan City penitentiary in 1933 after serving almost seven years. Burns said that Prosecuting Attorney Walter Crisman, who is now in Pittsburgh, Pa., may investigate the case on his return to Valparaiso tomorrow.

Interest in Edgerley's status was aroused by charges that he is operating a speed trap in Porter county in coöperation with Bernard W. Fleming, justice of the peace in Westchester township. Fleming was ousted from the WPA rolls when WPA officials found that he had an extra source of income from the speed trap.

Turk said an investigation will be made of the speed trap charges.

Double Rôle Disclosed.

WPA investigators found that upon finishing his day's work on a sewer project near Chesterton, Fleming hurried home, donned a blue uniform, and roved the highways in a speedy sedan. Drivers whom he arrested were taken to an office which he and Edgerley maintained in a tourist camp cottage three miles east of Gary on U. S. highway 20.

Their victims usually were fined $1 plus $5 costs, of which only 50 cents went to the county.

Fleming lives eight miles north of Chesterton, near Baileytown. Edgerley lives about 15 miles north of Chesterton.

SHOOTING SCRAPE FIGURE ATTACKED BY AUTO GUNMEN

Frank De John, 37 years old, who was questioned about a triple shooting on the near north side 10 weeks ago, was shot in both legs last night by gunmen, who sped past in an automobile, as he was standing in front of 1804 South State street. De John, who lives at 2138 Wabash avenue, was taken to St. Luke's hospital. He told police he knew of no reason for the attack. FORD'S GRANDSON WEDS ON JULY 13; GETS 116 IN-LAWS

Fiancee Is One of 14 in New York Family.

Southampton, N. Y., June 15 (AP). —Henry Ford II., 22 years old, grandson of the automobile manufacturer, soon will be wealthier by 116 in-laws, if you include uncles, aunts, and first cousins of Anne McDonnell, 20, his bride-to-be. She is a member of a family of 14 children and has nearly 80 first cousins—11 of them in the family that lives next door to her summer home. The wedding will take place July 13 in the Church of the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary at Southampton.

Anne, her brothers, sisters and cousins ride, swim and play tennis like champions, and their interest in sports is a point in common with young Ford, just out of Yale, where he was manager of the Yale crew. Another point in common is that both his grandfather and hers were self-made men.

Her Grandfather an Inventor.

At the time that Henry Ford, the elder, was building his first horseless carriage in a barn back of his home, her maternal grandfather, the late Thomas E. Murray, also showed inventive genius.

In the years during which Ford developed his $28,000 original investment to an industrial empire whose assets have been estimated as high as two billion dollars, Murray, as an industrial engineer and inventor, lengthened his list of patents to approach that of the late Thomas A. Edison. Both men were friends of Edison.

Both the McDonnell and Ford families have a long record of happy marriages. Henry Ford the elder, who will be 77 on July 30, has been married 52 years. The Edsel Fords, young Henry's parents, are in the 24th year of their marriage.

Thru the years there never has been a breath of scandal or a hint of divorce in the McDonnell and Murray households.

Live in Two Floor Apartment.

Strong religious faith is another thing the Fords and the McDonnells have in common. The elder Ford and his family had Protestant upbringing. Anne's family is Catholic. Young Ford has been taking instructions in the Roman Catholic faith.

Anne's father, James Francis McDonnell, is a broker and partner in a New York Stock exchange firm.

The McDonnells live in the winter in a two floor apartment on Fifth avenue. One floor belongs to the younger children, and each floor has its own kitchen, dining room and domestic staff. The Thomas Murrays have a similar arrangement at their winter town house in Brooklyn.

The Thomas Murrays and the McDonnells combined their properties at Southampton into one 55 acre estate which has a polo field and rolling meadows.

TILE ANTI-TRUST WRIT IS SOUGHT BY GOVERNMENT

Suit Paves Way for End of Criminal Case.

Action portending the grand finale of the government's antitrust prosecution of the tile industry was taken yesterday with the filing of a civil suit by Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general, against 21 tile manufacturers and manufacturers' representatives.

The suit charges a general conspiracy to establish trade restraints in violation of the Sherman antitrust law—charges essentially the same as those in a criminal indictment which was returned here Jan. 15—and asks that the defendants be enjoined permanently from continuing in the alleged unlawful practices.

The indictment was the first in the government's drive on alleged antitrust violations in the Chicago building industry. Four other indictments, involving other phases of building, are pending.

Case Set for Tomorrow.

Filing of the injunction suit sets up all necessary machinery for terminating the criminal case when it is called for trial tomorrow before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe. Ten of the defendants in the civil case also are named defendants in the indictment. It was reported yesterday that they plan to enter into consent decrees permitting the injunction to be granted immediately.

They, according to the reports, will enter a plea of nolo contendere [in effect a guilty plea in which the defendants place themselves at the mercy of the court] to the criminal charges.

The 10 defendants also under indictment here are: Mosaic Tile company, Zanesville, O.; National Tile company, Anderson, Ind.; Wheeling Tile company, Wheeling, W. Va.; Robertson Art Tile company, Morrisville, Pa.; Superior Ceramic corporation, Anderson, Ind., and Standard Tile company, Zanesville, O., manufacturers, and James A. Falconer, Robin K. Silvey, Walter Sullivan, and Edward Derbacher, all of Chicago, manufacturers' representatives.

Consent Decrees Signed.

The government won its first victory in the tile case a week ago when the Bricklayers', Masons', and Plaster's Internation Union of America and the Tile Contractors' Association of America signed consent decrees binding them to police phases of the industry.

Thirty-one defendants, including the union and the contractors' association, signed consent decrees, which eliminated them from the criminal case. Twenty-five of them, who were defendants in the criminal case, entered pleas of nolo contendere. Judge Igoe postponed sentence until the other 16 defendants of the 41 indicted originally had been tried.

If 10 more sign consent decrees only 6 defendants in the indictment will be left. They are United States Quarry Tile company, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Sparta Ceramic company, East Sparta, O.; American-Franklin-Olean Tiles, Inc., Lansdale, Pa., and Cambridge Tile Manufacturing company, Cincinnati, O., manufacturers, and Joseph A. D'Eath of Chicago and R. C. Faulwetter of Madison, Wis., representatives.

UNCOVER A FLOOD OF MOTIVES IN 2 RACKET KILLINGS

Too many motives hindered police yesterday in their search for clews to the murderers of Michael J. McGovern and James McGlade on the south side Friday night. McGovern, 41 years old, a brother of Hugh [Stubby] McGovern, slain dry era gangster, and McGlade, 29, were shot to death in their car in front of 58 East 69th street.

The day's police investigation indicated that McGovern and McGlade possibly were involved in union muscling activities, handbook operations, and kindred pursuits. Their shady interests were so diverse that police said it would be difficult to point to any one as providing the murder background.

Because McGovern and McGlade were known to have been former followers of Danny Stanton, a member of the Nitti mob of ex-Capone hoodlums, police looked into the possibility that they were slain over the current fight in the Bartenders' union. The Nitti-Stanton crowd allegedly has seized control of that union.

Mexican Socialist Group Blamed for Student Riots

MEXICO CITY, June 15 (AP).—Police blamed members of a Socialist youth organization today for a series of street clashes in which 56 persons, most of them law students, were injured yesterday by bullets and flying rocks. The disorders started, authorities said, when members of the United Socialist Youth, which is affiliated with the administration party, began hurling stones at students of the National university.

Lily Fleming Becomes Bride

Mr. and Mrs. William Edwin Holt Maulsby at reception in garden of bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Fleming, in Lake Forest yesterday.

Wears Mother's Gown

BY JUDITH CASS.

Of the many June weddings yesterday none was a prettier ceremony than the one in Lake Forest's Church of the Holy Spirit when Miss Lily Fleming became the bride of William Edwin Holt Maulsby of Baltimore, Md. The wedding took place at 4 o'clock and was followed by a reception in the gardens of the Lake Forest home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Fleming.

Miss Fleming wore her mother's handsome wedding gown and a long tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Jean Fleming, the maid of honor, wore yellow tulle over taffeta and a sun bonnet and carried a parasol to match. The bridesmaids wore identical gowns, but in ice green, trimmed with daisies. The bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Maud Holt Maulsby of Baltimore each wore dusty pink.

Mr. Maulsby and his bride will make their home in Baltimore.

GUNMAN INSULTS GIRL AND SHOOTS UP TIRES OF CAR

Englewood police were searching yesterday for a gunman who fired six shots into the rear tires of an automobile after quarreling with its occupants.

Miss Irene Hanavan, 20 years old, 1403 East 66th place, and two companions, Harry Mentch, 5547 Drexel avenue, and Frank Wehle, 5556 Drexel avenue, were at Garfield and Loomis boulevards in a car driven by Mentch when a second car, containing three men, drew alongside.

The occupants of the second car, who apparently were intoxicated, made slighting remarks to Miss Hanavan and when her escorts objected one of them drew a gun and riddled the tires. The gunmen then drove away.

Worry, Colds, working too hard, late hours or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and put a heavy load on your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Nature's Way

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters and the heart pumps blood through them about 200 times an hour, night and day. No man has ever made a machine that would stand up under the work that the Kidneys are asked to do, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down as you grow older.

Fourteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three natural ways: 1, Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2, To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3, Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, aliveness and enthusiasm which may easily make you feel years younger.

Money Back Guarantee

Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess Acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. A printed guarantee with each package of Cystex insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. MAKE THIS OUR SAFEST JULY 4, MAYOR PLEADS

Mayor Kelly, in his Fourth of July proclamation yesterday, appealed to citizens to make this year's celebration the safest in the city's history. In another move in the same direction, Police Commissioner Allman ordered district commanders to enforce rigorously the laws prohibiting the sale and use of fireworks.

"As the years go on the number of Fourth of July accidents in Chicago is steadily declining," Mayor Kelly said. "I hope the people of Chicago will add this year to the fine safety record that has been set."

Commissioner Allman warned storekeepers in the city of prosecution if they sell or exhibit fireworks or allied noise and injury producers. Policemen were told that children found setting off fireworks are to be taken to their parents. The parents are to be informed of the law. If violations persist, the parents will be prosecuted.

Meanwhile, hundreds of roadside fireworks stands were mushrooming on the highways of Cook county. State law permits the sale of fireworks between June 27 and July 4.

STATE MEDICAL GROUP TO HONOR DR. 'ANDY HALL

Mount Vernon, Ill., June 15 (AP).—Dr. Andy Hall, former state director of public health, will be honored by the Illinois State Medical society here tomorrow for completing a half century of service in medicine.

At a noon luncheon to be attended by townspeople and physicians from all over the state, Dr. James Scott Templeton of Pinckneyville, president of the state society, will present Dr. Hall with the association's certificate of award and a 50 year gold button.

Politics and war were entwined in the long career of Dr. Hall, who is 75 years old. He had been practicing medicine here only eight years before being elected mayor in 1898, but resigned to join the 9th Illinois volunteers in the Spanish-American war.

In the world war, he served on the surgical staff of the base hospital at camp Upton, N. Y. Later he returned to politics, and in 1929, Gov. L. L. Emmerson named him state director of public health. His three sons also are physicians.

WOMAN, 71, REPORTS ATTACK.

A woman, 71 years old, reported to Des Plaines police yesterday that she had been attacked earlier in the day by a colored man who climbed into her bedroom.

Patients come from all parts of the country to . . .
UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE
The Nation's First, Fixed Fee, Low Cost Medical Service

WHEN a United Medical Service was opened to the public in January, 1933, to lower the cost of medical care, it attracted nation-wide attention. The increasing high costs of adequate medical services had become a serious problem . . . which, despite years of investigation and study by prominent health authorities, was far from a practical solution. But there was a low cost medical care plan in operation in Chicago at the time these investigations were being made that had proved unusually successful in a highly specialized field of medicine. The physician who originated and directed this plan was convinced that it would prove even more successful in all fields of medicine . . . that it would help to solve the problem of the high cost of medical care. A number of other prominent physicians and lay individuals thought so, too, and a United Medical Service was organized and put into operation. The past seven and one-quarter years have proven that the plan was fundamentally sound . . . that adequate medical care can be provided at low fixed cost. It has also shown the need for a wider extension of the service. While the largest number of patients come from Chicago and vicinity, many come from all parts of the country. Some are sent by their own private physicians for special diagnostic services . . . while others are referred by former patients and friends. Almost 150,000 men, women and children have been examined and treated since the service was inaugurated . . . of which more than 65 per cent came through the recommendations of others. Over 5,000 physicians in private practice have referred their patients . . . 25,000 of them, for special X-ray and medical laboratory services. A United Medical Service is one of the most modern and completely equipped medical institutions in the country . . . and its facilities and low fees are available to the public direct, or through physicians in private practice. Every effort has been made to make the services available to all those who need medical care for existing ailments as well as those who wish to protect their health against the dangers of encroaching disease.

FUTURE HOPEFUL IN SPITE OF WAR, N. U. GRADS TOLD

Education One American Defense, Says Snyder.

Homer L. Wessling, N. U. alumni president.

America has reason to look hopefully toward the future despite the European war's threat to civilization, Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder, president of Northwestern university, said yesterday at the university's 82d annual commencement.

To the 1,925 graduates — the largest class in the history of the institution — Dr. Snyder voiced a somber reminder that the best in European civilization seems doomed and that the national welfare of the United States inevitably is endangered by the war.

"Nevertheless," he said, "there remain at least four considerations that warrant us in looking hopefully toward the future."

Gain in Education Cited.

These factors, he said, are the growing concern for an adequate national defense, America's increasing belief in education as a defense against ignorance, the promise of future usefulness in the nation's college graduates, and history's lesson that "force will not forever dominate human life."

"The descendants of those men and women who with plow, broad-axe, and rifle carved this civilization out of the wilderness have made it clear during the last two months that they will not permit that civilization to be endangered needlessly," said Dr. Snyder.

"If force, for the time being, is to rule the world, we shall make ready to do our part. We shall not use our strength to oppress other nations, but we shall not remain in a situation in which other nations can oppress us."

Seven Receive Honorary Degrees.

The university awarded 12 degrees in absentia to citizens of the British Empire, Holland, Sweden, and Switzerland who have been recalled by their governments. Honorary degrees were awarded to seven persons. These are: doctor of humane letters, Ethel Sturges Dummer, founder of the Juvenile Psychopathic institute; doctor of laws, Attorney George Haight and Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president emeritus of the university; doctor of science, Dr. James B. Herrick, professor emeritus of medicine at Rush Medical college, Dr. Samuel C. Plummer, surgeon at St. Luke's hospital since 1891, and Dr. Donald Van Slyke, chief research chemist of the Rockefeller institute; doctor of sacred theology, Clyde E. Wildman, president of DePauw university.

Commencement exercises, held on Deering meadow on the Evanston campus, followed the laying of the cornerstone of the $5,000,000 Technological institute building. Dr. Scott laid the cornerstone and Kenneth F. Burgess, president of the board of trustees, spoke.

Alumni Officers Elected.

WIDOW PETITIONS TO EXHUME BODY OF POLICEMAN

Mrs. Cecilia Mitchell, 1504 West 72d street, in a suit filed yesterday in Circuit court, asked a court order to have the body of her husband, Policeman Thomas E. Mitchell, exhumed. Policeman Mitchell, assigned to the Grand Crossing station, died last Nov. 15 from a cause given as a cerebral hemorrhage. The suit says that Mitchell, who was 34 years old, was injured in a squad car accident in 1935 and asks that an autopsy be performed to determine whether this contributed to his death. Mrs. Mitchell has filed a claim with the policemen's benefit fund for the $125 monthly awarded to widows of policemen who die of injuries incurred while on duty.

CHORAL CONCERT SERIES OPENS IN 3 WOODS TODAY

The third annual summer series of choral concerts, sponsored jointly by the Cook county forest preserve district and THE TRIBUNE, will open this afternoon in three of the district's wooded areas on the outskirts of the city. The series will last for seven Sundays. Different choral and choir groups will be heard each Sunday.

The choral groups to be heard today are the Metropolitan choir, directed by J. Wesley Jones, in Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street; the Grieg Male chorus, directed by Peter Olson, in Thatcher woods, River Forest, and St. Sebastian's choir, directed by the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell, in Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues.

The concerts this year will begin at 5 p. m. instead of at 4 p. m. as was done last year, to avoid the heat of mid-afternoon. Forest preserve officials estimate that more than 100,000 heard the series of open-air concerts last summer.

5 IN ONE FAMILY HELD FOR QUIZ IN HOLDUP KILLING

Newark, N. J., June 15 [Special].—Seven men, a woman, and her 16 year old daughter were detained by police today while authorities investigated 117 northern New Jersey crimes, which statements by some of those under arrest appear to solve. Three of the nine were charged with murder.

Five of the nine were members of one family—John Buhrig, 17 years old; a brother, Herman, 19; another brother, August, 25; Mrs. Bertha Buhrig, 47, their mother, and her daughter, Marie, 16.

Police said murder charges had been made against John and August Buhrig and Earl Post, 19, of Newark, in connection with the death of Frank Fredericks, a Belleville WPA worker, in a tavern holdup there. John Barlak, 17, of North Dover; Raymond Robinson, 17, and Raymond Brown, 20, of Dover, also were under arrest.

WE WANT NO 5TH COLUMN, U. OF MICHIGAN WARNS

Only Democracy's Friends Welcome, Says Ruthven.

Dr. A. G. Ruthven.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 15 [Special].—Fifth columnists will not be tolerated on the University of Michigan campus, Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the university, said tonight in an address at Michigan's 96th commencement.

Degrees were awarded to the record total of 2,262 persons in the graduation exercises. Of these, 106 were from Chicagoland. Included were 30 from Chicago proper.

Addressing himself to "those young people who are planning to enter or return to the university next year," Dr. Ruthven issued "this warning":

"Michigan does not welcome students who are not convinced that democracy is the ideal form of government for a civilized people. She will not be confused by sophistries built around high-sounding phrases such as 'freedom of the press' and 'freedom of speech,' but will deal firmly, without fear or favor with subversive or so-called 'fifth column' activities.

Honest Discussion—Not Propaganda.

"True freedom consists of the observance of the law and unlawful acts cannot be justified by differences in ideologies. Honest discussion is a valuable method of education, but is to be clearly distinguished from propaganda. The University of Michigan is an institution of the people, and its staff must continue to insist that Americans who prefer to live under other forms of government are at heart unfriendly aliens who have no right to the benefits provided by our schools.

"Schools and other social agencies must reject the concept of social and moral neutrality and both teach and exemplify the principles of self-government."

Says Schools Must Lead.

Dr. Ruthven added that educational institutions must take the lead in making democracy work.

"Unless all signs fail, a world-wide conflict between two ideologies—individual freedom and regimentation—is pending," he said.

"If this is true, the safety of democracy in America requires not only an immediate tightening of its defenses, but more importantly, a vigorous offensive, involving an improvement of educational and social practices."

U. OF W. ACCEPTS GRANTS TO KEEP 2 STAFF MEMBERS

Madison, Wis., June 15 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin board of regents today accepted two grants of $20,000 each from the Thomas Evans Brittingham trust fund, which will make it possible for the university to retain two outstanding members of its staff for several years.

The members are John Steuart Curry, artist in residence whose paintings depicting rural life have attracted nationwide attention, and Gunnar Johansen, considered one of America's foremost pianists. Grants from the estate left to the university by the late Thomas E. Brittingham brought both to the campus, Curry in 1936 and Johansen in 1939. Curry is best known for his rural painting entitled "Tornado."

The board of regents approved appointments to the university athletic board for the coming year. The only new faculty member is Henry R. Trumbower, professor of commerce and economics, who replaced Prof. Edwin E. Witte, a member of the board since 1936. Dr. James P. Dean of Madison and Howard I. Potter of Chicago were reappointed as alumni representatives.

REMOVE 10 MEN OF CREW ABOARD SINKING VESSEL

Seattle, Wash., June 15 (AP).—Coast guard division headquarters reported that a boat from its Westport base took off 10 of the 23 men aboard the waterlogged lumber schooner Claremont after sighting signal flares early today. The vessel was three miles off Willapa harbor.

The tug Klinyan, put out from Aberdeen, reached the still floating vessel shortly after 8 a. m. and was attempting to tow the stricken vessel to safety.

ADMIT NEW DEAL CENSUS BUREAU HAS MUFFED JOB

Thousands of Persons Still Uncounted.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

William L. Austin, director of census.

Washington, D. C., June 15.—The administration is about to confess that it has bungled the 45 million dollar job of counting noses in the United States by issuing an appeal to those its census enumerators have missed to write to the census bureau and, in effect, count themselves.

The population census began April 1. According to a March 31 announcement of the department of commerce, which is headed by Secretary Harry Hopkins, former relief administrator, "the canvass in cities will be completed in two weeks and in rural districts in one month."

Two and one half months later, the bureau reports it has passed the 131,000,000 mark with returns by no means complete. Officials said that 13,942 of their 130,000 enumerators have not filed complete reports.

Thousands Report "No Count."

The bureau has been swamped with protests from indignant chambers of commerce charging the nose counting in their cities has been slipshod and faulty.

One Nebraska town of 12,000 became outraged when the district census chief said the canvass showed its population had dropped since the 1930 census. The town's chamber of commerce called upon all who had been missed by the census to register with the chamber or local newspaper. In 24 hours 900 persons reported that they had not been interviewed by the census taker, nor had the enumerator left any blanks at their residences to be filled out.

Thousands of persons have written in to say they have not been called upon by the enumerator. Even in the area of the national capital, many persons have reported they have not seen the enumerator.

Reports Are Bungled.

It was reported that the bureau is unable to make head or tail of thousands of blanks turned in by incompetent enumerators.

William L. Austin, director of the census, told congress politics did not enter into the selection of the nose counters. At the same time he said the job required tact and training. Nevertheless in practice is was found that a Democratic committeeman had to place his approval on a job application before it went thru.

The census bureau has time to patch up its botchy job. The final report will not be made until the end of the year. The census started Jan. 2 with a survey of factories, wholesalers, retailers, and other business units.

NEW LAW WON'T AFFECT MOST AGE PENSIONERS

Springfield, Ill., June 15 (AP).—The new $40 maximum old age pension law will have no effect upon the amount of assistance most of the 139,000 persons on Illinois pension rolls now are receiving, Superintendent Fletcher C. Kettle, head of the old age assistance division, said today.

The measure, which boosts the limit of the monthly payment from $30 to $40, was signed into law Wednesday by Gov. Henry Horner after its passage in the recent special session of the legislature.

Kettle said the law merely "makes it possible to meet the needs of those persons who are found to need more than $30 a month." He estimated recently that less than 12 per cent of those on the pension rolls were receiving $30 per month.

Work of revising the old age assistance lists in conformity with the changes in the law has been started, Kettle said. He asserted that approximately 6,000 individual old age assistance award adjustments are made each month. About 4,500 of these result in increased awards and about 1,500 in decreased payments. The average award last month was $20.68.

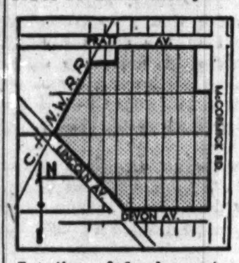
PLAN FIFTY UNITS IN LINCOLNWOOD HOMES PROJECT

Fourteen Built; Six to Be Started Shortly.



Location of development.

A home building program of at least 50 units this year is contemplated by the Prudential Realty company in its Lincolnwood development, according to Arthur H. and Hubert F. Rance of that firm. Fourteen residences already have been built or are nearing completion and thirteen of these have been sold. Work is scheduled to start within the next two weeks on six more homes, two of which already have been sold. Plans are being drawn for five additional units.

Area of Building Activity.

This residential activity is in the area bounded on the north by Pratt avenue, on the west by Lincoln avenue and the Chicago and North Western railway, on the south by Devon avenue [the dividing line between Chicago and Lincolnwood], and by North Spaulding avenue on the east.

This 115 acre tract originally was purchased by the Prudential Realty company in 1926. Lincolnwood was then known as Tessville. Much of the land has been sold and 16 homes were built in 1930 and 1931. The Prudential still owns 280 home sites.

Insured Loans to Be Used.

All of the houses built this year, as well as those contemplated are to be financed with Federal Housing administration insured loans negotiated thru the Southeastern National bank at 63d street and Woodlawn avenue.

The price range is from $7,200 to $11,000, including cost of lot. All the homes will be heated by warm air gas fired furnaces. They all are of brick veneer.

Bids Are Taken for Library in South Chicago

Plans have been completed and bids are being taken for the construction of a branch of the Chicago Public library at the northeast corner of Houston avenue and East 91st street.

Paul Gerhardt Jr., city architect, has designed an irregular shaped structure in the modern motif, to represent an investment of $125,000 in building and equipment, he said yesterday.

Site Opposite Rail Station.

The board of directors of the Chicago Public library recently bought the site, fronting 100 feet on 91st and 135 feet on Houston, because of its accessibility. It is one block from the terminus of the Illinois Central railroad's South Chicago branch, directly across the street from the Y. M. C. A., and two blocks from the main commercial section of South Chicago.

The building will be 80 by 120 feet and the balance of the lot will be landscaped. The building will be one story with basement, of fireproof steel and concrete construction, with Wisconsin Lannon stone facing.

Includes Community Hall.

In addition to a 40 by 120 reading room, it will contain a reference room for special subjects, a senior room for boys and girls of the high school age, a children's story room, an assembly room to accommodate approximately 300 persons for community gatherings, and the customary staff and work rooms and surplus book storage areas.

An innovation will be an exterior terrace adjoining the children's story room to be used during favorable weather. It will be illuminated with fluorescent lighting.

Completion is scheduled within the next six months, Gerhardt said.

Remodel Business Block at North-Austin Corner

ISSUE PERMITS FOR 548 HOUSES AT $3,509,034

All Construction Sets 10 Year Peak for Month.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Home building continues to dominate suburban construction activity. During May it accounted for more than 78 per cent of all the building activities in 82 suburbs, according to the monthly survey by the Bell Savings, Building and Loan association. The May residential building total — 548 homes, valued at $3,509,034 — was 20 per cent larger in number of homes built and 12 per cent more in value than May, 1939, when permits were issued for 456 homes costing $3,132,229.

Arthur G. Erdmann.

New building of all classifications [including home construction] made a valuation gain of 9 per cent over May of last year. Last month's total in 82 suburban communities was $4,492,183 and for May a year ago, $4,108,448.

Five Months Show Gain.

Comparisons of the first five months of this year with the same period last year also show big increases in both home building and in all types of building. There were 1,944 permits, for homes valued at $12,653,671, issued so far this year, compared with 1,416 permits, for homes costing $9,550,862, for the same five months of last year. This is a gain of 528 homes and an increase in cost of $3,102,809.

For all types of building [including homes] the five months total for this year was $18,773,846, compared with $13,840,992 for the same period last year. This is a gain of $4,932,854.

Largest May in 10 Years.

The May total was the largest recorded for the month in the 10 years during which this survey of suburban building has been made. Its $4,492,183 may be compared with the 1932 low of only $357,258.

"The survey adds a new feature this month—a tabulation of the number of homes for which permits were issued in each community, and their value," said Arthur G. Erdmann, president of the Bell association.

"The fact that home building in May kept up the sensational activity that developed in April is encouraging evidence that families want to proceed with their home building plans. But they will need leadership to give them confidence—to demonstrate that in a time of fluctuating markets, possible inflation, and rising prices a home is not only a desirable investment but a refuge and bulwark against the dangers of such conditions.

Land and Building Costs Low.

"The family that builds today benefits by low land prices and low building and financing costs. It also fortifies itself by assuming in the place of rent an easily met monthly obligation which can never be increased.

"That the home is one of the safest investments in a time like this must be the theme of the building industry if it wants people to build."

Hammond Physicians Buy Residence for Offices

Doctors Kuhn, Smith & Kuhn, eye, ear, nose, and throat specialists, with offices in the First Trust building, Hammond, have bought the former residence of Edward C. Minas, owner of the Minas department store, at 112 Rimbach street, Hammond. Roscoe E. Woods and associates were brokers. The physicians will remodel the 15 room house and use the building for their offices. Elevators will be installed and the entire building air conditioned. They also have bought from the Hammond Woman's club the lot west of the Minas house for patients' parking.

Nearing Completion in Evanston

These six homes, designed by William N. Alderman, are being built by M. J. Tennes & Sons on the north side of Dobson street, between Dewey and Dodge avenues, Evanston. They occupy 40 by 200 foot lots and their price range is from $11,500 to $13,500, which includes landscaping and a two car detached garage. They have five, six, and seven rooms. All will be heated by gas fired warm air furnaces. Twenty-five more homes are contemplated by the Tennes firm in the immediate neighborhood.

Loop Office Buildings Are 80.53% Rented

Office building occupancy in Chicago was higher on May 1 than at any time since May 1, 1931, according to a survey just made by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, which has its headquarters in this city.

The survey, published in the current issue of "Skyscraper Management," organ of the association, shows loop office building occupancy is now 80.53 per cent. In May, 1931, it was 80.79. The low point was reached in May, 1934, at 70.40 per cent. Occupancy on May 1, 1939, was 79.33 per cent.

Chicago occupancy is slightly below the average for the United States and Canada, which stood at 82.85 per cent on May 1. The former high was on May 1, 1931, when it stood at 82.73. The low was on Jan. 1, 1934—72.43 per cent.

Regional figures on May 1, 1940, show the south leads with occupancy of 88.50 per cent. Canadian cities are next with 86.81 per cent. The southwest region reports 86.14 per cent. Next in line are: Middle Atlantic, 82.59 per cent; north central, 80.57 per cent; midwest and northern, 80.35 per cent; Pacific northwest, 80.31 per cent, and New England, 76.76 per cent.

Oak Park Space Is Leased for 3d Unit in Cafe Chain

The Third Robin Hood corporation has leased for five years the stores at 730-32 West Lake street, in the building at the northwest corner of Oak Park avenue and Lake street, Oak Park, thru the Mark Levy Realty company. The space will be occupied by Robin Hood's Barn, the third of a chain of restaurants. The other two are in Evanston.

HOMES UNDER $5,000 PROVE MOST POPULAR

Tribune Survey Shows Building Trend.

Residences costing between $4,000 and $5,000 continue to be the most popular in Chicago, according to a survey of permits issued for new single family homes during the last five months. The same price bracket was used most during 1939 by home builders.

These facts were disclosed in a study of house construction in Chicago made by The Chicago Tribune planning department.

Of 1,090 homes for which permits were issued by the Chicago building department during the first five months of 1940, there were only three costing $15,000 or more. That is 0.28 per cent of the total. There were 21 costing from $10,000 to $15,000, or 1.9 per cent.

Costing Less Than $10,000.

Following is a table showing the number of homes in the less than $10,000 cost bracket:

Price range—	Homes.	Pct.
$9,000 to $10,000	15	1.4
8,000 to 9,000	43	3.9
7,000 to 8,000	68	6.2
6,000 to 7,000	142	13.0
5,000 to 6,000	317	29.1
4,000 to 5,000	334	30.7
3,000 to 4,000	130	11.9
Under $3,000	17	1.6

Based on another table of actual costs of homes, it was shown by the planning department that 61 per cent of the new homes cost $5,000 or less. New homes costing $5,000 to $10,000 were 36.8 per cent of the total. The remainder, 2.2 per cent, consisted of residences costing $10,000 or more.

1939 Trend Is Same.

During May there were 283 permits for single family dwellings issued by the Chicago building department. Of this total 82, or 29 per cent, were for homes costing between $4,000 and $5,000. One house was to cost more than $15,000 and one less than $3,000.

Next to the $4,000-$5,000 bracket the $5,000-$6,000 class was the most popular during May, with 73 permits, or 25.8 per cent.

Corporation Buys Grace Street Flats for $38,000

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company yesterday sold the 20 flat building at 716-20 Grace street to John G. Harding Hotels, Inc., for a reported $38,000. According to Miss Abbie M. Harding, who with her brother John G. Harding, comprise the purchasing corporation, the building will not be operated as a hotel. Baird & Warner, Inc., represented the seller and Rutherford & Harding, Inc., the buyer.

Kenwood-Marquette Flat Building Sold for $71,000

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company sold the 28 flat building at the northeast corner of Kenwood avenue and Marquette road to the Marwood Building corporation. The price was $71,000 according to revenue stamps on the deed. The insurance company took back a $63,750 15 year 4½ per cent mortgage. Robert H. Wollenberger, secretary of the buying corporation, represented it.

County's Realty Foreclosures Fall Far Below Former Years

Real estate foreclosure activity in Cook county has declined substantially this year, according to the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association.

A table of amounts involved in foreclosures during the first quarters of the last seven years, compiled by the association, follows:

Year.	Number.	Amount.
1940	437	$ 3,989,813
1939	903	7,773,785
1938	918	11,432,286
1937	1,488	15,552,565
1936	1,868	23,515,673
1935	3,040	28,282,901
1934	3,068	53,977,361

In comparing Cook county's record with a report of nonfarm foreclosure activity thruout the United States, as compiled recently by the Federal Home Loan Bank board, the association calls attention to the fact that the Chicago district shows the most improvement of any of the 12 Federal Home Loan bank districts by comparison with the corresponding period a year ago.

Figures on the nation's nonfarm foreclosures were 28 per cent below 1939's first quarter, against Cook county's decline of 51 per cent.

RECORDER DIRECTS ATTENTION TO LAW EFFECTIVE JULY 1

County Recorder Edward J. Kaindl yesterday called attention to a law which, altho passed in 1935, for all practical purposes becomes effective July 1 this year. It outlaws mortgages, trust deeds, and other liens on real estate which have matured according to their terms prior to July 1, 1920, unless extension agreements are executed and recorded in accordance with this law.

Edward J. Kaindl.

Kaindl pointed out that extension agreements must be filed for record if the mortgage or trust deed is to be kept in force. He advised holders and owners of mortgages and trust deeds therefore to protect their investments by having extension agreements recorded before July 1.

Copies of the law may be obtained by writing to him at room 120, County building, Chicago.

DE LUGACH BUYS 30 ACRES NEAR CHICAGO RIDGE

The Frank De Lugach Real Estate company yesterday bought for cash 30 acres at the southwest intersection of Mayfield avenue and 104th street, just outside of Chicago Ridge. The seller was E. A. Kanst. According to Frank De Lugach, the property will be subdivided into 100 by 133 foot lots and marketed under the name of 104th Street Highlands. This will be De Lugach's 59th subdivision on the south side.

New Shopping Center at La Salle-Maple Rented

With the signing of leases with the A. & P., Burny Brothers Bakeries, and the Standard Oil company of Indiana the "drive in and drive out" California type shopping center at the northeast corner of La Salle and Maple streets is reported to be 100 per cent rented. Howard L. Storch of Ross, Browne & Fleming was broker. The property, fronting 195 feet on La Salle and 137 feet on Maple, will house one of the A. & P.'s largest type food marts, featuring service to motorists.

A. & P. to Have Food Mart in Former Bank Quarters

The space formerly occupied by the Builders and Merchants Trust & Savings bank at 5203 North Clark street has been leased by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company for a food mart. Howard L. Storch, of Ross, Browne & Fleming, was broker. The building is being remodeled and enlarged from plans by B. Leo Steif at a reported cost of $20,000.

BAIRD & WARNER REPORTS UPTURN IN 1940 SALES

Stewart B. Matthews, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., yesterday reported that sales for the first five months of 1940 have passed the $3,000,000 mark. This is 30 per cent ahead of sales for the same period in 1939, he said.

"May sales surpassed last year's in number by 24 per cent," he said. "Our gross dollar volume was increased 14 per cent. The increase in number of sales was due chiefly to increased activity in the sale of suburban homes.

"While there was a temporary slump in the sale of apartment buildings, there has been increased activity since the first of June in the movement of the larger buildings."

CUBS WIN, 11-5; SOX LOSE TO BOSTON, 5-2

REDS GET ARNOVICH; CUCCINELLO GOES TO GIANTS

PHILLIES TAKE JOHN RIZZO AT TRADE DEADLINE

Cubs and Sox Make No Deals.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Two pennant contenders in the National league made last minute deals last night, just beating the deadline for intra-circuit trades, which expired at midnight. All American league clubs stood pat on their lineups.

The New York Giants, engaged in a three-way battle for the National league lead with the Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds, gave up two rookie players and an unannounced sum of cash to the Boston Bees for Tony Cuccinello, 32 year old infielder. The Giants turned over Al Glossop, who started the season at second base, and Manuel Salvo, giant right handed pitcher, who has been with Jersey City this season.

Reds Get Arnovich.

The Cincinnati Reds, in an unexpected maneuver, sent Outfielder Johnny Rizzo to the Philadelphia Phillies in a straight exchange for Morrie Arnovich, also an outfielder. The Reds only recently had swapped Vince DiMaggio to the Pirates for Rizzo.

Chicago's two big league clubs, the White Sox and Cubs, allowed the deadline to pass without making any deals. Negotiations that would have sent Clint Brown, veteran Sox pitcher, to Washington for Joe Krakauskas, southpaw pitcher, collapsed yesterday.

The Giants, who bounded into second place over the Reds yesterday, obtained Cuccinello for infield protection. Manager Bill Terry said the veteran would see no action unless the play of Third Baseman Burgess Whitehead or Second Baseman Nick Witek slumps.

Arnovich to Go Into Lineup.

Arnovich will move at once into the Cincinnati lineup. He led the league in hitting past the halfway mark last year, but wound up with a .324 average. He has been unable to reach his stride this year, and is batting only .198. Rizzo has been hitting the ball hard for the Reds.

The Arnovich-Rizzo transaction was announced by Gerry Nugent, owner of the Phillies.

"There was no cash involved," he said. "We feel Rizzo is faster and has more power than Arnovich."

"The change should do both a lot of good," commented Doc Prothro, Phillies' manager. Earlier in the day, Prothro announced Outfielder Hershel Martin and Infielder Del Young had been sold to Jersey City of the International league.

Arnovich Is Pleased.

Arnovich was pleased over being transferred to a pennant contender.

"I'll be rejoining my old pals," he said. Jimmy Wilson, Reds' coach, was manager of the Phils when Arnovich went to that club four years ago. Bucky Walters, star Cincinnati pitcher, also was a teammate in Philadelphia.

Cuccinello played only 81 games for the Bees last season because of a knee injury. He batted .306 and drove in 40 runs. Salvo, purchased from San Diego, started strong for the Giants in 1939, but soon slumped. He won four games and lost ten, then was optioned to Jersey City this spring, where he won five and lost three.

Vitt Nervous, Feller Says of Indians' Boss

Cleveland, O., June 15 (AP).—Pitcher Bob Feller, breaking his silence on the "fire Vitt" campaign of a dozen Cleveland Indians, said today he had nothing personally against pilot Oscar Vitt, but——

"Sometimes it seems he'll drive us all nuts. Maybe it's just his nervous condition."

The $27,500 a year hurler was one of the Cleveland delegation which sought Vitt's ouster Thursday in a visit to the club's front office.

Vitt already had admitted nervousness in the dugout, adding: "What do the fellows want? A manager who doesn't care whether they win or lose?"

TROSKY BLASTS VITT.

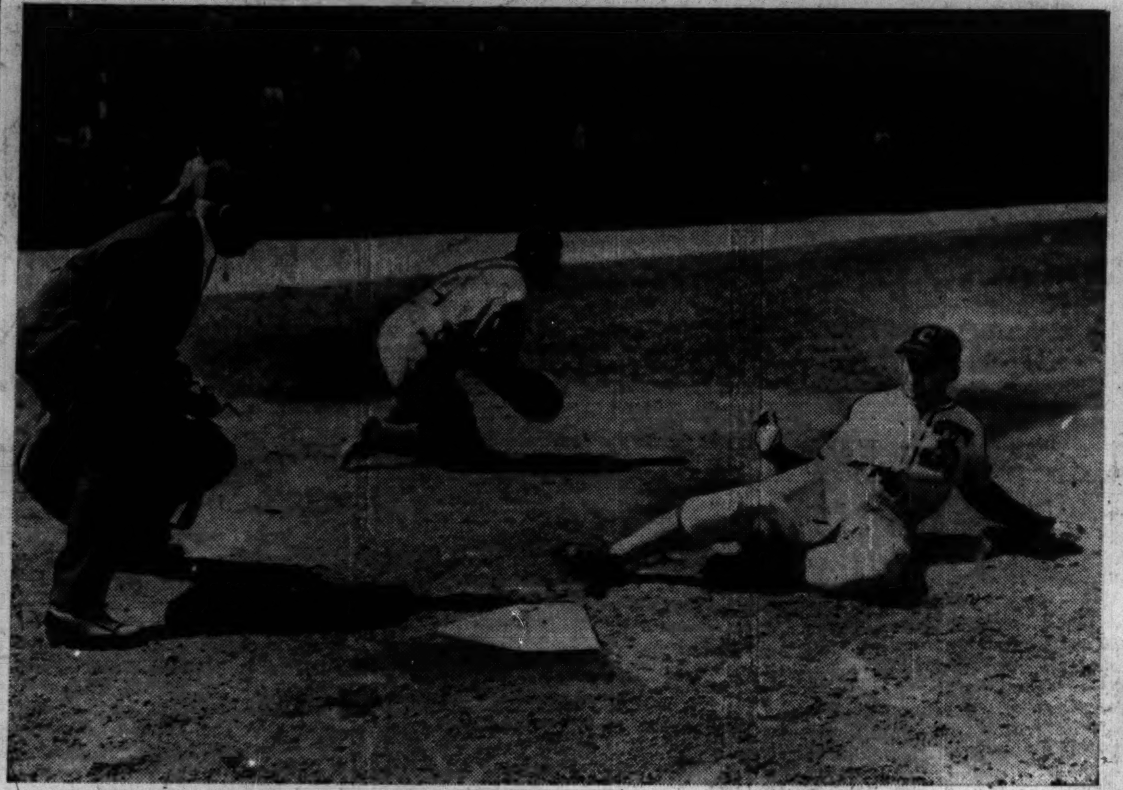
Des Moines, Ia., June 15 (AP).—The Register tonight quoted First Baseman Hal Trosky as saying in a telephone interview that:

"The Cleveland baseball team needs a new manager."

Trosky added, the Register said, "Oscar Vitt has more nerve than any man I know in trying to stay in power when he realizes that every man on the club feels a change should be made."

Trosky, one of 12 players who asked President Alva Bradley for a change in managers, returned to Norway, Ia., to attend funeral services for his mother.

THAT MR. DOUBLE XX MINGLES JOY AND SORROW IN COMISKEY PARK



Larry Rosenthal, White Sox outfielder, scores from second on Catcher Mike Tresh's single in fourth inning of yesterday's game with the Red Sox. The bases were loaded on Sox when three walks when Tresh came thru and the hit gave the White Sox their two runs. Gene Desautels, Red Sox catcher, takes the throw-in. The umpire is John Quinn. The Red Sox won, 5 to 2.

This is part of that "We want a homer" chorus ever present at Comiskey park. What do you suppose has just happened? Right! Jimmy Foxx's second inning smash is sailing into the bleachers.

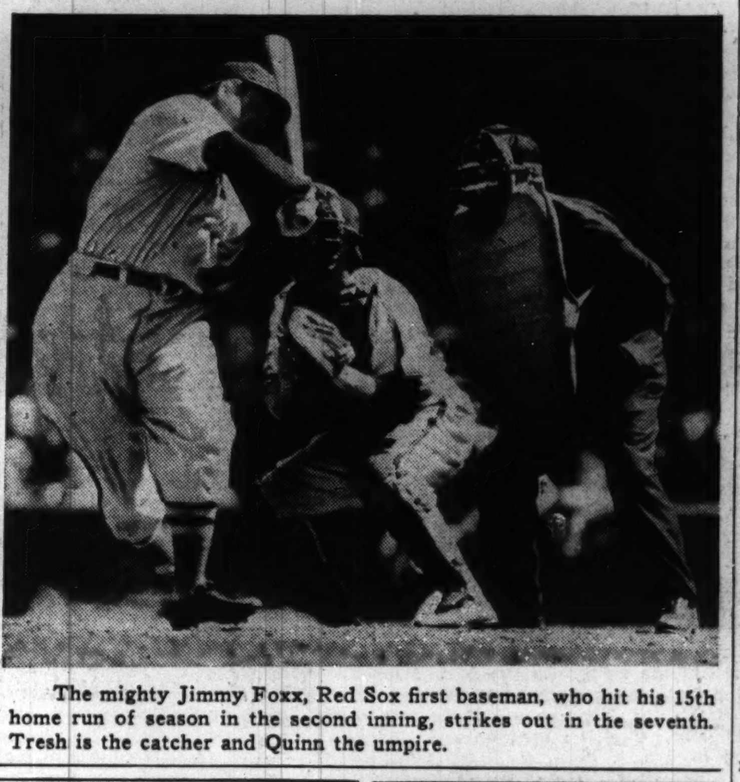
[TRIBUNE Photos.]



The mighty Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox first baseman, who hit his 15th home run of season in the second inning, strikes out in the seventh. Tresh is the catcher and Quinn the umpire.

FRENCH YIELDS 7 HITS AS CUBS WIN FROM BEES, 11-5

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 15.—The Cubs who, in their three previous battles had amassed a staggering total of 13 hits, crowded three days of batswinging into two hours this afternoon and thus made a howling success of the second of their series with the futile Bees. For the eighth time in nine attempts the Chicagoans dusted off their favorite enemy, a combination of base hits, passes, etc., resulting in an 11 to 5 score before a holiday crowd of 2,466, exclusive of 1,000 women guests.

With 13 Cub hits bouncing around the sparsely populated premises and a series of Bee pitchers doing a very neat job of not getting their throws over the plate, Larry French enjoyed one of the most comfortable afternoons of his career. He was pleasantly surprised by being presented with a five run lead in two innings. He lost a good portion of this in the third, principally because Billy Herman blundered, but thereafter was permitted to lead a leisurely existence except in the eighth when a harmless flurry converted a possible four hitter into a seven hit achievement.

Posedel Driven Out Early.

The Bees apparently were serious about the whole thing at the start. They had Bill Posedel, a fair to middlin' pitcher in service, but Bill lacked both skill and luck. The Cubs dented him with a run in the opening inning and in the second forced him to resign, the important items in this assault being a three run double by Jim Gleeson followed by a triple by Billy Nicholson. After that most of the Bees' pitching was done by George Barnicle and Joe Callahan, two phenoms who accomplished little, especially in the fourth when the Cubs compiled five runs on two hits. But the victors made no advances after Dick Coffman took charge in the sixth.

Nicholson's second inning triple was only a limited portion of his day with the bat. In the fourth when neither Barnicle nor Callahan could find the plate, Nicholson drew a walk that blossomed into a run. In the sixth he tripled again and scored the last Cub tally. In the eighth he cut himself down to a single, one of the two hits surrendered by Coffman, but was mopped up on Herman's double play ball.

Herman Drives In Run.

After their record of only 13 hits in their last three games the Cubs really were quite a surprise in the first inning. They made three hits and a run scored. Hack opened with a single to center and Cavarretta got a single on a fly ball close to the left field line. Hack was forced at third on Gleeson's intended sacrifice. Nicholson forced Gleeson for the second out, but Herman kept the inning from becoming a total failure. He singled to left, scoring Cavarretta.

The second, which was so eventful that Posedel had to call for help started with Todd's out, after which Mattick singled. He was forced by French. Hack doubled to right and the bases were loaded when Cavarretta was grazed on the shirt by a pitched ball. Gleeson drove a long fly to left center and, altho Ross got his glove on the ball, he couldn't hang on so it dropped for a double, French, Hack, and Cavarretta scoring. Gleeson glided home on Nicholson's

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The youngsters will have to do better if they expect to beat old Mucho Gusto during the Lincoln Fields meeting. One by one they took turns chasing him over the mile and three-sixteenths of yesterday's $5,000 La Salle handicap. They challenged him on the clubhouse turn, they charged at him in the back stretch, they came alongside him in a thundering drive to the finish, but when it was all over, Mucho Gusto was the winner again.

He was drawing away as Johnny Oros drove him over the line a length and a half ahead of Shot Put, Yale O'Nine being third, a neck farther back. Thus this 8 year old campaigner, which was foaled in a race track barn at Latonia and has been strictly a traveling trouper ever since, scored his second stake victory of the meeting, running his total earnings above the $80,000 mark—and that's not a bad sum when it's remembered that it was accumulated by shooting for $2,500 and $5,000 purses.

Teaches Crowds a Lesson.

Tho Mucho Gusto isn't one to hold hard feelings, he taught the crowd of 10,000 a lesson after they had deserted him to such an extent that he was only third choice in the betting. He was quoted at 7 to 2, while Yale o' Nine went at 2 to 1 and Shot Put at 5 to 2. The betters couldn't be blamed, however, because they always wonder whether Mucho Gusto has one more winning effort in his ancient legs.

There was no need to worry yesterday, however, for Kirby Ramsey who is trainer and half owner of this willing old runner, had him in excellent shape. In addition to being fit, it takes a stout racing heart to withstand the repeated challenges to which Mucho Gusto was subjected—and he had that too. At some stage of the race, four of his five rivals were in strong contending positions, but he outgamed them all.

Track Described as Slow.

The track, drying out after repeated rains of the last two weeks, was officially described as slow and it was still soft enough to be just to Mucho Gusto's liking. He ran the mile and three-sixteenths in 2:03 2-5.

As they broke from the starting gate Mucho Gusto showed his customary alertness, getting away in front and holding command on the first dash past the stands. Day Dodger and Manie O'Hara were forcing the

BETTY JAMESON BEATS MISS BERG FOR GOLF TITLE

St. Louis, Mo., June 15 (AP).—Betty Jameson, women's national golf champion of San Antonio, Tex., burned up the Glen Echo course in 8 under par today to defeat Patty Berg, defending champion, 2 up in a thrilling 36 hole final for the Trans-Mississippi championship.

It was anybody's match to the 17th hole, where Betty won with a par 4 after Patty was forced to recover from a trap for a bogey 5. All the Texan had to do was halve the home green, but Patty overshot the green with her third shot for another bogey 6, while her opponent was in for a par.

Match Close All Day.

The match see-sawed back and forth all day and Betty, a tough customer in match play when her putter is working, was pretty downhearted coming up to the 15th 1 down. But here she made the most spectacular shot of the day—a chip-in from a foot off the green. They halved the 16th with birdie fours, but Betty was in the lead to stay.

The nip and tuck battle is best described by the fact the girls halved only 15 of the 36 holes. The other 21 were see sawed back and forth, with neither player able to gain more than a 2 up advantage.

Patty, firing a 3 under 77, held an indecisive 1 up lead on the national champion at the noon intermission, with the first half producing an array of spectacular shots. Betty held a 1 up lead three times during the morning trip.

Seven One Putt Greens.

Seven one putt greens by the Minneapolis girl helped sway the early putting duel, altho Betty flipped in three from between 8 and 25 feet out. The Texas girl, who also defeated Miss Berg in the finals of the 1937 Trans-Mississippi, came back with her putter working wonders in the afternoon and blistered the out nine with a 3 under 35 to regain a 1 up lead as they headed into the home stretch.

Cool and deliberately, Betty hung up a record for the day of 22 pars, 11 birdies and 3 bogeys, for a 36 hole total of 146 [75—71], 8 under women's par and only 4 over men's par.

Patty had 16 pars, 13 birdies and 7 bogeys for a pair of 74's. She qualified with the same 74 Monday, while Miss Jameson was medalist with a 73. Their cards:

Millicent Hirsh Takes Mary Browne Net Title

Painesville, O., June 15 (AP).—Powerful drives and tricky backhand strokes won the Mary K. Browne invitational tennis tournament today for Millicent Hirsh of New York City. She defeated the five-time champion, Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, O., 5-7, 6-2, 6-4. Louis Changes Style for 2d Godoy Battle

Greenwood Lake, N. Y., June 15 [Special].—Commissioner Bill Brown of the state athletic commission visited Joe Louis' training camp this afternoon and found the champion ready to defend his crown next Thursday night against Arturo Godoy, Chilean challenger, in the Yankee stadium.

"He's a different Louis than I saw against Godoy in the Garden last February," said Commissioner Brown, after watching the champion go thru a brisk four round drill. "He seems sharper, and he appears to be using his head more than he did before. He is trying to solve ring problems and made a pretty good job of it today. Of course, he is in splendid physical condition. He always is."

Fights on Attack.

Louis was a different fighter in many respects. He was fighting on the attack, instead of awaiting the charge of a foe and countering. He paid particular attention to perfecting a method of counteracting Godoy's notoriously befuddling crouching style. And he worked, too, at roughing in close quarter fighting and spearing and stabbing at long range.

Emil Scholz, Boston heavyweight; Joe O'Gatty, a Newark heavyweight, and George Nicholson of Yonkers, provided the action in the sparring workouts before a slender gathering.

Makes No Prediction.

Nicholson gave the champion the best workout, as he invariably does. For one round he peppered Louis with straight lefts and occasional right crosses to the face. The title holder contented himself with trying to beat Nicholson to the punch.

As to the fight, Louis refuses to make a brash prediction.

"I'll level off with Godoy just as soon as I can, without taking any crazy chances," he said today.

Yale Beats Princeton to Retain Polo Title

Westwood, Mass., June 15 (AP).—Scoring in ever chukker, Yale retained its national intercollegiate polo championship today by defeating Princeton, 15 to 5, in a match that saw the Tigers showing little of the form that led them to victories over Army and Arizona.

LEADERS SNAP BILL DIETRICH'S 3 GAME STREAK

Foxx Hammers Out 15th Home Run.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, who are alert, powerful, efficient and frequently victorious when they are away from home, yesterday staged their twelfth failure in 17 appearances before their Chicago constituency. The Red Sox won, 5 to 2, and the White Sox, held to four singles, would have been shut out but for a fit of wildness suffered by Herbert H. Hash, the winning pitcher.

It was another faint showing to embarrass those who have been chronicling White Sox artistry this year by telegraphic reports from other cities. The White Sox, as in many, many Comiskey park games this year, appeared tired, unskilled, timid and wholly unprepared for successful competition of the brand they have displayed in every American league city except Chicago.

Dietrich's Streak Snapped.

Bill Dietrich, who contributed to a three game winning streak for his personal record when he beat the Red Sox, 6 to 4, on June 3, was not a bad pitcher yesterday, tho inadequate for the demands. He yielded only eight hits, but extra basers figured in all the run production. Always, too, one had the feeling the league leaders could have done more slugging if they hadn't been resting up from Friday's night game and for today's double header.

The first two runs were scored on homers by Jimmy Foxx and Ted Williams. It was Foxx's seventh homer in nine Boston-Chicago games. He has made only eight against pitchers who work for teams other than the White Sox.

Doerr's Triple Decisive Blow.

A triple by Bobby Doerr drove in the winning run after which Bobby scored one of the superfluous runs on a fly ball. A double by Joe Cronin with none out in the sixth drove in the other unneeded Boston run.

Dietrich, who was unable to get past the seventh in his last two victories, would have retired the last dozen batters in a row but for a fumble by Luke Appling in the seventh.

Half of the Sox grand total of four singles were made by Joe Kuhel and both were wasted. Dietrich beat out a bunt for a fourth of the total. The other and last Chicago hit of the game was a single by Mike Tresh after Hash had walked three in a row to load the bases.

Play Two Games Today.

The White Sox, who lost their first nine home games, then won five straight, now have a new home losing streak of three straight. It is not held likely they will tie or beat their earlier record of nine straight. For one reason, Ted Lyons will pitch one of the games of this afternoon's double header. Ted shut out the Red Sox two weeks ago, 6 to 0. But of course that was in Boston.

The scoring opened with a sight that has become as familiar to the White Sox as a catcher strapping on his bosom protector. Foxx led off in the second inning with a smash into the upper deck of the left field stands. Williams followed with a safe bunt and Cronin walked, but Williams was speared trying to steal and Jim Tabor and Gene Desautels fouled out.

Williams Hits Sixth Homer.

With one out in the third, Doerr doubled and Doc Cramer walked, but Dietrich steadied, Lou Finney and Foxx flying out.

Another home run pitch by Dietrich at the start of the fourth gave the Red Sox a 2 to 0 lead. Williams hit the balustrade of the right field upper deck for his sixth homer of the year.

YANKEES RALLY TWICE TO BEAT BROWNS, 7 TO 6

Keller's Homer Leads Two Late Drives.

St. Louis, Mo., June 15 (AP).—The New York Yankees beat the Browns again today, but this one was a battle all the way, the world champions finally winning, 7 to 6, with a two run uprising in the ninth.

The Browns forged into the lead in the third and held it till the eighth when the Yanks went out in front with a four run rally built around Charley Keller's tenth home run.

In their half of the eighth the Browns again took the lead when Chet Laabs delivered a pinch homer with Johnny Berardino on base.

In the ninth the Yanks filled the bases and then Jack Kramer walked Bill Dickey to force in the tying run. Joe DiMaggio scored the winning run on Joe Gordon's long fly.

TIGERS, 11-8; SENATORS, 1-0.

Detroit, Mich., June 15 (AP).—The Tigers clawed up the Washington Senators in a double header today, 11 to 1 and 8 to 0, with Veteran Buck Newsom and Rookie Johnny Gorsica holding the foe to a total of seven hits. The Tigers' double victory gave them second place in the American league race.

Getting 15 hits in the opener, among them Hank Greenberg's 10th homer, the Tigers made it easy for Newsom to ring up his seventh straight victory.

Gorsica, winning his second straight after one defeat, yielded four hits in the second game while the Tigers pounded out 13 to finish off one of their biggest days of this campaign.

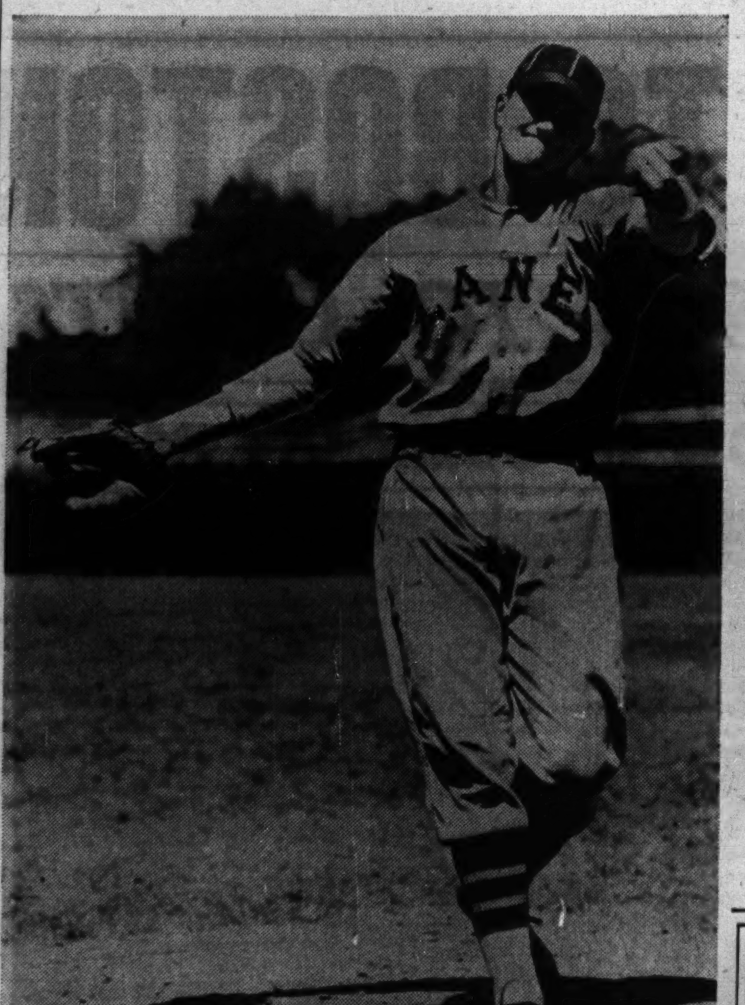
ONE BY ONE THEY CHALLENGE, BUT LANE MARCHES ON



Capt. Herb Chmiel, whose four hit pitching shut out Calumet, 9 to 0, in Wrigley field yesterday and gave Lane Tech its eleventh Public High School league baseball championship. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Joe Janet, third baseman, slides home safely with Lane's first run in the first inning, beating the relay to Catcher Jim Logsdon of Calumet on Capt. Chmiel's hit to left field. Lane carried too many guns for the opposition. It's getting to be an old story in the prep league.

Lane Defeats Calumet, 9 to 0, for City Title; Chmiel Fans 16

Herbert Chmiel, a young, husky pitcher, who someday hopes to be tossing a baseball in major league parks, yesterday afternoon led Lane Technical High school's baseball team to its 11th Public School league championship. The 18 year old pitcher yielded only four hits as the north siders turned back the challenge of Calumet, south section titleholder, 9 to 0, in Wrigley field.

Chmiel, whose notable performances paced Lane Tech's drive in the north division and later in the playoffs, struck out 16 and issued five bases on balls. Chmiel encountered no difficulty against the south siders except in the third inning, when they filled the bases after Outfielder Allen Gentleman and Pitcher Walter Soderlind had struck out. But Chmiel promptly halted the rally by adding Outfielder Dick Kleist to his strikeout list.

13 Unlucky for Soderlind.

Soderlind, who had scored 13 consecutive victories, was touched for 11 hits. The leaders in the Lane Tech attack were Right Fielder Marty Bucaro, First Baseman Gene Joselane, Shortstop John Knakiewicz and Catcher George Knasniewski, each pounding out two hits.

Lane Tech scored two runs in the first inning, added five more in the third, then scored one in the fifth and one in the ninth. Chmiel figured in the first inning scoring with a single after Third Baseman Joe Janet had doubled. Chmiel scored on a single by Bucaro.

Errors Aid in Rout.

Two hits and three errors produced Lane Tech's five runs in the third inning. Janet was safe on an error by Jim O'Hara. Chmiel popped to Soderlind and Bucaro was safe at first on another error, Janet stopping at second. Joselane beat out a bunt and then Knakiewicz hit a slow grounder to Soderlind, who threw wild at home, Janet and Bucaro scoring, Joselane going to third, and Knakiewicz to second. O'Malley walked and after Kwasniewski struck out, Benny Pollock doubled, clearing the bases.

A single by Knakiewicz and a triple by Knasiewski furnished the Lane run in the fifth inning. The final run in the ninth was made after Chmiel was hit by a pitched ball. Bucaro doubled to left, and Joselane lifted a high fly to center field.

Chmiel Fans the Side.

In the ninth inning Chmiel struck out three Calumet batters including two pinch hitters, to end the game. One of the Calumet men, Henry Marvinac, who was to bat for Gentleman, was hit in the face as he stood at the plate. He was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital and it was feared he had a broken nose.

triple to center and that was the finish of Posedel. Barnicle halted the disturbance.

Bees Score Three Times.

French yielded only one hit in the third, but because it was for distance and there were other items involved, the net was three runs. Herman kicked Hassett's grounder with one out and Moore walked. Both scored on Sisti's triple to right center and Sisti scored while the Cubs were engaged in throwing out Ross.

Barnicle didn't have much trouble pitching himself out of the game in the fourth. He simply walked Hack and Cavarretta and then disappeared, Callahan taking over the hapless assignment. Gleeson bunted to Hassett who made a neat pickup but couldn't make up his mind where to throw the ball, the result being three on with none out. Nicholson walked, forcing Hack to score. Cavarretta and Gleeson scored on Herman's double to right. Nicholson counted on Dallessandro's fly and Herman completed his trip when Todd singled.

Bill Triples Again.

Nicholson hit his second triple at the start of the sixth and scored on Herman's fly to center. Then Dallessandro walked and Todd singled, so Manager Casey Stengel decided to remove Callahan. Coffman returned the Cubs to their normal hitting status.

The Boston eighth began with a double to left center by Moore who went to third on Sisti's single to Herman. Ross ripped off a real hit, but the ball plunked against the third sack and bounced up into the hands of Hack, who, altho greatly surprised over seeing the ball in his glove, managed to throw out the batter at first. Moore scored on West's fly to Dallessandro and Sisti counted on Miller's two bagger to left.

LEE, PASSEAU PITCH TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 15.—Bill Lee and Claude Passeau will work for the Cubs tomorrow in the double header with the Bees, who will contribute Lou Fette and Joe Sullivan to the bargain entertainment.

Some of Gabby Hartnett's relatives and friends are coming in tomorrow from nearby Millville, Mass., so the Cub manager is going to give them a treat. He'll catch the game in which Lee pitches.

Larry French admits he hopes to see more of the Bees between now and the end of next September. He has beaten them three times while winning eight games this year.

Giants Defeat Pirates, 12-1; Take 2d Place

New York, June 15 (AP).—With Pitcher Hal Schumacher and Catcher Harry Danning providing all the fireworks, the New York Giants went into second place in the National league today with a 12 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The victory, coupled with Cincinnati's loss to Brooklyn, gave the Giants second place by .014 percentage points.

Schumacher pitched a five hitter, fanned seven and had a perfect day at the plate—three singles and two walks—while Danning hit for the cycle, getting a single, double, triple and homer in his last four times at the plate. Score:

The Dodgers disposed of Bucky Walters with two three run clusters in the first three innings and caused the righthander to retire with his third consecutive defeat after winning nine games in a row. Five of the seven hits Walters gave were doubles and one a homer.

Cincinnati battled with an eight hit offensive that included four home runs, two of them by Ernie Lombardi, and succeeded in routing Tex Carleton in the fourth inning, but Tot Pressnell silenced them with two-hit relief pitching for his third triumph of the season. Score:

HASH MAKES JUST THAT OF THE SOX; BOSTON WINS, 5-2

Cronin, Tabor, and Desautels supplied easy outs.

In the fourth, the White Sox rallied with three bases on balls and a single to tie the score. With one down, Hash pitched a dozen straight wide ones to Appling, Larry Rosenthal, and Eric McNair to load the bases. Then Tresh lined a single to center, scoring Appling and Rosenthal. Dietrich hit into a double play.

Boston Comes Right Back.

The Red Sox were in no mood for a tie and cut loose to correct the situation at the earliest possible moment. Doerr opened the fifth with a single to center and scored on Cramer's triple to right center. Cramer scored on Finney's fly to Mike Kreevich.

LYONS, KNOTT TO PITCH

Two noble old timers will oppose each other in the first game of this afternoon's Boston-Chicago double header in Comiskey park. It will be Lefty Grove vs. Ted Lyons. Then, in the second game, Jack Wilson vs. Jack Knott will operate.

Tomorrow will be an off day. The Yankees will play in Comiskey park in single games Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

SLAUGHTER AND CARDINALS BEAT PHILLIES, 14 TO 1

Philadelphia, Pa., June 15 (AP).—Morton Cooper held the Phillies to four singles today while his St. Louis Cardinal teammates pounded three enemy pitchers for 19 safeties and an easy 14 to 1 victory. Three of the Phillies' hits came in the first two innings. After that only two Philadelphia men reached first. Ernie Koy's grounder and Johnny Mize's single drove Walt Beck from the mound in the first inning. Si Johnson held the Cards in check until the sixth when Clyde Smoll came in.

Slaughter drove in three runs with three hits to lead the attack.

PACIFIC COAST, BIG 9½ AWAIT ALL-STAR MEET

Track Teams to Clash in Twilight Tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The outstanding athletes of the Pacific Coast conference, selected after the conference meet last month, are ready for a fourth engagement with the stars of the Western conference. The rival teams meet tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock daylight saving time in Dyche stadium, and while there is no doubt that the westerners will win and probably take more than half of the 16 individual and relay titles, the caliber of the competition insures a spectacle second only to the national collegiate championships.

The first of this series of track and field meets between the nation's greatest collegiate athletic associations was held on the Pacific coast in 1937. In 1938 Chicago and the midwest had its first view of the stars. The location of the games has followed the site chosen for the national collegiate track meet, and since this meet will be held in Minneapolis June 21 and 22, the interconference clash was returned to Dyche stadium.

Pleases Hopes of Founders.

In many respects this pioneering project of interconference track and field meets has met the hopes of those who founded the games. To some degree the receipts help defray expenses to the national collegiate meet. The games also increase interest in the sport. More important, this competition between the conferences, which have the same standards of eligibility and the same amateur ideals, may lead to inclusion of other sports in the interconference program.

The success of tomorrow night's meet depends on last minute patronage. Advance sales never indicate interest in track and field. But with the starting time set for 7 o'clock, and with reserved seats scaled at $1.50, general admission at $1, and children's admission at 25 cents, there is every reason to believe Chicago and Evanston will turn out a crowd far larger than the crowd at the Big 9½ games last month.

Track Coaches Gather.

Bill Ellington of Stanford is head coach of the Pacific coast team, altho several of the other coaches are here en route to the national collegiate meet in Minneapolis. Most of the western athletes have worked out daily in Dyche stadium since Friday. This date also was the announced time for the Big 9½ stars to report. All were on hand yesterday. The team's headquarters is the North Shore hotel, Evanston. The coast team is quartered at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The Western conference has not named a head coach. It is possible that at least eight of the 10 track coaches in the Big 9½ will be present tomorrow evening.

The streamlined meet is attractive, since only an hour and 35 minutes will be required to conclude the games. But of all the individual races and field events in the program that will be the center of attention, the 100 yard dash may be the most important. Except for the discus, the Pacific coast is expected to win all field events. The decision is predetermined in many of the races. But Myron Piker of Northwestern, who has never been defeated in a Western conference short sprint, matches his speed against that of Clyde Jeffrey of Stanford at 100 yards.

Junior College Product.

Jeffrey has been called the most recent of the plethora of world's fastest humans. He enrolled at Stanford from Riverside, Cal., Junior college after the 1938 track season when, among other honors, he won the Kansas relays 100 yard dash championship.

Piker may lose this race, altho his time in the Big 9½ meet was better than Jeffrey's winning time on the coast, but Piker and Alan Smith of Michigan will have a vote in both of the sprints. Smith was nosed out by Piker in the Western conference 100 and reversed the decision in the 220 yard race.

The Western conference will have the same trio of sprinters in each of the two races. George Franck of Minnesota is the third dash man. Hal Sinclair of U. C. L. A. is entered in both sprints, as is Jeffrey. Mickey Anderson, Southern California quarter back, will run the 100 yard dash, and Barney Willis, a teammate, has been entered in the 220 yard sprint.

Other outstanding individual competitions are Lee Orr of Washington State against Warren Breidenbach of Michigan in the quarter mile, Campbell Kane of Indiana and Lou Zamperini of Southern California in the mile, Ralph Schwarzkopf of Michigan and Dixie Garner of Washington State in the two mile run; Ed Smith, Wisconsin's champion high hurdler, and Jim McGoldrick of Washington in the 120 yard hurdles, and Archie Harris of Indiana, who must defeat Stan Andersen of Stanford to win the discus throw.

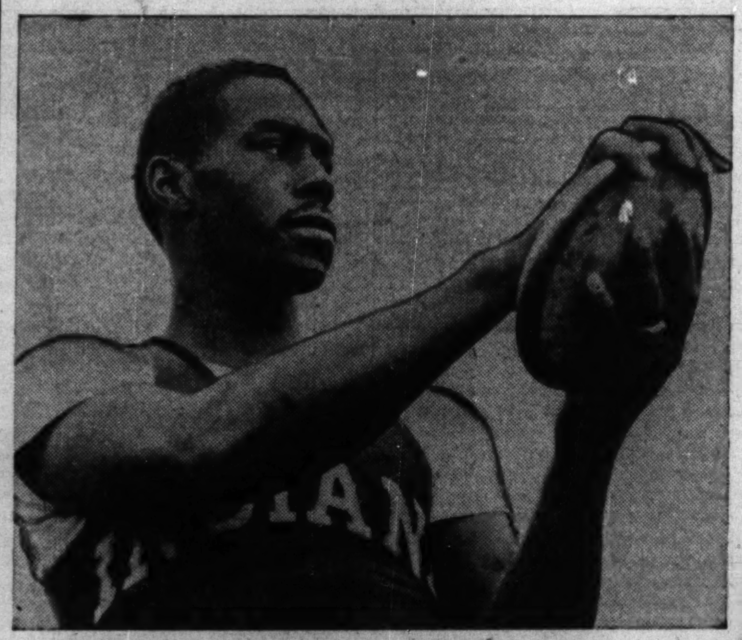
Stoeber's Five Hits Help Flint Whip Lansing, 14-7

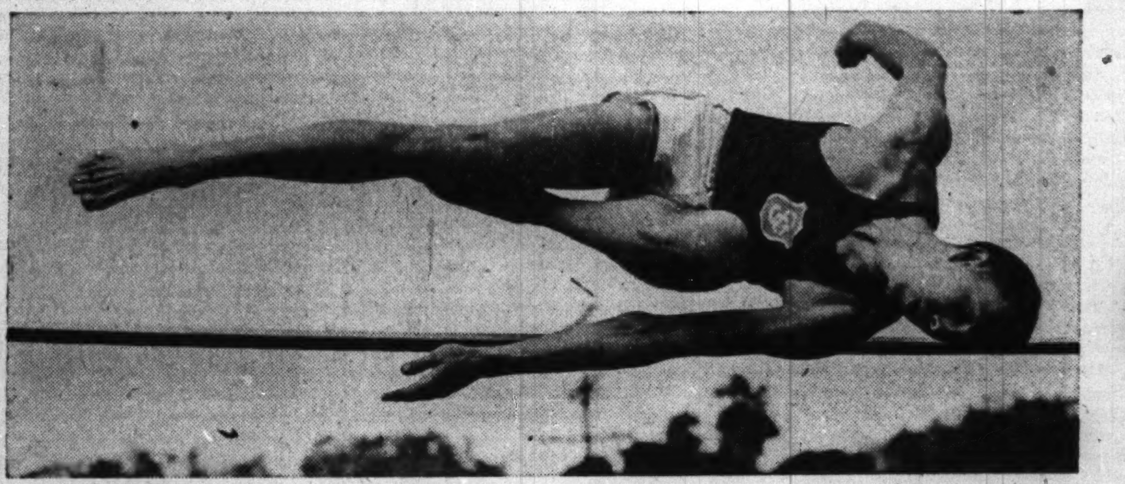
Flint, Mich., June 15 [Special].—Catcher Harry Stoeber drove in five runs with five hits in six times at bat today to lead Flint to a 14 to 7 victory over Lansing. Score:

Lansing ....011 000 203— 7 12 4
Flint ....001 033 70*—14 18 2
Batteries—Phipps, Scott and Wrenn; Lange, Schulz and Stoeber.

IT'S PACIFIC COAST VS. BIG 91-2 IN THE TWILIGHT

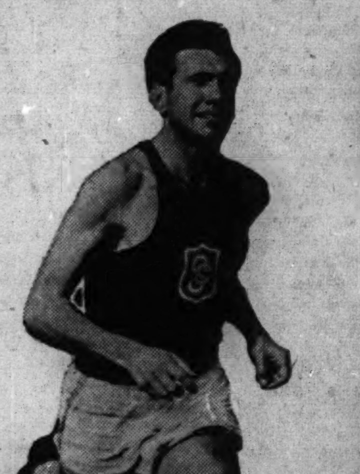


Archie Harris of Indiana is one of the foremost threats of the Big 9½ all-stars to score heavily against the Pacific Coast all-star track team in their twilight meet in Evanston tomorrow. Harris won the Big 9½ discus throw with a record toss of 166 feet 5¾ inches and heaved the shot 51 feet 5⅛ inches for another Western conference title



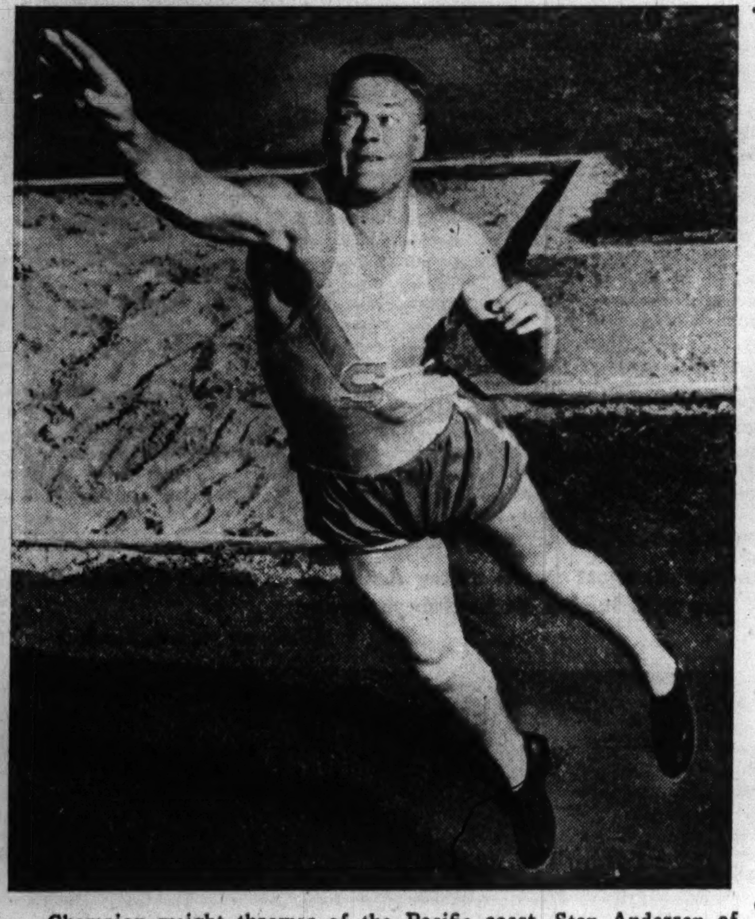
John Wilson of Southern California is the far westerners' high jumping star. He cleared 6 feet 7 inches in the Coast conference meet and has soared even higher this season.

Big 9½ champion for the 220 yard dash is Alan Smith of Michigan. He won the 1940 title in 21 seconds and placed second in the 100 yard event.



Holder of the national collegiate one mile record of 4:08.3 and winner of the title for the last two years, Louis Zamperini of Southern California won the Pacific Coast mile this year in 4:11.6. He also runs the 880 and two miles.

Nationally famous quarter miler is Lee Orr of Washington State. He won the Princeton invitation 440 in :46.8 and the Pacific Coast title in :46.9. Orr also won the conference 220 yard low hurdle championship in :23.3.



Champion weight thrower of the Pacific coast, Stan Andersen of Stanford won conference titles this year by shoving the shot 52 feet 8⅝ inches and twirling the discus 159 feet 3¾ inches.

No. 1 sprinter of the Coast squad, Clyde Jeffrey, Stanford captain, won conference titles at 100 and 220 yards. He has equaled the world record of :09.4 for the shorter distance and has bettered :21 for the furlong.

Undefeated at his specialty in two seasons of Big 9½ competition, Myron Piker of Northwestern threatens Jeffrey in the 100 yard dash. He won the conference 100 in :09.7, placed second in the 220.

Ed Buxton of Wisconsin, winner of the Big 9½ title in 1:52.5, bids for first place in the 880 yard run tomorrow in a field of speedy half milers, including Dale of Washington State, Pacific Coast champion.

Thousands Pay Last Tribute at Noble Kizer Funeral Rites

Lafayette, Ind., June 15 [Special].—Sorrowing throngs from the Purdue campus, from athletic departments of leading universities, and the ranks of Purdue and Notre Dame alumni of many cities, gathered in Central Presbyterian church today for the funeral of Noble E. Kizer, athletic director at the local institution, who died Thursday.

The simple but impressive services were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. William R. Graham.

The gathering of collegiate sports celebrities at the services was like a roster of "Who's Who in Sport." They came from many parts of the country, and included members of the Four Horsemen, national championship team at Notre Dame of which Kizer was a member; Mrs. Knute Rockne, widow of the famous coach; Elmer Layden, Harry Stuhldreher, and Jim Crowley, three of the Horsemen, as well as athletic directors and football coaches from all Western conference universities.

Put First Things First.

As flags fluttered at half staff at Purdue and thruout the community, Dr. Graham, in his sermon, said of Kizer: "In all his plans and labor for success there was an overtone—something plus—which found two characteristic expressions:

"First—Loyalty to the honor and central purpose of the university which he and his teams represented. In the environment in which he lived and worked, he did not waver in putting first things first.

"Second—The willing acceptance of that responsibility which all true leaders of men must feel—to put personality and character above and beyond the goal of immediate success."

Reading of Scripture, a short prayer, and organ music completed the church services. Active pallbearers, headed by Mal Elward, Kizer's successor as head football coach, included active workers in the athletic department, while honorary pallbearers included Purdue officials, leading townspeople as well as athletic department heads and coaches from many leading universities.

Burial in Plymouth, Ind.

Immediately after the services, with Lafayette police providing an escort, the funeral party proceeded to Plymouth, Ind., Kizer's home town, where the body was interred in the family lot in Oak Hill cemetery. At the grave, Dr. Graham was assisted by the Rev. C. A. Sickafoose of the United Brethren church of Plymouth, the family church.

Besides those mentioned, others who attended the funeral included:

Francis Schmidt, head football coach, and H. G. Olsen, basketball coach, Ohio State; K. L. Wilson, athletic director; Lynn Waldorf, head football coach and Burt Ingwersen, assistant football coach, Northwestern; Athletic Director Wendell Wilson and Charles Bowen, University of Illinois; E. G. Schroeder, athletic director at Iowa; Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan football coach; Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director; Bo McMillin, football coach, and Branch McCracken, basketball coach of Indiana university; George Koegan, Notre Dame basketball coach; Dean J. E. McCarthy and Prof. Benitz, Notre Dame faculty; J. Arthur Haley, Notre Dame business manager of athletics; William J. Cerney, assistant football coach at Notre Dame and a Four Horseman teammate of Kizer; Charley Bachman, Michigan State football coach; Ralph Young, Michigan State athletic director; Nelson Metcalf, University of Chicago athletic director.

Anglers Urged to Defer Start of Bass Season

BY BOB BECKER.

The black bass fishermen of the middle west have every reason to be a little restless and watching the calendar these days, because they soon will be able to throw their lures at this great game fish. In the northern zone of Illinois the zero hour is today.

Illinois permits the taking of bass in the northern counties starting this morning, but Dr. George Bennett of the state natural history survey believes this to be a little early this year for the good of the bass. William Lodge, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, reported several days ago that Dr. Bennett had been checking the spawning of bass downstate and had found the fish to be behind on their schedule as compared with other years.

Asks Two Weeks for Spawning.

It is Dr. Bennett's suggestion that sportsmen refrain from bass fishing until about two weeks after the legal opening date. He feels that this two weeks will give the fish time to finish their spawning. Otherwise fishermen are going to kill thousands of spawning fish and prevent the development of many more thousands of bass for future stocking of our lakes.

Anglers who prefer Wisconsin lakes for their bass fishing can start tossing lures Thursday morning in most section of the state. Exceptions to this rule are Green lake in Green Lake county, and outlying waters such as Sturgeon bay, Baileys Harbor, Egg Harbor, and other waters surrounding Door county. In these waters the season doesn't open until July 1. The Michigan bass season opens June 25.

Two Minnesota Seasons.

Minnesota launches its season on the bronze backs in the upper zone beginning June 21. It's possible to take these fish in the southern half of the state right now, for May 29 was the starting date in the lower zone. Ontario, naturally, has a later opening date on bass because all fish spawn later the farther north the waters are. Across the line, July 1 is the big day for the bass fishermen, and many doubtless will be in the Lake of the Woods region to start fishing on that date.

The western part of Michigan has some nice little bass lakes. For example, fishermen may find Big Star lake, due north of Muskegon and east of Michillinda, a pretty good bet if water and weather are right. This is a 700 acre lake, with lily pads and other good cover for fish. Both fly and bait casting rods are effective.

500 Acre Bass Lake.

Due east of Ludington on highway 37 is a 500 acre bass lake known as Wolf lake which is well stocked with both small and large mouthed bass. The shore line usually is good around sundown.

Farther from Chicago [but a good bet] is the Manistee river flowage above Mesick. [Route 41 to Manton and east on M-42.] There are lots of stumps in the big water—excellent for bass. You go up the river for small mouths. There's a nice trip from highway 131 down. Boats are available and it's wise to take a guide for a boat trip.

427 Entered in Dog Show at Waukegan

Thomas Halpin and C. J. Casselman, Chicago dog breeders whose collies have won many awards in dog shows all over the country, have entered six collies in the Northbrook Kennel club show to be held today in the new National Guard armory, Waukegan. One of their veteran campaigners, Champion Hertzville Historian, will be a favorite in the collie judging, and Hertzville Blue Heavenly, Hertzville Blue Hazzar, and Thornycroft Bluecoat will be benched with two other Hertzville dogs.

Other prominent Chicagoland fanciers who have entered dogs in today's show are Mrs. Groverman Ellis of Wayne, Irish wolfhounds and Cairn terriers; Emily Schweitzer of Northbrook, Irish setters; H. J. Cooper of Franklin Park, English and Irish setters; Ben L. Boalt of Milwaukee, Golden retrievers; Conway Olmsted of Lake Forest, bulldogs; Hulburd Johnston of Lake Forest, dachshunds; Harold Florsheim of Deerfield, Airdale and Welsh terriers, and Potter Palmer III. of Chicago, pointers and English setters.

A total of 427 dogs of 42 different breeds will compete, with judging scheduled to start at 10 a. m. Edmund J. Tyler, veteran Chicago judge, will select the best dog in the show late this evening.

Two of the best known dog trainers in Chicagoland are featured in today's show, the first licensed American Kennel club event ever held in Waukegan. Ludwig Gessner will serve as the judge of the obedience classes and Willy Necker of Wheeling will give an exhibition with his trained Dobermanns.

Watson Holds Big Decathlon Lead; Todd 2d

Cleveland, O., June 15 (AP).—Bill Watson, former University of Michigan track star, took a commanding lead today in the two day national decathlon competition.

The Negro star, whose main strength lies in the field events, not only scored his expected triumphs in the broad jump and shot put, but also turned in a new national decathlon mark of 10.8 seconds for the 100 meter dash to win three of the day's five trials.

His day's work gave him 4,291 points at the half way mark, against 3,868 for Lee Todd, 25 year old University of Colorado graduate student, and 3,821 for Joe Scott of Western Reserve university, the defending champion.

By throwing the 16 pound shot 50 feet 1½ inches, Watson picked up 953 of a possible 1,000 points, and his winning broad jump leap of 24 feet ¾ inch gave him another 919. The 100 meter record was good for 902 more and allowed him to fall behind in the high jump and 400 meter dash and still lead the field.

Todd turned in the best performance in the 400 meter event, winning in 50.7 seconds, while Scott cleared the bar at 6 feet in the high jump to tie for first with Uyval C. Jones, Detroit track star from Wayne university, who was fourth with 3,756 points.

Alphonso Gavrilavicz, Michigan Normal club, 3,554; Michael Schelb, Michigan State college, 3,178; Leslie Netzen, Kent state, 3,172; Ed Moisieo, Ashtabula, O., 3,120; Fred Schleicher, unattached, 2,578.

SWEEPIDA WINS $10,000 HANDICAP AT HOLLYWOOD

Los Angeles, Cal., June 15 (AP).—H. C. Hill's Sweepida won the $10,000 Will Rogers handicap at Hollywood park today. The highly regarded Woof Woof and Big Ben finished out of the money. Weigh Anchor ran second and Last Gold third.

Sweepida paid $32, $13.20 and $7.40; Weigh Anchor $5 and $2.80, Last Gold $4.80. Sweepida, ridden by Jockey Ralph Neves, was timed at 1 minute 23 4-5 seconds for the seven furlongs.

NANLAND FIRST TO FINISH IN RACE TO MICHIGAN CITY

Gloriant's Corrected Time Is Fastest.

Michigan City, Mich., June 15 [Special].—Gloriant, Anthony Herrmann's long, narrow racing sloop from the Racine, Wis., Yacht club, and Dr. S. H. Crossland's 58 foot schooner, Nanland, flying the Michigan City Yacht club burgee, were major winners in the Columbia Yacht club's 49th annual Michigan City race today. Light northeast winds slowed the fleet.

Nanland was the first yacht to finish the 32 nautical mile race, requiring 5 hours, 19 minutes, and 38 seconds elapsed time. The crew consisted of Dr. Crossland, owner-skipper; Rear Commodare James Dean of the Michigan City Yacht club; Don Bussey, and Joseph Finerty. Four passengers also were carried aboard the schooner, but the four yachtsmen handled all the canvas. At one time Nanland was sailing as slow as 2½ knots, but near the finish increased its speed to 7½ knots. The schooner won both the cruising division time prize and first place in the A class.

Gloriant's Time Is Fastest.

Second to finish was Revenge, Blair Walliser and Ken Griffin's Chicago Yacht club racing cutter. Gloriant was third. Gloriant had the fastest corrected time of any entry in the race, 5 hours 3 minutes and 57 seconds. That this is no record for speed is shown by the fact that the record for this course under sail is about three and one-half hours. Gloriant won the racing division of the Mackinac race last year in the same kind of weather that prevailed today. Gloriant won both the racing division time prize and first in the large Universal class.

Surprise of the racing fleet was the victory of Ariel, Lipton Cup champion, now owned and sailed by Robert Richheimer of the Columbia Yacht club. Ariel defeated six Belmont harbor R class sloops.

Southern Cross Tenth.

An hour after the star, Ed Olin's Columbia Yacht club cutter Ruth S. was still leading the fleet out of Chicago, but the larger cruising and racing sailors soon overtook it and moved ahead. Southern Cross, Robert Benedict's 55 foot yawl from the Jackson Park Yacht club, defending the Rubinkam trophy for the cruising time prize, sailed south along the dunes in a vain attempt to catch a better wind than the main body of yachts in the race. ANDY K. CAPTURES $10,000 RACE AT DELAWARE PARK

Stanton, Del., June 15 (AP).—Andy K., speedy son of Jack High and Alice Foster, today won the $10,000 added Kent handicap at Delaware Park before 15,000. Altho running wide, the Millsdaie stable's bay colt reached the wire 2½ lengths in front of Brandon stable's Pass Out. A neck behind Pass Out was John Hay Whitney's Gramps, with Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Kentucky Derby winner, Gallahadion, fourth, a length further behind.

Carrying top weight of 124 pounds, Andy K. followed the pace of Joseph E. Widener's Roman to the quarter pole, then went out in front under the urging of Jockey Moose Peters. Roman tired rapidly in the stretch and finished ninth in the 11-horse field.

Andy K. covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45. He returned $8.70, $5.10, and $4.30 for a $2 mutuel ticket. The victory was worth $10,100 to Anthony Pelleteri and Melvin Emerich of New Orleans, owners of the Millsdale stables, and boosted Andy K.'s winnings to $24,350.

COLLEGE CREWS CLIMAX SEASON IN TWO RACES

Oarsmen Compete Tuesday at Poughkeepsie.

New York, June 15 [Special].—The end of the trail comes next week for all intercollegiate crews that move toward the objective of a four mile race.

On Tuesday, over the famous four miles of the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, eight varsity crews will fight it out over the lanes that stretch from Krum Elbow to the point below the Mid-Hudson bridge that marks the end of the race.

And on Friday, Yale and Harvard will pick up the thread of the oldest tradition in American college sport on the Thames.

In neither race is there the pronounced favorite there has been in the last couple of years. For many years Harvard has been coming to New London as a real favorite, and probably will be favored again when the crews row away from the railroad bridge Friday. It is an upstream race this year, but the magic of undefeated years was broken this season when Cornell's fine varsity crew stopped the Crimson at Ithaca last May, and that same Cornell crew has helped materially to provide excitement at Poughkeepsie.

Columbia Has Outside Chance.

For the first time in many years, the east enters this classic of the Hudson regarded as being in possession of at least as good a chance as the west. It is even possible that Cornell will go to the starting line as a favorite, the first time since 1929 that the east has sent a favorite to the post.

Nor will Cornell be alone as the east's main threat. On the opposite bank of the Hudson during the training period there has been a Columbia crew that lost only to Yale, and that by feet, and the Lions have improved in their training period in the Hudson.

Washington and California have sent two more excellent crews to Poughkeepsie, the former reaching the Hudson as the strongest sort of favorite. The Huskies had defeated California in their annual race on the coast and they were presumably a great eight. But, they haven't come along as well in training here in the east.

California, defeated handily in the annual Pacific coast race, has come along rapidly in Poughkeepsie and at times has appeared as the smoothest and perhaps the fastest of the western crews.

These two, despite their showing in training, are regarded with the utmost respect by all of the others. The Cornell, Columbia, Washington, and California crews must be regarded as having an excellent chance to win, but there is a bigger crop of dark horses at Poughkeepsie this season than in any recent year.

Wisconsin a Dark Horse.

Navy, defeated in all of its pre-Poughkeepsie races, has shown definite improvement. Syracuse, likewise routed in its preliminary races, is known to have the strength and the material to be included among the potential winners. Wisconsin, with several fast time trials, has caused wonder among those who have been watching the training on the Hudson and who were ready to consign the midwesterns to the second division after their race with Syracuse.

Then there is Princeton, rowing here for the first time. No one expects much from the Tigers in their experimental year, but they have shown signs at times of being more than an average crew.

The net result of the week's training has been to convince observers that there are more good crews and that these men as a group are in better physical condition than in recent years. It is possible that Poughkeepsie will produce something in the way of a surprise for the first time in many regattas.

Rivalry Started in 1852.

Over at New London, Yale and Harvard come together again, as they have been doing since 1852. Harvard, with the tradition of four victories in a row behind it and an admittedly fine crew, will face a Yale outfit that more or less has its back to the wall. Yale wants to win this race more than it has in recent history, and this has been evidenced by the experiments that have been tried by Ed Leader, Yale's coach. It is not often that a coach will experiment with a stroke when he has reached the four mile training period. Leader has done that this year.

There is the strong feeling that Yale, defeated only by Cornell and by a few feet, has the best chance it has had in years.

The New Haven railroad has made special arrangements to accommodate the crowds expected to leave New York for the Yale-Harvard races. At New London observation trains will follow the races.

POLICE NINE AND GLENVIEW CLASH TUESDAY NIGHT

The North Side Policemen's baseball team, scheduled to face the South Side bluecoats in the annual police charity series opening June 29, will tune up Tuesday night against the Glenview Athletic club semi-pro team in Roosevelt Park, Glenview, Ill. The game is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., and marks the first appearance of the police team in Glenview.

The North Siders' star pitcher, Mike Delaney, will pitch against Glenview, and Dick Stahlman, former Chicago Bears' tackle and New York Giants' catcher, will catch. Manager Fred Lueth of Glenview will rely on Gilbert Brun, former hurler with Springfield of the Three-Eye League, to check the police team.

Western State Baseball Team Beats Alumni, 11-4

West's Regatta Contenders

Snead, Guldahl Take Lead in Inverness Golf

Toledo, O., June 15 (AP).—The sixth annual $6,400 Inverness four ball golf matches turned into a free-for-all scrap today with four teams almost neck and neck as they awaited Sunday's final two rounds.

Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, leaders yesterday with a plus 10 score, absorbed two beatings today and dropped to fourth place. Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl took over the top spot with plus 8 as the result of a 2 up win over Jimmy Demaret and Dick Metz, and a 3 up win over Picard-Revolta.

Two Tied for Second.

Tied in second place with plus 6 were Demaret and Metz, and Harold [Jug] McSpaden and Lawson Little, altho each twosome was beaten once in today's double header.

Other standings at the five-sevenths mark; Gene Sarazen and Clayton Heafner, even; Horton Smith and Jimmy Thomson, minus 6; Ed Dudley and Billy Burke, minus 6, and Walter Hagen and Byron Nelson, minus 13.

With two rounds to go, Demaret and Metz led the subpar scorers with a best ball of 223, or 32 under even figures. Dudley and Burke were 15 under par, and the entire field was 199 strokes below regular figures for the 90 holes.

How It's Done.

Under the Inverness scoring plan a team gets a plus for each hole it finishes ahead of an opponent, while the losing team gets a minus equal to the number it finishes down.

Results of today's matches:

MORNING ROUND.

McSpaden-Little, 32—34—66, two up on Picard-Revolta, 33—34—67.
Snead-Guldahl, 32—33—65, two up on Demaret-Metz, 33—34—67.
Hagen-Nelson, 33—34—67, even with Smith-Thomson, 35—32—67.
Sarazen-Heafner, 32—34—66, one up on Dudley-Burke, 35—32—67.

Aron May Box Cocoa July 17 in Sox Park

Promoter Irving Schoenwald has started negotiations for a welterweight elimination bout between Milt Aron, No. 1 contender, and Louis [Kid] Cocoa, second foremost challenger, in Comiskey park July 17. It is reported that on Friday the National Boxing association will declare Henry Armstrong's 147 pound title vacant. In that case the winner of an Aron-Cocoa match likely will be given N. B. A. recognition as the new champion. Following his one round technical knockout of Johnny Barbara in Philadelphia last Thursday, Cocoa said he is ready to meet Aron anywhere, preferably in Chicago. Armstrong's consistent refusal to have anything to do with Aron is reason for the association's expected action.

Schoenwald's next show will be held in Marigold Gardens tomorrow, headed by a 10 round contest between Eddie Lander, west side junior lightweight, and Phil Saeli. An eight round secondary feature involves Tony Motisi, former Catholic Youth organization welterweight title holder, and Johnny Pleasant, erstwhile Golden Gloves lightweight champion. Matches of four rounds will bring together Johnny O'Hara, west side middleweight, and Harry Fredricksen; Hank Thorsen, Milwaukee light heavyweight, and Paul Frazier, and Bill Parsons, Danville lightweight, and Gene Ward.

Ben Moroz, Philadelphia boxer, who is reported to be 6 feet 10 inches tall and to weigh 280 pounds, has been matched to meet Ed [Tipperary] Murray of Cleveland in an eight round encounter in White City Thursday. The card is topped by a 10 round event involving Henry Wacker and Eddie Simms. . . . Bert Rubi, Detroit heavyweight, and Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer will be windup contestants in the first of a series of wrestling programs in Parichy stadium tomorrow. . . . Fred Grubmier will encounter Pete Schu, Argo heavyweight wrestler, in a mat headliner in White City tomorrow. . . . Joey Silva, Los Angeles featherweight, has been retired from the ring by Jack Laken, his manager, because of failing eyesight. The announcement was made following Silva's defeat at the hands of Willie Joyce in the Coliseum June 5. Last Dec. 5 a medical examiner for the Pennsylvania boxing commission discovered Silva's eyesight was impaired but allowed him to go thru with a fight against Tommy Cross in Philadelphia. Cross won a decision in 10 rounds.

C. Y. O. BICYCLE RACES TO OPEN ON WEDNESDAY

Jack Elder, athletic director of the Catholic Youth organization, announced last night that the first program of weekly bicycle racing will get under way next Wednesday evening in the Humboldt park bowl.

C., Noel Mortier of the Belgium club, Bob Cass of the C. Y. O., Tony Neberz of the Barrett A. C., Earl Kelley, former national champion, and Erwin Pesek.

The remainder of the program is made up of races from one mile to five miles for riders of all classifications. One of these is a half-mile handicap for all classes.

WOMEN GOLFERS PLAY TOMORROW IN STATE MEET

Western Junior Tourney Opens Tuesday.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The twenty-seventh annual junior tournament of the Western Golf association and the seventh annual state battle of the Chicago Women's District Golf association, two of the main events of the 1940 Chicago Golf season, will dominate the local competitive calendar this week.

The women's state battle will open tomorrow morning at the Aurora Country club, while the Western junior opens Tuesday morning at the Mill Road Farm course in West Lake Forest. It will be the first time a tournament ever has been played on the handsome Mill Road farm layout. The course is part of the estate which A. D. Lasker gave to the University of Chicago last winter. Maroon and Northwestern university authorities are collaborating with the W. G. A. in the conduct of the event. Contestants are being housed in Northwestern dormitories and are being given a three meal rate of 90 cents per day for their food.

Miss Williams Defends Title.

Ellamae Williams of Medinah is the defending champion in the state meet, which has become one of the best events of its kind in the country, developing women golfers who have gone on to make their marks in the national tournament. Former winners of the title include Dorothy Foster of Springfield; Hilda Mae Livengood of Danville, [twice]; Mrs. Virginia Vilas Norton of Glen View, and Eleanor Dudley of Ridge. Last year marked Miss Williams' sixth attempt to win. After five years as a contender, she made good with a 5 and 3 victory over Virginia Lindblad of Joliet at Freeport Country club.

Tomorrow's play at Aurora will consist of an 18 hole medal play round, with the low 16 or 32 scorers [depending on the total entry] gaining the match play bracket. This will open Tuesday morning and continue thru Friday's finals. Every entrant is assured of match play competition, because those who do not make the grade in the championship flight will play in additional flights of 16 each.

Junior Has National Scope.

The United States Golf association sponsors no regular competition for junior golfers, so that the Western junior is, properly speaking, a national event. Since 1914, when Charles Grimes defeated Lawson Watts in the first final match at the Chicago Golf club, the W. G. A. junior has been an incubator for many of the ablest amateurs in the country, as well as a number of professionals who started their careers as amateurs.

The junior was held for a number of years on the courses of private and daily fee clubs. In 1938, J. Leslie Rollins of Northwestern made the suggestion that the tournament be held annually on university courses, where the boys, many of whom had been hitchhiking their way to the meet and living on red hots and pop, could be housed and fed properly. The Rollins idea has proven a great success during its first two years. In 1938 at the University of Minnesota and last year at the University of Michigan.

Play For Team Title.

Tuesday's program includes 18 holes of qualifying play, which also will serve to determine the team championship. This latter permits any school or club which is a member of the W. G. A. to enter five players for the R. Arthur Wood trophy, donated by the one time president of the organization. The aggregate of the three low scorers of five from any school or club in Tuesday's play will be awarded the trophy.

The low 32 scorers Tuesday will qualify for the match play, which will continue with two 18 hole rounds on both Wednesday and Thursday, concluding with Friday's 36 hole championship match.

Pairings and starting times for the qualifying round of the Illinois women's state golf tournament at the Aurora Country club tomorrow follow:

Lawson, Gene, Ed in Same Threesome?

What would Locker Room members say to seeing Lawson Little, Gene Sarazen, and Ed Oliver playing in the same threesome thru the first two rounds of the $5,000 Chicago Open, when it is played at Tam O' Shanter on July 19, 20, and 21? . . . It may sound fantastic at this writing, but there is still a possibility that the threesome which finished the regular 72 holes of the 1940 National Open with 287s may yet get together on the same course. . . . While playing with Harley Greenamyre, the club pro, and Roy Shup, Rudy Vederbar of Acacia recently fired a double birdie on the 405 yard sixth hole. . . . His drive killed a bird and his second shot landed six inches from the pin for a second bird. . . . Frank Froschauer, former football and basketball star at the University of Illinois, is now swimming professional at Olympia Fields.

From 31 to 25—by W. H. Vandersluis.

He started out with a 31 handicap which has been reduced to 25 strokes. . . . Mrs. Hunter Brown got a hole in one on Glen Oak's No. 11 Wednesday in a match with Mrs. Ken Piper. . . . Jack Hanson of Medinah and Al Wittersheim of Nordic proved to be as able at toastmastering as they are at caddymastering when the district's caddy chiefs got together last week at Nordic.

Friday was a momentous day at Oak Park. . . . Manager Chick Bangs' springer spaniel, Duchess, became the mother of nine puppies, and Lloyd Mangrum, assistant pro, set a new record for shooting gophers, getting 14. . . . Each day this season Lloyd has taken his 410 shotgun and gone over the course on the hunt for the ground rodents. . . . Bill Laffoon of the Oak Park pro shop is Mangrum's official scorekeeper and claims his man has been averaging six gophers per day. . . . Mark Divine won the Wooden Cup contest at Park Ridge Wednesday. . . . Ruth Lake will hold its big event of the year—Tally-Ho day—next Saturday. . . . Mrs. Bansbach, who with her husband, son, and two daughters, form one of the most active golf families in the Chicago district, is endeavoring to form an interclub circuit for junior boy and girl players in the west section of the C. D. G. A. . . . Interested clubs to date are Butterfield, Mohawk, Elmhurst, Medinah, Nordic, Itasca, Glen Oak, and River Forest. . . . These junior events would be held on Fridays, with prizes for both boys and girls. . . . Later in the season, all would join with their fathers and mothers in a parent-junior event. . . . This is one of the best plans for amateur golf development The Locker Room has found since "Auntie" Booth got the kids in Detroit going.

"Don't Mind Me— I'm Just a Customer."

Maybe those bogeys to the National Open marshals should have been double ones. . . . The gallery shepherds at Cleveland made almost no effort to control the crowds, especially in the last round. . . . They were too eager to get up in the front pews themselves, disregarding players, press, and paying customers. . . . Eugene Garstki of the White Cap company never played golf in his life until recently, but shot 119 for 18 holes at Mission Hills. . . . On the 225 yard eighth hole he put his tee shot eight feet from the cup and holed out for a deuce. . . . J. W. Wally Apel, Ravisloe professional, is seeing nines these days, after watching the scores his members are posting. . . . The figure 9 is the most popular on Ravisloe score cards. . . . W. L. Phyllis Otto, the 15 year old Iowa girl who went to the semifinals of the Trans-Mississippi tourney the other day, owes much of her success to the teaching of Ed Stupple, Exmoor pro. . . . Ed began giving Phyllis lessons after the western junior last year at Exmoor. . . . Ted Quinn of Riverside is not satisfied with being C. D. G. A. tournament chairman. . . . He joined the Champion of Champions' field as a "ringer" the other day, and outdid many of the title holders wit ha 39—38—77. . . . His card included two deuces, but more interesting, it contained seven straight fours, from the eighth thru the 14th. . . . William Kroeger, Palmer House chef, has cooked up a new dish. . . . It's a hole in one, made on the 119 yard 13th at Jackson park with a No. 7 iron.

President Lanahan Wins Two Bits!

When Mike Lanahan was reelected president of Bob o' Link, it was not news. . . . But when Mike cashes a bet, that is news. . . . The other day he won a quarter from Jim Hart. . . . Mike immediately told the Bob o' Link operator to call his wife and said he would be home a little late. . . . Glen Oak is wondering if its record can be matched by any other Chicago district club. . . . It has 33% of its members in class A, 30% in class B, 19% in class C, and 13% in class D. . . . Jim Kidston has won the blind bogey two Sundays in a row at La Grange. . . . He's been accused of using the Dewey decimal system for doping the lucky number.

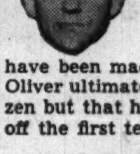
The Inquiring Golfer

THE QUESTION.

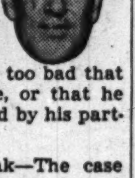
Do you think the U. S. G. A. should have made an exception to the rules in Ed Oliver's case, when he tied Lawson Little and Gene Sarazen in the National Open, but was disqualified?

THE ANSWERS.

John E. Lehman, Olympia Fields—I was a contestant at Cleveland and had a closeup view of the disqualification. It was an unfortunate incident, but the rule is explicit and I don't see how the U. S. G. A. could make an exception. It was apparent they were trying to get under way before the rain fell.



F. R. Bowen, Park Ridge—I was a spectator at the Open, and while the Oliver situation was a difficult one, I think the U. S. G. A. might have stretched a point and allowed him in the play-off. I think the exception should have been made not on the fact that Oliver ultimately tied Little and Sarazen but that he had only hit his drive off the first tee.



Lee M. Sawyer, Olympia Fields—A rule is a rule, particularly in a national championship, and while I agree that the disqualification was a tragic one from Oliver's standpoint, I still think that the U. S. G. A. made the correct decision. It's too bad that Ed didn't know the rule, or that he may have been influenced by his partners.

N. W. Cook, Glen Oak—The case was over a week ago yesterday as far as Oliver, the tournament, and the U. S. G. A. were concerned. Sarazen and Little did a fine thing in trying to get Ed into the playoff. But I feel that an exception should have been made, that the U. S. G. A. should have taken into consideration the eventual reaction of the public.

Ben Stevenson, Beverly—I think the U. S. G. A. made a big mistake in not permitting young Oliver to go into the playoff with Little and Sarazen. The tournament officials made other exceptions during the same event, but when it came down to the finish I think they missed a chance to be big.

LEWIS COLTS SET RECORDS; WIN IN AQUEDUCT RACES

Jacomar Takes Shevlin Stakes by Nose.

New York, June 15 [Special].—Mrs. Elizabeth Graham Lewis enjoyed her best racing day when her colts Jacomar and Chicuelo swept both Aqueduct stakes today at long prices, with new track records springing from their flying heels.

Jacomar won the $7,125 Shevlin stakes by a nose, in 1:42 4/5, at a price of $9.50 for $2. This victory came immediately after the youngster Chicuelo had won by three-quarters of a length in the $5,450 Tremont stakes, in 1:05 2/5, at $33.70 for $2.

Jacomar's victory in the Shevlin was eked out by the margin of the last inch of his chestnut nose, following a hard run mile and a sixteenth which shattered the old mark of 1:43 1/5. C. V. Whitney's Carrier Pigeon was second, followed by A. J. Sackett's Tola Rose, three lengths behind. Corydon, the Withers winner and conqueror of Bimelech, finished fourth, with Asp and Red Dock next in order.

War Result Runs 2d.

The Shevlin had a value to the winner of $5,250. The Tremont had a value to the winner of $4,500.

Chicuelo, a first starter, won the Tremont largely by sticking to the rail when other eligibles were running wide. War Result was second, four lengths ahead of Omission.

War Result, the early leader, stuck to the rail rounding the turn. Sun By and Big Stakes lost much ground, the flutter causing Omission to do poorly on the turn. These three were the main contenders.

In the Shevlin running Jacomar was clearly best, and he proved it the hard way. Tola Rose dashed away to the lead. Carrier Pigeon was the first to engage him, approaching the far turn. Jacomar, meantime, was in third or fourth position. Corydon and Red Dock, the favored entry, were not doing much. Aiming for the turn into the stretch, Anderson aboard Jacomar, abandoned his rail running tactics and took Jacomar outside and around. From the quarter pole home it was a keen battle. The result was a camera finish.

Gate Fails; $21,690 Returned.

Jacomar carried 111 pounds and in winning set the third of four new track records made during the afternoon.

The fourth of the new marks came in the sixth race, won by Westnesia, in which Regent was left at the post because the Puett electric gate failed to operate properly. Westnesia won for T. Lee Evans in 1:51 1/5, 1/5 of a second lower than the old mark.

The gate mixup provoked a knotty problem for racing officials, but it was settled promptly and to the satisfaction of the big crowd. The track management agreed to return $21,690 wagered on Regent and this pleased every one.

DUNCAN, ZALE DEFEND LEAD IN AUTO RACE

Mel Hansen of Los Angeles, Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis, Myron Fohr of Milwaukee, and a number of other star drivers will offer formidable opposition to Ted Duncan and Wally Zale of Chicago tonight in their fight for the early season midget auto racing championship at Riverview speedway, on Addison street near Western avenue. Duncan and Zale lead in the point standing.

Others who will face Starter Owen Lundgreen in the eight event program include Paul Russo of New York, Tony Willman of Milwaukee, Mike Salay of South Bend, and a group of Chicago drivers including Duke Nalon, Emil Andres, Jimmy Carls, Mike O'Halloran, Tony Bettenhausen, Pete Roncevich, Warren Erwin, Bert Knight, Chuck Niesel, Shorty Sorensen, Don Brummerstedt, Harry Lewis, Al Cummings, Dan Kladis, Larry Mott, and Tom Allen.

Duncan, who is driving a new Offenhauser said to be capable of 125 miles an hour on the straightaway, will make an effort to lower the speed record for one lap of the fifth of a mile oval.

Twelve will qualify in four eliminations at 10 laps each for the 30 lap main event. There will be a consolation at 15 laps for those who fail to qualify and a special handicap at 15 laps for the fastest eight cars in the time trials.

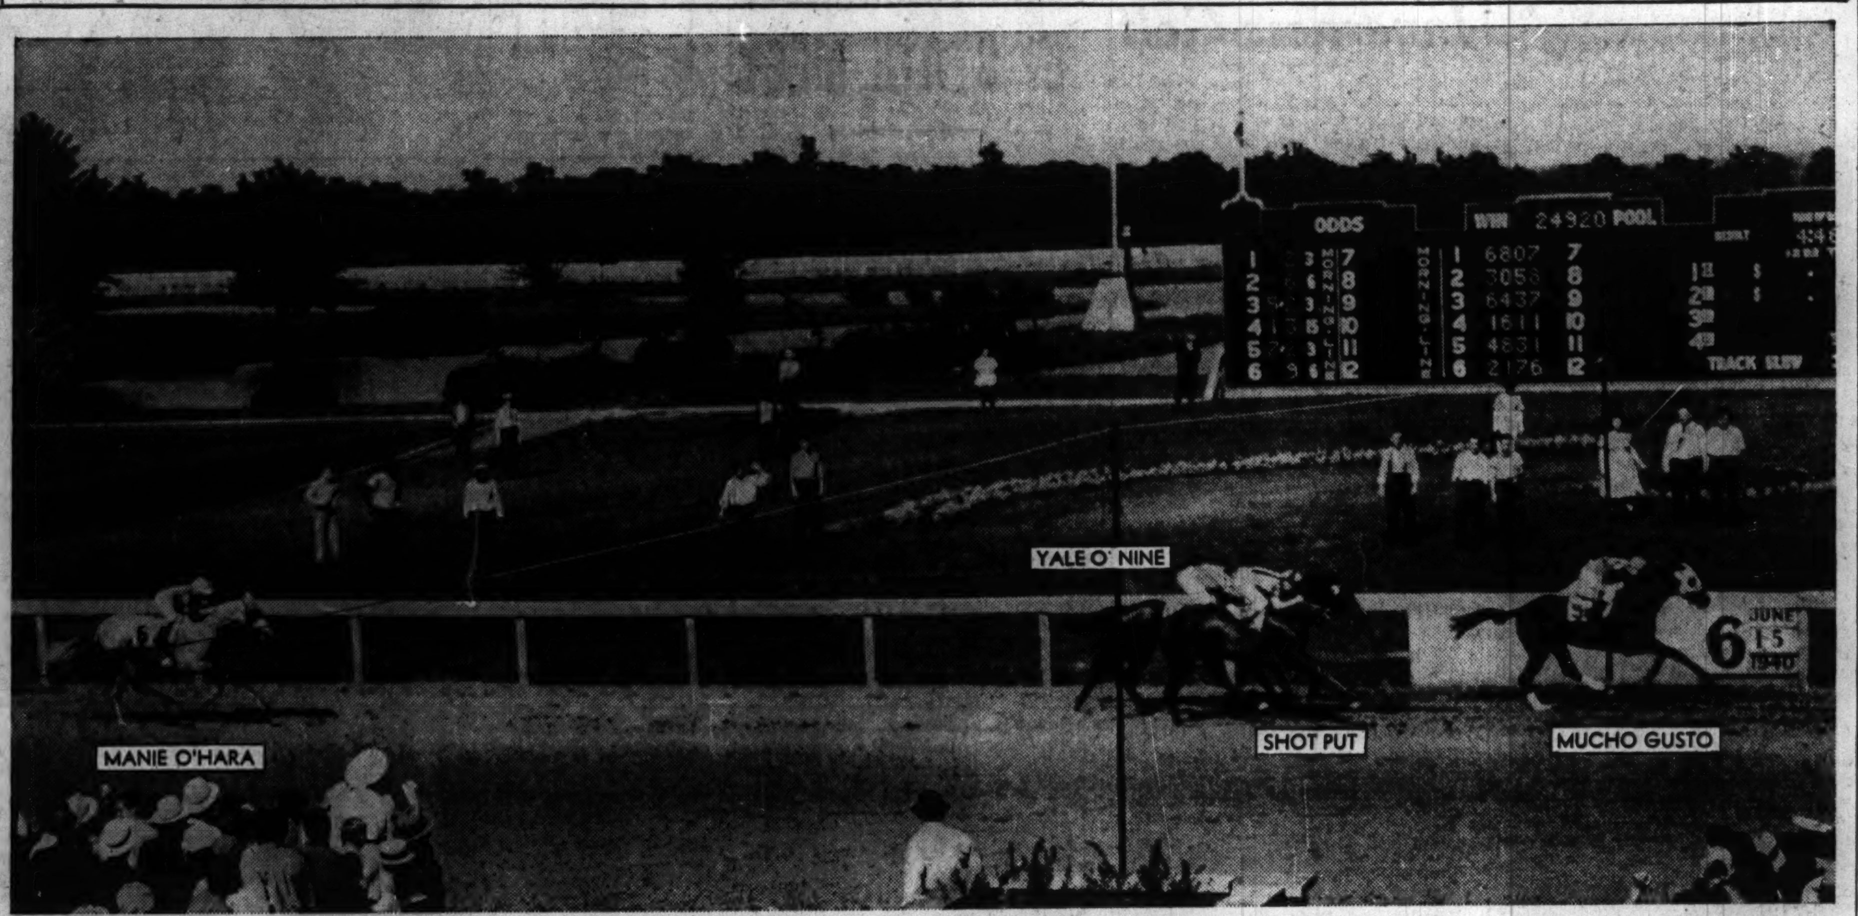
John Young, De Kalb Star, Gets Trial with Brewers

Rockford, Ill., June 15 [Special].—John Young of Rockford, star first baseman and heavy hitter of the De Kalb Teachers' college, will go to Milwaukee next week-end for a trial with the Brewers of the American association. He hit .408 for De Kalb this spring.

AN OLD CAMPAIGNER LEADS 'EM HOME AGAIN



Mucho Gusto, 8 year old handicap star, wins the $5,000 added La Salle handicap at Lincoln Fields yesterday, conquering such horses as Shot Put, Yale o' Nine, and Manie O'Hara, which finished in that order behind him. Mucho Gusto's margin of victory was a length and a half. He was only the third choice in the betting, but might have been the favorite off his showing. The victory ran Mucho Gusto's earnings to more than $80,000.

HI-CARL, slow to begin, lost ground when racing forward, closed with a rush, but failed to menace the winner. AGRONOMY, strong factory from the start, held on well. VALDINA NOMAD went evenly. WILD PIGEON, going in his best form and steadied early, was sent to the inside for the drive, forged to the front midway of the stretch, drew clear rapidly and, altho tiring in the last stages, outfinished SWEEP ROYTL. Latter, far back for three-eighths, improved his position thru the field and closed resolutely. MALEMAN, rushed to the front, attained a good advantage after disposing of HONEY ROLL, gave way to the winner and weakened rapidly thereafter. HONEY ROLL tired. SUGARAGE had no mishaps. O PLAY began rapidly, was steadied after opening a clear lead, responded well when shaken up entering the stretch and drew out to win easily. JERRY RAE followed the early pace under slight restraint, responded when called upon and, though no match for the winner, was much the best of the others. FLIGHTY MARIE raced evenly and tired in the drive, but managed to stall off BAROGRAPH.

CHICAGO POLICE BENEFIT GAMES TO OPEN JUNE 29

The men who direct traffic and guard the lives and property of Chicagoans will receive their homage June 29 and 30 and July 7, when the 18th annual police games will take place in Wrigley Field and Comiskey Park, respectively. Proceeds of the festivities are added to the fund which provides for the dependents of Chicago policemen killed in the line of duty.

Great enthusiasm is being shown in the championship baseball game between two nines representing the north and south side divisions of the force. Capt. John Cartan will head the south side team and Capt. Harry O'Connell will manage the north siders. The south siders won the title last year. In addition to the baseball skirmishing there will be a big program of athletic events on all three days.

pace and Yale O' Nine was close up. On the clubhouse turn, Day Dodger made a bid and Manie O'Hara drove thru on the rail to present another challenge, but still Mucho Gusto was galloping easily out in front, maintaining a margin of about a length over his rivals.

As they galloped down the backstretch Yale O' Nine came up and ran side by side with Day Dodger and Manie O'Hara. Jockey Al Craig began to move with Yale O' Nine as they went into the far turn and on the swing around the bend Tom Taggart's color bearer came up on even terms with Mucho Gusto.

Jockey Gets in Trouble.

They straightened out for the drive home and Yale O' Nine, racing on the outside, launched a rush that carried him to the front by half a length at mid-stretch. Then Oros went to the whip and Mucho Gusto, responding resolutely, again took command. But now a new threat appeared. Shot Put, which had been far back in the earlier stages, was coming with a tremendous rush right down the middle of the track. For a while he gained steadily, but then his effort was spent. Continuing boldly Mucho Gusto galloped on across the finish line to another victory as the others, thoroly beaten, gave up the pursuit.

While Mucho Gusto was cooling out, Ramsey went on to perform the remarkable feat of saddling the winners of the next two races to make it three in a row. He watched Mordecai get up along the rail to beat Frank Abbate's Goshen in the closing strides of the seventh race. Then he hustled back to the paddock to prepare Beau Insco for a successful effort in the eighth. This horse won by three lengths.

Jocky Bobby Vedder incurred a recommendation for a long and complicated suspension as a result of an occurrence in the fourth race followed by what the stewards described as an assault on Jockey George Martin. During the stretch drive in the fourth race, Vedder allowed his horse, Transport, to come over sharply against Witan, which was running next to the rail. The two were struggling for the lead at the time. Witan, ridden by Martin, was bumped off stride and Transport went on to win while Sanctity got up to finish second, Witan being third.

Transport Is Disqualified.

Transport was disqualified, the others being moved up, and Vedder was suspended for the remainder of the meeting. The stewards recommended that the suspension be extended for an additional 10 days to make a total of 15. Later in the afternoon the stewards announced that it had been brought to their attention that Vedder had assaulted Martin after the race. Accordingly they recommended an additional suspension of 60 days, making the total 75.

Boys and Girls Have Big Day at Hinsdale Show

BY BETTY BROWNING.

The younger generation literally stole the show yesterday at the Oak Brook polo field, where the Hinsdale Junior Infant Welfare society and the Hinsdale Horse Show association sponsored the first day of their annual horse show. Dozens of youthful riders distinguished themselves, not only in events of their own, but in competition with some of the most seasoned equestrians in the Chicago area.

It was the girls' day, even more than the boys'. Teen aged Jane Markman of La Grange won first place in the ladies' hunter class, in the face of keen competition from veterans, and placed first also in the green hunters' class. Several spectators noted the resemblance of her riding to that of Mrs. Louis Swift, known as one of the city's finest horsewomen, who placed second and fifth on two mounts in the latter class.

Mrs. Salisbury Takes 2d, 3d.

Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, another noted horsewoman, won second and third places in the ladies' hunter class on two of the Denison B. Hulls' grays. Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr. placed fourth in this class.

Jeanne Lee Hester of Morton Grove was another youthful rider who won more than her share of laurels. She placed first in the closely contested jumper class. She also put her mount, Beauty, thru typical circus paces.

Joy Salisbury, Ginevra Mitchell, and John F. Jelke III., all of whose parents are enthusiastic riders, each scored in various events, as did young Mary Ann Luke, Nancy Miller, Patsy Freer, Olive Lynn Gail, and 9 year old Jane Kroehler.

A thrilling moment was contributed by 8 year old Charles Jacobucci. He jumped his horse over the tonneau of an open car. More thrills were provided by four Cuban Cossacks of the Black Horse squadron, and by Capt. William F. Kirby, who rode the squadron's trick jumping horse, El Lobo, over formidable alignments of barrels.

Boy and Girl Scouts Help.

The weather man did his part to make the show a success by maintaining its 11 year tradition of perfect weather. The Boy Scouts cooperated, too, by selling soft drinks to swell the show's proceeds, and the Girl Scouts took and delivered orders for the light lunches thru which the Junior Infant Welfare society raised still more money for underprivileged babies. Proceeds of the show, as in other years, will be used to further the society's work.

The show will be concluded today. It is the largest yet held in Hinsdale, with 17 more horses entered than in any previous year.

Williams said that small arms experts will be here representing private gun clubs, National Guard companies, Reserve Officers' corps units, United States army posts and state, park and city police organizations thruout Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Michigan.

SAPELO TAKES FIRST PLACE IN STEEPLECHASE

Roslyn, N. Y., June 15 (AP).—Mrs. Marion du Pont Scott's Sapelo, stablemate of the famed Battleship which a few years ago topped the Grand National field at Aintree, whipped a stylish field in the Bowman steeplechase, top event on the United Hunts card over the Charles Hickox acreage today.

The 6 year old son of Son O' Battle was given a magnificent ride by Willie Jones and vindicated the favoritism bestowed on him by the socialite throng of 5,000.

This was the first hunt meeting held under the New York pari-mutuel law and was a great success, altho the handle was only $15,589. Rain curtailed the wagering on the first two races. But when the sun came out at the start of the Bowman, a two mile brush affair, there was a rush for the windows.

SPORTSMEN TO HOLD SHOW IN CHICAGO ARENA

Ray Meyers, president of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, with 125,000 sportsmen enrolled as members in 430 chapters thruout the state, yesterday announced plans for the Hunters and Winter Sports show, to be held Sept. 21 to 29 at the Chicago Arena. The exposition will be held in conjunction with the organization's midyear convention, opening Sept. 21 at the Hotel La Salle.

The federation coöperates with the Illinois state conservation department, directed by Thomas J. Lynch, in increasing the supply of fish, game birds, and other wild life in the state.

ATLASS STABLES WIN 3 EVENTS AT HINSDALE SHOW

Royal Jester Captures 2 First Places.

H. Leslie Atlass took the lead in first places yesterday at the 11th annual Hinsdale horse show with a total of three, two of which were scored by Royal Jester and one by High Tide. Both of these horses also captured a second, and Sterling Silver, from the Atlass stables, annexed a third place ribbon. All of the winnings came in the gaited saddle horse classes.

Jumper and hunter competition ended in a tie for honors between Mrs. A. C. Thompson and C. G. Speidel with two victories apiece. Master Johnny won the lightweight and ladies hunter events for Mrs. Thompson, while Springfield in the open jumpers and Santoy in the green hunters class accounted for the pair of firsts for Speidel.

Jane Markman Wins Twice.

The show will be concluded today with morning and afternoon programs climaxed by the settling of the three gaited, five gaited, hunter and jumper stake championships, as well as the Town and Country Equestrian association title for horsemanship by juvenile riders.

Jane Markman starred by guiding both of the Speidel horses to firsts. Jeanne Lee Hester was in the saddle for Mrs. Thompson and turned in a first on her own account on Her Mount Beauty in the skyscraper jumper event.

In addition to the Thompson, Speidel, and Hester contenders, prime favorites for the hunter and jumper crowns include Wallace Wakem's Sublety, Mr. and Mrs. Denison B. Hull's Frosty Morning and Ironic, Nancy Miller's Golden Bow, Ginevra Mitchell's Mary Lou, Mrs. Louis Swift's Frameup, and Lt. Col. P. W. Evans' Tamerlane, all of which figured prominently in place winnings yesterday.

Intruder Is Threat.

Looming up as most formidable for the three gaited title in addition to Royal Jester, the Atlass star, are Austin Selz's The One Rose, Joan Blosser's Queen Admire, Paddy Price's Miss Nite, and George F. Keller's Gold Standard.

Intruder, from the Lanham and Hollis stables, promises to furnish High Tide with the most severe competition in the five gaited stake, along with Marcell Duff's The Traveler, Dorothy Anne Batten's Skyline Highland, and Sue Finney's Gay Display.

GUARD POWER OUTPUT, ORDER OF ROOSEVELT

Offers 5 Point Plan for Defense.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—President Roosevelt today ordered the Federal Power commission to insure an adequate supply of electric power for the national defense program and to safeguard power sources against sabotage.

Leland Olds.

In a letter to Chairman Leland Olds, Mr. Roosevelt presented a five point program for the commission to undertake. Copies of letter were sent to the war and navy departments, the maritime commission, the Civil Aeronautics authority, the coast guard and the advisory commission of the council on national defense.

Under the program the New Deal would be able to push long cherished plans for the extension of government ownership and operation of the electric power system of the government under the guise of furthering the national defense.

600 Million Dollar Hook-Up.

For several years brain trusters have been toying with a 600 million dollar project to create a government owned and operated superpower grid, energized by four mammoth steam plants, which would hook all the private and public power producers and distributors east of the Mississippi into a vast industrial power system.

The announced objective of the plan, evolved long before outbreak of the war in Europe, was to develop sufficient power to operate at expanded capacity 24 hours a day the industries required to produce munitions for the army and navy. It was fathered by Thomas R. Tate, a federal power commission engineer.

It proposes the construction of a high tension electric power transmission system, carrying 220,000 kilovolt amperes, stretching from Port Washington, Wis., the Illinois coal fields and the Tennessee valley to the St. Lawrence valley and New England.

Strangle Hold on Industry.

All important private and public generating plants would be required to tie into the grid. Efficient plants would be called upon to turn out power. Those the government deemed inefficient, it would scrap. In this manner the New Dealers would have a life and death grip over private industry.

In his letter to Olds, Mr. Roosevelt said nothing of the cost of carrying out the program he presented, but called upon the power commission chief to study the needs of supplying interconnections between private plants and public utility systems. His five point program follows:

1. "To maintain contacts with the war and navy departments, the maritime commission, the Civil Aeronautics authority, coast guard, the advisory commission to the council of national defense, and the other government agencies concerned with national defense orders, to translate their orders and requests into demands for power, and to keep check on the adequacy of the power supply to meet such demands.

In Touch with Industries.

2. "To maintain contacts with vital national defense industries, to keep currently informed as to their present and prospective needs, to confer with the utilities with respect to supplying such needs in the most dependable and economical manner, and with respect to providing needed interconnections between private industrial generating plants and the utility systems.

3. "To maintain contacts with the electrical equipment industry, to keep monthly records of all orders placed for generating equipment, to keep check on existing stocks of transmission and distribution equipment and supplies with a view to maintaining them at an adequate level, and to recommend to the President priorities between orders.

Care for New Needs.

4. "To obtain monthly information from the utility industry as to loads so that increased requirements in any area can be anticipated and steps taken to meet them promptly; and to plan, in coöperation with the industry, for the most economical use of existing steam and hydro capacity, curtailment of less essential loads, emergency interconnections between systems, expansion of distribution systems to meet war industry requirements, additional generating capacity and, where utilities are unable or unwilling to undertake necessary construction, to report to the President the need of special arrangements to finance or otherwise further such construction.

5. "To work out plans for the protection of power supply against hostile acts, and to this end to coöperate with the utilities and government agencies, including the department of justice, in protecting generating stations, interconnecting transmission lines, important substations and distribution facilities required to assure power supply to key industrial plants."

Chicago Area to Get Power Capacity Boost

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Almost a third of a projected increase of 360,000 kilowatts in the generating capacity of stations that make up Chicago's giant electric power pool will be available for use this fall, officials of the Commonwealth Edison company disclosed yesterday.

This additional power will be ready to help Chicago industry to meet the demands of a nation rearming and it will be available to other areas linked to the power pool in the event of an emergency.

The actual increase this fall will be about 110,000 kilowatts, which will raise the present generating capacity of the Chicago power pool to 1,976,000 kilowatts.

Full Increase by 1942.

By the end of 1942 the full 360,000 kilowatt increase will raise the total to 2,226,000 kilowatts. [A kilowatt is roughly the equivalent of 1⅓ horse power.]

The additional power will be brought to Chicago this fall over a high tension line that will carry it 147 miles from Powerton [near Pekin]. The high tension line, nearing completion, consists of steel towers from 130 to 150 feet high on which wire is now being strung.

During the last winter the peak load of electricity supplied by the Commonwealth Edison companies to consumers was 1,542,000 kilowatts. However, this included power supplied a neighboring utility in an emergency. Excluding the emergency power the peak load was 1,494,000 kilowatts. The difference between the amount of the peak load, which ordinarily is well above the daily average, and the rated generating capacity represents a safety margin ready for use in the event of an emergency.

One of Largest Concentrations.

A large part of Chicago's industrial strength is derived from the power pool created by the Commonwealth Edison companies. Some years ago this power concentration won the admiration of the late Charles Steinmetz, electrical wizard of the General Electric company. Since then its capacity has been increased substantially.

The important amount of power generated in the Chicago area is indicated by comparison of sales in 1939 by the Commonwealth Edison group and the Consolidated Edison company of New York. The Chicago companies sold 6,684,807,513 kilowatt hours compared with 6,409,795,000 kilowatt hours sold by the New York utility.

Power is supplied from the Chicago pool to a territory embraced roughly in a triangle whose points are located at Waukegan and Powerton, Ill., and Michigan City, Ind. This pool contains one of the largest concentrations of electric power in the world.

Steam Used in Generating.

Most of the power is generated by steam plants using cheap Illinois coal. The plants in the immediate vicinity get their coal by rail or barge line. The Powerton plant is situated close to the upper tier of Illinois coal mines and the power it transmits directly to the Chicago region eliminates the necessity for shipping large amounts of coal.

Cheap water for boiler purposes is necessary in the steam generation of electric power and in this respect the Chicago pool plants are fortunate. Plants in the immediate Chicago area are close to the waters of Lake Michigan and Powerton is on the Illinois river.

The present expansion program was first started under the late James Simpson, chairman of Commonwealth Edison, late in 1938. Originally to cost $75,000,000, the actual budget for 1939 and 1940 was about $62,000,000.

100 Million 3 Year Budget.

Last April, Charles Y. Freeman, the present chairman, announced a $100,000,000 program for 1940, 1941, and 1942, including $42,000,000 to be spent in 1940.

Major parts of the expansion program include: Addition of 110,000 kilowatts to the generating capacity of the Powerton plant, to be ready this fall; improvements at the Northwest station which will add 90,000 kilowatts capacity, to be ready in the fall of 1941; improvements adding 25,000 kilowatts to the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois plant at Joliet to be ready in the fall of 1941, and increase in the Fisk street station capacity by 147,000 kilowatts, to be ready in the fall of 1942. After elimination of obsolete facilities the net gain will be 860,000 kilowatts.

START 23 HOUR PLANE SERVICE, CHICAGO TO ALASKA, ON THURSDAY

Twenty-three hour plane service between Chicago and Juneau, Alaska, will be made available, beginning Thursday, by United Air Lines and Pan-American Airways, R. F. Ahrens, regional traffic manager for United in Chicago, announced yesterday. The service will be on a twice weekly basis.

Foreign Exchange Rates About Steady; Pound Dips

Changes in foreign exchange rates at New York were small yesterday and dealings were light. The British pound sterling closed 1 cent lower at $3.69, but the Canadian dollar rose ⅛ cent to 81⅛ cents in American money. Dealers declined to accept orders involving the French franc, in which trading was suspended when the German army occupied Paris. The nominal quotation for the franc was 2.20 cents.

Build Synthetic Rubber Plants, Egloff Advises

Immediate construction of synthetic rubber producing plants, preferably in the Chicago area far removed from the danger of invading air bombers, is made imperative by America's limited supplies of natural rubber, Dr. Gustav Egloff, widely known scientist, declared yesterday.

Dr. Gustav Egloff.

Plans for rearming the United States in preparation against any possible attack will be incomplete unless reliance upon imported natural rubber and the consequent danger of seizure or destruction at sea is minimized thru the building of plants for utilizing synthetic processes already highly developed, he said.

Plans Are Not Developed.

Dr. Egloff, who is research chemist for the Universal Oil Products company, with headquarters in Chicago, asserted that altho interest in the establishment of a synthetic rubber plant in the Chicago area remains high, the plans are still in a nebulous stage. That such a plant may be established in this area was first divulged several weeks ago.

Dr. Egloff's views were sought in connection with the disclosure in Washington, D. C., that the United States has a rubber supply on hand sufficient for only 10 months' requirements under stringent war time rationing.

"If we start at once," said Dr. Egloff, "we could, within a year, produce synthetically all of the rubber necessary to meet our present requirements, and the production of the synthetic product could be expanded almost indefinitely.

Chicago Ideal Location.

"Chicago would be the ideal location for the plants, not only because it is inland, away from the danger of attack, but because it is close to the source of materials needed for the product. We have the petroleum and the petroleum gases necessary in the preparation of synthetic rubber in volume far in excess of any present requirements.

"We should not be fearful over our limited supply of natural rubber, because all of the natural product can be supplanted by the artificial product, but the nation should start at once toward providing the necessary plants. Modern warfare cannot be carried on without rubber."

Dr. Egloff said that of the current supply of the natural product, an amount equal to three months' requirements is at sea from far eastern points en route to this country. Should the United States become involved in the war, the tankers carrying these shipments would become immediate targets for seizure or destruction, he observed.

Vast Supplies Are Used.

Calling attention to the magnitude of the undertaking, Dr. Egloff said that the 1,200,000,000 pounds of natural rubber now consumed annually represents a cost of about $250,000,000, on the basis of about 20 cents a pound.

Natural rubber sold at about $1 a pound during the world war and once touched a peak of about $3, he said. Altho synthetic rubber is still high in comparison with the natural product, volume production is certain to reduce its cost, according to Dr. Egloff, who declared that even the current high cost is more than overbalanced by the superiority of the artificial product. Automobile tires made with synthetic rubber wear 30 per cent longer than do tires made from the natural product, he said.

The 175 million tons of oil produced annually in this country could be expanded materially should this be necessary to meet the requirements of synthetic rubber and at the same time continue to provide gasoline and lubricating oil, Dr. Egloff said.

CHICAGO STEEL RATE AT RECORD 93.3 PER CENT

Start Week at New 3 Years' Peak.

With orders for steel continuing to pour in, operating rates of the Chicago mills are scheduled to start tomorrow at an average of 93.3 per cent of theoretical capacity. This is the highest rate since Dow Jones & Co. first started estimating rates for the various steel centers in March, 1937.

The Chicago rate compared with 90.6 per cent of capacity at the start of the preceding week. Four weeks ago the rate was 73.2 per cent and a year ago it was 47.7 per cent. The previous record rate, established in the week ended Nov. 25, 1939, was 93 per cent.

The Pittsburgh steel region—nation's largest steel producing region—is scheduled to start operations tomorrow morning at 83 per cent of theoretical capacity—a gain of 1½ points over last Monday. The 83 per cent level represents a gain of 30 points since the steel industry started moving forward in April.

Pittsburgh Nearing Capacity.

Some Pittsburgh companies are reported to be approaching 90 per cent of theoretical capacity, which means that they are running close to their practical capacity. When the large mills are reported as running above 85 per cent of capacity for all practical purposes they are running at the limit. This is because there are always some parts of a big mill shut down for adjustments and repairs or there may be no demand for the products of certain parts of the mill.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, which is operating 19 of its 23 blast furnaces in the Chicago district, is continuing to expand its operations in Pennsylvania. At Sharon it has raised its open hearth production from 10 to 11 furnaces—the best schedule maintained at the Farrell mill in nearly a year.

Other blast and open hearth furnaces are scheduled to be put in operation during the week in the Pittsburgh area.

Some Foreign Orders Here.

The greater part of the business being handled by the steel mills in the Chicago district continues to be for domestic purposes, altho some orders are being received for sheet steel billets and semi-finished steel from the British and French governments.

All classes of steels used by American industry are being ordered from the Chicago mills, which are getting a larger share of domestic business as a result of the war orders taken on by the eastern mills.

The price of steel scrap was reported to have increased in Pittsburgh. Sales this week of No. 1 heavy scrap have been made at $20.50 a ton.

MAY BUILDING IN ILLINOIS GAINS IN VALUE

Building construction of all types thruout Illinois in May increased 13.9 per cent in number of projects and 53.9 per cent in value as compared with May of last year, according to the Illinois department of labor. There were 3,948 permits issued for buildings valued at $12,558,899 last month. For May of last year there were 3,967 permits, with a total value of $8,162,526.

The biggest gain was in nonresidential buildings. The number of permits was 686, valued at $4,793,023. These figures were 26.3 per cent more in number and 206.8 per cent in value over May of last year, when there were 543 permits, for buildings costing $1,562,275.

Residential building also increased, tho not on such a large scale as the nonresidential. There were 1,097 permits for houses costing $5,995,276. In May of last year there were 818 permits for homes costing $4,967,185.

TRUSTEES FILE ASSOCIATED GAS INCOME REPORT

New York, June 15 [Special].—A report of the trustees of the Associated Gas and Electric corporation filed by its trustees today in federal court here, showed that the vast utility system's earnings and expenses for the first three months of 1940 left a balance of $4,102,956 before payment of interest on debts and taxes.

The trustees of the corporation, which is being reorganized under the bankruptcy act, also reported to Judge Vincent L. Leibell that the books of account showed that the operating revenues from Jan. 1 to March 31, 1940, exceeded the operating revenues for the same period in 1939 by $2,350,896.

It was further reported that the total operating revenues for the 12 months ended March 31, 1940, showed an increase of $7,167,747 over the similar preceding period.

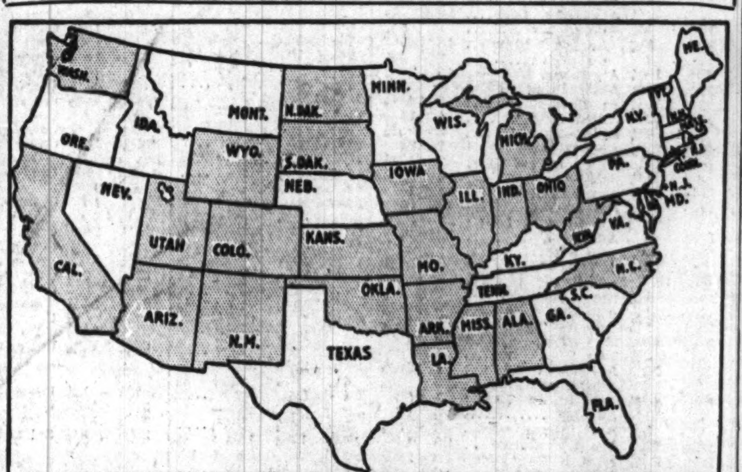
Sales Tax Laws Worry Merchandisers



Shaded areas indicate the 23 states which have sales taxes, "use" taxes, or similar levies. Illinois merchants and business houses have expressed concern over new interpretations which complicate application of taxes to business.

RETAILERS STUDY NEW APPLICATION OF SALES TAXES

Merchandising companies having branch offices in various states face a problem in the growing confusion created by moves of numerous states to tighten and extend sales taxes, the Illinois Federation of Retail associations reported yesterday.

J. T. Meek cites Iowa use tax difficulties. [Moffett Photo.]

Twenty-three states, including Illinois, have sales taxes, "use" taxes, or similar levies. As a result of a recent United States Supreme court decision upholding a New York City use tax on coal shipped from other states. Some states have made new interpretations of their tax laws and are taxing certain types of sales which had been exempted in the past.

Fear Innocent Violations.

Because of these new interpretations and the lack of uniformity in the tax laws of the 23 states, many Illinois business men have expressed concern over the possibility of violating the tax rules unknowingly, the retail federation reported.

Asserting that dangers do exist for companies having branch offices and sales outlets in other states, the federation, however, said business houses not having such outlets have little to worry about in connection with sales tax red tape.

J. T. Meek, executive secretary of the federation, said confusion has been particularly noticeable in Illinois cities near the Iowa border. He said representatives of the Iowa tax commission recently have been asking Illinois retailers for sales information to help enforce Iowa's use tax. [A use tax in practice is the equivalent of a sales tax. The buyer of goods pays the tax for the privilege of using the goods.]

Retailers' Position Explained.

In a recent bulletin the federation told members: "Many Illinois retailers have been asked to police the use taxes of other states, and even to keep records and pay the taxes of persons from other states who buy in Illinois.

"Special tax advisory services [seeking to sell their services] have added to the worry by urging retailers to keep abreast of use tax laws in numerous states. Unless you have a branch or sales outlet in one of these states you have no reason to worry."

The federation said that unless such an outlet exists in a given state, no sales tax jurisdiction can be established by that state.

Attacked As Trade Barrier.

Many groups in Illinois and elsewhere have attacked state sales taxes as constituting one of many forms of trade barriers raised by states against competition from other states.

After the ruling was made in the New York case, the Illinois sales tax law was extended to goods bought from outside of Illinois [thru a seller located in the state] for consumption within Illinois.

An official of the Illinois Manufacturers association charged that the extension would erect a new barrier to interstate commerce, particularly if other states followed the same policy.

The Building Managers' association of Chicago said it feared that the ruling would cause many companies to move branch offices out of the state, causing loss of tenants in downtown Chicago buildings.

Gen'l Motors, C.I.O. Agree to New Contract

Washington, D. C., June 15 [Special].—Negotiators for the General Motors corporation and the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O., meeting in Detroit, have reached an agreement in their contract dispute, it was learned here tonight. The disagreement had threatened complications for the national defense program. Details of the agreement were in effect:

1. Vacations with pay, estimated to cost the corporation $6,500,000 a year.

2. A wage increase estimated to add another $6,000,000 to the settlement cost.

3. Appointment of an umpire to settle disputes regarding interpretations of the contract between the corporation and the U. A. W.

About 135,000 workers in 53 G. M. plants are affected.

Adds 4 Per Cent to Pay Roll.

Cost of the settlement to the corporation, it was said, will amount to about 4 per cent of its annual pay roll. The union was hoping for a settlement which would give it at least 5 per cent of the pay roll total, altho asking for more.

The company's agreement on the umpire provision was regarded by the union as an important advance. It is an innovation in the industry, which has opposed such a provision since collective bargaining began a few years ago.

In the contract which the union obtained with the Chrysler corporation in December provision was made for a board consisting of two members from each side, but the Chrysler management refused to accept the addition of an umpire to this group.

The provision is expected to lead to the elimination of unauthorized strikes.

The agreement will be submitted to union locals for ratification.

Defense Group in Background.

WHEAT SWINGS IN 2 CENT RANGE; CLOSES HIGHER

After swinging uncertainly over a range of about 2 cents, wheat prices steadied near the close yesterday and finished with a slight edge over Friday's close. It was the second consecutive day of gains since the minimum prices were removed.

Opening quotations were ½ to ¾ cent higher with the market trying to carry on the rise started on Friday. But prices reacted quickly to lower levels about 1½ cents below the opening.

New buying and short covering were credited with the late rally. The July option closed ⅛ cent higher.

Corn likewise opened above the previous close but sagged more than a cent before recovering to close only ⅛ to ½ cent lower.

Oats and rye closed fractionally lower. Soy beans slipped down as much as 4¾ cents.

Margin requirements on the long side of oats, rye, and soy beans, boosted on May 31 by the Board of Trade Clearing corporation in preparation for the removal of the minimum prices, have been restored to previous levels.

INDUSTRY ADDS MORE POWER IN DEFENSE DRIVE

Expands Its Plants as Orders Pile Up.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Industrial production in the United States moved along last week at a faster average rate than in the preceding week as war goods orders increased—along with prospective taxes.

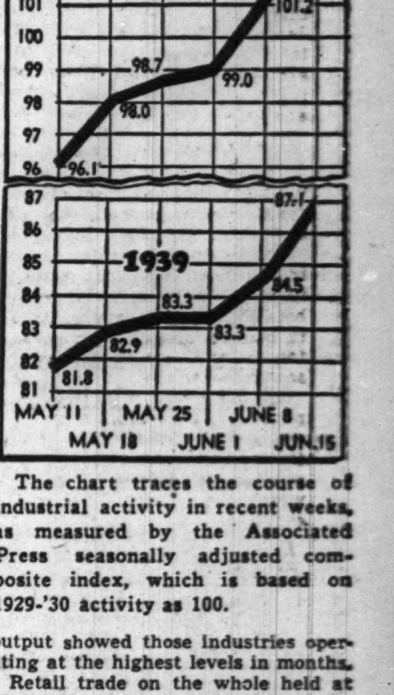
Hundreds of millions of dollars were poured into armaments by the British, French, and American governments, and factories in the United States expanded their facilities or speeded up their operations to meet the demand.

Steel mills again provided the main driving force, some of them advancing operations to 100 per cent of theoretical capacity. The average production rate for the entire steel industry was 84.6 per cent of capacity at the beginning of the week, compared with 80.3 per cent a week earlier, and later gains pushed the average up to around 85½ per cent.

Construction Climbing.

Expansion of factories helped to account for a doubling in the volume of private engineering construction contract awards last week. Such private contracts totaled nearly 29 million dollars, compared with 14 millions in the preceding week and 10 millions in the corresponding 1939 period.

Latest available figures on railroad freight loadings and electric power output showed those industries operating at the highest levels in months.



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in recent weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, which is based on 1929-'30 activity as 100.

Retail trade on the whole held at about 7 to 10 per cent above year ago levels, as compared with year to year gains of 5 to 11 per cent in the preceding week, Dun & Bradstreet reported. Wholesale trade still reflected a cautious policy on the part of merchants, the agency said.

Auto Assemblies Slowing Up.

Automobile production slipped a little in conformity with the normal seasonal trend, but truck purchases by England and France held out the prospect that auto plants will be busier than usual this summer. A total of 93,635 cars and trucks left the assembly lines, compared with 95,560 in the preceding week.

The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity continued its climb. The index, with components calculated on 1929-'30 levels as 100, compared as follows:

	Latest week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
Composite index	102.1	101.2	87.1
Automobile prod.	94.8	95.0	69.5
Steel mill act.	113.6	107.8	71.3
Cotton mfg. act.	108.4	113.1	109.6
Electric power prod.	126.8	123.5	119.0
Residential bldg.	92.7	92.7	91.4
Total car loadings	72.6	71.7	65.6

Under the leadership of William Knudsen and E. R. Stettinius Jr., American industry continued its efforts to get the 5 billion dollar armament program in motion.

Research Work Goes On.

While the war situation was monopolizing official and public attention, scientists in industry's laboratories went ahead with their work, and some developments, as in the artificial rubber research, were announced. Discussions of new processes indicated petroleum may become an important source of rubber supply.

In another field, a radio maker announced a photo-electric cell adaptation designed to do away with the present day phonograph needle. "No more needles to change," the manufacturer said.

STOCKS FINISH BULLISH WEEK STILL CLIMBING

Business Gains Outweigh Influence of War.

New York, June 15 (AP).—The stock market again shook off war worries and concentrated on home business prospects today. As a result leading issues finished a generally bullish week well on the advancing side.

Steels, along with other assorted war stocks, were principally favored, gains at times ranging from 1 to more than 3 points. Top marks were halved in many cases at the close, as traders lightened commitments pending possible unsettling news from abroad over the week-end.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.4 of a point at 40.9. For the week the index registered a net gain of 2.7 points, best showing for any week since early last September.

Volume Turns Higher.

Transfers of 559,170 shares compared with 199,270 last Saturday. The six day turnover of around 5,000,000 shares just about doubled that of the preceding week.

While the plight of France was viewed as far from cheerful in Wall street, buying sentiment was still bolstered by the big defense program at home and the likelihood of British purchases of war materials taking a sharp jump.

Encouraging also were forecasts of another increase in next week's steel mill operations, a brisk expansion in last week's department store sales, widening distribution of new automobiles in the early part of June and heavier demand for copper.

Aviation Stocks Decline.

It was not a one way market today despite the predominance of plus signs. Aircraft shares slipped, apparently on fears of French cancelation of plane orders, altho it was believed the United States would take everything that could be turned out in the aviation field.

Stocks suffered their only real break of the week on Monday in the wake of Italy's plunge into the war. The Associated Press average fell to a new bottom since April 7, 1938. There was a brisk comeback Tuesday, partly on the theory the market had been "oversold" and partly because of the improving outlook for industry.

The rally gained momentum Wednesday, with average prices making the best upturn since Sept. 5, last. Rearmament spending plans got credit. Prices ebbed Thursday as nervousness revived coincident with the progress of Nazi invasion of France, but prices turned upward again Friday despite the fall of Paris.

STAPLES PRICES ARE SWAYED BY WORLD EVENTS

Tin Is Extremely Strong; Rubber Advances.

Several strong influences disturbed commodities markets in the last week. War developments, falling and rising securities markets, Washington activities, and supply and demand features were the principal factors.

Biggest booster of prices was the United States armament program. Cotton, wool, metals, and rubber quotations swung up as plans for the war machine developed, bringing new buying interest into the markets which was in turn offset by profit taking and hedge selling.

Rubber Market Strong.

Altho the net gain in the cash price of rubber during the week was only ½ cent a pound, the rubber futures touched a new ceiling of 23 cents at midweek. Spread of the war, estimates of light supplies on hand, and none too favorable reports on production of synthetic rubber in the United States were bullish factors.

The rise in the price of Straits tin and the huge volume of copper sold during the week were outstanding in the metal markets. Tin prices eased ¾ cent a pound yesterday, but were 3 cents higher than a week ago.

Copper sales so far this month total around 85,000 tons, more than equal to all the business transacted in May. Tightness of the supply for a prompt delivery limited dealings in the latter part of the week. Copper futures advanced 0.05 to 0.06 cent a pound yesterday. Trade interests reported that copper mines and refineries were producing near capacity rates.

Standard Wool Tops Rises.

Altho wool top futures sagged 0.2 to 0.7 cent a pound yesterday on commission house and hedge selling, standard wool tops had a net advance of 1½ cents a pound for the week. Government inquiry for woolen and cotton materials boosted prices. Cotton prices advanced 11 to 16 points yesterday, reflecting the heavy turnover in textiles during the week.

Sugar was another staple to feel the effects of possible legislative action. The President's announcement that he hoped sugar control would be continued in its present form created some nervousness in the market. Destruction of sugar fields in northern France, along with large refineries, will make it necessary for France to import sugar, trade interests reported. Prices yesterday:

LONDON SHAKES OFF WAR SHOCKS WITH NEW HOPES

Financial Writers Cheer Roosevelt Pledge.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sir Kingsley Wood expands currency issue.

LONDON, June 15.—Britain's financial structure received another series of war shocks last week. Italy's entry into the war, continued military reverses in France, the British government's decision to expand the paper money issue by 50,000,000 pounds [about $185,000,000], and the first big scale order from the ministry of supply in taking over control of 1,500 firms in this country, combined to jangle nerves among market operators and investors.

But recent experience has shown that Britain's financial system as now regulated can be kept in hand and the stock market is no longer a reliable barometer of the national economy.

President's Speech Hailed.

As a market influence, President Roosevelt's promise last Tuesday to extend material resources of the United States to the allies proved by far the biggest event of the week.

Much interest centered in the report current in financial quarters that Roosevelt's promises might indicate a willingness to allow the allies to raise credits in America against a deposit, as distinct from the sale of British and French holdings of dollar stocks. British security holdings in the United States are estimated at $5,000,000,000.

While emphasizing that official confirmation was lacking, financial writers here suggested the British treasury might immediately requisition the balance of dollar stocks still in British hands to pledge them in America. According to this theory, the holders would not be forced as heretofore to sell out to the treasury on a specified date at the official sterling equivalent to the dollar price but would be allowed to realize on their stocks as and when they desired.

Held "Safe" to Spend Dollars.

Fortified by Roosevelt's pledge the allied governments, it is contended, will now at least consider it safe to buy all the war materials immediately available from the United States on the assumption their chances of obtaining the maximum quantities of modern war machines later would not be prejudiced if in the meantime their gold and foreign exchange resources were reduced.

The authoritative Financial News, arguing this point this week, states, "They will have to presume the United States would not withhold the necessary weapons for resisting the Nazi-Fascist aggressors merely because they lack the dollars to pay for them."

The publication suggests that Roosevelt should have little difficulty in overcoming the isolationist sentiment against supplying the allies with war supplies on credit. It jubilantly claims the President's promise of material aid, if literally interpreted, is capable of fundamentally changing the position and prospects of the British pound sterling.

Money Circulation Rises.

Altho the British government's declared policy in financing the war is to avoid inflation at all costs, Chancellor of the Exchequer Kingsley Wood's decision to expand the fiduciary currency bill issue from 580 million pounds [about 2 billion 146 million dollars] to 630 million pounds [about 2 billion 331 million dollars], an all-time record, caused scarcely a ripple in market circles.

Similarly, Bank of England statistics disclosing that currency in circulation jumped 31 million pounds [about $114,700,000] to 868,365,000 pounds [about $3,205,950,000] passed almost unnoticed. It is admitted that hoarding as well as evacuee movements and the creation of emergency currency reserves by bankers in the provinces are responsible for a swelling in the paper issue.

SYNDICATE GETS $2,926,000 COUNTY TAX WARRANTS

Cook county yesterday delivered to a purchasing syndicate $2,926,000 of 1940 tax anticipation warrants, the second and final issue of a total of $6,856,000 sold to the syndicate last February. Illinois Company of Chicago heads the syndicate.

The final part consisted of $2,000,000 of corporate warrants and $926,000 of highway fund warrants on which the county will pay an average interest rate of 1.40 per cent.

The average interest rate for the entire $6,856,000 of warrants is 1.24 per cent, which is the lowest rate in the county's history, according to Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board.

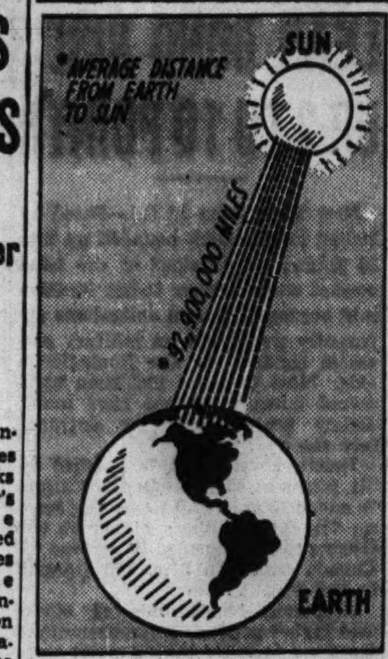
Rails Set Safety Record



SUN
*AVERAGE DISTANCE FROM EARTH TO SUN
*92,900,000 MILES
EARTH

Railroads of the United States last year achieved their greatest safety record. They carried more than 450 million passengers a distance of more than 22½ billion miles, and made a passenger record of only one fatality for each 840 million passenger miles, according to the Association of American Railroads.

The 840 million miles are equivalent to nearly nine times the distance between the earth and the sun—92,900,000 miles.

The general accident rate in this country was at least double that of the railroads last year, according to C. H. Buford of Washington, D. C., vice president of the association. He said this "shows that a person ran nearly twice as much chance of meeting death in 1939 while not riding on a train as when he was traveling on one."

DRILLING FOR OIL POOLS SPREADING NORTH IN ILLINOIS

Find Small Producer in McDonough County.

Centralia, Ill., June 15 (AP).—Altho all of the state's commercial oil production is confined to areas south of Springfield, the lure of oil wealth gave the northern half of the state continued exploration last month, the state geological survey reported today.

Wildcat ventures by independent operators spread over 16 counties in the upper half of the state during the month resulting in one small well. It was listed as a producer by the survey report altho its output was only one barrel of oil in an initial test. It was the Lamoine Oil trust, No. 1 H. W. Cummings, in Lamoine township of McDonough county and the production was from the Hoeing sand at 440 feet.

New Pool Indicated.

One new oil pool in Washington county was in prospect as exploration continued unabated, and an all-time peak of 740 operations was reached in the state. The operations, which included locations for wells, wells drilling, and tests completed, exceeded by 46 the previous peak of 694 established two weeks ago. Until then the best week was in October, 1938, when operations totaled 690.

The Washington county well, hailed as a possible pool opener, was the Gulf Refining Co.'s No. 1 Buhl, a mile south of Irvington and 10 miles from other production in the county. It flowed during a preliminary test and was being completed in the Benoist sand at an undisclosed depth.

124 Complete Wells.

One hundred and twenty-four of the state's operations were completed wells and their total initial production reached 90,500 barrels. The unusually large number of completions and the gain in production of the Centralia pool, which now is averaging more than 74,000 barrels a day, were expected to boost Illinois' total production to near the 500,000 barrel mark for the first time. The all-time high is 455,000 barrels daily.

The Lake Centralia-Salem pool of Marion county had 250 of the operations, including 58 completions, to lead all other pools in activity.

Drill South of Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ill., June 15 [Special].—Oil drilling at a site about 25 miles south of Bloomington will begin within the next few days, Gordon W. Fielder of Lawrence, Kas., announced today. It is proposed to drill to a strata which is expected to be reached at a depth of 2,100 to 2,400 feet. Fielder is associated with the Gordon Oil company.

HOPES OF ADDED FARMER INCOME FADE IN MONTH

Prices Decline to Near Pre-War Levels.

American farm income prospects, at one time regarded extremely favorable because of the war boom, have faded. Prices have fallen near to the prewar level of last summer, a survey of market statistics showed yesterday.

The market value of principal commodities, particularly grains, has declined 15 to as much as 44 per cent from the peak of the last nine and one-half months—the period covering the European war.

In general, prices of the principal products the farmer has to sell average only slightly above a year ago, altho they are substantially higher than on Aug. 31, 1939, the day before the outbreak of hostilities.

Loss in Last Month.

Much of the loss in possible income—primarily in grains—has occurred during the last month as the Germans drove thru the Low Countries and into France and market prices tumbled.

Market observers said the action of the Chicago Board of Trade and other domestic commodities markets on Friday in removing the minimum price levels that had been in effect for nearly four weeks probably marked the beginning of a firmer market tone.

Compared with prices last Aug. 31, wheat is about 15 per cent higher, corn 34 per cent, oats 14 per cent, rye 5 per cent, butter 8 per cent, cattle 16 per cent and cotton 20 per cent, at yesterday's closing quotations. Only hogs and eggs are lower.

Prices Compared with Year Ago.

Present prices compared with those of a year ago show that wheat is 7 per cent higher, corn 20 per cent up, oats 3 per cent lower, rye 12 per cent down, eggs unchanged, butter 8 per cent higher, cattle and cotton slightly higher, and hogs 22 per cent lower.

Using wheat as an example, market statisticians showed the dollars and cents value of income lost to the farmer in the decline. At current prices a 728 million bushel crop, such as forecast by the latest government survey, would be worth about 570 million dollars.

A month ago, when July wheat was quoted at more than $1.10 per bushel, the crop in prospect had a market value of more than 700 million dollars. Last year's harvest at market prices then had a market value of approximately 550 million dollars.

Hope of Added Income Fades.

Thus, market observers said, many farmers' hopes of additional income thru betterment of prices forced upward by the war have evaporated, at least temporarily, altho the national farm income for the first four months this year, including government benefit payments, was 12 per cent larger than in the same 1939 period.

Observers said that farm income this year can be expected to hold up fairly well in comparison with last year, largely because of natural demand.

Wartime range of prices of principal farm commodities [approximate figures given for comparison purposes only] are shown in the following table:

ARMY'S LARGEST PEACETIME WOOL BUYING STARTED

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—The war department today announced the award of parts of what will constitute the army's largest peacetime order for woolen cloth. Brig. Gen. C. L. Corbin of the quartermasters corps said the order, which will mean consumption of nearly 47,000,000 pounds of wool in the grease, would require approximately 12 per cent of the domestic output for a year.

The army ordered 543,370 blankets at a total cost of $3,126,000. The price averaged $5.70 a blanket.

Bids on blankets and cloth for uniforms were opened in Philadelphia yesterday and Thursday. Bids for large quantities of serge, melton cloth and other uniform materials have not been classified.

"Practically every woolen mill in the country was in on the bids," Corbin said.

PLANTS ASKED TO FLY AMERICAN FLAG; TOKEN OF WORK FOR DEFENSE

New York, June 15 [Special].—American manufacturers were called on today to fly the American flag on their companies' plants as "a token of industry's faith in this nation and of its utmost coöperation in the task of national defense." The call was issued by H. W. Prentis Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"It has always been fitting for industrial plants to fly the flag of our country," Prentis said, "but today this action takes on new significance. Industry must show its colors, literally, figuratively, and in performance.

"The flag affords a patriotic inspiration for each man in industry—employer and employé alike—to put forth his best efforts in the industrial job of preparing for national defense."

FARMERS TO GET 698 MILLIONS IN FEDERAL FUNDS

Congress Sets Next Year's Total.

Washington, D. C., June 15 (AP).—Farmers who coöperate with federal crop control programs initiated during the next 12 months will be entitled to share in a $698,535,000 benefit-payment pool voted by congress.

Whether those programs will call for further curtailment or expansion in production will depend, government officials said, on international developments. Because the war has shut off many foreign markets, this country has surpluses in most food and fiber crops.

Yet, if fears of a famine develop in Europe, 1941 crop programs might encourage greater production, farm experts suggested.

212 Million for Parity Payments.

An agriculture department supply bill, approved yesterday by house and senate conferees, makes $438,560,000 available for agricultural conservation payments, $212,000,000 for parity payments and $47,975,000 for subsidies under the sugar control act.

The agricultural conservation fund will be divided among farmers who planted within 1940 agriculture department acreages for soil-depleting crops and who followed recommended soil-building and conserving practices.

The parity payment fund will be divided among producers of cotton, corn, wheat, rice, and tobacco who plant within 1941 acreage allotments. Rates will be based on the national average 1940 prices of these crops.

Aimed to Raise Buying Power.

Parity returns are intended to give crops as much buying power in terms of nonfarm goods as they possessed in the 1910-'14 period.

Farm prices of these crops now average 75 per cent or less of the parity goal. The money will be apportioned so as to give most to crops farthest from parity.

The sugar benefits will be divided among domestic producers of sugar cane and beets who complied with acreage and marketing control programs and who met minimum wage rates established by the secretary of agriculture.

Farmers also will receive indirect benefits, officials said, from $185,000,000 authorized for disposal of farm surpluses.

EMPOWER C. I. O. STRIKE CALL AT TRACTOR WORKS

The executive board of the United Farm Equipment Workers of America, local 101, affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was empowered yesterday to call a strike at any time in the tractor works of the International Harvester company plant, 2600 31st street. The action was taken at a meeting at 1110 South Oakley boulevard of about 1,000 stewards, substewards, and members of the delegate body.

A proposal to call a strike tomorrow was rejected by a split vote. Local union officials argued that the company should be given a further chance to meet union demands and that authorities should be given a chance to mediate. The union seeks a revised seniority clause, a reduction of hours in the case of layoffs to spread work, and a closed shop.

The delegates charged the company with using the war situation to depress working conditions. The company already has said that work stoppages and standup strikes have been occurring at the plant and that a repetition would be cause for dismissals or disciplinary action.

RETAILERS WILL STUDY EFFECT OF WAR AT MEETING

Gen. Dawes to Address Dry Goods Dealers.

Leon Mandel heads dinner committee.

When several thousand members of the National Retail Dry Goods association assemble at the Palmer House tomorrow morning for the opening sessions of their 1940 midyear convention, the most important matters before them will be the nation's defense program and the effects of the war on the American economy, officials of the association said yesterday.

More than 35 sessions will be held during the convention by nine divisions and groups of the dry goods association. The defense discussions will be climaxed by a dinner Wednesday night at which Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, chairman of the board of the City National Bank and Trust company and former Vice President of the United States, will discuss the national defense.

Speaks Over W-G-N-Mutual.

Gen. Dawes' address is to be broadcast over station W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. The Wednesday night dinner is being arranged by a committee headed by Leon Mandel, vice president and general manager of Mandel Brothers, Chicago department store.

Commenting on the discussion that will take place at the individual sessions, Lew Hahn, managing director of the association, said that some of the problems created by the needs of the national defense and of the war situation will require immediate action. Others will require careful consideration during the months ahead.

Hahn said the retailers and government alike are interested in preventing any runaway price situation this fall. Merchandising executives will investigate what normal advances, if any, are to be expected in order to offer guidance to buyers in the heavy fall purchasing expected to follow the convention.

Connely Speaks Tomorrow.

Elmer T. Stevens, president of Charles A. Stevens & Co., Chicago, is chairman of the general session which will be opened at 10:30 tomorrow morning. Emmett F. Connely, president Investment Bankers' Association of America, Detroit, will speak on economic preparedness.

James S. Schoff, president of the Fair, Chicago, is chairman of the store management, personnel, and traffic delivery groups which will hold a joint opening meeting at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Col. Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage and hour act, will discuss the workings of the act.

Other groups will include smaller stores, merchandising, sales promotion, and controlers' congress. Prof. D. J. Duncan, school of commerce, Northwestern university, will speak Tuesday morning before the merchandising division on "Wholesale Prices This Fall." K. E. Armstrong, controler, Marshall Field & Co., will lead general discussion at the controlers' congress Tuesday afternoon.

MERGER OF TWO SOUTHERN RAILS NEAR FINAL STEP

Mobile, Ala., June 15 [Special].—The proposed Mobile and Ohio railroad and Gulf, Mobile and Northern railroad merger neared the final stages today when Federal Judge R. T. Ervin declared that all property of the M. and O. be sold. This action opens the way for the Gulf, Mobile and Northern, which recently obtained a $7,500,000 loan from the RFC to buy all M. and O. bonds owned by the Southern railway, to buy complete control of the railroad.

Judge Ervin approved the $3,625,000 improvement program as petitioned by the receivers for the Mobile and Ohio. The receivers plan to use the funds to purchase 1,000 new box cars, 250 hopper bottom coal cars, and two Diesel passenger locomotives.

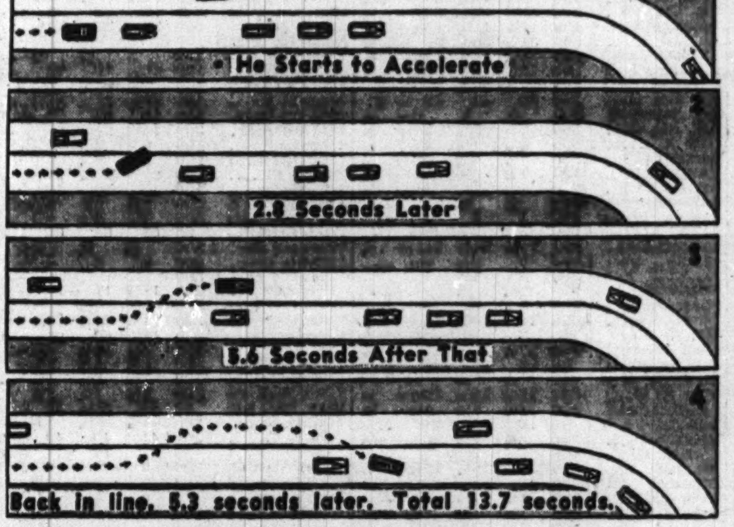
MOTORS—TRAFFIC—HIGHWAYS

Mr. Average Driver Passes a Car



This is a record of a typical traffic maneuver, passing an overtaken vehicle, as registered in a federal survey of normal driving practices.

MOTORISTS ASK RAPID ACTION ON SUPERHIGHWAYS

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago motorists have become intolerant of the delays, annoyances and risks encountered on the city's boulevards and thru streets. A demand for superhighway construction, whetted by last year's promises, has not been dulled by this year's disappointments.

The driving public is no longer satisfied to jog from stop light to stop light, dodging pedestrians, cross traffic, and parkers. These gas taxpayers have learned that there is no engineering barrier to their having fast and safe pavements. They have learned that the revenue from their license fees and from the motor fuel excise is adequate to pay for modern safety ways.

The north and south side Outer drives, incorporating many features of a true superhighway, have further educated the public to an intolerance of old fashioned streets and boulevards. Sections of the city, away from the lake front, the northwest, west, southwest, and south sides, are demanding similar travel facilities.

Appreciate Speed and Safety.

On the Outer drives, the motorists have learned to appreciate a comparative freedom from pedestrians, cross-traffic, stop-and-go lights, and parkers. On a true superhighway there are no pedestrians, cross-traffic, stop-and-go lights, nor parkers.

On these lake front boulevards, the automobile operators have been given a concrete conception of the meaning of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial plank, "Build deathproof highways." Accident records of the Chicago park district substantiate this description of modern roadway design. The risk on the Outer drive at rapid speeds is only about 2 per cent of the risk on other boulevards at slow speeds.

Similar convenience and safety can be brought to sections of the city remote from the lake front. Engineering problems for such construction have been solved in New York's elevated highways and super parkways. Last year, newspaper readers received much information about designs and possible locations for a superhighway system to radiate northwest, west, southwest, and south from the loop.

Hopes Ruined in 1939.

Hopes for such a system in Chicago were raised last year when the general assembly enacted enabling legislation. This legislation would have authorized Chicago and Cook county to pledge half of their gasoline tax revenues for the next twenty years for superhighway construction.

These hopes were dimmed considerably when city hall engineers messed their preliminary plans with ward politics. Aldermen, ward committeemen and precinct captains influenced proposed designs and locations. These hopes were sunk still further last February when the Illinois Supreme court held that the financial scheme of last year's legislation was unconstitutional.

During the last two weeks, however, meetings of civic organizations on the west side, on the northwest side, and in the Fox river valley have demonstrated that the demand for superhighways is far from being dead. These sessions, sponsored by the Chicago Motor club, demonstrated that motorists know there is no longer any excuse for the high death toll on Chicago's streets. They know that life saving pavements can be designed by engineers. They know that their present taxes are adequate to pay the costs. They are in no mood to accept explanations or apologies from politicians.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

HIS SON WAS KILLED.

Maple Park, Ill., June 11.—I read with great interest the article in THE TRIBUNE headed "Republicans to Push Reform in Road Policies." The article brings to my mind a program that Henry Horner talked of when he was campaigning for the first time. He didn't do anything about his railroad protection program in all the time he was in office. And what you say, as I read further in your article, is absolutely so—the Democratic administration has the blood on its hands.

I had a son killed Dec. 27, 1939, at a very dangerous railway crossing. The engineer was the only one in the engine. The boy was the best boy you could ever know. He was 18 years old, a church member, never drank, never smoked, and was a very careful driver. The car was wrecked worse than any ever seen in our community and after taking three hours to get the boy from the car, they found the car was in low gear.

These things rests on the shoulders of our men at Springfield—to have them pass laws that every railroad be protected with lights so that people will know when a train is coming. Then it doesn't matter who they put on engines, or if they whistle a warning or not.

I was urged to petition the commerce commission for wigwag signals at this crossing. We had our hearing on the case, but the order from the hearing was ridiculous. The commerce commission has passed the buck. We still have no protection.

I am afraid that if some one else gets killed at this dangerous crossing, the people will be up in arms. Our school children have to cross this crossing all winter long during the basketball season. [This railway runs parallel with state 64, road and highway not 30 feet apart.]

I hope the Republicans do as they say. I also hope that Dwight Green, when he gets in, will not have the railroad as boss of his commerce commission. If he does, we will get the same old stuff.

If you Republicans are on the up and up, may the Lord help you. I will do all I can to help kick out the commerce commission we have now.

WM. SANDERS.

CHICAGOANS TALK; OTHERS BUILD.

Cleveland, O., June 10.—For many years as a subscriber of THE TRIBUNE, I've read about Chicago going to build superhighways. At other places I've noticed during a tour thru the east, there hasn't been so much talk but there has been more construction. Cleveland voters, I notice in the local press, have approved a referendum to issue bonds for superhighways. In Pennsylvania, I saw a superhighway 160 miles long nearing completion. In New York, I was able to drive from the heart of Manhattan, thru suburbs, and into the open country on superhighways. Doesn't this impress you?

CHICAGOAN.

PEDESTRIANS NEED HELP.

Chicago, June 5.—I wonder how many golfers, shooters, fishermen, equestrians, and general pedestrians are daily confronted with a more hazardous crossing than Lake Shore drive at Diversey parkway. There are no stoplights, no traffic policeman, or tunnel.

I am in favor of a tunnel or underpass here, and I am sure Hal Foust and thousands of park visitors would heartily agree.

TYPICAL TRAFFIC HABITS LEARNED BY ELECTRIC EYE

BY HAL FOUST.

The Public Roads administration is using ingenious automatic recording devices to determine typical traffic characteristics on the nation's highways. According to the federal engineers, they are learning more about drivers' conduct than the drivers know themselves.

The purpose of the study is to influence future road designs. Such factors as pavement widths, sight distances, curves, and grades are to be fitted to motorists' requirements as established by these surveys.

Measures Volume and Speed.

The equipment for measuring traffic volumes, speeds, and behavior includes a series of electric beams that are broken progressively by a passing vehicle. The equipment also consists of a series of black strips across pavements, mechanically and electrically actuating the recording instruments.

This equipment produces millions of little pen scratches that are translated into stories of car speeds, passing habits, and road hogging. Automobile Facts, trade magazine of the Automobile Manufacturers' association, recently published some of the findings of this survey in Maryland and Virginia as follows:

Publish Findings.

More than four-fifths of all drivers going around slower cars desired to travel less than 16 miles per hour faster than the cars they passed. More than half desired to travel less than 11 m. p. h. faster.

Of all the drivers passing single vehicles, 84 per cent had to slow down before they could start to pass. About one-third had to slow down and stay behind the preceding car until they could see that the road was clear for a sufficient distance ahead to permit them to pass. Slightly more than half had to slow down and wait for an oncoming vehicle to pass before they could start the passing maneuver.

In more than 50 per cent of the passings recorded the passed vehicle was traveling from 31 to 40 m. p. h.

Incidentally, in one set of studies it was found a surprisingly large number of drivers did not attempt to pass a car ahead when the sight distance was longest, but waited until their view ahead was reduced. Such data tell the average driver's perception of a set of conditions and the judgment time necessary to react.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Members of the Chicago Automobile Trade association at their annual meeting last week in the Knickerbocker hotel elected Carl T. Deufel, William D. Reagan, E. C. Schneider, Paul B. Smithson and Ben T. Wright as directors. Deufel heads the Chevrolet dealers association in Chicago and Reagen heads the Chrysler organization. Schneider is a former president of the Ford dealers in the Chicago area, Smithson is with Packard, Wright handles the Ford, Mercury and Lincoln-Zephyr lines.

Lynn S. Snow, president of the association, presided at the meeting, a feature of which was the presentation of a report on last year's activities and policies for the coming 12 months. Samuel B. Shapiro, general manager of the association, reported that membership has increased from 338 to 390.

Harry G. Moock, vice president of the Plymouth Motor corporation, was a Chicago visitor last week. On Thursday morning he addressed a breakfast at the Palmer house which was attended by several hundred retail salesmen on the staffs of Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler dealers in the Chicago area. One of the points that Moock stressed was the substantial increase in the nation's wealth made each time that the automobile industry adds a new improvement. Each improvement, he explained, requires large expenditures on materials and for wages of workers.

The Studebaker corporation reported that domestic deliveries in May totaled 10,328 passenger cars and trucks as compared with 9,533 units delivered in 1939. The May, 1940, volume was the largest for the month since May 1928. In the first five months of this year deliveries totaled 42,835 units against 28,887 a year ago.

One of the most noteworthy accomplishments by Buick in making an all time record for production, was the contribution to stability of employment, commented Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager.

"Buick's record for 1940 culminates many years of effort," Curtice said. "During this time our goal has been to stabilize employment and eliminate peaks and valleys of the production season. We are nearer that goal this year than at any time in our experience." The company's record was broken when the 250,117th car was built.

The first Hupp Skylark models are coming off the assembly line at Detroit and are being shipped to dealers, J. Walter Drake, president of the Hupp Motor car corporation, reports. Hupp has entered into a manufacturing contract with the Graham-Paige Motors corporation under which the latter builds the Skylark in the Graham plant.

PASS LABOR ACT REVISIONS, PLEA TO U. S. SENATE

Manufacturers Ask Action to Speed Defense.

Asserting industrial efficiency is the first requisite of national defense, the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday sought the removal of legislation which it said impedes the smooth operation of industry.

Senator E. D. Thomas.

W. Homer Hartz, association president, appealed to Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], chairman of the senate committee on education and labor, for early favorable action on amendments to the national labor relations act as passed by the house and now pending before the Thomas group.

Calls Changes Reasonable.

"The amendments," Hartz said, "are intended to mitigate some of the most flagrant abuses in the administration of the national labor relations act. The reasonableness of these amendments is manifest."

Directors of the association approved a war policy statement supported by Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, president of the Whiting corporation, asserting that industrial efficiency "cannot be accomplished thru hysteria either in plan or in action."

"The United States is not now adequately prepared for its own defense," the statement said. "We must have the means of adequate defense in order to remain at peace.

Obstacles Hinder Industry.

"The threat of involvement in war, the threat of the continuance and increase of unreasonable governmental interference, the threat of invocation of a dictatorship involved in the emergency powers of such legislation as the national defense act of 1916, will prove to be serious obstacles in the effort of private industry to make its maximum contribution to the national defense program.

"We counsel that the government promptly, but carefully and calmly, perfect its plans and tell private industry what it requires, and private industry will produce the materials and supplies needed for national defense in the quickest possible time."

WAR AND COPPER.

Copper is second only to steel as an essential war metal. The munitions industry requires large quantities of the metal for shell and cartridge casings. Copper also is important in war time in the electric wiring of tanks, battleships, airplanes, submarines, communication systems, and fortresses.

Declaration of war last September unleashed a wild buying rush as consumers of copper in this country attempted to obtain supplies before a stiff price boost. Record purchases caused the price of domestic electrolytic copper to shoot from 10⅜ cents a pound on Sept. 1 to a peak for 1939 of 12½ cents on Sept. 5.

High level of industrial activity in the last quarter of 1939 maintained the copper price at the peak. But with the war in a quiescent stage and industry in a decline, copper sold as low as 11¼ cents in the first quarter of 1940. Heavy orders of copper by France did little to encourage a price gain because Great Britain was obtaining almost all its copper needs from within the empire at fixed prices and the French themselves were drawing much of their requirements from Latin America and Belgian Congo.

The resistance of the domestic copper market to a sharp upturn is an indication to some analysts that the world war boom which lifted the price of electrolytic copper from 11 cents a pound in 1914 to 37 cents in 1917 will not be repeated in this war.

The restraining factor is said to be greatly enlarged world copper capacity since the last war. World output of the metal is potentially more than 3½ million tons a year against a peak consumption of 2½ million tons in 1939. In 1917, world copper production capacity was 1.6 million tons. American output is about one-third of the world's actual production.

Domestic consumption of copper has varied sharply with activity in general industry, especially in the electric utilities, automobile and building industries. About one-half of the copper consumed in this country is used in the electrical trades. The other half appears as automobile radiators, plumbing, roofing, refrigerator tubing and other articles.

Domestic consumption of copper this year will be above that for 1939, it is indicated, by improving industrial conditions and the expansion of the government's defense program. Accelerated munitions production will require large supplies of copper. Reduction of copper stocks by heavier consumption might bring about some advance in copper prices. With the industry able to produce copper at around 11 cents a pound at current costs, any rise in price would mean higher profits.

1940 CROP OF NEW PIGS IS EXPECTED TO SHOW DECLINE

Private Surveys Indicate 49 Million Total.

The sharp upward trend of pig raising in the United States, which started in the winter of 1937-'38, has been definitely checked this year, according to preliminary data on private surveys made recently thru many of the corn belt hog raising sections. If a uniform drop is shown by other regions of the country, a crop of less than 49 million pigs is likely for the spring season, it was said at the stockyards yesterday.

The official report on the pig crop by the department of agriculture will not be available until later in the month. Last year there were 52,317,000 pigs saved during the spring season, which extends from Dec. 1 to June 1.

Increase of 20 Per Cent.

This was an increase of 20 per cent over the 1938 total of 43,450,000. The 1937 total was 38,476,000 pigs. Despite the decline from 1939, the 1940 crop is expected to be larger than for any of the years 1934 to 1938, inclusive.

In the official report by the department of agriculture last fall, the government indicated that farmers intended to hold back 8,580,000 sows for farrowing in the spring of 1940, about the same number of sows that raised 1939 pigs. However, the unfavorable corn-hog price ratio and the abnormally low returns from hogs since last fall are believed to have reduced this number.

One of the sharpest declines on record occurred in the corn-hog price ratio last fall, and the ratio since has been extremely unfavorable to hog raising. The ratio late last week was one of the lowest on record. It took only 7.5 bushels of No. 3 yellow corn to equal the 100 pound average price of hogs on the Chicago market. This compared with a ratio of 12.6 bushels the same week last year and 15 two years ago.

Prices Off Fourth Week.

Hog prices of the stockyards last week declined for the fourth consecutive week. The six day average, at $5.00 a hundred pounds, was only 10 cents above the six year low established the first week of April. Live costs to packers were third lowest for June in 36 years.

A sharp break occurred in cattle prices last week, despite a letup in selling by farmers. Most steers and yearlings tumbled 25 to 40 cents a hundred pounds. The six day average dropped 20 cents, to $9.50.

Most classes of sheep closed the week about steady. However, the six day lamb average, at $10.85, showed a reduction of 20 cents.

ITALIAN ISSUES LEAD BOND RISE; UP 2 TO 10 POINTS

New York, June 15 (AP).—Paced by Italian loans, which bounded up 2 to 10 points, all divisions of the bond market ended higher today. Brokers said buying of Italian obligations apparently was based on military successes claimed for the Rome-Berlin axis. Most of them had been hammered down to record lows immediately preceding Italian entrance into the war.

Italian government 7s finished up 5¼ points at 45¼, Credit Consortium 7s added 10 at 35 and Rome 6½s were up 7⅞ at 38. Others higher in the foreign group included Argentine 4s, Canada 4s, Japan 5½s, and German 7s and 5½s.

Corporate bonds followed stocks into higher ground. Improvements of fractions to more than a point were registered by many, including Alleghany stamped 5s at 35⅝, Bethlehem Steel 3½s at 109¼, Delaware and Hudson refunding 4s at 43, International Hydro Electric 6s at 44⅜, International Telephone 5s at 24¼, Southern Pacific 4½s at 36½, and Third Avenue adjustment 4s at 54¼.

United States government obligations were less active than on Friday, but gains of a full point or better were made by the majority traded.

Total sales of $2,685,700, par value, compared with $1,612,000 last Saturday.

COTTON

Light offerings and fairly active buying yesterday gave the cotton market a strong tone. Chicago closed 5 to 25 points higher. Reports from Alabama indicate that boll weevil infestation will not be heavy this season.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
In summer, it's great to get away for week-ends, but when you come back on Monday it helps to know that you have a studio apartment with a porch or balcony overlooking a fountain in the court yard below, or a roof to climb up to where you can still be out in the fresh air. Our living rooms are wonderful; some 2 stories high; others very deep, with north and south light. One apt. is like a little house, with the bedrms. in the 2d floor; some of these are furnished.
Also some very low cost studio apts.
All of these have a special price for the summer and are down here near the Loop where there are so many interesting things which you can enjoy and still have time for a good night's sleep. And also time to walk to and from your office.

THIS IS A GOOD TIME TO BUY OR BUILD A HOME

"Stocks depreciate, bonds default, money itself may become valueless, but a home is shelter; it is security; it is stability for a man and his family.

Where else can money be more safely inv.? Suppose inflation should come, as it does so often in the wake of a great war? Your dollars will be worthless, you will pay more of them for food and for clothing and for rent, but if you have bought a home, your dollar payments will not change; you've bought security.

Suppose this country goes to war after all, what about the soldier who is paying on a home? This is a possibility, of course, but is it too radical to suggest that it might be most unpopular for FHA to permit foreclosure on the very home which that soldier is fighting to protect? Would your landlord waive his rent collection?"

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Barnyard Sociability.

June 15, 1940.

THE peak of barnyard sociability has been reached on the Du Page county farm. Chickens, ducks, guinea hens, and turkeys ordinarily get along together pretty well, but until this week no two barnyard fowl ever showed as much unselfishness as the turkey hen and the Muscovy duck which are sharing a nesting box.

The flockmaster showed us this cooperative nesting box the other morning. It is a small box about two feet long and 18 inches high—the common type used by nesting turkeys. The Muscovy evidently made her nest first, because she is incubating a clutch of eggs in one corner of the box. The turkey's nest is much larger, of course, and covers almost all the box except the corner reserved for her friend the Muscovy.

Both Seem Satisfied.

Both seemed satisfied with their snug quarters in the little nesting house. The flockmaster is wondering what will happen if the Muscovy hatches her family first. The turkey hen probably won't want to move in order to let the ducklings out of the house, and we doubt that the youngsters will be able to crawl over the big brown hen which blocks the entrance to their quarters.

These sociable old hens may be the most even tempered in the barnyard, but a turkey hen which now has 11 poults following her thru the woods certainly wins the farm honor as the hen which overcame the most obstacles in raising a family. This patient old turkey left the free and easy life of the barnyard several weeks ago to build a nest in a woodlot. Her choice of a nesting site wasn't very good, because every rain this spring almost flooded her eggs. But last week she left her woodland nest and parading behind her were 11 healthy poults which now are learning to forage for natural foods in the woods.

Now that the boys and girls on the farm are thru with school there is a new atmosphere around the homes. After we had spent about 15 minutes on the farm the other day it wasn't hard to tell that the youngsters were on furlough. Peter was riding his bicycle down the farm roads, Joe trudged a mile to fish for bullheads in the Du Page river, Frankie has started his daily job as a caddy at one of the nearby golf courses, and other farm youngsters are launching their summer schedules of farm fun.

Fishing Is Spotty.

Joe reports that the bullhead fishing in the river has been a bit spotty. One of his young friends caught 15 fish the other day with a cane pole and a can of angleworms, but the day that Joe fished he had hooked only two or three undersized bullheads, which he threw back.

It's necessary to play the rôle of outdoor detective to find many of the mallard hens these days, especially those that have nested. They have chosen nesting sites off the beaten path and in vegetation where it's not easy to see them incubating their eggs. Several blackbirds also have nests around the farm ponds. It's easy to tell that they are busy with family duties because every time we get near one of their nests the birds scold us and display their fear that we will find their nests.

6 HIGH SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 3,477

KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR, HONOR GRADS DECLARE

24 of 25 Students Take Firm Stand.

BY DAVID ANDERSON.

Facing a world half torn asunder by war, two dozen high school graduates, picked as outstanding among 3,400 at six north side schools, are of one mind about their country keeping out of it.

Metropolitan section reporters annually interviewthe foremost graduates from each of the six schools to learn what they plan to do with their future. This year the students were asked a new question:

"Do you believe your country should send troops to fight in the war?"

Answer Is "No."

Twenty-four of 25 students replied to that question. One would not commit himself to a yes or no answer. But the reply of the other 24 was:

"No."

Many added to it such remarks as:

"If war comes, we, the youth of this country, shall go willingly. But we will not invite disaster. . . . I think that the last war should be a good enough example. . . . I believe the United States should remain neutral. . . . We should prepare for defense of our own country, but butting in 'over there' is unnecessary and would only bring suffering to our own people. . . . Why should we waste our youth? . . . America's chief concern is America. . . . Our soldiers should never be sacrificed again for the same insincere reasons of the last war. . . . Preserve our own democracy by not interfering in Europe. . . ."

Those comments are only a sample. But they tell the story of their general stand against war hysteria.

Despite the blackout of war in half the world these students are making plans for their own futures as writers, business men, stenographers, engineers, doctors, and in other occupations.

She Is a Poet.

One of the brightest of the north side graduation stars is pretty, dark haired Yvonne Markus, 17 year old Waller High school senior, who completed her four year language course in three years. Yvonne is a writer. This month's Poetry magazine carries her 21 line poem, "Anabasis," which she says is "a surrealistic poem dealing with the present world situation."

This summer she plans to start writing a novel of fantasy. "It will be a new slant on creation," she declares. She will read an original poem Thursday evening at the commencement exercises. Asked its title, she replies, "I haven't written it yet."

Her favorite writers are James Joyce—"but I don't like his poetry"; Huxley—"practically everything he writes"; Steinbeck, and Dos Passos. Yvonne will graduate as the highest student in her class, with an average of 96. But she has never studied very hard, she says, "because I've never found the time." When she isn't writing or reading she goes swimming or plays tennis. She lives at 3122 Sheridan road.

Stands Fourth Highest.

Dorothy Sell, 17 years old, 3139 Belden avenue, who has been working her way thru Waller during the last year, will graduate with an average of 95.1, fourth highest in the class of 280. She is going to be a doctor. If she doesn't win a scholarship to the University of Chicago she intends going to Wright Jr. college.

Blonde, smiling Dorothy intends to work her way thru college also. At Waller she has been president of the school Honor society, president of the Student council, president of the Parliamentary Practice club, treasurer of the band and orchestra, and a member of the Drama club.

Wayne Mollet, 2111 Hudson avenue, will go to work following his graduation from Waller. He hopes to be transferred from his job in an insurance company to a branch in Peoria where he plans to enter Bradley Polytechnic institute. He wants to become a Diesel engineer. For the last few years he has repaired most of his neighbors' cars after school hours and he knows how to take down most makes of motors.

Steve Chorba, 18 years old, 753 West Schiller street, is going to look for a job after leaving Waller. He will continue his education, he says, but it will be planned to fit his job. Some day he hopes to become a business executive, but at present he wants some practical business experience. He is president of the senior class and business and advertising manager of the Waller paper.

Looks to Stage Career.

Senn High school's drama club president, Ray Quinn, 5248 Lakewood avenue, has played the lead in three school plays, "Cyrano de Bergerac," "You Can't Take It with You," and "Seven Sisters." His future education is to be in drama. He intends to go to the Pasadena playhouse, California drama school, and some day he hopes to act on the legitimate stage. He is 19 years old.

Suntanned Irene Mantonya, 17 years old, 5526 North Campbell avenue, stands second in the Senn graduating class. Her average is 95.5. She is editor in chief of the Senn News and a seven semester member of the school honor society. Irene hopes to enter advertising or pub-

CHICAGO PLANT GUILD PREPARES TO HELP SHUT-INS

Plans for Delivery Now Occupy Group.

The Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild is starting its 15th season of bringing cheer to the sick and lonely in charity wards of hospitals, settlement houses, old people's homes and other institutions in the city. Distribution of flowers, fresh fruits, jellies, and other delicacies to shut-ins will be started just as soon as the guild officials have completed arrangements for a voluntary delivery service to take the contributions from railroad stations to the hospitals.

All the guild's work is done by voluntary workers who make it possible for residents of the city and suburbs to share with the sick the bounty of their gardens and orchards. Suburban railroads furnish free transportation thruout the summer months for those who wish to send donations.

More than 2,000 members of 85 garden clubs coöperate with the guild each year in contributing fruits and flowers of their own and in directing the work among their neighbors who are not members of garden clubs.

The local guild is a branch of the National Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild started in New York 47 years ago. There now are branches in principal cities thruout the country. It was primarily thru the influence of the guild that the garden club movement was started and the Garden Club of America formed.

VesperConcert Series Opens in Forests Today

[MAP ON PAGE 5.]

An hour of choral singing at each of three forest preserves on the outskirts of Chicago this afternoon will mark the beginning of the third consecutive series of outdoor concerts sponsored by the county board of commissioners and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. As in the previous two years, there will be seven Sunday programs, the last on July 28.

The Rev. Joseph O'Donnell.

The locations where singing will take place and the choral groups that will sing there this afternoon at 5 o'clock are as follows: Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street, Metropolitan Church choir, directed by J. Wesley Jones; Thatcher woods in River Forest, Grieg Male chorus, directed by Peter Olson; Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, St. Sebastian's choir, directed by the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell.

At last year's seven programs it was estimated that 100,000 persons listened, after having picnicked and played games, read, or just rested in the shade. The forest preserve district will again supply benches accommodating several hundred persons at each of the locations. The programs are mainly drawn from hymns and home melodies.

In Caldwell Woods.

St. Sebastian's choir, which will sing in Caldwell woods, is composed of 20 men and 30 boys, and is accompanied by Kennedy Griffith. The choir represents St. Sebastian's Catholic church, 824 Wellington avenue.

The program chosen for this concert includes "Emitte Spiritum Tuum" [Schuetky]; "Gloria Patri" and "O Bone Jesu" [Palestrina]; "Ave Maria" [Gounod]; "Ave Maris Stella" [Tozer]; "Sanctus and Benedictus," from "St. Cecilia's Mass" [Gounod]; "Lullaby" [Brahms]; "Our Nation's Prayer" [Young]; "Bless This House" [Brahe].

"The Prayer," from "Hansel and Gretel" [Humperdinck]; "Bells of St. Mary's" [Adams]; "Kentucky Babe" [Geibel]; "Old Black Joe" and "My Old Kentucky Home" [Foster]; "Killarney" and "Come Back to Erin" [Rhys-Herbert], and "God Bless America" [Berlin].

ALL TIME RECORD SEEN IN LANE'S CLASS OF 1,275

New Rule to Reduce Future Registry.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Six north side Chicago High schools will release 3,477 young men and women into the world of business and higher education Thursday night. Approximately 400 more seniors than last year will assemble with their classmates for the last time to receive diplomas signifying the end of four years of study and exams, athletic events and assemblies, club meetings and class parties.

Lane Tech again takes the record for the largest class in Chicago with the largest group of graduates in the school's history, 1,275. This will probably be an all time record, for next year's class is smaller and all other classes will be reduced under a new system of admission to the school.

New Amundsen Record.

An approximate number of graduates in the other classes in order are Lake View, 600; Senn, 536; Amundsen, 426 [the largest in its history]; Sullivan, 360, and Waller, 280.

Mayor Kelly will address the Lane graduates in the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets. The combined band and orchestra, both national champions, under the baton of Joseph J. Grill, will open the program with Savino's "Processional." The R. O. T. C. will present the colors and Paul W. Schneider will conduct the audience in singing the national anthem.

Robert Johnson, class president, will welcome the parents and guests. James M. McCahey, president of the board of education, and other board members will be introduced.

Other musical selections will include Grieg's "Huldigungsmarch" by the orchestra and Mozart's "Gloria from the 12th Mass," by the orchestra and chorus. Gardner P. Huff will direct the recessional songs, "Go Lane Go," written by Jack Nelson, class of '15, and the Lane Marching song, written by Robert Mohr, class of '39.

Program At Sullivan.

"Frontiers for American Youth" will be the theme of Sullivan's commencement program in the Loyola Community theater, Glenwood and Loyola avenues. After Wayne Holtzman welcomes the audience and Robert Mugalian plays a piano solo, "Malaguena," by Lecuona, Edward Peters will explain the theme. Five students will discuss frontiers in industry; another five will consider frontiers in the professions.

Speakers and their topics are Howard Traisman, science; Richard Hahn, agriculture; Raymond Luby, commerce; Edward Dwyer, transportation; Lucille Seeman, the arts; Maxine Brenner, teaching; Richard Hart, medicine; Doris Olson, nursing; James Parlee, law, and Peter Schwab, summation.

The talks will be divided by a vocal solo, Franz Lehar's "Villa," by Barbara Taylor, and followed by Puccini's "Musetta's Waltz Song," by Helen Newman. Rava Just will present the class gift and John F. Erzinger, assistant principal, will accept it. Dayton Grafman will play Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody" on the piano, preceding the farewell address by Lois Regnell and presentation of diplomas by Herbert C. Hansen, principal. For the recessional, the orchestra will offer Mendelssohn's "March of the Priests" from "Thalia," under the direction of Edward Meltzer.

Amundsen Commencement.

Amundsen's commencement will be held in the Lane auditorium, Addison and Western avenues. The program will feature the graduates. Nick Pasti, class president, will give the address. Harry Clew will present the class gift and Harry P. Fuller will accept it.

A group of musical selections will include a vocal solo, Strauss' "Spring in my Heart," by Gloria Chevlin; a vocal duet, Strickner's "The Days Fair," by Marilyn Bitter and Shirley Kessler; a piano number, Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 1 in D," by Robert A. Olson; a reading by Marjorie Eck, and two songs by the mixed chorus, "Psalm 150" and "Sylvia."

L. Day Perry, principal, will announce the awards and present the diplomas. The class will sing the alma mater and Forrest Buchtel will direct the orchestra during the recessional.

In gray caps and gowns, Waller's 280 citizens of tomorrow will consider the meaning of citizenship before they receive their diplomas from Maurice C. Lipman, principal, Thursday night in the Le Moyne school, 851 Waveland avenue. Steve Chorba will discuss the "Privileges of American Citizenship," Dorothy Sell will repeat "Words of Great Americans," and James Stevens will enumerate the "Obligations of American Citizenship."

Music At Waller.

John W. Finlayson, assistant principal, will award the honors. Orchestral selections will include Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory," the national anthem, Isaac's "Gypsy Overture" and the Waller school song.

Yvonne Markus will read a poem, Sara Newey will sing "Il Bacio," by Arditti, the Boys' ensemble will offer "To Thee, O Country" and "Spring

A TREE RECORD FOR LAKE BLUFF.

In reference to your article last Sunday on the parks in Lake Bluff, the United States bureau of forestry has reported that in a square mile in Lake Bluff there was a greater variety of trees [naturally grown, not including planted shade trees] than in any equal area the forestry service had investigated in the United States. The students from Chicago and Northwestern universities use Lake Bluff parks for study.

I have been going there since 1888. Persons seeing Lake Bluff for the first time are impressed with the great variety of its trees. A READER.

WANTS DOGS KEPT OFF BEACHES.

Dogs are among the nicest animals one can have for pets. I like dogs. But much as I like them I can't tolerate them using the same beach I do when I go in swimming. My first few bathing attempts in the lake this year were spoiled by the presence of several dogs. Their masters encouraged them to swim in the same water with we humans, a highly unsanitary, dangerous business.

Are dogs permitted on the beaches? should not police prevent them from contaminating the water? I should like to hear some opinion on this subject.

MRS. J. B. S.

THOSE PACKED BUSES.

As the weather grows hotter, our north side buses are becoming fewer and more crowded. Standing in a rush hour bus is an endurance test that only a Chicago straphanger will tolerate. After 4:30 o'clock most of the buses are packed like cattle cars.

The north side needs more buses—a great many more. WEARY.

GUN CLUB FINDS SUCCESS AFTER 2 FALSE STARTS

Northwest Group Lists 300 Sportsmen.

BY JOHN T. M'CUTCHEON JR.

It came as a surprise to founders of the Northwest Gun club in 1929 that applications for membership by the hundred were received, for an earlier attempt to form a hunting and fishing club among the same group had been fruitless. Nevertheless the club is now one of the largest and most active in the Chicago region, with a membership of more than 300.

It is one of the larger clubs whose support has been of great value in the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense reserve, whose purpose is the registration of the nation's millions of amateur marksmen for action in case of an emergency.

First Formed in 1916.

Arthur Davidsen, 5063 North Cicero avenue, president of the club, was its originator and persistent driving force. Some of his friends who have formed the core of the club are Frank Koerper, 5033 Winona street, secretary; Anthony Nepute, River Grove, Ill., treasurer; Arthur Borman, 5442 Wilson avenue; and John Edwards, 5216 Elston avenue.

The first sign of an impending gun club was in 1916, when the sportsmen found that they had one thing in common: They liked to fish and shoot in what was then woods near Cicero and Devon avenues along the north branch of the Chicago river. They did this for more than a year, each contributing money for a future clubhouse and meeting in a hall in the rear of a saloon at Cicero and Elston avenues. For some reason interest began to lag, however, and when it was clear that the exchequer was never going to provide a house, it was returned to the members, without interest.

Second Club Disbands.

It may have been that the idea was premature, or it may have been the appearance of the now defunct Cragin Gun club near Park Ridge. In any case the embryonic club disappeared and in the course of a few years most of its promoters became enrolled in the Cragin club. Time treated the Cragin Gun club with no more respect than it did the Roman empire, however, and when its one man staff, Orv Andrews, moved to Frankfort, Ill., Davidsen and his friends were again in the market for a new club.

On Milwaukee road a little north of Golf road, Davidsen found an abandoned airplane field, said to have been used by prohibition bootleggers. The group leased the southern seven acres of the field, including a hangar.

The heating facilities afforded by an abandoned airplane hangar did not suit the new occupants, so they tore it down, salvaging what lumber they could. Davidsen, conveniently, is a building contractor. In his basement a new one room clubhouse in portable sections was constructed and later set up on the club's property.

Interest Runs High.

Due to their first experience in starting a club, and to the business depression, a membership of 25 was planned. But when word got around that Art Davidsen and some friends had set up a clubhouse and skeet field, he found he had more friends asking for membership than he could count. They were admitted, and the next year the clubhouse was enlarged.

The equipment now includes four skeet fields and one straight trap, two more soon to be installed. Recently the club was the scene of the Central States Skeet Shoot, which some 5,000 persons attended. With nearly 300,000 targets broken last year, the Northwest Gun club is one of the most popular skeet clubs in the country.

Girl, Ill Year, Graduates with Class

Miss Helen Harding, assistant principal of the Haven school in Evanston, made a proud call on a bedridden little girl Thursday. With her went a diploma.

The little girl is Nancy Evans of 2321 Bryant street, Evanston, daughter of the late Nelson J. Evans, telegraph editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Mrs. Evans. Last June, following two attacks of streptococcus, Nancy was stricken with rheumatic fever. Since then she has not set foot outside her bed.

Nancy had just completed the seventh grade when she became ill, but undeterred by her handicap, decided to graduate with her class this year. Not only did she continue to make excellent grades, but her English papers, written in bed, were used as a pattern for her healthy classmates.

Next fall, she said firmly as she took a strong grasp on her diploma, she will enter Evanston High school.

AMATEUR DRAMA GROUP TO OFFER MUSICAL SHOW

Understudy Gets Chance in Leading Role.

The opportunity for which every understudy works has fallen in the lap of Betty Krueger of 5633 Wayne avenue. She will play the lead in a musical drama, "Harmony Street," to be presented by the Edgewater Drama group on Friday and Saturday night in the Rogers Park Baptist church, 1900 Greenleaf avenue.

Betty Krueger.
[Maurice Photo.]

Betty has been connected with the players for only two months. Phyllis Cameron was assigned to the lead, with Betty as her understudy, and when Phyllis found it necessary to leave the group, Betty stepped into the star's rôle. In the lead of Caroline, Betty sings and dances. A few years ago she overworked her lyric soprano voice and now is just starting to sing again.

Written by Director.

The two act drama is an original story by Miss Jean Todd, 5434 Kenmore avenue, director of the group. Peggy Paulson has arranged the dances and Mrs. Laura R. Helfrich is assisting with the musical direction. Both take parts in the play.

Senn High Alumna.

Betty was graduated from Senn High school in 1937 and has resided in the neighborhood for 14 years. She and four or five other members of the group hope to go with Miss Todd into a summer theater group next month.

ENLARGED LIVING ROOM REPLACES OLD FRONT PORCH

Cooling Unit Serves Two Rooms in House.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Strong, 3846 North Kildare avenue, bought their present home with the intention of remodeling it. Much that was aging and unlovely was eliminated, and much that was modern and lovely was included in the plans and specifications.

The architects, Hooper & Nelson, 118 East 26th street, took a middle aged house, with no heritage of either beauty or appeal, and charged it drastically.

In the original home there were none-too-sturdy steps at the front leading to a large glazed porch. Steps and porch disappeared, and the entrance reappeared at the side; a change which enlarged the living room and added to its light and air. The exterior, with its fresh paint and careful structural changes, now presents a new face to the world. It has dignity and distinction.

Concealed Heating Units.

The interior was no less radically altered: Changed in layout, in equipment, and in decorative treatment.

The new living room is large, with six generous, well placed windows. Radiation was concealed, placed in the walls, thus adding still more space to the rooms. In the dining room there is indirect lighting, and a beautiful bay window with glass shelves and a glass block panel.

In the original layout the kitchen had one of the best exposures in the house, so a bedroom now occupies that space which was once culinary headquarters. Practical reasons were likewise back of a shift in position for the bathroom. [Rooms CAN be changed about in a house, once modernization is under way, and a layout which does not satisfy at all, shifted to a plan which is much more to the family taste.

The architects incorporated one ingenius plan for summer cooling of two rooms. A cooling unit was built into the wall between the dining room and a bedroom. So that during the day the unit is "turned on" to cool the dining room, and at night its direction is reversed and the bedroom enjoys its cooling comfort.

Built-in Shower.

The work of this effective remodeling was done last year. Needless to add, the kitchen was completely modernized, and walls and floors of all rooms entirely refinished and redecorated. And another cooling help was given to the bathroom in the form of a built-in shower.

79 GRADUATED IN CEREMONIES AT LAKE FOREST

Six Seniors Give Talks at Commencement.

Seventy-nine seniors at Lake Forest High school received diplomas last Wednesday night from George T. Rogers, president of the board of education. The class was presented by Raymond Moore, principal. In place of a guest speaker, six members of the class gave orations on topics of their own choosing. The speakers were Richard Beyer, Ruth Kastrup, Parker Wyman, Fern Marie Albert, Jack Pollin and Virginia Clasen.

Young Wyman, son of Mrs. Phyllis Marks Wyman of Lake Forest, is an outstanding member of the class. He has been offered a national scholarship to Harvard university and a regional scholarship to Yale university. In his four years at Lake Forest, Parker never received a grade below "A." He has not decided which scholarship to accept.

The initiation of 13 seniors into the National Honor society was part of the commencement program. This Week in the Garden

Monday, June 17.

Now that planting is completed, care of the garden must receive continuous attention. Maintenance makes the garden no matter how small or how large it may be. This not only means intelligent cultivation but the regular mowing of the lawn, edging the borders and beds, keeping rampant growths on shrubs restricted, tying up plants needing it, care of the seedbed, and the adoption of a spraying calendar to keep all insects and disease under control. To enjoy high grade vegetables keep them growing rapidly and watch for attacks from insects.

Tuesday, June 18.

Goldfish placed in the pool will keep down mosquito larvae, and they are an attraction to every one. It is not too late to prepare a small pool for a water lily plant. Dealers can advise suitable varieties. Do not crowd the plants by using too many in a restricted area or they will not flower as profusely as they should.

Wednesday, June 19.

The shade under some trees, such as the Norway and sugar maple, is often so dense nothing will grow under them. However, by sowing annual grasses several times during the summer the surface of the ground will appear green and inviting. Plant food also should be applied or the trees will exhaust the food supply. After the delphiniums flower cut back the flower stalk, allowing all leaves to remain. They contain much food that will return to the roots.

Thursday, June 20.

Transplant iris shortly after flowering and up to September. See that the soil is well drained and, if divisions are made, use comparatively large ones which are strong and become established immediately. The iris responds to good treatment. It is among the finest of all perennials for the city garden. If the peonies failed to produce as many flowers as had been expected the cause may be too deep planting or an inferior variety.

Friday, June 21.

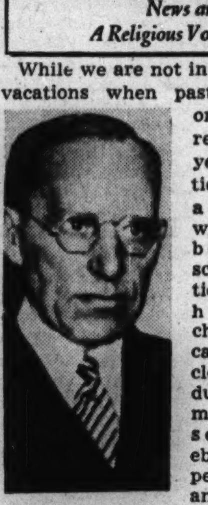
If a bare or drab spot appears in the perennial border, small plantings of three or five floribuna roses are excellent. Pot plants can be obtained from dealers. The many hardy asters that are available enable the home gardener to select kinds that fit his particular needs. These plants are very hardy. Cutting the plants back will induce branching and give a bushier plant.

Saturday, June 22.

Better and larger blooms on hollyhocks may be had if the flower buds are thinned. Do not neglect to shade newly planted seedlings during hot weather. Keep well watered and they will soon become established. House plants that are plunged in the shade should be watered daily to be in prime condition for use next winter.

Narthex and Byway

News and Queries Within and Without the Church
A Religious Voice of the People — Edited by the Rev. John Evans



The Rev. Emerson O. Bradshaw.

While we are not in favor of church vacations when pastor and people omit their regular religious duties, yet, being realistic, we admit that a vacation during which there may be a change of scenery for devotions may do no harm. Few churches in Chicagoland actually close their doors during the summer period, but social activity ebbs. During that period, Narthex and Byway will take a vacation and resume again with the aid of its helpers in mid-September.

As we take off for the summer we remind you that one important church activity is nearly ready to begin—the daily vacation schools. At least 20,000 Protestant children will enroll in 200 such schools beginning June 24, and at 35 centers thruout the city about the same number of Catholic children will be given opportunities of directed summer activities under auspices of the Catholic Youth organization, beginning early in July.

The Chicago Church federation's department of Christian education sponsors the Protestant church schools under the direction of Emerson O. Bradshaw. Dr. Bradshaw has directed a series of nine conferences for vacation school teachers at Morris Memorial chapel, 30th street and Vernon avenue, with an aggregate attendance of 1,250. Emphasis in teacher training was placed on creative work in the instruction program.

Attention: Mr. D.F. McMahon, manager
Local Display advertising department

Gentlemen:

Looking over the records of our business to date this year, I wish to take this opportunity of placing on record my appreciation of the excellent results we are obtaining from our advertising in the Metropolitan section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

Since early in March - when we opened our floor coverings store - our advertising has been devoted to rugs, linoleum, etc., and to our old established business of rug cleaning.

We had occasion once before to compliment you upon the effectiveness of our rug-cleaning advertising in the Tribune. To that earlier expression may we now add the statement that so far this year our rug cleaning business is the largest in our history for any comparable period.

You will be glad to hear that our new venture - our floor coverings store - is succeeding beyond our most sanguine expectations. We are convinced that much of this success is the result of our campaign of consistent advertising in the Chicago Sunday Tribune Metropolitan section.

Yours very truly,

Beauties of Lane Tech Prom

licity business after college. She plans to go to Mundelein college.

Seventeen year old La Verne Landahl, 6309 North Artesian avenue, secretary of the senior class at Senn, expects to study journalism at Northwestern university in the fall, but first she intends to work this summer as a stenographer. Her ambition is to teach journalism. At Senn she was a copy reader on the school paper, secretary of the Home Economics club, treasurer of the 3A class, member of the glee club, student council and honor society and secretary of the 4B and 3A classes.

Another future journalism student at the Evanston university is Joseph L. Wyatt Jr., 16 years old, 5419 Magnolia avenue, who will be graduated from Senn with an average of 94.75, the ninth in his class. He is president of the honor society, an officer in the school hall guards and chairman of the school cleanup committee. Joseph was a recent winner in the state Latin contest and has been awarded a one year scholarship to Northwestern university.

Eyes Teaching Career.

Amundsen High school's valedictorian, Mary Bereiter, 18 years old, 4517 North Artesian avenue, is going to take entrance examinations at Chicago Teacher's college. She expects to major in mathematics and physical science. But if she fails to pass the first time she intends to try again and meanwhile will enter Wright Junior college. Her Amundsen scholastic average, she says, "is just a little bit less than 97." Mary is a member of the student council, vice president of the honor society and a senior Girl Scout.

Her classmate, Betty J. McCambridge 4845 North Paulina street, has been awarded the D. A. R. citizenship award at Amundsen. She stands sixth in the class with an average of 95.8 and is editor of the school yearbook. This summer she plans to look for a stenography job. Betty spends her spare time playing the accordion and filling a large scrapbook with poems clipped from magazines and copied from anthologies. She is 17 years old.

The American Legion auxiliary medal for efficiency was recently awarded to Edward Schneider, 18 years old, 2647 Carmen avenue, a first lieutenant in the Amundsen R. O. T. C. He will continue his education at Northwestern university in the premedical course. Collector of symphonic records, he has played solo cornet in the school band for more than a year. He is associate editor of the yearbook, member of the honor society and an Eagle Scout.

Harry Clew Jr., 16 years old, 2640 Argyle street, will enter Massachusetts Institute of Technology on a scholarship this fall to take a course in business and engineering administration. His specialty will be chemical engineering. He is sergeant at arms of the Amundsen senior class, a captain in the R. O. T. C., vice president of the student council and a sports writer on the school paper. He has three idle time interests, he says, photography, reading and "just observing people." He also is a winner of a two year scholarship to the University of Chicago.

Five students at Lane Tech merit the distinction of being top ranking members of the largest graduating class in the school's history. Robert Rodig, 17 years old, and Bill Dunlap, 18, tied for top scholastic honors with an average of 96.7 out of a possible 97 in the same course, architectural drawing. Bill plans to continue his studies at Armour Tech and hopes to be the head of an architectural concern some day. Until fall, he will be earning money to help finance his college course.

In addition to serving as vice president of the Honor society and Architectural club and being a member of many other organizations, Bill, mind alert to leisure time activities as well as studies, has developed several hobbies. He had been making a telescope with his physics teacher, building kayaks and saving architectural drawings. He also likes to swim, play golf, and dance. His home is at 4949 North Leavitt street.

Robert would like to accompany Bill to Armour, but he will have to earn his tuition first. He's ahead of Bill on one score, tho. He's picked out his girl and already is planning for a home. At school he's president of the Architectural club and a member of the Honor society. His favorite pastime is roller skating and he is drum sergeant in an American Legion Drum and Bugle corps. He lives at 2836 Diversey avenue.

President of Class.

Altho Bob specialized in shop, he has been working in a drug store for the last two years and developed an interest in medicine.

A classmate whose R. O. T. C. achievements go a step higher is Joseph E. Hind Jr., 17, 2613 North Fairfield avenue, who is cadet colonel commanding the Chicago High School corps, the highest work obtainable in the school system. The work was easy for him, he says, so he studied to reach the top, but he has no desire to continue the work or be a soldier.

Also a high ranking student, Joe received four pins for scholarship and has been awarded a scholarship to Armour. He plans to study chemical engineering. "There are tremendous opportunities there, I think, and altho it's a difficult course, I'm not afraid of hard work," he said.

Directs Hall Guards.

Since last September, red headed Joseph J. Eckl, 18, 2476 Pensacola avenue, has been spending half his school day directing 1,300 hall guards. As chief of the group he receives the daily orders from the main office, gives them out to the guards and sees that they are carried out.

"Working with the fellows has been fine training," explained Joe. "I've talked to more than 2,000, advised some, helped others with discipline problems and corrected many who were doing the wrong thing. It's taught me a lot about human nature, too."

Joe is going to look for a job this summer in some engineering line and then attend night school in order to advance more rapidly in his work. His chief ambition is to do scientific research. Extra curricular activities are the slide rule and math projects clubs and microscopy, a hobby started by a course in biology.

Also Class Officers.

Sullivan graduates indicated their choice for outstanding members of the class by electing them class officers; the faculty confirmed the choice by selecting them to be interviewed by THE TRIBUNE.

Edward Peters, 2530 Farwell avenue, is 6 feet 1½ inches of president. He was vice president of the junior class and also is sales manager of the yearbook, a member of the Rangers [honorary service organization], the Sullivan Senate, tennis team, and the National Honor society.

He intends to study chemical engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic institute in Troy, N. Y., where he has been awarded a four year scholarship on his rank of seventh in the class. His interest in engineering developed this year and he might branch off into the study of metals.

She Knows Every One.

Probably Suzanne Ray, 7029 Sheridan road, is vice president because she knows every one. She learned to make friends as a youngster when she attended 10 different grammar schools. Suzanne is a "joiner", too, and is active in clubs both in and outside of school. She enjoys sports.

She wants to enter Northwestern university next fall and major in journalism. She might make writing her profession, but she's not keen on having a career and would be willing to settle down with a nice young man, altho she hasn't found the right one yet.

Dark eyed Ellen Linder, 1632 Pratt boulevard, is the class secretary, as well as an officer in the Camera and Travel clubs. She may join Suzanne at Northwestern, but hasn't made up her mind about the department she'll enter. Ellen's interests are in children, music and art and she may be able to work out a combination of the the three. She plays the piano and has been in radio playlets.

As for the children, at first she'd like to be a camp counselor in charge of photography, her hobby. Later on she'll make a home for a husband and maybe four children, "two of each."

Guards Class Money.

A pretty Irish girl has been entrusted with the class money—Jeanne Kelly, 17 years old, 1720 Wallen avenue. Jeanne can be distinguished by more than her contagious smile. She has a job! She will start work as a page girl in a bank in July. For her high school electives, Jeanne chose typing and shorthand and she intends to perfect her training at night school and then look for a secretarial job.

Secretly Jeanne always has wanted to be an airline hostesses, but she feels she's too young to take a nurses' course.

Now Class President.

"I want to get more out of life than just work, sleep and food," argued Robert Duffy, 18, 929 Belle Plaine avenue, from Lake View. And he's made a good start in high school. Forced to help put himself thru school, Bob has held lots of odd jobs, including those of a truck driver, waiter and elevator boy.

He gave up outside jobs this year in order to serve as class president. He also played football and is a member of the rowing crew, Hi-Y and Spanish club.

Bob's ambition is to attend Annapolis and he will continue to hope for an appointment while he combines a job with night school or junior college.

Plans to Teach.

Jeanne Laverty, 17, 5901 Navarre avenue, is following in her sister's footsteps at Lake View. Upholding her sister's record last year. Jeanne is vice president of the class, president of Tri-Hi-Y and an honor student.

Both girls plan to teach, but they'll study at different colleges. Jeanne has chosen Park college in Parkville, Mo., a coöperative school. Since she must help to put herself thru college, she says she'd rather go to school where all the other students work, too, and their study hours are adjusted to a working schedule.

Her favorite subjects are math and chemistry, so she wants to teach math or be a laboratory technician. During summers Jeanne has worked as a waitress and in an office, so she'll qualify for several kinds of work on the Park college campus. She also has done radio survey work by telephone since she was 12 years old.

Class "Brain Trusts."

According to the class president, Mary Ann Gillson, 16, 3427 North Hamilton avenue, and Joseph Kahl, 17, 2912 Commonwealth avenue, are the class "brain trusts." Mary Ann is valedictorian, Joseph, salutatorian. Mary Ann will enter the University of Chicago in the fall and prepare to teach high school Latin, French and English literature.

Her scholastic efficiency carries over into other fields. Mary Ann makes her own clothes, plays the violin and viola and is a senior service girl.

Joe hopes to make a career of politics by studying political science and law at the University of Chicago. He feels that it's the coming field. Joe explains, "I won't worry too much about the salary I'm making at first, if I'm doing work that I like."

He's put his finger into administrative work in high school by helping to organize a constitutional convention to revise the constitution of the Student Government and serving as a student supervisor in the visual education department.

Honor Graduate

Miss Esther Emma Novick received a $400 scholarship upon her graduation from the nursing school of Michael Reese hospital. She completed her course with honors. Miss Novick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Novick, 1317 Addison street.

COLLEGE TO OPEN SUMMER CLASS REGISTRY FRIDAY

Two plans for summer study will be offered to students at the National College of Education in Evanston. The customary six weeks session will open Monday, June 24, with registration next Friday and Saturday. Two short sessions of two weeks each in July will be offered to students who do not have time for the full session.

Introductory and advanced classes will be formed in nursery school, kindergarten and elementary theory methods. There also will be courses offered in science, history, sociology, literature, music, and art.

Among the guest instructors will be Dr. Mary Dabney Davis, specialist in nursery school-kindergarten-primary education; Dr. Laura Hooper, director of elementary education in the Newtonville public schools in Newton, Mass., and David Dushkin, head of a music school in Winnetka.

31,000 ARE DUE FOR MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

Periods Are Announced for 6th Corps Area.

Plans for the summer military training of 31,000 men have been announced by various offices of the 6th corps area, embracing Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. These are divided into four branches of training, which, with the number expected to attend during this summer, are as follows:

1. Citizens' military training camps, 4,410.
2. Reserve officers' summer camp duty, about 3,000.
3. Reserve officers' training corps summer camps for senior cadets, 1,073.
4. National Guard participation in army maneuvers, about 22,500.

Many Partly Trained.

At the same time it was estimated by the various offices that there is a total of approximately 136,000 civilians in the three states in this corps area who have had military training of one sort or another, including that given in high school.

Of these about 70,000 live in or near Chicago, due to the fact that military training is given in 27 of Chicago's 35 public high schools, the most thoro coverage of any city in the country.

The reserve officers are, of course, the best trained of civilians for military purposes. They must have had either war experience or four years of military training, and are required to attend camp for at least two weeks every four years. There are at present 13,700 reserve officers in this area, of which 4,803 live in or near Chicago.

25,141 in National Guard.

The National Guard is the other military organization of civilians. In Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, there are 25,141 national guardsmen, including officers, of whom 9,800 live in Chicagoland.

Beyond these two organized groups, there is a vast number of men from 18 years of age up who have had junior R. O. T. C. training, which does not lead to a reserve commission, or who have spent from one to four summers at a C. M. T. C. camp without receiving a commission.

No accurate record is kept of these men, but it is estimated that 52,500 students have had high school R. O. T. C. training in this corps area, of whom 34,000 now live in Chicago.

Both the R. O. T. C. and the C. M. T. C. were organized under the National Defense act of 1920. There are now in the 6th corps area eight college units, five in military academies, and 52 in high schools.

Camps for Training.

R. O. T. C. summer training will be given this summer at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich., where 576 cadets will attend; Fort Sheridan Ill., where 300 cadets will be trained, and Camp McCoy, near Sparta, Wis., where there will be 161 R. O. T. C. cadets. At Camp McCoy the six weeks period opened Friday, while at the other two it will open tomorrow. The schedule was announced by Col. John T. Rhett, R. O. T. C. officer for the 6th corps area.

The 4,410 youths between 17 and 29 years of age who will attend citizens' military training camps this summer will go to these three as well as to Camp Brady, in northeastern Michigan, Fort Snelling, Minn., and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., altho the latter two are not in this corps area. Thru last week more than 7,100 applications had been received.

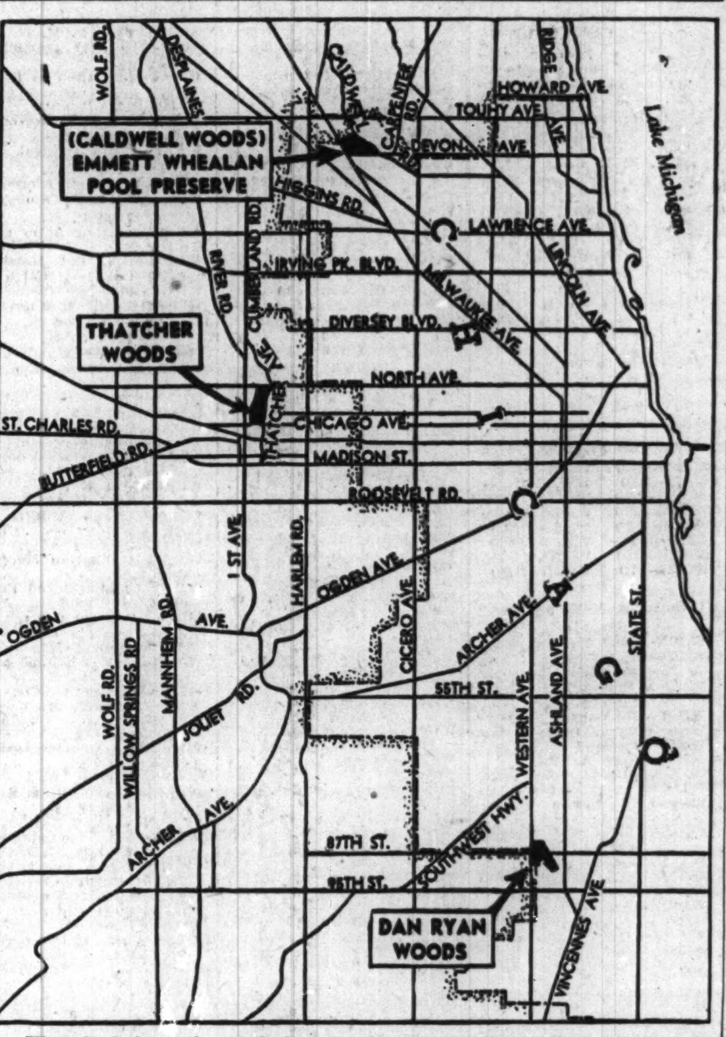
WALLER ALUMNI TO HOLD SPLASH PARTY FRIDAY

The Waller-North Division Alumni association will hold a splash party and dance Friday evening at the Lawson Y. M. C. A., 30 West Chicago avenue, for the June graduation class.

Suzanne Thomsen, who was chosen as princess of the 65th anniversary celebration of the school in April, will be crowned queen of the party. Her court of honor will include Charlotte Barry, Myrtle Kay, Jeanne Miller and Jane Wallace.

The splash party will be followed by dancing on the roof garden of the Y. Frederick J. Bertram is chairman of the arrangements committee and Jerome H. Schwartz is president of the alumni association.

Sites of Forest Concerts



The shaded portions of the map locate the forest preserves where choral concerts will be given this afternoon and each Sunday afternoon thru July 28. The concerts start at 5 o'clock. Platforms and canopies will be provided for the choirs and the listeners may use benches that have been provided by the forest preserve district or arrange for their own comfort on the grassy slopes of the preserves. St. Sebastian's choir will be heard at Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, this afternoon. The Greig male chorus will sing at Thatcher woods in River Forest, and the Metropolitan church choir will sing at Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street.

MUTUAL TELLS PLANS TO COVER 2 CONVENTIONS

Host of Experts to Give Complete Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Plans for the most complete coverage of the national political conventions in radio history were announced yesterday by the management of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The Republican national convention will be held in Philadelphia, starting Monday, June 24. The Democratic convention will open in the Chicago Stadium, starting July 15.

The Mutual network lineup carrying the two convention broadcasts will include more than 130 stations. The convention proceedings will also be shortwaved to the world thru WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many Special Features Planned.

Four of the major stations of the Mutual network will contribute their expert broadcasters, commentators, analysts, and special events men for the convention broadcasts.

Besides the actual broadcasting from the convention halls the W-G-N-Mutual audiences will be treated to many airings of sidelight attractions of the two conventions. These programs will originate in railroad stations, hotels, and other points where events of interest and importance occur.

Stations contributing experts who will be engaged in presenting the convention broadcasts are W-G-N, Chicago; WOR, Newark, N. Y.; WFIL, Philadelphia, and WOL, Washington.

Ryan, Henning Head List.

Heading the list of experts to be heard on the convention broadcasts are Quin Ryan of W-G-N, who has broadcast the three previous pairs of conventions of both parties.

Other broadcasters on the Mutual staff include Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the Chicago Tribune's Washington news bureau and an internationally known political writer for more than three decades; Arthur M. Evans, Tribune political reporter; Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual's newscaster from Washington; Gabriel Heatter, New York commentator; Wythe Williams, editor of Greenwich Time, who is equally at home whether analyzing national or international events, and Dave Driscoll, special events director of WOR.

Each of these broadcasters will be heard from the Republican convention in Philadelphia and all but Gabriel Heatter also from the Democratic convention in Chicago.

50 Microphones Available.

The technical facilities for covering the meetings and news events will be handled by staff engineers of W-G-N, WOR, and WFIL, under the direction of J. R. Poppele, chief engineer at WOR who will direct the broadcasts from Philadelphia, and Carl Meyers, chief of the W-G-N engineering staff who will be in charge in Chicago.

More than 50 microphones will be available in the convention halls to pick up the broadcasts. The "mikes" will be strategically located to cover every section of the halls so that the principals in the convention on the platform as well as all of the members in the state delegations on the floor may be heard if they wish to speak.

Mutual also will have portable ultra high frequency transmitters which broadcasters can carry about the halls in making pickups.

Parabolic microphones, which pick up sounds in a concave bowl and reflect them directly into the microphones will be used to pick up the sounds of the crowds in the convention halls. The master broadcasting booths at both conventions, where the chief announcers will work, will be located immediately behind speakers' platforms in the Philadelphia and Chicago halls.

Driscoll, Schreiber in Charge.

Dave Driscoll, chief of WOR special events division, will be the director of the broadcasts originating from the Republican convention in Philadelphia. Frank P. Schreiber, chief of W-G-N's special events department, will direct the Democratic convention broadcasts.

Mutual will establish a traffic control division at each of the conventions and Adolph Opfinger, chief of the network's traffic bureau, will be on hand to schedule broadcasts to the network as fast as the news events become available. Mutual will stand ready to clear scheduled programs to provide listeners with every event of importance from both conventions.

JOE'S JAMBOREE BEGINS ON W-G-N NEXT SATURDAY

"Jolly Joe's Junior Jamboree," a program designed to bring out the talents of young entertainers, will start on W-G-N at 9:00 a. m. next Saturday and will be heard every Saturday thereafter.

Featuring Jolly Joe Kelly, a radio star of many years, the program will act as a showcase for child talent.

Any child that can speak a piece, sing a song, imitate animals or famous people, tap dance or play a harmonica, ukulele or any home made instrument, is eligible to take part in the show. Merely address a letter to Jolly Joe, W-G-N, Chicago, giving name and address, age and talent.

CHOOSE WINNERS IN CARRIE CARTER TALENT SEARCH

Massachusetts, Oregon Women Finalists.

Thelma Hansen of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Ethel Chase Christie of Eugene, Ore., have been selected as the national winners in the Carrie Carter talent search by a board of judges consisting of Lillian Gish, Mona Kent, William A. Bacher, Clarence M. Shapiro, and Don Moore.

The announcement ended a two month search, during which more than 10,000 applicants were auditioned thruout the entire country. Each of the 84 stations, including W-G-N, carrying the Carters of Elm Street show held individual auditions. The recorded voices of the semifinalists were sent to Chicago, where the final judging took place. The objective was to find one actress between the ages of 15 and 25 and another of 25 or over.

Writer of Radio Plays.

Pretty 20 year old Thelma Hansen of Chelmsford, a suburb of Lowell, has been interested in dramatics since her first grade school days and has taken part in numerous amateur school and church plays. She is an honor graduate of the Chelmsford High school. She is employed by a beverage concern.

Miss Hansen's ambition is to be an actress either in radio, on the stage, or in the movies. Her amateur experience on the stage has been in such plays as "Holiday," "Stage Door," and "The Late Christopher Bean." She has also been successful in amateur painting, as well as having three radio plays produced.

Husband Killed in War.

Mrs. Christie is a widowed high school English teacher. She was born in Minnesota and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and of the University of Oregon. Her husband, a Canadian flying officer, was killed in action during the last war. She is a charter member of Eugene's Very Little theater.

William A. Bacher, formerly of Hollywood, is in charge of all programs and production at W-G-N. Clarence M. Shapiro is a talent scout for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Both Miss Hansen and Mrs. Christie will come to Chicago, will be quartered at the Stevens hotel, and will receive a rôle in the Carters of Elm Street for two weeks at an American Federation of Radio Artists' salary of $112.50 per week. All expenses will be assumed by the sponsors. The Carters show is aired over the Mutual network at 12:45 p. m. Mondays thru Fridays.

ELISSA LANDI TO STAR ON W-G-N IN SPY RING PLAY

Philips Holmes to Play Male Lead Friday.

Elissa Landi, glamorous young stage and screen actress, will return to the Fifth Row Center program to play the star rôle in the play, "Enemies Within," next Friday. The drama will be broadcast in the main audience studio of W-G-N, from 7 to 7:30 p. m., over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Featured with Miss Landi will be Philips Holmes, movie favorite.

Miss Landi's last appearance on W-G-N was on March 31, when she was featured in the play, "The Secret Glory."

In next Friday's Fifth Row Center drama, she will play the rôle of a girl reporter who uncovers a foreign spy ring in an American city. Cast in the part of Lorna Carroll, the reporter, she is sent by her newspaper to cover a story involving the shooting of a policeman.

In the course of investigation, the girl reporter discovers the hideout of the foreign agents. Holmes plays the rôle of William B. Douglas, a radio special events commentator who aids the reporter in combating the spy ring.

The play was written by Blair Walliser who will direct the show.

Miss Landi's most recent film successes were the "Count of Monte Cristo," "The Thirteenth Chair," and "After the Thin Man." Prior to making American pictures, Miss Landi was a European favorite and appeared in films in London, Paris, Berlin and in Sweden. Her first Broadway appearance was as Catherine in Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms" in 1931.

Considered one of the most versatile figures in the stage and motion picture world, Miss Landi speaks four languages, has written several novels, plays, poems and short stories, and is a veteran globe-trotter.

Holmes is the son of Taylor Holmes, the stage comedian. He was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., and received his education at Princeton, Trinity college, and also studied in Paris. Holmes is best remembered for his work in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," "The Criminal Code," "An American Tragedy," and "Dinner at Eight."

Supporting Miss Landi and Holmes will be Don Allen and a cast of outstanding Chicago radio actors. Musical background will be provided by the W-G-N orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

10 HIGH SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 4,829

GRADUATES GIVE TAXPAYERS FINE OUTLAY RETURN

High School Leaders an Upstanding Lot.

BY CLAYTON KIRKPATRICK.

In a sense this story is an accounting. It is a kind of financial statement for taxpayers, and it seeks to indicate the nature and amount of return they receive for the dollars they contribute to the public school system.

On the northwest side they have paid for nine large high schools worth more than $15,000,000. They spend more millions each year to maintain the buildings and hire the staff of administrators and teachers that supervise the processes of education.

They are proprietors in a big enterprise where the profits, at first glance, seem as nebulous and unreal as a wildcat promoter's promise.

Returns are Cumulative.

For the most part the returns on their money are cumulative, increasing thru the years in endless slow progression. Twice each year, however, they see concrete evidence of the results their investments bring. In February and June the doors of the humanistic factories open and the product of a four year process comes forth neatly wrapped up in cap and gown.

A week ago, 32 of the finest of these products, the outstanding graduates from each of the high schools, came to Tribune Tower and related their achievements and told of their ambitions. They way they talked, how they looked, and what they said served as indicators of the value of the training they had received.

A taxpayer would have acquired a great deal of general information, most of it of a kind that would reassure him about the wisdom of spending his money for education. One of the things he couldn't have missed was their careful grooming.

Know Soap and Water.

Some were dressed expensively, others were not, but all shared a typical American alertness to the virtues of soap and water. A few boys not yet accustomed to the daily routine of the razor appeared a bit unkept about the chin and upper lip.

A few girls were guilty of peeling nail polish. Serious fault could not be found with any.

And they were healthy. Some sun worshippers were already dark as beach guards in July. Among their pastimes not one failed to list some kind of sport. Girls leaned to swimming and volleyball. Boys favored baseball and basketball. They had learned to play at school and strong, well proportioned bodies were dividends for dollars spent on gymnasiums and playing fields.

They seemed to be well adjusted to society. Resentment against "fate" or "conditions" was not in them. They recognized the difficulties ahead and were determined to conquer rather than rail against them. Their ambitions were modest. Few wished to be rich, tho all hoped to be comfortable. Most girls expected to find useful work until they married.

Shudder at Pedantry.

They were neither silly nor over conscious. Pedantry made them shudder. Altho more than half believed their proms were more important to them than conditions in Europe, they were keenly alive to the effects events there may have on their lives. Frivolousness was a word in the same class with pedantry.

Valedictorians, a little self conscious under their honors, were insistent in their claims upon humor and sociability. Leaders in activities with lower averages were equally eager to claim a love of reading "serious books, too."

Finally the tax payer would have learned that he is getting good citizens for his dollars. More than half named civics as a favorite subject "because government is interesting and important." They know American institutions, admire and respect them, and are willing to fight if they are threatened.

These are the general observations the taxpayer might have made in talking to this representative group. More detailed specifications of the products of the system follow.

Held in High Esteem.

The caliber of Earl Smith is proved by the opinions of his classmates at Steinmetz High school. They voted him "most dynamic personality, most likely to succeed, most popular boy, and most versatile."

Besides being president of his class, he was president or chairman of half a dozen other school groups. His prowess as a public speaker has earned him a trip to Lima, Peru, to attend the Pan-American conference this summer. At the University of Minnesota next fall he will prepare for a degree in international law and later a career in the diplomatic service.

Lawrence Plotkowski was vice president of his class, president of the Steinmetz chapter of the National Honor society, and first baseman on the city championship baseball team. With a record like that friends expect him to realize his ambition to become a certified public accountant and a business executive.

Altho she is looking for a job as a typist right now Susan Bachar, valedictorian at Steinmetz, hopes some day to complete her education in art

CHICAGO PLANT GUILD PREPARES TO HELP SHUT-INS

The Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild is starting its 15th season of bringing cheer to the sick and lonely in charity wards of hospitals, settlement houses, old people's homes and other institutions in the city. Distribution of flowers, fresh fruits, jellies, and other delicacies to shut-ins will be started just as soon as the guild officials have completed arrangements for a voluntary delivery service to take the contributions from railroad stations to the hospitals.

All the guild's work is done by voluntary workers who make it possible for residents of the city and suburbs to share with the sick the bounty of their gardens and orchards. Suburban railroads furnish free transportation thruout the summer months for those who wish to send donations.

More than 2,000 members of 85 garden clubs coöperate with the guild each year in contributing fruits and flowers of their own and in directing the work among their neighbors who are not members of garden clubs.

[MAP ON PAGE 2.]

An hour of choral singing at each of three forest preserves on the outskirts of Chicago this afternoon will mark the beginning of the third consecutive series of outdoor concerts sponsored by the county board of commissioners and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. As in the previous two years, there will be seven Sunday programs, the last on July 28.

The Rev. Joseph O'Donnell.

The locations where singing will take place and the choral groups that will sing there this afternoon at 5 o'clock are as follows: Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street, Metropolitan Church choir, directed by J. Wesley Jones; Thatcher woods in River Forest, Grieg Male chorus, directed by Peter Olson; Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, St. Sebastian's choir, directed by the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell.

At last year's seven programs it was estimated that 100,000 persons listened, after having picnicked and played games, read, or just rested in the shade. The forest preserve district will again supply benches accommodating several hundred persons at each of the locations. The programs are mainly drawn from hymns and home melodies.

In Caldwell Woods.

St. Sebastian's choir, which will sing in Caldwell woods, is composed of 20 men and 30 boys, and is accompanied by Kennedy Griffith. The choir represents St. Sebastian's Catholic church, 824 Wellington avenue.

The program chosen for this concert includes "Emitte Spiritum Tuum" [Schuetky]; "Gloria Patri" and "O Bone Jesu" [Palestrina]; "Ave Maria" [Gounod]; "Ave Maris Stella" [Tozer]; "Sanctus and Benedictus," from "St. Cecilia's Mass" [Gounod]; "Lullaby" [Brahms]; "Our Nation's Prayer" [Young]; "Bless This House" [Brahe].

CLOGGED AUGUSTA BOULEVARD.

As long as it seems impossible for the watchdogs of the public purse to find the money to build a superhighway for the northwest side, I think they might use their influence with fellow politicos who are charged with making and enforcing laws and ask them to improve such streets as we already have.

What I would like to suggest wouldn't cost any money and it would be an invaluable assistance to motorists traveling over Augusta boulevard. The street is wide enough for only two lanes of traffic each way. Consequently parked cars reduce the efficiency of one of the main arteries by one half.

The disadvantages are particularly great during rush hours. Drivers continually cut in and out, dodging around the parked cars, creating a menace to themselves and to others. One solution would be to prohibit parking entirely. Another would be to regulate it by an ordinance similar to that in force on Michigan avenue where parking is permitted only during off hours.

If engineers wished to improve the street further they could level off the high crowns at intersections west of Humboldt boulevard. Some are so steep that a car passing over them at the maximum rate of speed permitted, 25 miles an hour, almost stands on its head.

ISAAC KASMAREK.

WARLIKE OLD MEN.

The other day I overheard a conversation that has been echoing in my mind ever since. Several old men were sunning themselves in Humboldt park and talking about the war. The one that talked the most and the loudest was advocating our immediate entry into the war.

"If I were young," he said, "I'd ask nothing better than a chance to take a rifle over there and mow down a few Nazis."

Most of his companions nodded their approval. I didn't say a word. The difference is that I am young and if anybody is going to shoulder a rifle it will be we and not those oldsters who talk so brave and risk so little. It seems to me that it will be time enough to shoulder rifles here when the Nazis threaten to come across the Atlantic.

Just to make sure that the old men down in Washington don't get to thinking like the old men in Humboldt park I think it would be an excellent idea for young men to make it known by letter and telegram that they are willing to fight only to defend the United States.

so that she can go to Hollywood as a dress designer. Active in social events and girls' clubs, she is also a good cook and intends some day to be a good wife.

Latin Favorite Subject.

Latin is the favorite subject of Virginia Placzkiewicz, highest ranking senior at Wells High school. Her cultivated speech and rich vocabulary prove it to be not entirely an academic exercise. She has a scholarship at the University of Chicago.

The president of the Wells senior class, Patrick Quinn, likes swing music and the occupation of radio announcer.

They Call Him "Babe."

Sixteen year old Francis Kleber is 6 feet 3 inches tall and he weighs 165 pounds, but friends at Taft High school call him "Babe." Candid, rather serious, he plans to attend a university, possibly Purdue, next year while he's waiting to become eligible for an appointment to the United States Naval academy at Annapolis. He was president of his class, and his greatest ambition is to hold the respect of the community in which he lives.

Jack Ellis, president of the student council at Taft, knows exactly where he's going and how he intends to get there. He will enroll at Northwestern university next fall to prepare for a career in the diplomatic service.

Classmates of Marian Hagerstrom at Taft say she has a sparkling personality. Not all her brilliance is in her personality, however, since she is graduating after only three and one-half years and as the valedictorian.

She's a Cub Fan.

The Chicago Cubs have no more ardent partisan than Shirley Klein, second ranking graduate at Tuley High school, and a pretty good ball player herself. She intends to enter business college and become a certified public accountant.

Big, easy going Alex Soll liked everything he did at Tuley and he did them all well. In scholarship he achieved a rating of 99 to tie with James FitzSimmons for valedictory honors.

Friends of young Mr. FitzSimmons say he is pessimistic. He insists he is an optimist. His record at Tuley certainly should not cause him to be downhearted. Besides his high scholarship it includes the presidency of the social science and classics clubs and the chairmanship of the clean-up campaign. Next fall he will begin the climb to a degree in chemistry at Central Y. M. C. A. college.

Wants to Teach History.

Winner of a competitive scholarship to Rockford college for women, Marie Borchers, second ranking student at Von Steuben High school, expects to study history so that she can teach it.

More education is the goal of Herbert Barsy, president of the senior class at Von Steuben. He intends to attend Northwestern university until he can write LL. D. and Ph. D. after his name.

Sol Holland was an athlete and one of the better students at Von Steuben. A basketball player, he was president of the Letter Men's club and vice president of his class. Sol likes commercial studies best and he hopes to learn how to become a certified public accountant at North Park college and Northwestern university.

Liked Newspaper Work.

Her work as reporter, columnist, and circulation manager on the school newspaper was more fun than anything else she did at Kelvyn Park High school, Martha Shapiro said. Nevertheless she found her work in sciences so interesting that she will enroll at Central Y. M. C. A. or Wright Junior college to learn to be a bacteriologist.

Friends of Robert Kraft at Kelvyn Park describe him as being versatile because he won a letter as a football player, won honors as a student, and practiced half a dozen different hobbies. His ambition is to become a mechanical engineer.

Editor James Erdevig of the Kelvyn Park Life will be satisfied if he can be a reporter and editor the rest of his life.

"Most Dependable."

"Most dependable" among the seniors graduating at Carl Schurz High school next week is Robert W. Brandt, treasurer of the senior class. He was a member of nine clubs and senior committees, pulled an oar in the senior crew, and sang in the senior chorus. Because he liked chemistry, he will continue to study it at Wright Junior college next fall.

A sandy haired boy with freckles, Norman J. Knights was president of his class at Schurz, an honor student, and "most popular" boy. He is proficient in tennis, basketball, and cricket. He has a scholarship at DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind.

In the five years between now and when she is 22, Annabelle E. Keller is going to give herself a chance to become an expert operator of business machines or a blues singer.

Looking for a Job.

Tall, blonde Gladys Larsen will be looking for a job in an office after next week and she hopes she can find one that will permit time off for swimming, ice skating, and golf. She is more proud of the fact that her father won the second pair of silver skates offered in THE TRIBUNE's ice classic years ago than that she was R. O. T. C. rose queen at Foreman High school this year.

At 18, Robert Banzhaf has the serious reserve and dignity commonly found in business executives of the type he aspires to be. With Helen Ness he led his class in scholarship and hopes to continue his good record at Wright Junior college. He won the American Legion scholarship award at Foreman High school last semester.

The outstanding qualities of Helen Ness have already been recognized in a "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcast over W-G-N.

Is Literary Editor.

Jane Willey is blonde "but not frivolous." She is fastidious and neat despite the fact that nothing pleases her better than messy experiments in chem lab or making up the Roosevelt Weekly, of which she is literary editor. She hopes to enter the Medill school of journalism and some day own a woman's magazine or trade journal. She stood third in her class.

Handsome Bill Wells has a reputation at Roosevelt High school for having a dual personality. Part of the time he is a serious honor student, a first lieutenant in the R. O. T. C. unit. At other times he is something of a clown, particularly adept at charming girls with his wit.

The president of the senior class at Roosevelt and the president of the Letter Men's club is Martin Cooper, a basketball player and an honor student. He has a weakness for social affairs and colorful sports clothes. A combination of a green jacket, yellow sweater, and brown trousers enhances his personality, he says. He will learn to be a teacher of mathematics and physical education at the University of Arizona or Michigan.

Five students at Lane Tech merit the distinction of being top ranking members of the largest graduating class in the school's history. Robert Rodig, 17 years old, and Bill Dunlap, 18, tied for top scholastic honors with an average of 96.7 out of a possible 97 in the same course, architectural drawing. Bill plans to continue his studies at Armour Tech and hopes to be the head of an architectural concern some day. Until fall, he will be earning money to help finance his college course.

In addition to serving as vice president of the Honor society and Architectural club and being a member of many other organizations, Bill, mind alert to leisure time activities as well as studies, has developed several hobbies. He had been making a telescope with his physics teacher, building kayaks and saving architectural drawings. He also likes to swim, play golf, and dance. His home is at 4949 North Leavitt street.

Robert would like to accompany Bill to Armour, but he will have to earn his tuition first. He's ahead of Bill on one score, tho. He's picked out his girl and already is planning for a home. At school he's president of the Architectural club and a member of the Honor society. His favorite pastime is roller skating and he is drum sergeant in an American Legion Drum and Bugle corps. He lives at 2836 Diversey avenue.

President of Class.

Altho Bob specialized in shop, he has been working in a drug store for the last two years and developed an interest in medicine.

A classmate whose R. O. T. C. achievements go a step higher is Joseph E. Hind Jr., 17, 2613 North Fairfield avenue, who is cadet colonel commanding the Chicago High School corps, the highest work obtainable in the school system. The work was easy for him, he says, so he studied to reach the top, but he has no desire to continue the work or be a soldier.

Also a high ranking student, Joe received four pins for scholarship and has been awarded a scholarship to Armour. He plans to study chemical engineering. "There are tremendous opportunities there, I think, and altho it's a difficult course, I'm not afraid of hard work," he said.

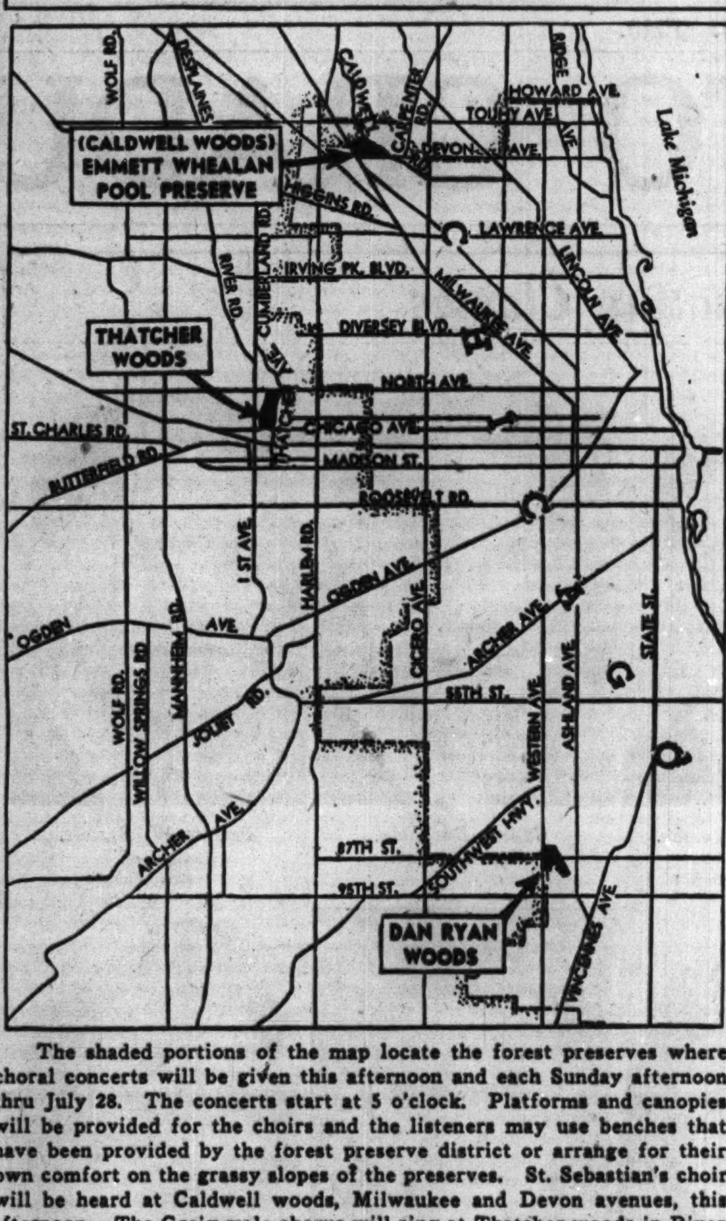
Directs Hall Guards.

Since last September, red headed Joseph J. Eckl, 18, 2476 Pensacola avenue, has been spending half his school day directing 1,300 hall guards. As chief of the group he receives the daily orders from the main office, gives them out to the guards and sees that they are carried out.

"Working with the fellows has been fine training," explained Joe. "I've talked to more than 2,000, advised some, helped others with discipline problems and corrected many who were doing the wrong thing. It's taught me a lot about human nature, too."

Joe is going to look for a job this summer in some engineering line and then attend night school in order to advance more rapidly in his work. His chief ambition is to do scientific research. Extra curricular activities are the slide rule and math projects clubs and microscopy, a hobby started by a course in biology.

Sites of Forest Concerts



The shaded portions of the map locate the forest preserves where choral concerts will be given this afternoon and each Sunday afternoon thru July 28. The concerts start at 5 o'clock. Platforms and canopies will be provided for the choirs and the listeners may use benches that have been provided by the forest preserve district or arrange for their own comfort on the grassy slopes of the preserves. St. Sebastian's choir will be heard at Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, this afternoon. The Greig male chorus will sing at Thatcher woods in River Forest, and the Metropolitan church choir will sing at Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street.

GUN CLUB FINDS SUCCESS AFTER 2 FALSE STARTS

Northwest Group Lists 300 Sportsmen.

BY JOHN T. M'CUTCHEON JR.

It came as a surprise to founders of the Northwest Gun club in 1929 that applications for membership by the hundred were received, for an earlier attempt to form a hunting and fishing club among the same group had been fruitless. Nevertheless the club is now one of the largest and most active in the Chicago region, with a membership of more than 300.

It is one of the larger clubs whose support has been of great value in the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense reserve, whose purpose is the registration of the nation's millions of amateur marksmen for action in case of an emergency.

First Formed in 1916.

Arthur Davidsen, 5063 North Cicero avenue, president of the club, was its originator and persistent driving force. Some of his friends who have formed the core of the club are Frank Koerper, 5033 Winona street, secretary; Anthony Nepute, River Grove, Ill., treasurer; Arthur Borman, 5442 Wilson avenue; and John Edwards, 5216 Elston avenue.

The first sign of an impending gun club was in 1916, when the sportsmen found that they had one thing in common: They liked to fish and shoot in what was then woods near Cicero and Devon avenues along the north branch of the Chicago river. They did this for more than a year, each contributing money for a future clubhouse and meeting in a hall in the rear of a saloon at Cicero and Elston avenues. For some reason interest began to lag, however, and when it was clear that the exchequer was never going to provide a house, it was returned to the members, without interest.

Second Club Disbands.

It may have been that the idea was premature, or it may have been the appearance of the now defunct Cragin Gun club near Park Ridge. In any case the embryonic club disappeared and in the course of a few years most of its promoters became enrolled in the Cragin club. Time treated the Cragin Gun club with no more respect than it did the Roman empire, however, and when its one man staff, Orv Andrews, moved to Frankfort, Ill., Davidsen and his friends were again in the market for a new club.

On Milwaukee road a little north of Golf road, Davidsen found an abandoned airplane field, said to have been used by prohibition bootleggers. The group leased the southern seven acres of the field, including a hangar.

The heating facilities afforded by an abandoned airplane hangar did not suit the new occupants, so they tore it down, salvaging what lumber they could. Davidsen, conveniently, is a building contractor. In his basement a new one room clubhouse in portable sections was constructed and later set up on the club's property.

Interest Runs High.

Due to their first experience in starting a club, and to the business depression, a membership of 25 was planned. But when word got around that Art Davidsen and some friends had set up a clubhouse and skeet field, he found he had more friends asking for membership than he could count. They were admitted, and the next year the clubhouse was enlarged.

The equipment now includes four skeet fields and one straight trap, two more soon to be installed. Recently the club was the scene of the Central States Skeet Shoot, which some 5,000 persons attended. With nearly 300,000 targets broken last year, the Northwest Gun club is one of the most popular skeet clubs in the country.

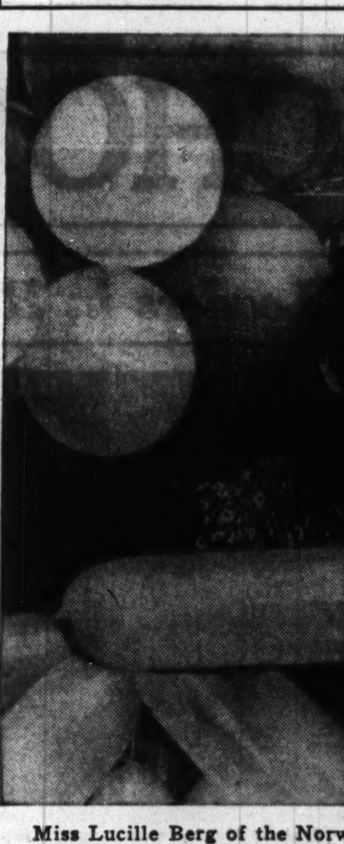
SCOUTS AND CUBS PLAN JAMBOREE ON WEDNESDAY

Boys from 18 Boy Scout troops, five Cub packs, and one Sea Scout ship in the Albany Park community will take part in a jamboree Wednesday night at Eugene Field park, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue.

More than 500 Scouts are expected to be in the parade opening the jamboree. They will assemble on the Roosevelt High school campus, Leland and Kimball avenues, at 7:30 o'clock.

Features of the program will be a fire lighting ceremony, community singing, a mass tenderfoot investiture conducted by Al Meils, pyramid formations by three cub packs, and an Indian ceremonial dance.

Balloons to Aid Orphan Fund



Miss Lucille Berg of the Norwegian Lutheran Children's home displays some of the helium balloons which will be released as a feature of a picnic for the home on Sunday, June 30. Each balloon carries the name of a donor to a fund to provide higher education for orphans at the home. The sponsor whose name is on the balloon which travels the greatest distance will be declared winner.

ENLARGED LIVING ROOM REPLACES OLD FRONT PORCH

Cooling Unit Serves 2 Rooms in House.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Strong, 3846 North Kildare avenue, bought their present home with the intention of remodeling it. Much that was aging and unlovely was eliminated, and much that was modern and lovely was included in the plans and specifications.

The architects, Hooper & Nelson, 118 East 26th street, took a middle aged house, with no heritage of either beauty or appeal, and charged it drastically.

In the original home there were none-too-sturdy steps at the front leading to a large glazed porch. Steps and porch disappeared, and the entrance reappeared at the side; a change which enlarged the living room and added to its light and air. The exterior, with its fresh paint and careful structural changes, now presents a new face to the world. It has dignity and distinction.

Concealed Heating Units.

The interior was no less radically altered: Changed in layout, in equipment, and in decorative treatment.

The new living room is large, with six generous, well placed windows. Radiation was concealed, placed in the walls, thus adding still more space to the rooms. In the dining room there is indirect lighting, and a beautiful bay window with glass shelves and a glass block panel.

In the original layout the kitchen had one of the best exposures in the house, so a bedroom now occupies that space which was once culinary headquarters. Practical reasons were likewise back of a shift in position for the bathroom. [Rooms CAN be changed about in a house, once modernization is under way, and a layout which does not satisfy at all, shifted to a plan which is much more to the family taste.

The architects incorporated one ingenius plan for summer cooling of two rooms. A cooling unit was built into the wall between the dining room and a bedroom. So that during the day the unit is "turned on" to cool the dining room, and at night its direction is reversed and the bedroom enjoys its cooling comfort.

Built-in Shower.

The work of this effective remodeling was done last year. Needless to add, the kitchen was completely modernized, and walls and floors of all rooms entirely refinished and redecorated. And another cooling help was given to the bathroom in the form of a built-in shower.

Scout Leaders to Attend a Week-End Camp School

Nine scout leaders from the Northwest Suburban council, headed by Scout Executive Donald E. Kyger, will attend the annual camp school conducted by the National council of Boy Scouts next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. They will join leaders from 46 other councils at Camp OH-DA-KO-TA near Burlington, Wis. They are John L. Bell, W. A. Miles, Jess Yates, H. P. Dunsmore, W. C. Strassheim, Robert B. Leslie, Otto Harz and Charles Webber.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, June 17.

Now that planting is completed, care of the garden must receive continuous attention. Maintenance makes the garden no matter how small or how large it may be. This not only means intelligent cultivation but the regular mowing of the lawn, edging the borders and beds, keeping rampant growths on shrubs restricted, tying up plants needing it, care of the seedbed, and the adoption of a spraying calendar to keep all insects and disease under control. To enjoy high grade vegetables keep them growing rapidly and watch for attacks from insects.

Tuesday, June 18.

Goldfish placed in the pool will keep down mosquito larvae, and they are an attraction to every one. It is not too late to prepare a small pool for a water lily plant. Dealers can advise suitable varieties. Do not crowd the plants by using too many in a restricted area or they will not flower as profusely as they should.

Wednesday, June 19.

The shade under some trees, such as the Norway and sugar maple, is often so dense nothing will grow under them. However, by sowing annual grasses several times during the summer the surface of the ground will appear green and inviting. Plant food also should be applied or the trees will exhaust the food supply. After the delphiniums flower cut back the flower stalk, allowing all leaves to remain. They contain much food that will return to the roots. An application of complete plant food may be made after the plants flower.

Thursday, June 20.

Transplant iris shortly after flowering and up to September. See that the soil is well drained and, if divisions are made, use comparatively large ones which are strong and become established immediately. The iris responds to good treatment. It is among the finest of all perennials for the city garden. If the peonies failed to produce as many flowers as had been expected the cause may be too deep planting or an inferior variety.

Friday, June 21.

If a bare or drab spot appears in the perennial border, small plantings of three or five floribuna roses are excellent. Pot plants can be obtained from dealers. The many hardy asters that are available enable the home gardener to select kinds that fit his particular needs. These plants are very hardy. Cutting the plants back will induce branching and give a bushier plant. Soft wood cuttings can be made now with good results. Do not disturb the foliage of bulbous plants before it turns yellow, signifying that the bulbs have ripened and are dormant. Keep newly planted shrubs and trees well watered to insure rooting.

Saturday, June 22.

Better and larger blooms on hollyhocks may be had if the flower buds are thinned. Do not neglect to shade newly planted seedlings during hot weather. Keep well watered and they will soon become established. House plants that are plunged in the shade should be watered daily to be in prime condition for use next winter.

LUTHERAN HOME PICNIC TO HAVE A BALLOON RACE

Raises Education Fund for Orphans.

When the Norwegian Lutheran Children's Home society gave its treasurer, Peter H. Cleven, the problem of raising $2,500 for an educational fund he replied with an idea that will probably raise more than that amount.

The fund will be used to provide higher education to worthy residents of the home. The fund raising idea is a long distance mass balloon race which will be staged at the home's annual picnic on Sunday, June 30.

Many Friends Buy Balloons.

Already several thousand friends of the home have purchased balloons. Each balloon will be tagged with the owner's name and a request that the finder mail the tag back to the children's home with information as to where it was found.

Because they will be filled with helium, these balloons will stay up in the air for about 12 hours, and some may travel from 400 to 500 miles. They will all be released at a signal by Mrs. Einer Larsen, member of the Friday club and chairman of races and contests.

The master of ceremonies will be Dr. Martin O. Juel of Oak Park. He will preside over the balloon race and a program which will include large size balloon ascensions, a children's parade, races, and contests.

Dr. Hegge to Be Speaker.

The address will be given by Dr. Edwin M. Hegge, pastor of the United Lutheran church, Oak Park. The Northwest male choir will sing under the direction of Edward Nelson, and Miss Ann Peterson will direct the children's home choir.

Members of the ladies' board of the home, with Mrs. Fred Mathison, chairman, will have charge of the refreshments. Neal Conroy, 1425 North Massasoit avenue, is program chairman. Others serving on the picnic arrangements committee include Edward W. Stanell, 5326 Lovejoy avenue; Axel Jensen, 4344 Parker avenue, and Lars S. Kildahl, superintendent of the home.

Our Lady of Mercy Church to Have Party Wednesday

Members of Our Lady of Mercy church will have a party at 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the church, 4432 North Troy avenue. A committee headed by Mrs. Violet Wutke, 4735 North Whipple street, is in charge of arrangements. Other members are Mrs. Mary Martin, 4037 North Spaulding avenue, Mrs. Marie Kane, 4414 North Christiana avenue, Mrs. Adeline Dorband, 3109 Montrose avenue, Mrs. Anna Fuhry, 4511 North Whipple street, and Mrs. Josephine Mooney, 4521 North Mozart street.

YOUTH TO HOLD TOP SPOT TODAY IN DES PLAINES

Citizenship Is Keynote of Flag Day.

Des Plaines today will welcome more than 100 young men and women to the privileges and duties of citizenship. They will be guests at a Flag day celebration in Rand park arranged by posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Elks lodge, and the Kiwanis club.

Most of them are arriving at a voting age this year. Last winter they were instructed in the principles of good citizenship by the Young Voters' forum, organized by E. R. Selleck, superintendent of elementary schools in Des Plaines.

At weekly meetings they heard talks by officers of the city outlining the duties and responsibilities of public officials. Discussion of civic problems and American systems of government have been encouraged.

May Lose Interest.

"The aim," Mr. Selleck said, "has been to interest young people in the job of making the democratic form of government a success. Most young people come out of high school with a sense of civic responsibility fairly well developed. In the years between the time they leave school and when they come to voting age they are likely to lose interest in public affairs.

"The community has the responsibility to assume the task begun in the schools. Its duty is to keep alive their interest in government until they are old enough to take an active part in it. Young Voters' forums have proved valuable in sustaining this interest."

The program at the park will be preceded by a parade which will form at Pearson and Ellinwood streets at 1:30 o'clock. Marching music will be supplied by the municipal band, the Maine Township High school band, the Junior High School band, St. Mary's Training School band, and the junior drum corps of the American Legion post.

Will Present Flag.

At the park a new flagpole will be dedicated and an American flag will be presented by Veterans of Foreign Wars to A. H. Kuhlman, president of the park board. The Flag day address will be given by Earl Sutherland, state chairman of Americanism of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Members of the Elks lodge ritual team will enact the flag ritual. This ceremony is a kind of pageant portraying the historical development of the American flag from colonial pennants to the present Star Spangled Banner.

Auxiliaries of the four sponsoring groups and several other organizations in the suburb are assisting with the celebration. Representatives from each are on the general committee. These are:

Miss Marian Hodgins, Girl Scouts; E. R. Selleck, Ted Shuler, and Robert Goldsworthy, Young Voter's forum; Raymond Wille, Lions club; A. H. Kuhlman and Gus Stellmack, park board, and W. L. Fabian, Business Men's association.

To Hold Picnic.

The 32d Ward Regular Democratic organization will hold its annual picnic next Sunday in Viani Grove near Park Ridge. Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski is ward committeeman.

31,000 ARE DUE FOR MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

Periods Are Announced for 6th Corps Area.

Plans for the summer military training of 31,000 men have been announced by various offices of the 6th corps area, embracing Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. These are divided into four branches of training, which, with the number expected to attend during this summer, are as follows:

1. Citizens' military training camps, 4,410.
2. Reserve officers' summer camp duty, about 3,000.
3. Reserve officers' training corps summer camps for senior cadets, 1,073.
4. National Guard participation in army maneuvers, about 22,500.

Many Partly Trained.

At the same time it was estimated by the various offices that there is a total of approximately 136,000 civilians in the three states in this corps area who have had military training of one sort or another, including that given in high school.

Of these about 70,000 live in or near Chicago, due to the fact that military training is given in 27 of Chicago's 35 public high schools, the most thoro coverage of any city in the country.

The reserve officers are, of course, the best trained of civilians for military purposes. They must have had either war experience or four years of military training, and are required to attend camp for at least two weeks every four years. There are at present 13,700 reserve officers in this area, of which 4,803 live in or near Chicago.

25,141 in National Guard.

The National Guard is the other military organization of civilians. In Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, there are 25,141 national guardsmen, including officers, of whom 9,800 live in Chicagoland.

Beyond these two organized groups, there is a vast number of men from 18 years of age up who have had junior R. O. T. C. training, which does not lead to a reserve commission, or who have spent from one to four summers at a C. M. T. C. camp without receiving a commission.

No accurate record is kept of these men, but it is estimated that 52,500 students have had high school R. O. T. C. training in this corps area, of whom 34,000 now live in Chicago.

Both the R. O. T. C. and the C. M. T. C. were organized under the National Defense act of 1920. There are now in the 6th corps area eight college units, five in military academies, and 52 in high schools.

Camps for Training.

R. O. T. C. summer training will be given this summer at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich., where 576 cadets will attend; Fort Sheridan Ill., where 300 cadets will be trained, and Camp McCoy, near Sparta, Wis., where there will be 161 R. O. T. C. cadets. At Camp McCoy the six weeks period opened Friday, while at the other two it will open tomorrow. The schedule was announced by Col. John T. Rhett, R. O. T. C. officer for the 6th corps area.

The 4,410 youths between 17 and 29 years of age who will attend citizens' military training camps this summer will go to these three as well as to Camp Brady, in northeastern Michigan, Fort Snelling, Minn., and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., altho the latter two are not in this corps area. Thru last week more than 7,100 applications had been received.

Increase Is Expected.

The two weeks period for which reserve officers attend camp as one means of satisfying the requirement for 40 hours of active duty per year is taken at no uniform time and may be at any of the 6th corps area camps. An increase of several hundred over the 2,700 reserve officers who attended camp last summer is expected.

Members of the National Guard participate in the army maneuvers at Camp McCoy from Aug. 11 to 31.

MUTUAL TELLS PLANS TO COVER 2 CONVENTIONS

Host of Experts to Give Complete Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Plans for the most complete coverage of the national political conventions in radio history were announced yesterday by the management of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The Republican national convention will be held in Philadelphia, starting Monday, June 24. The Democratic convention will open in the Chicago Stadium, starting July 15.

The Mutual network lineup carrying the two convention broadcasts will include more than 130 stations. The convention proceedings will also be shortwaved to the world thru WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many Special Features Planned.

Four of the major stations of the Mutual network will contribute their expert broadcasters, commentators, analysts, and special events men for the convention broadcasts.

Besides the actual broadcasting from the convention halls the W-G-N-Mutual audiences will be treated to many airings of sidelight attractions of the two conventions. These programs will originate in railroad stations, hotels, and other points where events of interest and importance occur.

Stations contributing experts who will be engaged in presenting the convention broadcasts are W-G-N, Chicago; WOR, Newark, N. Y.; WFIL, Philadelphia, and WOL, Washington.

Ryan, Henning Head List.

Heading the list of experts to be heard on the convention broadcasts are Quin Ryan of W-G-N, who has broadcast the three previous pairs of conventions of both parties.

Other broadcasters on the Mutual staff include Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the Chicago Tribune's Washington news bureau and an internationally known political writer for more than three decades; Arthur M. Evans, Tribune political reporter; Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual's newscaster from Washington; Gabriel Heatter, New York commentator; Wythe Williams, editor of Greenwich Time, who is equally at home whether analyzing national or international events, and Dave Driscoll, special events director of WOR.

Each of these broadcasters will be heard from the Republican convention in Philadelphia and all but Gabriel Heatter also from the Democratic convention in Chicago.

50 Microphones Available.

The technical facilities for covering the meetings and news events will be handled by staff engineers of W-G-N, WOR, and WFIL, under the direction of J. R. Poppele, chief engineer at WOR who will direct the broadcasts from Philadelphia, and Carl Meyers, chief of the W-G-N engineering staff who will be in charge in Chicago.

More than 50 microphones will be available in the convention halls to pick up the broadcasts. The "mikes" will be strategically located to cover every section of the halls so that the principals in the convention on the platform as well as all of the members in the state delegations on the floor may be heard if they wish to speak.

Mutual also will have portable ultra high frequency transmitters which broadcasters can carry about the halls in making pickups.

Parabolic microphones, which pick up sounds in a concave bowl and reflect them directly into the microphones will be used to pick up the sounds of the crowds in the convention halls. The master broadcasting booths at both conventions, where the chief announcers will work, will be located immediately behind speakers' platforms in the Philadelphia and Chicago halls.

Driscoll, Schreiber in Charge.

Dave Driscoll, chief of WOR special events division, will be the director of the broadcasts originating from the Republican convention in Philadelphia. Frank P. Schreiber, chief of W-G-N's special events department, will direct the Democratic convention broadcasts.

Mutual will establish a traffic control division at each of the conventions and Adolph Opfinger, chief of the network's traffic bureau, will be on hand to schedule broadcasts to the network as fast as the news events become available. Mutual will stand ready to clear scheduled programs to provide listeners with every event of importance from both conventions.

MELODY PAGEANT WILL AIR MUSIC OF BEETHOVEN

The Pageant of Melody, directed by Henry Weber, will feature themes from Ludwig von Beethoven, with the singing of Attilio Baggiore, tenor, and Kathryn Witwer, soprano, from 9:15 to 10:00 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The Beethoven themes will be sung by Miss Witwer, Baggiore, and the chorus accompanied by the concert orchestra.

For her solo, Kathryn Witwer will sing "Midnight Bells," by Fritz Kreisler. Baggiore will sing two solo numbers—"Shoes," by Manning, and "Love I Have Won You," by Landon Ronald.

A special presentation of portions of "Carnival of the Animals," by Saint-Saens will be played by the orchestra, with Mr. Weber and Leon Benditzky featured as double pianists.

Other numbers will include "Overture Don Juan," by Wolfgang Mozart; "A Spirit Flower," by Tipton, and "Waltz Southern Roses," by Johann Strauss.

Larry Clinton to Play on W-G-N Show of Week

Larry Clinton and his orchestra will be heard on W-G-N's "Show of the Week" from 5:30 to 6:00 p. m. today. Clinton is currently playing in the Hotel New Yorker. Terry Allen and Ford Leary will sing.

Attilio Baggiore long has been a favorite of W-G-N-Mutual music lovers. Born in a Michigan mining town, Baggiore worked his way thru school and saved enough money to obtain his vocal training in Europe.

He made his debut at the Royal Opera in Rome, and, following a successful concert tour of Europe with Mme. Tetrazzini, he returned to the United States to continue his musical success.

During his engagement with W-G-N, Baggiore has been featured in many outstanding radio concerts, including the "streamlined" opera series conducted by Mr. Weber several years ago.

JOE'S JAMBOREE BEGINS ON W-G-N NEXT SATURDAY

"Jolly Joe's Junior Jamboree," a program designed to bring out the talents of young entertainers, will start on W-G-N at 9:00 a. m. next Saturday and will be heard every Saturday thereafter.

Featuring Jolly Joe Kelly, a radio star of many years, the program will act as a showcase for child talent.

Any child that can speak a piece, sing a song, imitate animals or famous people, tap dance or play a harmonica, ukulele or any home made instrument, is eligible to take part in the show. Merely address a letter to Jolly Joe, W-G-N, Chicago, giving name and address, age and talent.

CHOOSE WINNERS IN CARRIE CARTER TALENT SEARCH

Massachusetts Girl, Oregon Woman Finalists.

Thelma Hansen of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Ethel Chase Christie of Eugene, Ore., have been selected as the national winners in the Carrie Carter talent search by a board of judges consisting of Lillian Gish, Mona Kent, William A. Bacher, Clarence M. Shapiro, and Don Moore.

The announcement ended a two month search, during which more than 10,000 applicants were auditioned thruout the entire country. Each of the 84 stations, including W-G-N, carrying the Carters of Elm Street show held individual auditions. The recorded voices of the semifinalists were sent to Chicago, where the final judging took place. The objective was to find one actress between the ages of 15 and 25 and another of 25 or over. None of the contestants were auditioned for a particular rôle, but on their dramatic ability only.

Writer of Radio Plays.

Pretty 20 year old Thelma Hansen of Chelmsford, a suburb of Lowell, has been interested in dramatics since her first grade school days and has taken part in numerous amateur school and church plays. She is an honor graduate of the Chelmsford High school. She is employed by a beverage concern.

Miss Hansen's ambition is to be an actress either in radio, on the stage, or in the movies. Her amateur experience on the stage has been in such plays as "Holiday," "Stage Door," and "The Late Christopher Bean." She has also been successful in amateur painting, as well as having three radio plays produced.

Husband Killed in War.

Mrs. Christie is a widowed high school English teacher. She was born in Minnesota and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and of the University of Oregon. Her husband, a Canadian flying officer, was killed in action during the last war. She is a charter member of Eugene's Very Little theater.

Miss Gish is currently appearing as the mother in "Life with Father," now in its 20th week at Chicago's Blackstone theater. Miss Kent is the author of the Carters of Elm Street.

William A. Bacher, formerly of Hollywood, is in charge of all programs and production at W-G-N. Clarence M. Shapiro is a talent scout for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Don Moore is associate editor and columnist for Movie and Radio Guide.

Both Miss Hansen and Mrs. Christie will come to Chicago, will be quartered at the Stevens hotel, and will receive a rôle in the Carters of Elm Street for two weeks at an American Federation of Radio Artists' salary of $112.50 per week. All expenses will be assumed by the sponsors. The Carters show is aired over the Mutual network at 12:45 p. m. Mondays thru Fridays.

'YESTERDAYS' TO PRESENT DRAMAS OF OLD TUNES

"Yesterdays," the musical reveries program conducted by Harold Stokes, features the W-G-N Dance orchestra and the singing of Kathryn Witwer and Wesley Summerfield, from 9:30 to 10:00 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Harold Hoffman is narrator for the program in which the musical numbers are dramatized. Miss Witwer will sing for her solo, "Among My Souvenirs." With Summerfield she will sing the duet, "A Bicycle Built for Two," and the two vocalists will be heard with the chorus and orchestra in "My Heart Stood Still."

Michael Wilkomirski, orchestra concertmeister, will give a violin rendition of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade." The orchestra will play "Moonlight on the Ganges," a band arrangement of Sousa's immortal "Stars and Stripes," and will do "There's a Long Long Trail," in which the audience will be invited to sing. "Yesterdays" is produced by Lou Jackobson.

THE CHALLENGE OF CHILDREN MIDDAY TOPIC

"The Challenge of the Children" is the suggested topic for the W-G-N Midday Service for the coming week, June 17 thru 21. The program is broadcast daily except Saturday and Sunday over W-G-N at 12:35 p. m. under the direction of Dr. John L. Dickson. Speakers for the week:

Monday—Rev. Emerson O. Bradshaw, Chicago Church federation.
Tuesday—Nellie M. Wager, Baptist Missionary Training school.
Wednesday—Prof. Robert Worth Frank, Presbyterian Theological seminary.
Thursday—Frank A. Lindhorst, Board of Education of the Methodist church.
Friday—Rev. Fr. Harold J. Kenney, Catholic Youth organization.

W-G-N Guest

Elissa Landi, glamorous star of the stage and screen, will be the guest star of Friday night's "Fifth Row Center" program on W-G-N and the Mutual network. Fifth Row Center is heard at 7 p. m. Fridays.

ELISSA LANDI TO STAR IN SPY RING PLAY OVER W-G-N

Phillips Holmes Plays Male Lead Friday.

Elissa Landi, glamorous young stage and screen actress, will return to the Fifth Row Center program to play the star rôle in the play, "Enemies Within," next Friday. The drama will be broadcast in the main audience studio of W-G-N, from 7 to 7:30 p. m., over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Featured with Miss Landi will be Philips Holmes, movie favorite.

Miss Landi's last appearance on W-G-N was on March 31, when she was featured in the play, "The Secret Glory."

In next Friday's Fifth Row Center drama, she will play the rôle of a girl reporter who uncovers a foreign spy ring in an American city. Cast in the part of Lorna Carroll, the reporter, she is sent by her newspaper to cover a story involving the shooting of a policeman.

In the course of investigation, the girl reporter discovers the hideout of the foreign agents. Holmes plays the rôle of William B. Douglas, a radio special events commentator who aids the reporter in combating the spy ring.

The play was written by Blair Walliser who will direct the show.

Miss Landi's most recent film successes were the "Count of Monte Cristo," "The Thirteenth Chair," and "After the Thin Man." Prior to making American pictures, Miss Landi was a European favorite and appeared in films in London, Paris, Berlin and in Sweden. Her first Broadway appearance was as Catherine in Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms" in 1931.

Considered one of the most versatile figures in the stage and motion picture world, Miss Landi speaks four languages, has written several novels, plays, poems and short stories, and is a veteran globe-trotter.

Holmes is the son of Taylor Holmes, the stage comedian. He was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., and received his education at Princeton, Trinity college, and also studied in Paris. Holmes is best remembered for his work in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," "The Criminal Code," "An American Tragedy," and "Dinner at Eight."

Supporting Miss Landi and Holmes will be Don Allen and a cast of outstanding Chicago radio actors. Musical background will be provided by the W-G-N orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

Anticipating Premier Mussolini's war decclaration, the Reviewing Stand announced its subject last Sunday as "South of the Swastika." Pflaum and McGovern will review the path Italy took into the conflict and will comment on the effect of Italy's entry on the final outcome of the war.

Narthex and Byway

News and Queries Within and Without the Church —A Religious Voice of the People— Edited by the Rev. John Evans

While we are not in favor of church vacations when pastor and people omit their regular religious duties, yet, being realistic, we admit that a vacation during which there may be a change of scenery for devotions may do no harm. Few churches in Chicagoland actually close their doors during the summer period, but social activity ebbs. During that period, Narthex and Byway will take a vacation and resume again with the aid of its helpers in mid-September.

The Rev. Emerson O. Bradshaw.

As we take off for the summer we remind you that one important church activity is nearly ready to begin—the daily vacation schools. At least 20,000 Protestant children will enroll in 200 such schools beginning June 24, and at 35 centers thruout the city about the same number of Catholic children will be given opportunities of directed summer activities under auspices of the Catholic Youth organization, beginning early in July.

The Chicago Church federation's department of Christian education sponsors the Protestant church schools under the direction of Emerson O. Bradshaw. Dr. Bradshaw has directed a series of nine conferences for vacation school teachers at Morris Memorial chapel, 30th street and Vernon avenue, with an aggregate attendance of 1,250. Emphasis in teacher training was placed on creative work in the instruction program.

Story of King Croesus to Be Broadcast Today

The Story of All of Us will tell the story of King Croesus, the richest man in the world, at 11:00 a. m. over WMAQ-NBC. The dramatization will include the tale of how Croesus' wealth failed to save him from the horsemen of the king of the Persians. The Koralites, verse-speaking choir, under the direction of Jack Wilcher, and special music by Louise Wilcher also will be heard. The series is adapted from Hillyer's book, "A Child's History of the World."

9 HIGH SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 3,759

TOP RANK HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS TELL AMBITIONS

War Clouds Fail to Dim Their Hopes.

BY MILDRED WILDS.

Here are Ed and Betty, Bill and Mary, some one's son or daughter who has earned a high school diploma. They are the first June graduates of this new decade. They must plan their careers while their parents and teachers worry over talk of war and monetary inflation.

What do they think? What about the boy who worked his way thru school by getting up at dawn to drive a milk truck? What of the girl whose parents survived the Armenian massacres and fled to America to bring her into a world safe from hate? What will they do with this education, this American freedom and the equal chance they've read about in their history books?

War talk hasn't shocked the ambitions of these, the star students of Chicago's nine west side public high schools. Unemployment statistics haven't made them afraid that they might be unemployed.

Aims at Governorship.

One boy says he intends to be governor some day. A Negro boy who can draw pictures says, "It's your work that the world wants if you do it well." The men that the girls want to marry must still be tall, dark and handsome and the boys still think girls should know how to cook.

The three girls who were named the most outstanding at Flower High school can cook. In addition they read, play tennis and talk about careers. Virginia Lee, 6843 Osceola avenue, valedictorian of her class, is first in scholarship in the group of 284. She is president of the National Honor society, sings alto in the a cappella choir.

Virginia took a college preparatory course at Flower, will enter University of Illinois in the fall for a premedical course. She says she studied because she likes to learn, not just to win first place.

Girl Elected Mayor.

Dorothy Kirby, 3503 Carroll avenue, was elected mayor of the school by the 2,600 Flower girls. The semester before she was controler of Flower city and is a National Honor society member.

Flower's senior class president is Adnell Tatro, 1842 North Kildare avenue. Her smile and willingness to do her work won her a long list of titles. She was city clerk of Flower city, secretary of the Chicago Council of National Honor societies, an Honor club officer, editor of the school paper last year, won school letters and athletic pins and worked outside of school to earn her spending money.

Adnell wants to take a business course at Northwestern. She says she's an enthusiast for peace, like her father, who is a world war veteran.

Lecture Wins Scholarship.

Kenneth Anderson, 5167 Wabansia avenue, one of Austin's three best seniors, has been doing a great deal of lecturing lately on "Our Constitution in the Changing World." The lecture won him a four year scholarship to the University of Illinois from the American Legion.

Kenneth is president of Austin's student government and was elected to the job by the school's student body of 6,800 students. The young orator plans to take a combination of business administration and law and then take the first opening he finds, no matter how lowly it may be.

Austin's medal winner is Edward Fingl, 2141 Pierce avenue, cadet lieutenant colonel in the Austin R. O. T. C., the commander of the entire corps. Edward, who won medals for officer, efficiency, noncommissioned officer efficiency, neatness, the American Legion medal and a Tribune medal, is just 16 years old.

Plans Chemistry Course.

He plans on taking a course in chemistry at Purdue until he's old enough for West Point. "Then I want to stay in the army always," says Edward. Now he spends his leisure time studying new weapons and military tactics.

The tenth in scholarship among Austin's 878 seniors is attractive Marjorie Stullken, 5464 Walton street. She plays clarinet in the girls' band, was a member of four school clubs, plays tennis and swims.

Her excellent record will go with her to DePauw university and, if all goes well she will be teaching math or history some day. Marjorie says she talks about serious things except at parties and says college should offer more than books.

Wants Teaching Career.

The president of Farragut High school's seniors, John Korun, 2656 South Sawyer avenue, wants to be a teacher. John has some ideals about the housing situation and will study more about slums and poverty when he majors in social science next fall at Northern State Teachers college.

A baritone in the glee club, John had an all around school career by going in for swimming and wrestling, which won him four medals, and taking part in numerous forums.

DOCTOR, TEACHER TO GRADUATE AT GRADE SCHOOL

At 10 o'clock Thursday morning a graduate teacher from Mexico and a man from Poland with a university degree, along with 52 others from 16 to 68 years old, will be graduated from Dante Elementary school, 840 South Des Plaines street. The grade school certificates mean more to them than an engraved scroll of gold, for it means they can at last speak the American language and tell the number of stars and stripes in the flag.

Dante's adult graduating class is the largest for the last five years. The interest in American history has been almost a reverence and the rules of grammar have been learned as the "open sesame" to Utopia. Dante has conducted its adult department for 32 years and this year there are 200 students.

Some are elderly Americans who didn't bother about education when they were young. There are Finns, Germans, Poles, Russians, and Chinese. Twenty-six nations are represented.

Some don't fit behind the small desks which were built for children. Some were so advanced in learning that a high school department was opened this year under the direction of the principal, Miss Helen G. Greenwood.

One of the students is a graduate of the Athens medical school in Greece. One was director of her own school of gymnastics in Vienna. One man owned a factory in Berlin and he sits near a journalist from Rumania.

The Dante adult department has classes in citizenship, language, science, public speaking, and history. A student council governs the higher and lower classes and gives those from other countries a first hand experience in democratic government.

CHICAGO PLANT GUILD PREPARES TO HELP SHUT-INS

The Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild is starting its 15th season of bringing cheer to the sick and lonely in charity wards of hospitals, settlement houses, old people's homes and other institutions in the city. Distribution of flowers, fresh fruits, jellies, and other delicacies to shut-ins will be started just as soon as the guild officials have completed arrangements for a voluntary delivery service to take the contributions from railroad stations to the hospitals.

All the guild's work is done by voluntary workers who make it possible for residents of the city and suburbs to share with the sick the bounty of their gardens and orchards. Suburban railroads furnish free transportation thruout the summer months for those who wish to send donations.

More than 2,000 members of 85 garden clubs coöperate with the guild each year in contributing fruits and flowers of their own and in directing the work among their neighbors who are not members of garden clubs.

The local guild is a branch of the National Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild started in New York 47 years ago. There now are branches in principal cities thruout the country. It was primarily thru the influence of the guild that the garden club movement was started and the Garden Club of America formed.

[MAP ON PAGE 2.]

An hour of choral singing at each of three forest preserves on the outskirts of Chicago this afternoon will mark the beginning of the third consecutive series of outdoor concerts sponsored by the county board of commissioners and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. As in the previous two years, there will be seven Sunday programs, the last on July 28.

Peter Olson.

The locations where singing will take place and the choral groups that will sing there this afternoon at 5 o'clock are as follows: Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street, Metropolitan Church choir, directed by J. Wesley Jones; Thatcher woods in River Forest, Grieg Male chorus, directed by Peter Olson; Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, St. Sebastian's choir, directed by the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell.

At last year's seven programs it was estimated that 100,000 persons listened, after having picnicked and played games, read, or just rested in the shade. The forest preserve district will again supply benches accommodating several hundred persons at each of the locations. The programs are mainly drawn from hymns and home melodies.

It was founded in 1915 by business, trade, and professional men from the northwest side who were interested in male chorus music. The group adopted the name of Edvard Grieg, the Norwegian composer. In 1937 it won first place in the male chorus class B contest at the Chicagoland Music Festival.

For its program the chorus has chosen: "America" [Carey], to be sung by the audience; "The Lord's Prayer [Malotte]; "Open Our Eyes" [MacFarlane]; "The Creation" [Richter]; "It Was for Me [Frisby], solo by William Anderson.

"Brothers Sing on" [Grieg]; "Stout Hearted Men" [Romberg]; "John Peel" [Andrews]; "Discovery" [Grieg]; "O Lovely Night" [Ronald]; "Song of Songs" [Moya], solo by Glenn Leary; "Where'ere You Walk" [Handel]; "Land of Hope and Glory" [Elgar], solo by William Anderson; "God Bless America" [Berlin], sung by the chorus.

Then principals will award diplomas and send the students' names on to the college registrars or employers who have jobs to offer.

Austin High school's 878 seniors will form the longest graduating parade and so that all mothers and fathers may hear the orations, the exercises will be held at 8 o'clock both Wednesday and Thursday evenings in Rockwood hall of the school, 231 North Pine avenue. AN INCIDENT IN FOREST PARK.

My husband, ordinarily a very good natured person, came home the other evening much disgusted. He owns a small trucking business and often sends a truck out Roosevelt road thru Forest Park on west. And the Forest Park police are most discourteous.

The other day he sent out a truck loaded with cinders to go as a gift to a widow who needed them for some construction work on her property. In Forest Park the driver was stopped by a policeman who for fully 15 minutes berated him rudely for speeding [a charge which could not be proved as it was not true], and then forced the driver to go over the scales to check the weight of the truck and load.

The weight was one ton under that permitted by the license, as both my husband and driver knew, and as any one could have seen had he taken a glance at the helper springs. When this was over, the policeman said, ungraciously, "I'm sorry," and let the driver go. The driver was delayed over an hour and on my husband's time. Besides, the experience did not increase our respect for the police of Forest Park.

This is not the first time our trucks have been stopped. As my husband's trucks always carry all the licenses necessary, and are periodically checked according to law, and as he employs only careful drivers, his trucks pass thru other suburbs and are driven daily in Chicago without being bothered. M. F.

A THOUGHT ON FLAG DAY.

I was pleased to note that Flag day was patriotically observed by a number of west side communities and agree that such programs were never more timely, but I am wondering just what each of the listeners to speeches and songs carried away from the meetings. What they heard was nothing new, but did they find new meaning in words that in thoughtless days may have become trite? I am thinking of the word "freedom." Among those who silently listened to a repetition of the ringing word, what was the variety of interpretations?

We are told that "stone walls do not a prison make," and we can appreciate the paradox in realizing that freedom of the spirit is all-important. We may enjoy free speech, but with most of us this liberty is tempered with caution. During controversial crises, neighbor is inclined to consider neighbor in voicing opinions and the desire to escape friction is quite as effective as the workings of the secret police. A. L. R.

TOP RANK HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS TELL AMBITIONS

Clouds of War Fail to Dim Their Hopes.

Farragut is well acquainted with Emily Pasovsky, 2518 South Millard avenue, who served on it all four years. Emily also took part in the student council, played the flute in the band and orchestra, went out for sports, the school paper, and made the National Honor society. She will graduate second in her class and then will look for a job.

Farragut's valedictorian is Evelyn Tomasek, 2309 South Millard avenue, who likes football and baseball. Being a girl, she couldn't play the game so she got herself the job of sports reporter on the school paper and interviewed the star players.

Evelyn believes that everybody should do just what they want to do. She thinks if a girl wants a certain career badly enough she'll have it. During her high school days she earned letters and chevrons in the Girls' Athletic association, served on the Student Guidance committee, was in the Scholarship league, the National Honor society, and the Honor society of Farragut. She worked on the school annual and sang in the choir.

President of Class.

Elmo Love, 1338 Washburn avenue, is president of Medill High school's senior class. He started drawing pictures when he was in fifth grade and the scholarship that could send him to the Chicago Art institute this year is his fourth art scholarship.

He won his first one when he was in sixth grade. It was a free course of lectures. In eighth grade he won another one and another when he was a sophomore. Elmo will go to Tuskegee institute in Alabama and there, he says, "I will take every course in art I can get."

Gussie Powell, 1033 Blue Island avenue, is treasurer of Medill's honor society, is vice president of the book club and president of the chorus.

She liked to study grammar better than anything and she is skilled in fine embroidery work. She won the popularity contest at Medill and earned her way by working in the school office and lunchroom. Next fall Gussie will enroll in the nurse's training course at Providence hospital.

The salutatorian of the 1940 seniors at Medill is husky Nelson Swopes, 1447 Hastings street, who is a wizard at checkers. Nelson is president of the Checker club and beats everybody, for he's been playing the game since he was eight years old. He sang with the chorus, liked chemistry best of all his subjects and plans to study tool and die making at Armour institute in the fall.

On Super Honor Roll.

Loretta Sharkey, 615 South Campbell avenue, who has been on the super honor roll 10 times in her four years at McKinley High school, is a member of the Irving Literary society which is believed to be the oldest student organization in the city.

Loretta is second in scholarship of the McKinley seniors, worked in the administrative aid office at school and is secretary of her parish club. Five years ago Loretta's father was killed by a hit and run driver and her sisters support the family.

The vice president of the McKinley seniors is Mary Ann Doyle, 1956 West Jackson boulevard. She served also on student council representative, on the school paper staff, chairman of the senior prom committe, member of the honor roll and the Irving Literary society.

Cooks Only Desserts.

Next year Mary Ann expects to go to Wright Junior college. She is undecided about the future, isn't concerned at all about the war and likes to cook desserts only. She stands 10th in scholarship in her class and won seventh place in the city-wide Civitan contest held this year.

One of the most patriotic girls is Elizabeth Avakian, 212 South Bell avenue, who says the stories told of Armenian massacres by her parents have given her an appreciation of America. She sketches and wants to go to New York to study commercial art.

Elizabeth worked on the school paper for two years, and this year was editor. She is managing editor of the school annual.

Is Elected Mayor.

The five thousand students of Crane Technical High school this year elected Robert E. Olsen, 3345 South Western boulevard, as mayor. Before that he was judge of the superior court, judge of the sophomore court, chairman of the student council and president of the bar association.

He wants to get a degree in political science at the University of Chicago and aims to be governor. He frankly admits that the job of President of the United States would be too big for him. As Crane mayor, Robert started a rowing team and installed an efficient hall guard system. He is almost 6 feet 3 inches tall.

The vice president of the class is Irving Pathman, 1215 Independence boulevard, who earned a straight A average in scholarship. He is a member of the track team, president of the Club guild, president of the Safety club, president of the Cosmopolitan club and master of ceremonies for the 1940 varsity show.

Edits Crane's Daily.

The editor of Crane's daily paper is Philip Shapiro, 3257 West Division street. He has been a class officer for all four years and is a representative of the class on the student council. He also participated in intramural baseball and basketball and was on the committee for the first Crane prom that didn't lose money.

Philip worked his way thru school. He started to work on a milk route at 4 o'clock in the morning and was thru and ready for school classes by 7 o'clock. He never fell asleep in class and has saved his money for a course at the Chicago Teachers' college.

Philip has been in America 10 years. On his way here from Latvia, he traveled over Europe.

Senior Class Attorney.

The senior class attorney who presides in the student court at Marshall High school is Meyer J. Barrash, 1908 South Springfield avenue. He has been captain of Marshall gym leaders, presiding chairman of the constitution committee, first place winner in the Chicago Woman's club Lincoln essay contest, and was voted the most versatile boy in the class. Meyer will be a delegate to the Boys' State in Springfield, Ill.

Meyer has chosen University of Chicago as his next school for a course in social science. He wants to teach school.

The president of Marshall's senior class is Meyer Singer, 4428 West Jackson boulevard, also president of the German club, president of the Latin club and a violin player. Meyer has had the job of planning the commencement. His father is a physician and surgeon so that's what Meyer will be, specializing in obstetrics.

Dorothy Hiles, 1633 North Luna avenue, is valedictorian of the Marshall seniors. She is also chairman of the civics committee, a student council delegate, member of the Pan-American club and has been on the honor roll each semester. Dorothy received a scholarship to the Central Y. M. C. A. college but she plans to attend Chicago Teachers' college.

Heads Honor Society.

Manley High school's valedictorian is Harris Busch, 1424 South Ridgeway avenue, also president of the National Honor society, a member of the senior executive council and the winner of honorable mention in the University of Chicago scholarship test.

Harris has had a job for the last three years doing his uncle's bookkeeping. His uncle is in the wholesale meat business. Next year Harris will go either to the University of Chicago or Herzl Junior college to begin his course in psychology and brain physiology. He wants to be a brain specialist.

The president of the class at Manley is Philip Hallie, 1150 Mozart avenue, who is in the upper 10th of his class in scholarship, a National Honor society member, captain of the Life Guards, an orator and the winner of Manley's civic leadership contest.

Philip says he took his school work seriously because he wants to be a corporation lawyer.

The third in the class in scholarship and the highest girl is Leah Finer, 1536 South Homan avenue, who holds Manley High school's medal for civic leadership. She also received the Duke Bernstein Memorial trophy awarded each year at Manley's to its most outstanding student.

She is vice president of the senior class, a National Honor society member, is on the championship intramural teams, served on the Red Cross committee, the safety committee, played the clarinet in the Honor band, served on the student council.

Girl First in Class.

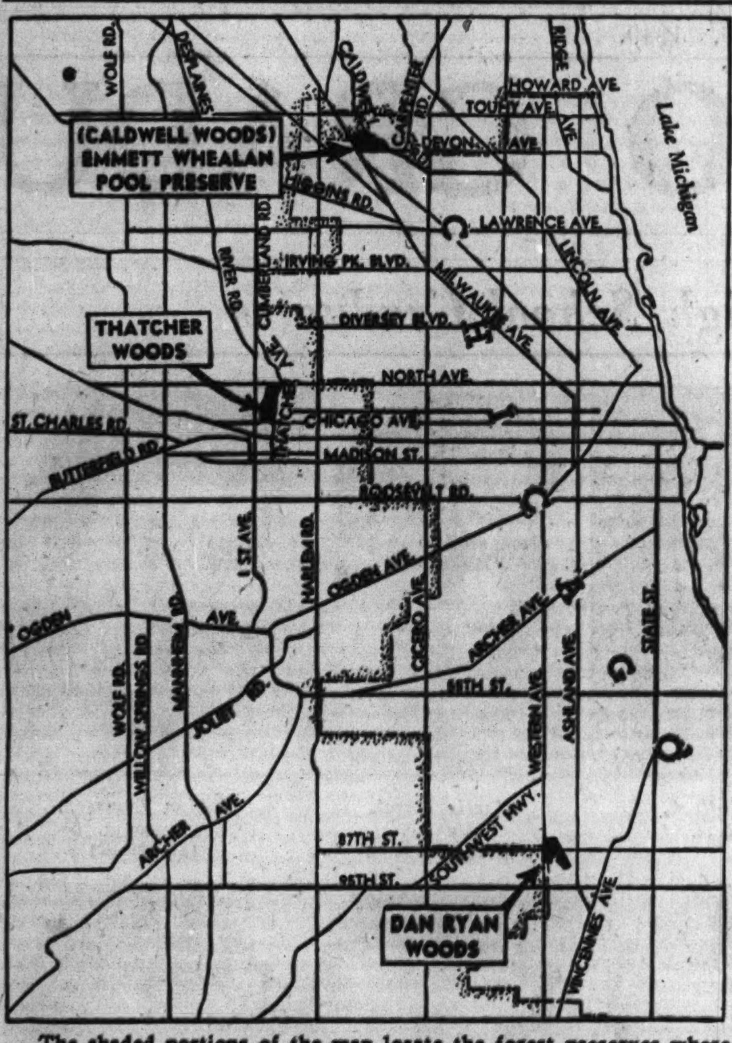
The first in a class of 460 students at Harrison is Ruth Pollack, 2917 West 24th boulevard. She is vice president of the senior class, president of the National Honor society, plays the piano and does interpretive dancing. Ruth won a scholarship to the University of Chicago, where she will study social service work.

The second in scholarship at Harrison is Loretta LoCelso, 2415 West Harrison street. She is a member of the honor society, plans to go to Wright Junior college in the fall for a business course. She is a practical girl as well as pretty. From 4 o'clock until midnight, a full eight hour working day, Loretta is cashier in a drug store. She earned every penny for her high school education, came out second among the 460 students at Harrison with not one free evening to study. "I had to study in school," says Loretta.

Harrison's senior class president is Ralph Pfolsgrof, 2651 West 13th place. He is also a member of the student council, captain of the R. O. T. C. unit.

He won a scholarship to the Central Y. M. C. A. college but is uncertain as to where he will go. He would like to teach in high school because that's what his mother had for a career before he came along.

Sites of Forest Concerts



The shaded portions of the map locate the forest preserves where choral concerts will be given this afternoon and each Sunday afternoon thru July 28. The concerts start at 5 o'clock. Platforms and canopies will be provided for the choirs and the listeners may use benches that have been provided by the forest preserve district or arrange for their own comfort on the grassy slopes of the preserves. St. Sebastian's choir will be heard at Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, this afternoon. ENLARGED LIVING ROOM REPLACES OLD FRONT PORCH

Cooling Unit Serves Two Rooms in House.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Strong, 3846 North Kildare avenue, bought their present home with the intention of remodeling it. Much that was aging and unlovely was eliminated, and much that was modern and lovely was included in the plans and specifications.

The architects, Hooper & Nelson, 118 East 26th street, took a middle aged house, with no heritage of either beauty or appeal, and charged it drastically.

In the original home there were none-too-sturdy steps at the front leading to a large glazed porch. Steps and porch disappeared, and the entrance reappeared at the side; a change which enlarged the living room and added to its light and air. The exterior, with its fresh paint and careful structural changes, now presents a new face to the world. It has dignity and distinction.

Concealed Heating Units.

The interior was no less radically altered: Changed in layout, in equipment, and in decorative treatment.

The new living room is large, with six generous, well placed windows. Radiation was concealed, placed in the walls, thus adding still more space to the rooms. In the dining room there is indirect lighting, and a beautiful bay window with glass shelves and a glass block panel.

In the original layout the kitchen had one of the best exposures in the house, so a bedroom now occupies that space which was once culinary headquarters. Practical reasons were likewise back of a shift in position for the bathroom. [Rooms CAN be changed about in a house, once modernization is under way, and a layout which does not satisfy at all, shifted to a plan which is much more to the family taste.

The architects incorporated one ingenius plan for summer cooling of two rooms. A cooling unit was built into the wall between the dining room and a bedroom. So that during the day the unit is "turned on" to cool the dining room, and at night its direction is reversed and the bedroom enjoys its cooling comfort.

Built-in Shower.

The work of this effective remodeling was done last year. Needless to add, the kitchen was completely modernized, and walls and floors of all rooms entirely refinished and redecorated. And another cooling help was given to the bathroom in the form of a built-in shower.

These are days when we are all concerned with sundry ways of keeping cool this summer. We have already had a taste of a burning sun high overhead and heat waves shimmering from dusty roads and pavements as a foretaste of what's to come.

There are many ways of keeping cool. Some simple, others not so simple, but every effective. However, one great little life saver in a home or in a room, if we aren't ready to invest in some cooling and dehumidifying unit, is the electric fan. These fans have been the object of much research work in the last few years for the purpose of perfecting their construction, increasing their efficiency, and adding more beauty to their design. Besides all this, there are ways of using an electric fan to get the most from it.

For Lower Temperature.

For instance, if you have a bedroom with only one window, raise the window, place the fan on the sill, with its blades facing into the room. Then tilt the fan up slightly so that the air flow is across your bed, but slightly upward. In this way the fan will draw cooler outside air into the room and, in addition to creating a breeze, will also effect a little reduction in room temperature. If possible, leave the bedroom door open. If this is not possible, lower the top sash of window four or five inches so hot air near ceiling can escape.

If your bedroom has two windows, place bed between them if possible and place your fan in the window with the blades facing outward. In this position the fan will draw cooler outside air across room and bed at the same time it exhausts the hot air from the room.

Plans Installation

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, June 17.

Now that planting is completed, care of the garden must receive continuous attention. Maintenance makes the garden no matter how small or how large it may be. This not only means intelligent cultivation but the regular mowing of the lawn, edging the borders and beds, keeping rampant growths on shrubs restricted, tying up plants needing it, care of the seedbed, and the adoption of a spraying calendar to keep all insects and disease under control. To enjoy high grade vegetables keep them growing rapidly and watch for attacks from insects.

Tuesday, June 18.

Goldfish placed in the pool will keep down mosquito larvae, and they are an attraction to every one. It is not too late to prepare a small pool for a water lily plant. Dealers can advise suitable varieties. Do not crowd the plants by using too many in a restricted area or they will not flower as profusely as they should.

Wednesday, June 19.

The shade under some trees, such as the Norway and sugar maple, is often so dense nothing will grow under them. However, by sowing annual grasses several times during the summer the surface of the ground will appear green and inviting. Plant food also should be applied or the trees will exhaust the food supply. After the delphiniums flower cut back the flower stalk, allowing all leaves to remain. They contain much food that will return to the roots. An application of complete plant food may be made after the plants flower.

Thursday, June 20.

Transplant iris shortly after flowering and up to September. See that the soil is well drained and, if divisions are made, use comparatively large ones which are strong and become established immediately. The iris responds to good treatment. It is among the finest of all perennials for the city garden. If the peonies failed to produce as many flowers as had been expected the cause may be too deep planting or an inferior variety.

Friday, June 21.

If a bare or drab spot appears in the perennial border, small plantings of three or five floribuna roses are excellent. Pot plants can be obtained from dealers. The many hardy asters that are available enable the home gardener to select kinds that fit his particular needs. These plants are very hardy. Cutting the plants back will induce branching and give a bushier plant. Soft wood cuttings can be made now with good results. Do not disturb the foliage of bulbous plants before it turns yellow, signifying that the bulbs have ripened and are dormant. Keep newly planted shrubs and trees well watered to insure rooting.

Saturday, June 22.

Better and larger blooms on hollyhocks may be had if the flower buds are thinned. Do not neglect to shade newly planted seedlings during hot weather. Keep well watered and they will soon become established. House plants that are plunged in the shade should be watered daily to be in prime condition for use next winter.

News and Queries
Within and Without the Church
—A Religious Voice of the People—
Edited by the Rev. John Evans

While we are not in favor of church vacations when pastor and people omit their regular religious duties, yet, being realistic, we admit that a vacation during which there may be a change of scenery for devotions may do no harm. Few churches in Chicagoland actually close their doors during the summer period, but social activity ebbs. During that period, Narthex and Byway will take a vacation and resume again with the aid of its helpers in mid-September.

The Rev. Emerson O. Bradshaw.

As we take off for the summer we remind you that one important church activity is nearly ready to begin—the daily vacation schools. At least 20,000 Protestant children will enroll in 200 such schools beginning June 24, and at 35 centers thruout the city about the same number of Catholic children will be given opportunities of directed summer activities under auspices of the Catholic Youth organization, beginning early in July.

The Chicago Church federation's department of Christian education sponsors the Protestant church schools under the direction of Emerson O. Bradshaw. Dr. Bradshaw has directed a series of nine conferences for vacation school teachers at Morris Memorial chapel, 30th street and Vernon avenue, with an aggregate attendance of 1,250. Emphasis in teacher training was placed on creative work in the instruction program.

31,000 ARE DUE FOR MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

Periods Are Announced for 6th Corps Area.

Plans for the summer military training of 31,000 men have been announced by various offices of the 6th corps area, embracing Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. These are divided into four branches of training, which, with the number expected to attend during this summer, are as follows:

1. Citizens' military training camps, 4,410.
2. Reserve officers' summer camp duty, about 3,000.
3. Reserve officers' training corps summer camps for senior cadets, 1,073.
4. National Guard participation in army maneuvers, about 22,500.

Many Partly Trained.

At the same time it was estimated by the various offices that there is a total of approximately 136,000 civilians in the three states in this corps area who have had military training of one sort or another, including that given in high school.

Of these about 70,000 live in or near Chicago, due to the fact that military training is given in 27 of Chicago's 35 public high schools, the most thoro coverage of any city in the country.

The reserve officers are, of course, the best trained of civilians for military purposes. They must have had either war experience or four years of military training, and are required to attend camp for at least two weeks every four years. There are at present 13,700 reserve officers in this area, of which 4,803 live in or near Chicago.

25,141 in National Guard.

The National Guard is the other military organization of civilians. In Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, there are 25,141 national guardsmen, including officers, of whom 9,800 live in Chicagoland.

Beyond these two organized groups, there is a vast number of men from 18 years of age up who have had junior R. O. T. C. training, which does not lead to a reserve commission, or who have spent from one to four summers at a C. M. T. C. camp without receiving a commission.

No accurate record is kept of these men, but it is estimated that 52,500 students have had high school R. O. T. C. training in this corps area, of whom 34,000 now live in Chicago.

Both the R. O. T. C. and the C. M. T. C. were organized under the National Defense act of 1920. There are now in the 6th corps area eight college units, five in military academies, and 52 in high schools.

Camps for Training.

R. O. T. C. summer training will be given this summer at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich., where 576 cadets will attend; Fort Sheridan Ill., where 300 cadets will be trained, and Camp McCoy, near Sparta, Wis., where there will be 161 R. O. T. C. cadets. At Camp McCoy the six weeks period opened Friday, while at the other two it will open tomorrow. The schedule was announced by Col. John T. Rhett, R. O. T. C. officer for the 6th corps area.

The 4,410 youths between 17 and 29 years of age who will attend citizens' military training camps this summer will go to these three as well as to Camp Brady, in northeastern Michigan, Fort Snelling, Minn., and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., altho the latter two are not in this corps area. Thru last week more than 7,100 applications had been received.

MATERNITY UNIT ELECTS TO KEEP SAME PRESIDENT

One club not planning a summer vacation is the West Suburban auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center. At a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. H. A. Hoffert, Western Springs, the auxiliary elected Mrs. George F. Christians of River Forest to serve another year as president.

Business of the auxiliary concerns the model home which the Chicago Maternity center built and furnished at 435 Malden avenue, La Grange Park. The seven service clubs of the center are coöperating in this project. The house was opened on May 12 and since that time more than 18,000 visitors have paid the small admittance fee which will benefit the center.

Other new officers who will work with Mrs. Christians are Mrs. Walter McDonald of Western Springs, vice president; Mrs. William Kahler of Oak Park, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Glenn Wade, La Grange, recording secretary, and Mrs. Paul G. Davis, Oak Park, treasurer.

ONION TEAR GAS DOESN'T BOTHER GUN CLUB NOW

Hawthorne Shooters Once Wept Freely.

"Dammit! The onions again!"

Trapshooters in the Hawthorne Hunting and Fishing club never can eat onions without thinking of the days when their range was so near a farmer's onion patch that the lead pellets would pierce the tender shoots and cause tear-gas to drive the shooters from the field at Cicero avenue and 39th street.

This was back in 1935 and 1936, soon after the club was organized. The Hunting and Fishing club is a branch of the Hawthorne club, one of the largest and most comprehensive industrial recreational groups in the country. It is open to the 13,000 employes of the Western Electric company plant at Cicero avenue and Cermak road.

Now Largest Club.

Altho the Hunting and Fishing club is one of the most recent branches of the Hawthorne club to be founded, it is now the largest. It started in September, 1935, with 70 members and now has 2,200, of whom some 700 take part in trapshooting.

Separate from this branch, there is a Rod and Gun club, gun users being devoted to straight rifle shooting. Other branches cover a dozen outdoor and indoor activities—gardening, singing, science, philately, photography, and debating.

The Hawthorne club was not confronted with many of the obstacles which hinder most gun clubs, since its field is on company land and it is sponsored by the company. Members enroll each year at a 25 cent fee.

Fred N. Bannister is chairman of the Hunting and Fishing club, and its other officers are W. L. Bute, vice president; Louis S. Irwin, secretary; and Ben Harrington, treasurer. Al Langosch is in charge of the range.

Has Outdoor Fireplace.

On the field are two traps, a shelter house, and a large outdoor fireplace for the preparation of food.

Women have been encouraged to join the organization by introducing a new variety of trapshooting known as "moskeeto." It is no different from trapshooting except that a small gauge shotgun is used. There are now about 50 women members.

The Rod and Gun club, headed by John R. Walker, operates a range just south of the company plant. It has been in existence since 1917, and one of the most popular events on its calendar is the annual turkey shoot Thanksgiving day and Christmas. At these shoots pictures of turkeys are used instead of targets, and the one who shoots closest to the bird's eye wins a turkey.

The movement is sponsored by the Methodist, First Congregational, and English Lutheran churches.

The school has for its purpose the development of Christian character and ideals, and providing an avenue of expression in Christian living. Morning classes will be held in the Gross school, with the exception of the beginners' department, which will meet in the primary rooms of the Methodist church.

Her course has been planned around the topic, "Friends at Work." Other teachers in the department are Mrs. H. J. Lindskoog, Mrs. John Love, Mrs. William Baer, and Mrs. E. N. Rosier.

MUTUAL TELLS PLANS TO COVER 2 CONVENTIONS

Host of Experts to Give Complete Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Plans for the most complete coverage of the national political conventions in radio history were announced yesterday by the management of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The Republican national convention will be held in Philadelphia, starting Monday, June 24. The Democratic convention will open in the Chicago Stadium, starting July 15.

The Mutual network lineup carrying the two convention broadcasts will include more than 130 stations. The convention proceedings will also be shortwaved to the world thru WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many Special Features Planned.

Four of the major stations of the Mutual network will contribute their expert broadcasters, commentators, analysts, and special events men for the convention broadcasts.

Besides the actual broadcasting from the convention halls the W-G-N-Mutual audiences will be treated to many airings of sidelight attractions of the two conventions. These programs will originate in railroad stations, hotels, and other points where events of interest and importance occur.

Stations contributing experts who will be engaged in presenting the convention broadcasts are W-G-N, Chicago; WOR, Newark, N. Y.; WFIL, Philadelphia, and WOL, Washington.

Ryan, Henning Head List.

Heading the list of experts to be heard on the convention broadcasts are Quin Ryan of W-G-N, who has broadcast the three previous pairs of conventions of both parties.

Other broadcasters on the Mutual staff include Arthur Sears Henning, chief of the Chicago Tribune's Washington news bureau and an internationally known political writer for more than three decades; Arthur M. Evans, Tribune political reporter; Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual's newscaster from Washington; Gabriel Heatter, New York commentator; Wythe Williams, editor of Greenwich Time, who is equally at home whether analyzing national or international events, and Dave Driscoll, special events director of WOR.

Each of these broadcasters will be heard from the Republican convention in Philadelphia and all but Gabriel Heatter also from the Democratic convention in Chicago.

50 Microphones Available.

The technical facilities for covering the meetings and news events will be handled by staff engineers of W-G-N, WOR, and WFIL, under the direction of J. R. Poppele, chief engineer at WOR who will direct the broadcasts from Philadelphia, and Carl Meyers, chief of the W-G-N engineering staff who will be in charge in Chicago.

More than 50 microphones will be available in the convention halls to pick up the broadcasts. The "mikes" will be strategically located to cover every section of the halls so that the principals in the convention on the platform as well as all of the members in the state delegations on the floor may be heard if they wish to speak.

Mutual also will have portable ultra high frequency transmitters which broadcasters can carry about the halls in making pickups.

Parabolic microphones, which pick up sounds in a concave bowl and reflect them directly into the microphones will be used to pick up the sounds of the crowds in the convention halls. The master broadcasting booths at both conventions, where the chief announcers will work, will be located immediately behind speakers' platforms in the Philadelphia and Chicago halls.

Driscoll, Schreiber in Charge.

Dave Driscoll, chief of WOR special events division, will be the director of the broadcasts originating from the Republican convention in Philadelphia. Frank P. Schreiber, chief of W-G-N's special events department, will direct the Democratic convention broadcasts.

Mutual will establish a traffic control division at each of the conventions and Adolph Opfinger, chief of the network's traffic bureau, will be on hand to schedule broadcasts to the network as fast as the news events become available. Mutual will stand ready to clear scheduled programs to provide listeners with every event of importance from both conventions.

CHOOSE WINNERS IN CARRIE CARTER TALENT SEARCH

Massachusetts Girl, Oregon Woman Finalists.

Thelma Hansen of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Ethel Chase Christie of Eugene, Ore., have been selected as the national winners in the Carrie Carter talent search by a board of judges consisting of Lillian Gish, Mona Kent, William A. Bacher, Clarence M. Shapiro, and Don Moore.

The announcement ended a two month search, during which more than 10,000 applicants were auditioned thruout the entire country. Each of the 84 stations, including W-G-N, carrying the Carters of Elm Street show held individual auditions. The recorded voices of the semifinalists were sent to Chicago, where the final judging took place. The objective was to find one actress between the ages of 15 and 25 and another of 25 or over. None of the contestants were auditioned for a particular rôle, but on their dramatic ability only.

Writer of Radio Plays.

Pretty 20 year old Thelma Hansen of Chelmsford, a suburb of Lowell, has been interested in dramatics since her first grade school days and has taken part in numerous amateur school and church plays. She is an honor graduate of the Chelmsford High school. She is employed by a beverage concern.

Miss Hansen's ambition is to be an actress either in radio, on the stage, or in the movies. Her amateur experience on the stage has been in such plays as "Holiday," "Stage Door," and "The Late Christopher Bean." She has also been successful in amateur painting, as well as having three radio plays produced.

Husband Killed in War.

Mrs. Christie is a widowed high school English teacher. She was born in Minnesota and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and of the University of Oregon. Her husband, a Canadian flying officer, was killed in action during the last war. She is a charter member of Eugene's Very Little theater.

Miss Gish is currently appearing as the mother in "Life with Father," now in its 20th week at Chicago's Blackstone theater. Miss Kent is the author of the Carters of Elm Street.

William A. Bacher, formerly of Hollywood, is in charge of all programs and production at W-G-N. Clarence M. Shapiro is a talent scout for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Don Moore is associate editor and columnist for Movie and Radio Guide.

Both Miss Hansen and Mrs. Christie will come to Chicago, will be quartered at the Stevens hotel, and will receive a rôle in the Carters of Elm Street for two weeks at an American Federation of Radio Artists' salary of $112.50 per week. All expenses will be assumed by the sponsors. The Carters show is aired over the Mutual network at 12:45 p. m. Mondays thru Fridays.

Harold Hoffman is narrator for the program in which the musical numbers are dramatized. Miss Witwer will sing for her solo, "Among My Souvenirs." With Summerfield she will sing the duet, "A Bicycle Built for Two," and the two vocalists will be heard with the chorus and orchestra in "My Heart Stood Still."

Michael Wilkomirski, orchestra concertmeister, will give a violin rendition of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade." The orchestra will play "Moonlight on the Ganges," a band arrangement of Sousa's immortal "Stars and Stripes," and will do "There's a Long Long Trail," in which the audience will be invited to sing. "Yesterdays" is produced by Lou Jackobson.

JOE'S JAMBOREE BEGINS ON W-G-N NEXT SATURDAY

Miss Landi's most recent film successes were the "Count of Monte Cristo," "The Thirteenth Chair," and "After the Thin Man." Prior to making American pictures, Miss Landi was a European favorite and appeared in films in London, Paris, Berlin and in Sweden. Her first Broadway appearance was as Catherine in Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms" in 1931.

Considered one of the most versatile figures in the stage and motion picture world, Miss Landi speaks four languages, has written several novels, plays, poems and short stories, and is a veteran globe-trotter.

Holmes is the son of Taylor Holmes, the stage comedian. He was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., and received his education at Princeton, Trinity college, and also studied in Paris. Holmes is best remembered for his work in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," "The Criminal Code," "An American Tragedy," and "Dinner at Eight."

9 HIGH SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 4,631

STAR STUDENTS READY TO MEET LIFE PROBLEMS

Alert for Defense, but No War Abroad.

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

New voices lifting, blending into the chorus of growing-up America. New faces in the "apply here" lines. New names on the forms headed "application for college entrance." North, south, east, west—American boys and girls are marching in columns of June graduating classes.

In small high schools board of education presidents [a bit on the plump and successful side, perhaps] hand out diplomas to girls in white dresses, to boys in traditional white trousers and dark coats. Maybe the young folks are hatted and frocked in caps and gowns for events that to thousands mean the completion of 12 years of training in the great American public school system.

Jobs or College Ahead.

Chicago's public high school commencements will take place this week. Joining the citywide throng of graduates will be boys and girls from the southwest side—from Calumet, Englewood, Fenger, Harper, Kelly, Lindblom, Morgan Park, Parker, and Tilden High schools.

On they come to find work "wherever the jobs grow" or to "go to college if the scholarship comes thru." Many are secure in the prospect of four years more of school; many others are depending upon "something to do in daytime and classes at night, if possible."

In the words of George H. Barrett, 18, of Harper High school, are the general sentiments of 1940 seniors toward fighting.

"I don't want to go over and kill people, especially when they haven't done anything to my country or to me," he said. But the lads are all patriotic. There is no doubt about what they'd do in event of what they might consider harm to their country.

Recall Fathers' War.

They are thinking about the war in Europe, for, they say, "Our dads went when they were just out of high school." Uppermost in their minds, however, are summer plans. Vacations at camp if they're lucky; summer jobs for college funds, or steady employment.

Girls are pretty much concerned with summer plans, too. They, too, may be seeking vacation work or permanent jobs.

According to THE TRIBUNE's custom, outstanding students from the southwest side's high schools were interviewed. Chosen to represent Calumet's 645 graduates, the largest class in the history of the school, were Allen Burris, Sam McClaughry, and Virginia Churchill.

Looking at the world at 17, Allen thinks he wants to be a corporation lawyer, and he'll begin study at Northwestern or Chicago next fall with that in mind. Allen's favorite subjects are civics, history, and Latin, which, he thinks, should be helpful to a law student. Allen was class representative at the civic assembly sponsored April 20 by the Executives club at the Hotel Sherman.

Busy Young Man.

He is a member of the National Honor society, the Junior Honor society, has served two years as student government president, secretary of Latin club, member of the football team, wrestling team, track team, debate club, Spanish club. He was on the cleanup week committee and chairman of the national committee at Calumet's mock national convention. He was a convention delegate for his honor societies. Aside from all that, Allen isn't busy. His hobbies? Athletics, dancing, and hamburgers!

Sam McClaughry, 17, of 8521 South Loomis boulevard, isn't in quite so many activities at Calumet. Sam is class salutatorian but, he says, "I can't spell it." Sam's interest in history and civics is carried over into his membership on the All-Calumet Civic league. He goes a bit social as chairman of the prom committee, and athletic as a member of his school baseball team. He is enrolled in the National and Junior Honor societies. Sam will go to Chicago Teachers college to prepare as a history instructor if he passes his entrance exams. Otherwise he'll use his one year scholarship at Central Y. M. C. A. college.

A career as a fashion artist is the goal of Virginia Churchill, 17, of 8126 Blackstone avenue. As an all 'round student, Virginia has already proved herself as valedictorian of her class.

Editor and Artist.

In addition to membership in the National Honor society, Virginia counts honors as: President of Quill and Scroll; picture editor of the Crier [school newspaper]; also has served as Crier page editor, artist, feature editor, and publicity editor; Temulac [yearbook named from Calumet spelled backward] editor in chief and staff artist; Modern Arts club president; All-Calumet Civic league publicity director, and Junior Classical league. Virginia has been to the Art institute on scholarships. Her chief interest, hobby, and relaxation are all art, she says.

From Englewood High school are Michael J. DeBella, 18, of 5249 Princeton avenue; Rita Woznak, 17, of 5431 South Aberdeen street, and Edward Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

WINNER of one of the most coveted awards at Aquinas Dominican High school is Dorothy Eileen Kelly, 7514 Ridgeland avenue, who has been selected to receive the Aquinas music scholarship to Siena Heights college. Tho she is enthusiastic about ice skating, swimming, dancing and tennis, she has concentrated on her music in extracurricular activities during her four years at Aquinas and has been frequently seen in the school's musical productions. Recently she was guest pianist of the Lambda Tau Delta sorority. She also was one of the models in the fashion revue sponsored by the Aquinas Mothers' club and last year was secretary of the Aquinas Phy-Si club.

The Theodore Lee Noff award of $50 for excellence in the study of the French language and literature has been awarded to Jane Estelle Dickinson, 10729 Longwood drive, a junior at the University of Chicago. Miss Dicksinson is majoring in French and plans to teach after she has been graduated. Carrying a heavier than average program, she has received six course grades of "A's" since she entered Chicago.

MOST students dream about the situation that Harriet Hafner, of 9955 Charles street, is in. She has to choose one of 15 jobs that have been offered her, and she won't be graduated from school until Tuesday! There is no mistake about Harriet's popularity with employers, however. Tho only 17 years old, she has maintained a straight 'S' average for four years of high school and has earned the right to be the first valedictorian of the Jones Commercial school, 607 Plymouth court.

Harriet Hafner.

Harriet is the most sought-after senior in the class but her fellow graduates aren't doing badly, either. Two weeks ago 30 per cent of them had permanent jobs waiting for them after commencement, which will take place at Wells High school. The school was started in February, 1938, for juniors from other high schools interested in business careers after graduation.

Walter J. Hinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hinkle of 8201 South Peoria street, was graduated from the University of Michigan yesterday and is planning a week's vacation before he begins his three to six months term in the State prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson. Walter is going voluntarily, however, having been accepted as one of six privileged "student sociologists" to study prisoners in the classification department. During his college career Walter was a member of Theta Delta Chi, president of Scabbard and Blade, and a member of Druids,

CHICAGO PLANT GUILD PREPARES TO HELP SHUT-INS

The Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild is starting its 15th season of bringing cheer to the sick and lonely in charity wards of hospitals, settlement houses, old people's homes and other institutions in the city. Distribution of flowers, fresh fruits, jellies, and other delicacies to shut-ins will be started just as soon as the guild officials have completed arrangements for a voluntary delivery service to take the contributions from railroad stations to the hospitals.

All the guild's work is done by voluntary workers who make it possible for residents of the city and suburbs to share with the sick the bounty of their gardens and orchards. Suburban railroads furnish free transportation thruout the summer months for those who wish to send donations.

More than 2,000 members of 85 garden clubs coöperate with the guild each year in contributing fruits and flowers of their own and in directing the work among their neighbors who are not members of garden clubs.

WILLIAM SETTERBERG RE-ELECTED SECRETARY OF ARMOUR ALUMNI

William N. Setterberg, 8136 Lafayette avenue, member of the 1929 class of Armour Institute of Technology, will serve once more as secretary-treasurer of the Armour alumni. He has held the position since 1938. He is registrar of the evening division of the school, and he has served as placement officer of the institute. He holds a bachelor of science degree in architecture, and he has been with the John Deere company and in the bridge department of the North Western railway. He is a member of Pi Kappa Phi, Pi Nu Epsilon, and Phi Delta Kappa.

CADETS TO GET COMMISSIONS IN SALVATION ARMY

Three cadets from the southwest side are among the 54 who will receive commissions as probationary officers in the Salvation Army at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in Orchestra hall. They are Ruth Brewer and Lawrence Allen, both from the Englewood corps, and Garnett Townsend of the Chicago Lawn corps. Commissions are awarded after a year's study at the William Booth Memorial Training college, 700 Brompton place.

The service tomorrow will be in two parts. The first will take place at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Chicago Temple corps, 1512 West Madison street, where cadets will dedicate themselves to a life of service in the army. In the evening they will receive, along with their commissions, their "marching orders" or assignments.

Commissioner Ernest I. Pugmire, commander of Army forces in Chicago and the middle west, will conduct both ceremonies. Prelude to the commencement exercises will be afternoon and evening services today at the Temple corps with Col. William H. Barrett of the central states territory.

VesperConcert Series Opens in Forests Today

An hour of choral singing at each of three forest preserves on the outskirts of Chicago this afternoon will mark the beginning of the third consecutive series of outdoor concerts sponsored by the county board of commissioners and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. As in the previous two years, there will be seven Sunday programs, the last on July 28.

J. Wesley Jones.

The locations where singing will take place and the choral groups that will sing there this afternoon at 5 o'clock are as follows: Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street, Metropolitan Church choir, directed by J. Wesley Jones; Thatcher woods in River Forest, Grieg Male chorus, directed by Peter Olson; Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, St. Sebastian's choir, directed by the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell.

At last year's seven programs it was estimated that 100,000 persons listened, after having picnicked and played games, read, or just rested in the shade. The forest preserve district will again supply benches accommodating several hundred persons at each of the locations. The programs are mainly drawn from hymns and home melodies.

In Dan Ryan Woods.

The Metropolitan Church choir, which will sing in Dan Ryan woods, consists of 30 men and 70 women. It is recognized as one of the foremost Negro spiritual choruses in the country.

The choir has chosen for its program the following songs [where no composer is given, the song is a traditional Negro spiritual]: "In the Hollow of His Hand," "In That Great Gittin' Up Morning," "Ride On, Jesus," "Great Camp Meeting in the Promised Land," "When the Saints Go Marching In," "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray."

"America" [Carey], "God Bless America" [Berlin], "Old Folks at Home" [Foster], "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen" [Grey], "'Tis Me, O Lord," "Been 'Buked and Scorned," "Trying to Make Heaven My Home," "O, Southland" [Johnson], "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Do, Lord, Remember," "Gonna Ride in the Chariot," and "The Star Spangled Banner" [Key].

MORE ON AUSTIN CROSSING.

I want to add a few points to Mrs. I. F. G.'s letter last Sunday about the campaign to open Austin avenue between 59th and 60th streets across the Belt Line tracks. I think every one should know how long Father Sharp of St. Symphorosa church has worked to bring a public crossing and remove the mile long blockade of tracks between Central and Narragansett avenues. Father Sharp has worked for five years to get the attention of the city council. At last, his protests have been heard, and now he and a committee are going before the Illinois Commerce commission for a hearing Tuesday.

I want to wish Father Sharp luck at the hearing. For years now our children have had to hop over open tracks or walk a mile out of their way to get back and forth from school. Many of us have to cross the open tracks to get to church or to go to work. G. E. G.

ASKS FOR ACTION.

Let's do something about Halsted street! I hear there have been more fatal accidents on Halsted in the first four months of 1940 than on any other street in Chicago. Ten died in accidents on the street, six of them pedestrians. When traffic planning and careful driving can save lives, let's insist upon both. A street with an accident record gets a bad reputation. Motorists avoid it. Its business suffers. We can't let this happen on Halsted street. MAC.

GUN CLUB FINDS SITE BY CUTTING DOWN ORCHARD

Blue Pk. Group Largest on South Side.

BY JOHN T. M'CUTCHEON JR.

Winfield Roesner, who owns a farm between Tinley Park and Markham, looked on calmly one day in September, 1926, when a group of men with shotguns invaded his farm. When they put down their guns, armed themselves with axes and saws, and began to cut down his 10 acres of apple trees, he even helped them.

This attitude was not surprising, under the circumstances. Roesner was associated with these men in what later became known as the Blue Park Gun club. After several weeks of shooting with a hand trap in some woods near Oak Forest, it became evident that the group would need a permanent location and Roesner offered to lease them his apple orchard ground at 162d street and Crawford avenue.

Becomes Largest Club.

After acquiring the land and many new members, mostly from Blue Island and Tinley Park, the names of these towns were combined to give the club its name. The membership has grown to 275, the largest trap and skeet club on the south side.

The club, thru its president, Cecil Byers, of 7404 South Lowe avenue, has supported the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense reserve, the object of which is the registration of the nation's millions of amateur marksmen for action in case of an emergency.

The matter of a clubhouse was soon solved: after suitable arrangements a tractor was hitched to a neighbor's tool shed about a mile away, and in due time the club had a home. A kitchen has been installed, and members have added a porch to the building.

Open to the Public.

Since its beginning the club's facilities have been open to the public. There are now three straight traps and a skeet field, the latter being one of the first in the Chicago region. It is estimated that more than 100,000 targets are broken annually.

Shooting is done regularly at the club every Sunday thruout the year, and during the summer there are several organized shoots. On June 30 the second so-called "bacon-and-egg" shoot of the season will be held, at which some 50 persons will compete for prizes of bacon and eggs. On July 21 the club will hold its registered shoot.

The present officers besides Byers, are Fred P. Strunck, 9252 South Throop street, vice president; Leonard Ames, Blue Island, secretary, and Winfield Roesner, Tinley Park, treasurer.

Southwest Realty Board Will Have Golf Outing

The Southwest Realty board will hold its annual spring outing Wednesday at the north course of Silver Lake Golf club, 143d street and 82d avenue. Albert Tabola is chairman of the event.

SONS CARRY ON AS FATHER DID; BOTH DOCTORS

Hultgens, 23 and 24, in Graduating Class.

William J. Hultgen.

Francis J. Hultgen.

The desire of their father that Francis and William Hultgen should work together during their schooling and his hope that they would both enter his own profession, that of medicine, have been fulfilled. The two young men, now 23 and 24 years old, respectively, were graduated Wednesday with honors from Loyola university school of medicine.

A separation of 18 months has been decided upon by the two to determine whether they will go into practice together following their internship. Francis will serve his internship at Cook County hospital, and William will serve his at the Ancker hospital, St. Paul, Minn.

Father Died in 1935.

Their father was the late Dr. Jacob F. Hultgen, well known south side physician and medical professor, who died in 1935. Their mother died in their childhood, and since 1935 they have lived with their aunt, Miss Catherine Hultgen, and a sister, Mary, 25, at 1518 West Garfield boulevard.

Dr. Hultgen, a German born in Alsace-Lorraine, was for many years a physician, confidant, and friend to the peoples of various nationalities who lived "back of the yards." His office was at 5100 South Ashland avenue.

Altho there is a year's difference in their ages, Dr. Hultgen started his two sons off together in St. Augustine's parochial school.

"I think you can be a big help to each other if you try," he told the two small boys.

Made Early Decision.

At an early date, Francis and William say, they decided they wanted to be doctors. "Father never influenced us one way or the other," according to Francis, "but we admired his way of living and felt that his profession was the most honorable and useful one we could choose."

The boys took the same courses during their eight years at St. Augustine's, four years at Mount Carmel Parochial High school, two years at Loyola university preparing for medical school, and during most of their four years at medical school.

Both are taking the Civil Aeronautics Authority's student flying course, tho neither has yet obtained his license. Both are also accomplished cornet players.

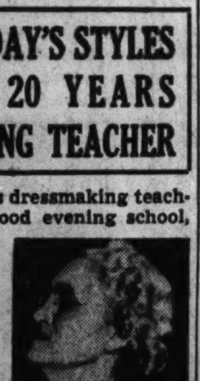
VOTES TODAY'S STYLES BEST IN 20 YEARS AS SEWING TEACHER



Lenora Hedrick Dillon.

After 20 years as dressmaking teacher in the Englewood evening school, Lenora Hedrick Dillon, 6351 Stewart avenue, retired a week ago. She missed only three instruction evenings in her period of service, and on those evenings she was busy preparing for one of her daughter's weddings. Mrs. Dillon taught girls how to design and sew their own clothes, helping them thru the days of the flapper dress, low waistlines, potato-sack silhouettes, and tight skirts. She thinks the modern fashions best, because of the freedom of motion they allow. Mrs. Dillon's favorite color is red with blue as a second choice. She is a veteran seamstress, making her own clothes even when she was a child.

ENLARGED LIVING ROOM REPLACES OLD FRONT PORCH

Cooling Unit Serves Two Rooms in House.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Strong, 3846 North Kildare avenue, bought their present home with the intention of remodeling it. Much that was aging and unlovely was eliminated, and much that was modern and lovely was included in the plans and specifications.

The architects, Hooper & Nelson, 118 East 26th street, took a middle aged house, with no heritage of either beauty or appeal, and charged it drastically.

In the original home there were none-too-sturdy steps at the front leading to a large glazed porch. Steps and porch disappeared, and the entrance reappeared at the side; a change which enlarged the living room and added to its light and air. The exterior, with its fresh paint and careful structural changes, now presents a new face to the world. It has dignity and distinction.

Concealed Heating Units.

The interior was no less radically altered: Changed in layout, in equipment, and in decorative treatment.

The new living room is large, with six generous, well placed windows. Radiation was concealed, placed in the walls, thus adding still more space to the rooms. In the dining room there is indirect lighting, and a beautiful bay window with glass shelves and a glass block panel.

In the original layout the kitchen had one of the best exposures in the house, so a bedroom now occupies that space which was once culinary headquarters. Practical reasons were likewise back of a shift in position for the bathroom. [Rooms CAN be changed about in a house, once modernization is under way, and a layout which does not satisfy at all, shifted to a plan which is much more to the family taste.

The architects incorporated one ingenius plan for summer cooling of two rooms. A cooling unit was built into the wall between the dining room and a bedroom. So that during the day the unit is "turned on" to cool the dining room, and at night its direction is reversed and the bedroom enjoys its cooling comfort.

Built-in Shower.

The work of this effective remodeling was done last year. Needless to add, the kitchen was completely modernized, and walls and floors of all rooms entirely refinished and redecorated. And another cooling help was given to the bathroom in the form of a built-in shower.

These are days when we are all concerned with sundry ways of keeping cool this summer. We have already had a taste of a burning sun high overhead and heat waves shimmering from dusty roads and pavements as a foretaste of what's to come.

There are many ways of keeping cool. Some simple, others not so simple, but every effective. However, one great little life saver in a home or in a room, if we aren't ready to invest in some cooling and dehumidifying unit, is the electric fan. These fans have been the object of much research work in the last few years for the purpose of perfecting their construction, increasing their efficiency, and adding more beauty to their design. Besides all this, there are ways of using an electric fan to get the most from it.

For Lower Temperature.

For instance, if you have a bedroom with only one window, raise the window, place the fan on the sill, with its blades facing into the room. Then tilt the fan up slightly so that the air flow is across your bed, but slightly upward. In this way the fan will draw cooler outside air into the room and, in addition to creating a breeze, will also effect a little reduction in room temperature. If possible, leave the bedroom door open. If this is not possible, lower the top sash of window four or five inches so hot air near ceiling can escape.

If your bedroom has two windows, place bed between them if possible and place your fan in the window with the blades facing outward. In this position the fan will draw cooler outside air across room and bed at the same time it exhausts the hot air from the room.

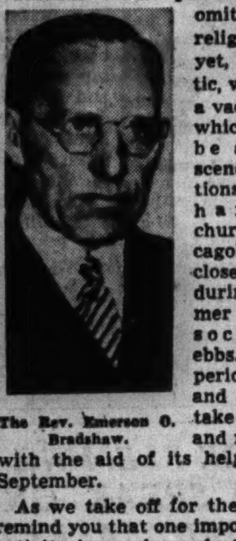
Within and Without the Church
—A Religious Voice of the People—
Edited by the Rev. John Evans

While we are not in favor of church vacations when pastor and people omit their regular religious duties, yet, being realistic, we admit that a vacation during which there may be a change of scenery for devotions may do no harm. Few churches in Chicagoland actually close their doors during the summer period, but social activity ebbs. During that period, Narthex and Byway will take a vacation and resume again with the aid of its helpers in mid-September.



The Rev. Emerson O. Bradshaw.

As we take off for the summer we remind you that one important church activity is nearly ready to begin—the daily vacation schools. At least 20,000 Protestant children will enroll in 200 such schools beginning June 24, and at 35 centers thruout the city about the same number of Catholic children will be given opportunities of directed summer activities under auspices of the Catholic Youth organization, beginning early in July.

The Chicago Church federation's department of Christian education sponsors the Protestant church schools under the direction of Emerson O. Bradshaw. Dr. Bradshaw has directed a series of nine conferences for vacation school teachers at Morris Memorial chapel, 30th street and Vernon avenue, with an aggregate attendance of 1,250. Emphasis in teacher training was placed on creative work in the instruction program. Handwork, arts and crafts, outings and recreation, sight seeing trips, swimming parties and educational tours were stressed.

The city-wide interdenominational committee on the schools includes Nellie M. Weger of the Baptist Missionary Training school; Helen Bates, head of Aiken institute; Lucy Bickel of the Methodist board of education; Albertine Bishoff, New First Congregational church; Louise Drew, First Methodist church, Oak Park; Vera C. Gardner, director of religious education for the Episcopal diocese of Chicago; Geraldine Gregg, First Methodist church, Evanston.

The Rev. Le Roy Huntley, director of religious education for the Evangelical board of education; the Rev. L. P. Jensen, director of Baptist religious education; the Rev. L. P. Landgrave of the Evangelical-Reformed church; the Rev. Robert C. Lemon of the Disciples' churches; Olga Lindborg of the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana synod; the Rev. Frank A. Lindhorst of the Methodist churches; the Rev. Victor E. Marriott of the Congregational churches, and R. A. Walker of the Presbyterian churches.

GLENWOOD BOYS RETURN TODAY BRINGING SONS

It Is Training School's Annual Rally.

Glenwood "boys" will return to school today. Many of them will have their own little boys with them for the annual alumni homecoming of Glenwood Manual Training school at Halsted and 187th streets. The program for this, the school's 53d anniversary observance and the 44th annual flag day exercises, will begin at 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon.

The background of Glenwood's traditional flag competition lies in the founding of military training there in 1892 by Francis Brady. He taught the boys military tactics, and later—the date is not recorded—held a contest. A war veteran had given the school some old army caps. These were the prizes for the best drill unit. Boys from Windsor cottage won that first competition.

Five years later, June 27, 1897, the boys again contested for military honors. This time the prize was an American flag, and Windsor cottage won again. Now the units from the different cottages compete each year for a flag.

Program for the Day.

Today's observance will begin with the escort of colors. Following will be the selection of the best drilled boy in school, a drill by two companies of alumni, demonstration drill and company competition. Socrates Demetrius, alumni president, will speak. The eighth district, American Legion, will present a flag to the school. Bruce Borland, school president, will present awards and speak just before the retreat parade at 5 o'clock.

Glenwood's founding goes back to 1877 when the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals changed its name to the Illinois Humane Society and included relief of human suffering on its program. One of its agents, Oscar L. Dudley, a former teacher who became interested in the society thru the editor of the "Humane Journal," appealed to authorities to prosecute the parents of a mistreated child.

The case attracted attention, and Dudley began receiving more appeals than he could handle. Out of the many appeals and the great need of a place for dependent boys, the school was organized on Feb. 8, 1887, as the Illinois Industrial Home for Boys.

Take Old Hotel.

On June 21 of that year, Mrs. Ursula L. Harrison was elected superintendent and an old hotel building on four acres of ground was taken at Norwood Park. By July 1 the school was operating with a dozen boys as charges.

In 1899 the name was changed to the Illinois Manual Training school. Meanwhile, Milton George, editor of "Western Rural," a farm paper, had become interested in the project. Finally, he offered his 300 acre farm home, "Rural Glen," to the school providing the institution could raise $350,000 for suitable buildings.

That stipulation couldn't be met, was reduced to $40,000, and before the year 1890 ended the boys were transferred from the Norwood Park hotel building to Glenwood. Their school eventually became known as it is now, the Glenwood Manual Training school. It is for underprivileged but not criminally inclined boys.

Gifts Provide Buildings.

Buildings have been added thru gifts of philanthropic individuals and organizations. Now Glenwood is a home school for needy, dependent boys, 375 of them at a time.

The lads live in cottages, 30 in each, with a cottage mother. The original 300 acres now are 430 acres, and the boys farm the land. Not only do they learn forming, but also other methods of supporting themselves. In the vocational training department, boys are taught printing, carpentry, mechanics, dairying, butchering, plumbing, baking, floriculture, painting, and laundering.

Is Non-Denominational.

Non-denominational, the school provides that boys may attend services at the church of their choice and chapel programs are conducted by ministers, rabbis, and priests.

Glenwood is supported by income from endowment funds, contribution, and board and tuition. Whenever circumstances permit, Glenwood charges tuition for the boys. Cost of caring for a boy is $38 to $45 a month, but each boy comes in, usually, under an individual financial arrangement framed to suit his condition.

Since 1898, Glenwood's Flag Day celebration has been held on the Saturday nearest Flag Day proper. This year, however, the exercises have been changed to the Sunday nearest Flag Day.

Learning at Glenwood School

Teddy Bagneschi has already learned that a careful workman keeps his attention on his machine. He is shown operating the milling machine in the Glenwood Manual Training school for boys. The school is near Chicago Heights and cares for boys from fourth to eighth grade.

Boys at Glenwood Manual Training school learn to be expert workmen along with learning their routine school lessons. Leo Bankston, left, and Sargent Leckner, right, work at a lathe. Glenwood accepts boys who need home as well as school care. A major aim of the school is to give each boy an apprenticeship for self-supporting trade.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, June 17.

Now that planting is completed, care of the garden must receive continuous attention. Maintenance makes the garden no matter how small or how large it may be. This not only means intelligent cultivation but the regular mowing of the lawn, edging the borders and beds, keeping rampant growths on shrubs restricted, tying up plants needing it, care of the seedbed, and the adoption of a spraying calendar to keep all insects and disease under control. To enjoy high grade vegetables keep them growing rapidly and watch for attacks from insects. Cucumbers, tomatoes, and potatoes are all subject to insect attacks and frequently blight appears.

Tuesday, June 18.

Goldfish placed in the pool will keep down mosquito larvae, and they are an attraction to every one. It is not too late to prepare a small pool for a water lily plant. Dealers can advise suitable varieties. Do not crowd the plants by using too many in a restricted area or they will not flower as profusely as they should.

Wednesday, June 19.

The shade under some trees, such as the Norway and sugar maple, is often so dense nothing will grow under them. However, by sowing annual grasses several times during the summer the surface of the ground will appear green and inviting. Plant food also should be applied or the trees will exhaust the food supply. After the delphiniums flower cut back the flower stalk, allowing all leaves to remain. They contain much food that will return to the roots. An application of complete plant food may be made after the plants flower. If a delphinium turns yellow dig it up and examine the roots for disease; dust the roots with sulphur and replant in a new spot.

Thursday, June 20.

Transplant iris shortly after flowering and up to September. See that the soil is well drained and, if divisions are made, use comparatively large ones which are strong and become established immediately. The iris responds to good treatment. It is among the finest of all perennials for the city garden. If the peonies failed to produce as many flowers as had been expected the cause may be too deep planting or an inferior variety.

Friday, June 21.

If a bare or drab spot appears in the perennial border, small plantings of three or five floribuna roses are excellent. Pot plants can be obtained from dealers. The many hardy asters that are available enable the home gardener to select kinds that fit his particular needs. These plants are very hardy. Cutting the plants back will induce branching and give a bushier plant. Soft wood cuttings can be made now with good results. Do not disturb the foliage of bulbous plants before it turns yellow, signifying that the bulbs have ripened and are dormant. Keep newly planted shrubs and trees well watered to insure rooting.

Saturday, June 22.

Better and larger blooms on hollyhocks may be had if the flower buds are thinned. Do not neglect to shade newly planted seedlings during hot weather. Keep well watered and they will soon become established. House plants that are plunged in the shade should be watered daily to be in prime condition for use next winter. It is a good time to buy a few small pot geraniums for growing on for winter's flowering. Shift when the roots touch the sides of the pots, but do not overpot. Pinch the ends of the stems to induce branching and not allow the plants to flower until next fall. It is not too late to sow some annuals.

31,000 ARE DUE FOR MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

Periods Are Announced for 6th Corps Area.

Plans for the summer military training of 31,000 men have been announced by various offices of the 6th corps area, embracing Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. These are divided into four branches of training, which, with the number expected to attend during this summer, are as follows:

1. Citizens' military training camps, 4,410.
2. Reserve officers' summer camp duty, about 3,000.
3. Reserve officers' training corps summer camps for senior cadets, 1,073.
4. National Guard participation in army maneuvers, about 22,500.

Many Partly Trained.

At the same time it was estimated by the various offices that there is a total of approximately 136,000 civilians in the three states in this corps area who have had military training of one sort or another, including that given in high school.

Of these about 70,000 live in or near Chicago, due to the fact that military training is given in 27 of Chicago's 35 public high schools, the most thoro coverage of any city in the country.

The reserve officers are, of course, the best trained of civilians for military purposes. They must have had either war experience or four years of military training, and are required to attend camp for at least two weeks every four years. There are at present 13,700 reserve officers in this area, of which 4,803 live in or near Chicago.

25,141 in National Guard.

The National Guard is the other military organization of civilians. In Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, there are 25,141 national guardsmen, including officers, of whom 9,800 live in Chicagoland.

Beyond these two organized groups, there is a vast number of men from 18 years of age up who have had junior R. O. T. C. training, which does not lead to a reserve commission, or who have spent from one to four summers at a C. M. T. C. camp without receiving a commission.

No accurate record is kept of these men, but it is estimated that 52,500 students have had high school R. O. T. C. training in this corps area, of whom 34,000 now live in Chicago.

Both the R. O. T. C. and the C. M. T. C. were organized under the National Defense act of 1920. There are now in the 6th corps area eight college units, five in military academies, and 52 in high schools.

Camps for Training.

R. O. T. C. summer training will be given this summer at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich., where 576 cadets will attend; Fort Sheridan Ill., where 300 cadets will be trained, and Camp McCoy, near Sparta, Wis., where there will be 161 R. O. T. C. cadets. At Camp McCoy the six weeks period will open Friday, while at the other two it will open June 17. The schedule was announced by Col. John T. Rhett, R. O. T. C. officer for the 6th corps area.

The 4,410 youths between 17 and 29 years of age who will attend citizens' military training camps this summer will go to these three as well as to Camp Brady, in northeastern Michigan, Fort Snelling, Minn., and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., altho the latter two are not in this corps area. Thru last week more than 7,100 applications had been received.

Increase Is Expected.

The two weeks period for which reserve officers attend camp as one means of satisfying the requirement for 40 hours of active duty per year is taken at no uniform time and may be at any of the 6th corps area camps. An increase of several hundred over the 2,700 reserve officers who attended camp last summer is expected.

Members of the National Guard participate in the army maneuvers at Camp McCoy from Aug. 11 to 31.

CHOOSE WINNERS IN CARRIE CARTER TALENT SEARCH

Massachusetts, Oregon Women Finalists.

Thelma Hansen of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Ethel Chase Christie of Eugene, Ore., have been selected as the national winners in the Carrie Carter talent search by a board of judges consisting of Lillian Gish, Mona Kent, William A. Bacher, Clarence M. Shapiro, and Don Moore.

The announcement ended a two month search, during which more than 10,000 applicants were auditioned thruout the entire country. Each of the 84 stations, including W-G-N, carrying the Carters of Elm Street show held individual auditions. The recorded voices of the semifinalists were sent to Chicago, where the final judging took place. The objective was to find one actress between the ages of 15 and 25 and another of 25 or over. None of the contestants were auditioned for a particular rôle, but on their dramatic ability only.

Writer of Radio Plays.

Pretty 20 year old Thelma Hansen of Chelmsford, a suburb of Lowell, has been interested in dramatics since her first grade school days and has taken part in numerous amateur school and church plays. She is an honor graduate of the Chelmsford High school. She is employed by a beverage concern.

Miss Hansen's ambition is to be an actress either in radio, on the stage, or in the movies. Her amateur experience on the stage has been in such plays as "Holiday," "Stage Door,' and "The Late Christopher Bean." She has also been successful in amateur painting, as well as having three radio plays produced.

Husband Killed in War.

Mrs. Christie is a widowed high school English teacher. She was born in Minnesota and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and of the University of Oregon. Her husband, a Canadian flying officer, was killed in action during the last war. She is a charter member of Eugene's Very Little theater.

Miss Gish is currently appearing as the mother in "Life with Father," now in its 20th week at Chicago's Blackstone theater. Miss Kent is the author of the Carters of Elm Street.

William A. Bacher, formerly of Hollywood, is in charge of all programs and production at W-G-N. Clarence M. Shapiro is a talent scout for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Don Moore is associate editor and columnist for Movie and Radio Guide.

Both Miss Hansen and Mrs. Christie will come to Chicago, will be quartered at the Stevens hotel, and will receive a rôle in the Carters of Elm Street for two weeks at an American Federation of Radio Artists' salary of $112.50 per week. All expenses will be assumed by the sponsors. The Carters show is aired over the Mutual network at 12:45 p. m. Mondays thru Fridays.

Competes in East

Joe Perisin of 6226 South Hermitage avenue is in New York today as Chicago's marble champion seeking a new title in the North American championship tournament being held there this week.

Joe is 13 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Perisin and in sixth grade at St. Theodore school. He is a member of Ogden Hill branch of the Chicago Boys' clubs.

The city marble tournament opened the first week in June with nine sectional tournaments. There were 9,128 boys eliminated before the 36 finalists met. The marble king championship playoffs were conducted by the Chicago Boys' clubs under Irving Randolph, executive vice president, and sponsored by John Hayes, an ex-marble champion. Hayes is paying Joe's expenses for the New York trip.

All honors in the finals went to the southwest and south side of the city. Thomas O'Shea, 14, of 6641 South University avenue; Woodlawn member, was second. Bob Roberts, 13, of 7014 South Wood street, member of Ogden Hill, took third, and fourth place went to Ray Meagher, 8 years old, of 6408 South Marshfield avenue.

W. Noel Hudson, director of program and education for the Boys clubs, made all arrangements for the play. Arthur L. Griswold conducted the tournament. William Watson of the Woodlawn Business Men's association assisted in arrangements. Alvan H. Cox is director at Ogden Hill.

STAR STUDENTS READY TO MEET LIFE PROBLEMS

J. Gastout, 19, 3642 South Union avenue. Michael likes civics and tennis, economics and reading, history and writing short stories. He hopes to enter the University of Chicago if he wins a scholarship. Otherwise, he intends to go to Wilson Junior college to study public administration and hopes for a government position.

Michael is president of his class, associate editor of the "E" weekly, member of Quill and Scroll, and of the National Honor society. He attended the civic assembly, and won a prize at the Medill Press conference on current events last April 5 at Northwestern university.

Plans on Teaching.

Senior A vice president, former Girls Athletic association president, honor society member, and former Girls Glee club vice president is Rita Woznak. She is a major letter girl in G. A. A. If she passes the June 25 and 26 Chicago Teachers college entrance exams, she will attend there next fall as a physical education major. Otherwise she'll study voice. A lyric soprano, she hopes to become a radio singer.

Letters in football and bowling, membership on the student police force, and student council president make up the high points in Edward Gastout's record. He is interested in history, economics, civics, salesmanship, physical education. At Wilson Junior college, he'll go thru the liberal arts course and then continue in physical education or history at Illinois.

Otto Krauyalis, 16, of 10805 Michigan avenue, is finishing Fenger High school as highest boy in his class. Otto went thru grade school in 6½ years, and has been busy in high school but has found time to play a trumpet in the band and be sports editor of the Fenger News. He is a tri-honor graduate—National Honor, Quill and Scroll, and Phorex. Otto will go to Armour Institute of Technology in the fall to study chemical engineering after a summer of "running the delivery truck for the folks' grocery."

Valedictorian at 15.

Also from Fenger is Violet Escarraz, 15, 8854 Dauphin avenue. Violet is going thru school in a hurry with 6½ years spent in the grades and 3½ in high school. It is a tradition in her family. Her two brothers hurried along, too. Besides being two years younger than the average high school senior, Violet is valedictorian of her class. She likes "any science" and English literature. Thinks she'd like American literature, too, but hasn't had any yet.

Violet has had time to do more than study. She helped to direct two dramatic productions and was associate editor of the Courier. She's in the National Honor society, of course, and was elected to the civic assembly.

Next fall she'll use the University of Chicago scholarship she has to major in physics, minor in education. She will have the opportunity to renew her scholarship at the end of each year. This summer, she'll be cashier in her family's grocery store, and she'll garden.

Will Study Chemistry.

Norman Phillips, 16, of 68 East 102d place is also from Fenger. Vice president of the 4A class, a superior rating in the city French horn contest, membership in the National Honor society, and president of the Hi-Y are on Norman's activity and accomplishment list. In the fall he'll study chemistry, using a scholarship at the University of Chicago. He says his horn is his hobby.

Fred Rueter, 18, of 9314 South Francisco avenue, George H. Barrett, 18, of 3518 West 63d place, and Fern Abell, 17, of 6518 South Mozart street, are among Harper High school outstanding students.

Fred is president of his class and a first place winner in the district American Legion oratorical contest. A baritone, he has studied singing, and among his favorite subjects are music and public speaking. However, he does not aspire to a singing or speaking career. He wants to work wherever there's a job and continue his study according to what the job requires.

Plans Night Study.

Class salutatorian, honor society, and Harper Legion of Honor member is George Barrett. Like Fred, he sings baritone, and both are in the school a cappella choir. George also follows Fred in planning to work at "whatever there is to do, and then continue study at night school according to the job."

Another girl valedictorian is Fern Abel, and she is completing her course in 3½ years. She likes French and art and will attend the Art institute on a summer scholarship. She is an officer in the French and Art clubs and a member of the National Honor society and Harper Legion of Honor. She hopes to be a book illustrator.

Kelly High school's student leaders are Charles Ninow, 17, of 5631 South Racine avenue, Ruth Hartnell, 16, of 922 West 29th street, and Alfred Savid, 17, of 2532 West 47th street.

Charles has received the civic award and will get his R. O. T. C. brevet commission upon graduation. He wants to be an accountant or traffic manager, ambitions which follow easily his interest in bookkeeping, commercial law, and geometry. He was R. O. T. C. reporter on the school paper, hall guard, fire guard, and honor society president. He will not go to college, but he hopes to get "fairly reasonable work at a fairly reasonable salary" and study at night.

Scholarship Winner.

Ruth Hartnell is fourth in her class at Kelly. She was third, but doesn't "know any American problems according to those American Observer tests," so she slipped down a notch. Ruth won a civic award in the assembly sponsored by the Executives club, and with that and her scholarship record has been granted a U. of C. scholarship.

She likes mathematics and journalism, is co-editor of the Clarion, school paper, president of the French club, vice president of the Senior Girls club, secretary of the honor society, on the cap and gown committee, and in the Latin club. Ruth says she's "going to end being a teacher. I wanted to be a journalist, but that didn't work out—anyway, not yet."

Finishing Kelly in 3½ years is Alfred Savich, 17, of 2532 West 47th street, with an average of 3.977 out of a possible 4, the top ranking student since the school was established seven years ago. Alfred has a straight S average in all of his majors, but a few minors prevented a full 4 average in all subjects. His ambition is to enter the scientific field, probably in medical research. Interested in science, mathematics, history, and Latin, he thinks he will find science his best line of endeavor. He will enter Chicago.

All Three Working.

Alfred was student council president the first semester and is Civic Forum president, hall guard captain, member of the honor society, member of the Lamplighter [school annual] staff, member of Kelly Honor society, Latin club, fencing team, and checker club. All three Kelly outstanding students are employed now. The boys are ushering in a theater and Ruth is clerking.

From Lindblom is Marian Hall, 17, of 5710 Drexel avenue. Taking part in many school activities, she is vice president of the senior class, treasurer of the Senior Girls clubs, secretary of the French club, and a member of the honor society. She was chairman of the prom and worked in the cleanup campaign. Marion will enter the University of Illinois in September. Not decided yet what she will do, she will begin with a general course.

Richard H. DuBois, 17, of 2621 West 61st street, is president of the Lindblom 4A class, captain of his school golf team, was civic assembly representative, and is an honor society member. He was on the Eagle [school annual] staff, and is a member of the L club. He likes mathematics, and he's looking forward to four years of hard problems. Richard will enter the United States Naval academy at Annapolis in July. His hobby? Well, it's a good one for a sailor. It's reading travel books.

Highest in Scholarship.

Marcia Bach, 17, of 6337 Kimbark avenue, is Lindblom's valedictorian this year. She is also a member of the senior girls council and of the Order of the Golden Eagle. The latter is newly organized, and Lindblom students say that membership is the highest honor in school. She has won seven scholarship "L's" for a straight S card. Marcia likes chemistry better than any other study, but she isn't necessarily going into science. She has accepted a scholarship to Kalamazoo college, Kalamazoo, Mich., where she will take a general course for two years.

Popularity contest winner, "King of Empehi," as well as a national honor society member is Richard Eugene Miller, 17, a resident of 9146 South Throop street, and preferring to be called "Dick." He is chairman of the athletic commission at his school, Morgan Park High, chairman of the commencement committee, chairman of the better speech committee, member of the executive committee and he was voted south section basketball forward. All of this he has accomplished at Morgan Park which is the third high school he has attended. He's also a member of Tau Epsilon, high school honorary, and in the Boys' Emblem club.

Will Attend Duke.

Dick likes Latin and Spanish, rates math and United States history as next favorite subjects. He will work this summer and enter Duke university next fall on a part scholarship.

Edith Thompson, 17, of 9800 Walden parkway, is a Morgan Parker who would "like to do something in journalism." She is now managing editor of the school paper, Empehi News, president of the Girls' Emblem club, president of the fencing club, member of the National Honor society and Quill and Scroll, and vice president of Quilpen, a creative writing organization. She's also a member of the Latin club and of the Town Meeting. She plans to attend Chicago university next year.

Bound for West Point or Armour Tech is Blake Howard Hooper, 17, of 9847 South Prospect avenue, the highest ranking student in Morgan Park's senior class. Blake's average is 3.902 out of a possible 4. Blake's school accomplishments include being commanding officer of the R. O. T. C. with rank of lieutenant colonel for two semesters; being voted "best citizen" at his school; winning the Castelman trophy for his essay on the constitution at Boys State in Springfield in 1938; president of the Officers' club, member of Quilpen, head of school usher force, athletic guard, hall guard, winner of science award, member of National Honor society. His twin sister, Barbara, will be graduated with him. Blake will enter the United States Military academy if his appointment comes thru. If not, he'll study chemical engineering at Armour.

Two Valedictorians.

Parker High school has co-valedictorians this year. They are Ruth Cargill, 16, of 8000 Prairie avenue, and Eugenia Sheldon, 17, of 5707 Dorchester avenue. Ruth went thru grade school in seven years and is finishing high school with an average of 96.6 in addition to taking part in many activities. She is interested in international relations—will study such a course and chemistry at University of Chicago—but she is "sick of the war." She is circulation manager of the Parker Press, editor in chief of the annual, the Pine, member of the National Honor society, and Deltonian club [chemistry organization].

Eugenia has completed Parker in three years with an average of 96.8. She is first page editor of the Parker Press; member of travel, social science, debating, and German clubs; reporter on the annual, the Pine. She wants to teach the social sciences, and she hopes to attend Chicago Teachers college. She's a member of the National Honor society and of the senior counsellors. Her hobby is collecting maps.

Edward Pecis, 18, of 325 North Normal parkway is also from Parker. He is president of the student government, and he received a medal at the civic assembly.

Jobs and Night School.

He likes science of all kinds, especially botany and zoölogy. He is president of the school student government society, interested in the photography club and the chemistry club. He doesn't plan college, but hopes to go to work for a utilities company. Then he'll fit a night school course to the day work.

From Tilden come Elmer Foster, 2437 West 25th street, Joseph Morrison, 5489 Harper avenue, Frank Knutzen, 7349 Drexel boulevard, and Milton Emery, 937 East 43d place.

Elmer is feature editor of the Times; is 14th in his class with an average of 93.4, president of the Service club, and one of the framers of the Tilden constitutional government plan. If he goes to college, he'll study printing more. However, he'll try for an apprentice printer's job now and try to learn more about color work. He collects butterflies and insects and sells them; he likes biology. He likes old fashioned dances, and he likes blonde girls about 5 feet 4 as dancing partners.

No Dates Till 32.

Joseph is the master draftsman in the architectural class. He is a National Honor society man, member of the Honor club, president of the Arc and Arts club, model ship builder. Joseph fancies himself a woman hater, and he plans to postpone having a date until he's 32 years old.

Joseph thinks the United States should stay out of war, but should go into a mass preparedness program.

Frank Knutzen is two year manager of the golf team, president of Tilden's National Honor society chapter, vice president of his class, news editor of the Time staff, and member of the Honor club. His preferences are brunettes, Green Bay Packers, Purdue university's football team, and the White Sox baseball team. He shares Joseph's ideas on preparedness.

Milton Emery is 3d in his class. He is enrolled in a general technical course, studies seven hours a week, played full back on the school football team last season, is vice president of the letter man club, and a member of the National Honor society. He is determined to go to college, but he doesn't know where his school will be. He wants a career in civil engineering.

Harold E. Zlatnik. Herbert R. Rifkind.

Bandmasters from Chicago's public high schools will assist with sectional and massed practices for the 11th annual Chicagoland Music Festival which will take place on Aug. 17 this year. At that time, 1,000 of the city's finest young musicians will take part in the program. Among conductors from the southwest side who are assisting are Herbert R. Rifkind from Harper High school and Harold E. Zlatnik from Englewood. Miss Helen Howe, director of music in Chicago public schools, is organizing the festival group. Rehearsals will go on thruout the summer.

Dedicate Two Flags Today at Father's Day Service

A Father's day service will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in Bethel Reformed church, 114th and State streets. The Rev. Emanuel Crusius, pastor, has arranged a special program which will include the dedication of the American flag and the church banner. Boy Scouts of the church will assist in the ceremony. Miss Ruth Ann De Boer, church music director, has arranged to have patriotic musical compositions played.

PLAN BALLOT ON STICKNEY TWP. SCHOOL DISTRICT

A referendum on the creation of a community high school district in Stickney township will take place Saturday at the Edward J. Tobin Memorial school, according to an announcement from Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools.

The territory concerned is in the southern part of district 110 and all of district 111. The Clearing industrial district and the Belt railway both have extensive properties in the area. There are no students residing in the Clearing district.

Charles F. Ploszek, Ray C. Hatch, Ernest Herman will be judges and clerks of election. The Tobin school, which serves district 111, is at Narragansett avenue and 85th street. The school serving the southern part of district 110 is at 5001 South Long avenue.

MUTUAL TELLS PLANS TO COVER 2 CONVENTIONS

Host of Experts to Give Complete Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Plans for the most complete coverage of the national political conventions in radio history were announced yesterday by the management of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The Republican national convention will be held in Philadelphia, starting Monday, June 24. The Democratic convention will open in the Chicago Stadium, starting July 15.

The Mutual network lineup carrying the two convention broadcarts will include more than 130 stations. The convention proceedings will also be shortwaved to the world thru WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many Special Features Planned.

Four of the major stations of the Mutual network will contribute their expert broadcasters, commentators, analysts, and special events men for the convention broadcasts.

Besides the actual broadcasting from the convention halls the W-G-N-Mutual audiences will be treated to many airings of sidelight attractions of the two conventions. These programs will originate in railroad stations, hotels, and other points where events of interest and importance occur.

Stations contributing experts who will be engaged in presenting the convention broadcasts are W-G-N, Chicago; WOR, Newark, N. Y.; WFIL, Philadelphia, and WOL, Washington.

Ryan, Henning Head List.

Heading the list of experts to be heard on the convention broadcasts are Quin Ryan of W-G-N, who has broadcast the three previous pairs of conventions of both parties.

Other broadcasters on the Mutual staff include Arthur Sears Henning, chief the the Chicago Tribune's Washington news bureau and an internationally known political writer for more than three decades; Arthur M. Evans, Tribune political reporter; Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual's newscaster from Washington; Gabriel Heatter, New York commentator; Wythe Williams, editor of Greenwich Time, who is equally at home whether analyzing national or international events, and Dave Driscoll, special events director of WOR.

Each of these broadcasters will be heard from the Republican convention in Philadelphia and all but Gabriel Heatter also from the Democratic convention in Chicago.

50 Microphones Available.

The technical facilities for covering the meetings and news events will be handled by staff engineers of W-G-N, WOR, and WFIL, under the direction of J. R. Poppele, chief engineer at WOR who will direct the broadcasts from Philadelphia, and Carl Meyers, chief of the W-G-N engineering staff who will be in charge in Chicago.

More than 50 microphones will be available in the convention halls to pick up the broadcasts. The "mikes" will be strategically located to cover every section of the halls so that the principals in the convention on the platform as well as all of the members in the state delegations on the floor may be heard if they wish to speak.

Mutual also will have portable ultra high frequency transmitters which broadcasters can carry about the halls in making pickups.

Parabolic microphones, which pick up sounds in a concave bowl and reflect them directly into the microphones will be used to pick up the sounds of the crowds in the convention halls. The master broadcasting booths at both conventions, where the chief announcers will work, will be located immediately behind speakers' platforms in the Philadelphia and Chicago halls.

Driscoll, Schreiber in Charge.

Dave Driscoll, chief of WOR special events division, will be the director of the broadcasts originating from the Republican convention in Philadelphia. Frank P. Schreiber, chief of W-G-N's special events department, will direct the Democratic convention broadcasts.

Mutual will establish a traffic control division at each of the conventions and Adolph Opfinger, chief of the network's traffic bureau, will be on hand to schedule broadcasts to the network as fast as the news events become available. Mutual will stand ready to clear scheduled programs to provide listeners with every event of importance from both conventions.

Offices for network control and for the use of the commentators and announcers also have been provided for Mutual beneath the speakers' stands in Philadelphia and Chicago.

Plans of Other Networks.

A. A. Schechter will be in charge of NBC's convention broadcasts. Commentators and reporters for this network include: Earl Godwin and H. R. Baukhage, Washington commentators; Mark Sullivan, Raymond Clapper, and H. V. Kaltenborn, Mela Underwood, George Hicks, and several others.

The Columbia network broadcasts will be directed by Paul White. Reporters and commentators will include Elmer Davis, Bob Trout, Albert Warner, J. Charles Daly, and possibly Edwin C. Hill and Paul Sullivan.

W-G-N Guest

Elissa Landi, glamorous star of the stage and screen, will be the guest star of Friday night's "Fifth Row Center" program on W-G-N and the Mutual network. Fifth Row Center is heard at 7 p. m. Fridays.

Mutual Network to Have New Minneapolis Outlet

WLOL, new 1,000 watt radio station in Minneapolis-St. Paul, will become a Mutual network affiliate tomorrow, the day the station begins operations. This affiliation will give Mutual full-time coverage in the Twin Cities. Operating on 1,300 kilocycles, WLOL is owned and operated by the Independent Merchants Broadcasting company. The studios are located in the Roanoke building, Minneapolis.

ELISSA LANDI TO STAR ON W-G-N IN SPY RING PLAY

Philips Holmes to Play Male Lead Friday.

Elissa Landi, glamorous young stage and screen actress, will return to the Fifth Row Center program to play the star rôle in the play, "Enemies Within," next Friday. The drama will be broadcast in the main audience studio of W-G-N, from 7 to 7:30 p. m., over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Featured with Miss Landi will be Philips Holmes, movie favorite.

Miss Landi's last appearance on W-G-N was on March 31, when she was featured in the play, "The Secret Glory."

In next Friday's Fifth Row Center drama, she will play the rôle of a girl reporter who uncovers a foreign spy ring in an American city. Cast in the part of Lorna Carroll, the reporter, she is sent by her newspaper to cover a story involving the shooting of a policeman.

In the course of investigation, the girl reporter discovers the hideout of the foreign agents. Holmes plays the rôle of William B. Douglas, a radio special events commentator who aids the reporter in combating the spy ring.

The play was written by Blair Walliser who will direct the show.

Miss Landi's most recent film successes were the "Count of Monte Cristo," "The Thirteenth Chair," and "After the Thin Man." Prior to making American pictures, Miss Landi was a European favorite and appeared in films in London, Paris, Berlin and in Sweden. Her first Broadway appearance was as Catherine in Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms" in 1931.

Considered one of the most versatile figures in the stage and motion picture world, Miss Landi speaks four languages, has written several novels, plays, poems and short stories, and is a veteran globe-trotter.

Holmes is the son of Taylor Holmes, the stage comedian. He was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., and received his education at Princeton, Trinity college, and also studied in Paris. Holmes is best remembered for his work in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," "The Criminal Code," "An American Tragedy," and "Dinner at Eight."

Supporting Miss Landi and Holmes will be Don Allen and a cast of outstanding Chicago radio actors. Musical background will be provided by the W-G-N orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

MUSIC EXPERTS TO COMPETE IN RAVINIA QUIZ

"Your Music I. Q." will bring to W-G-N listeners several of Chicago's outstanding music personalities at 8:45 p. m. tomorrow in the weekly battle of music wits which is presented by the Ravinia Festival association.

On the team of experts who answer questions sent in by Chicagoland's music lovers, are Dr. Felix Borowski, noted critic and commentator; Dr. Rudolf Ganz, distinguished conductor and pianist, and Harry S. Walsh, director of the Lake Shore Mal chorus and the Northerners.

Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N joins the team representing the Ravinia Festival committee. Others on the Ravinia team are Hazel Moore and Thomas H. Fisher.

Two admissions to the Ravinia festival which opens a six-week season June 25 go to every sender of a question used on the program. If one team misses a question, the sender receives two reserved seats in addition to the admissions and if both teams fail to answer a question, the award to the sender is a $10 coupon book.

'YESTERDAYS' TO PRESENT DRAMAS OF OLD TUNES

"Yesterdays," the musical reveries program conducted by Harold Stokes, features the W-G-N Dance orchestra and the singing of Kathryn Witwer and Wesley Summerfield, from 9:30 to 10:00 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Harold Hoffman is narrator for the program in which the musical numbers are dramatized. Miss Witwer will sing for her solo, "Among My Souvenirs." With Summerfield she will sing the duet, "A Bicycle Built for Two," and the two vocalists will be heard with the chorus and orchestra in "My Heart Stood Still."

Michael Wilkomirski, orchestra concertmeister, will give a violin rendition of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade." The orchestra will play "Moonlight on the Ganges," a band arrangement of Sousa's immortal "Stars and Stripes," and will do "There's a Long Long Trail," in which the audience will be invited to sing. "Yesterdays" is produced by Lou Jackobson.

Irons that Smooth Damp tissue paper without tearing

WE ARE always particularly pleased to have a visit from a home manager who is "fussy" about her ironing. We like to show her how we handle the ironing, and to hear her surprised exclamation, "Why this work is beautifully done!"

We have special equipment and methods for ironing even the most delicate articles. The metal portions are steam heated; because steam heated metal will not scorch. And these ironers are so delicate they will smooth damp tissue paper without tearing!

6 HIGH SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 2,583

EUROPE'S FIGHT NOT OURS, SAY HONOR SENIORS

High School Grads O. K. Preparedness.

BY PAUL HEALY.

Outstanding graduates of six south side public high schools have just two things in common—the girls want to be school teachers and the boys want to leave the European war to the Europeans.

This was learned recently when THE TRIBUNE checked up on the ambitions, interests, and attitudes of 14 boys and 10 girls selected by their principals to represent the Hirsch, DuSable, Hyde Park, Wendell Phillips, Tilden, and Bowen senior classes. The students were chosen for their scholarship and their activity in extra-curricular affairs.

None of the boys wish to be soldiers but they believe in preparedness and think their country should fight if the Monroe doctrine is violated. Aside from this, their personalities are sharply divergent. They have different opinions about the importance of studying, girls, social life, music, and money. No two, moreover, have chosen the same career and their selections range from doctor to basketball coach and include undertaking, crime research, hog-buying, and color-printing.

With one exception, the girls hope some day to teach in the Chicago public school system. The exception is ambitious to pioneer as a criminal lawyer. Their leisure time activities, reading, outdoor sports, cooking, sewing, piano playing, and dancing are usually practical. But whatever they do, it's done with gusto, which perhaps accounts for their success.

Hopes to Teach.

One of Hirsch's four outstanding students is pretty Patricia Stone, described by her classmmates as "easily the most popular girl in the school." Patricia, who lives at 8220 Kenwood avenue was vice president of the senior class, the choral club and the honor society, editor of the yearbook and possessor of a 96.88 scholastic average, fourth highest in the class. She plans to go to Michigan State college and major in English, which she hopes to teach some day.

Patricia's accomplishments in sports range from playing short center on the softball team which took second place in the city tournament last year, to winning a gold medal for being one of the best jacks-players in Chicago. She's not interested in boys who have a poor sense of humor, who aren't athletes, or who are under six feet tall [she's five feet nine herself.]

Her favorite athlete-hero is her six foot five inch brother who was an all-star center on the Hirsch basketball team in 1938-'39 and was interviewed as an outstanding student in THE TRIBUNE a year ago. She likes her "black cows" flavored with peanut butter.

Has Average of 98.

Hirsch's smartest graduate is Virginia Butts, of 7303 Langley avenue, who has maintained a 98 average, which is perfect at Hirsch, for four years. In April she was selected as the outstanding student of the June class and earlier in the year she won $50 for taking fourth place in the essay contest sponsored by the Civitan club of Chicago.

The secret of her success as a student, she says, is that she "learned how to study." She laughs about being voted the most dependable girl at Hirsch because her friends label her "unpredictable."

She is very serious about making a successful career of criminal law, and next year she will enroll at the University of Chicago on a progressive scholarship. Slender, vivacious, and good looking, however, she'd rather dance than read and she likes boys with personality, especially "the understanding type." Other things she likes are chocolate ice cream for breakfast in summer, riding in the rain, Clark Gable and Clifton Webb.

Interested in Biology.

President of Hirsch's student government with an average of 92 is bespectacled Robert Northshield, of 8116 Ingleside avenue. Robert's real interest is biology [he has an experimental laboratory in his basement] but he likes to describe himself as a "social butterfly."

Next year he's going to Knox college on a progressive scholarship to major in zoölogy. Twenty years from now, he says, he'd like to be married, financially secure, and famed as a research scientist. He ushers at south side theaters several nights a week, likes girls who can converse intelligently, and doesn't see any reason why America should get into the war.

Outstanding athlete-student at Hirsch is Edward Lord Jr., or 2445 East 74th place, president of the graduating class and member of the basketball team which took second place in the city league competition last winter. Edward is most interested in chemistry and next year he'll continue his education at Michigan State, where he intends to major in criminology and later become a research expert in police work. Athletically, he's happiest when playing football, softball, or basketball, but says he's "allergic to dancing." He has only one concern about the current war—that we keep out of it.

Known as Journalist.

At Du Sable High school James Kellum, of 5000 Prairie avenue, has become known as a journalist. He edited both the newspaper and the

[MAP ON PAGE 2.]

An hour of choral singing at each of three forest preserves on the outskirts of Chicago this afternoon will mark the beginning of the third consecutive series of outdoor concerts sponsored by the county board of commissioners and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. As in the previous two years, there will be seven Sunday programs, the last on July 28.

J. Wesley Jones.

The locations where singing will take place and the choral groups that will sing there this afternoon at 5 o'clock are as follows: Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street, Metropolitan Church choir, directed by J. Wesley Jones; Thatcher woods in River Forest, Grieg Male chorus, directed by Peter Olson; Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, St. Sebastian's choir, directed by the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell.

At last year's seven programs it was estimated that 100,000 persons listened, after having picnicked and played games, read, or just rested in the shade. The forest preserve district will again supply benches accommodating several hundred persons at each of the locations. The programs are mainly drawn from hymns and home melodies.

In Dan Ryan Woods.

The Metropolitan Church choir, which will sing in Dan Ryan woods, consists of 30 men and 70 women. It is recognized as one of the foremost Negro spiritual choruses in the country.

The choir has chosen for its program the following songs [where no composer is given, the song is a traditional Negro spiritual]: "In the Hollow of His Hand," "In That Great Gittin' Up Morning," "Ride On, Jesus," "Great Camp Meeting in the Promised Land," "When the Saints Go Marching In," "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray."

"America" [Carey], "God Bless America" [Berlin], "Old Folks at Home" [Foster], "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen" [Grey], "'Tis Me, O Lord," "Been 'Buked and Scorned," "Trying to Make Heaven My Home," "O, Southland" [Johnson], "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Do, Lord, Remember," "Gonna Ride in the Chariot," and "The Star Spangled Banner" [Key].

The climax of adolescence for thousands of high school students will be reached on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday this week when six south side public schools hold their semiannual commencement programs. Each program will be the high point in a week filled with class days, class picnics, senior proms, and graduation parties.

The commencement exercises will include valedictory and salutatory addresses by outstanding students, speeches by guests, musical solos by students, music by choral clubs and school bands, and the awarding of medals and diplomas. School awards will be given by Paul Bohus and National Honor society awards by Harry Boren. The Phillips band and the Phillips mixed chorus also will play important rôles in the exercises. Mrs. Maudelle Bousfield, principal, will present diplomas, assisted by Edmund Dorner, assistant principal.

The Theodore Lee Noff award of $50 for excellence in the study of the French language and literature has been awarded to Jane Estelle Dickinson, 10729 Longwood drive, a junior at the University of Chicago. Miss Dicksinson is majoring in French and plans to teach after she has been graduated. Carrying a heavier than average program, she has received six course grades of "A's" since she entered Chicago.

A concert sponsored by Golden Rule class of the Englewood United Presbyterian church will be given in the church, 65th street and Parnell avenue, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Harry Opel, baritone and director of the senior and junior choirs of the church, will be soloist, accompanied by Miss Ella Mary Opel.

MOST students dream about the situation that Harriet Hafner, of 9955 Charles street, is in. She has to choose one of 15 jobs that have been offered her, and she won't be graduated from school until Tuesday! There is no mistake about Harriet's popularity with employers, however. Tho only 17 years old, she has maintained a straight 'S' average for four years of high school and has earned the right to be the first valedictorian of the Jones Commercial school, 607 Plymouth court.

Harriet Hafner.

Harriet is the most sought-after senior in the class but her fellow graduates aren't doing badly, either. Two weeks ago 30 per cent of them had permanent jobs waiting for them after commencement, which will take place at Wells High school. The school was started in February, 1938, for juniors from other high schools interested in business careers after graduation.

Vincent Jones, a February, 1940, graduate of Fenger High school, has been awarded a $1,000 four year scholarship to De Pauw university at Greencastle, Ind.

John McCullough, of East Chicago, was recently selected to be co-editor of next year's De Paulian, newspaper of De Paul university. A graduate of Catholic Central High school in Hammond, John was editor of the special freshman edition in 1938 and co-editor of the "He-Man" edition this year. He was also chairman of Cisca, Catholic action organization.

CHICAGO PLANT GUILD PREPARES TO HELP SHUT-INS

The Chicago, Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild is starting its 15th season of bringing cheer to the sick and lonely in charity wards of hospitals, settlement houses, old people's homes and other institutions in the city. Distribution of flowers, fresh fruits, jellies, and other delicacies to shut-ins will be started just as soon as the guild officials have completed arrangements for a voluntary delivery service to take the contributions from railroad stations to the hospitals.

All the guild's work is done by voluntary workers who make it possible for residents of the city and suburbs to share with the sick the bounty of their gardens and orchards. Suburban railroads furnish free transportation thruout the summer months for those who wish to send donations.

More than 2,000 members of 85 garden clubs coöperate with the guild each year in contributing fruits and flowers of their own and in directing the work among their neighbors who are not members of garden clubs.

The local guild is a branch of the National Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild started in New York 47 years ago. There now are branches in principal cities thruout the country. It was primarily thru the influence of the guild that the garden club movement was started and the Garden Club of America formed.

Members of Junior Ort to Offer Opera Numbers

Selections from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury" will be one of the features of the last meeting of the year of the Chicago Junior American Ort at 3:30 o'clock today in the Stevens hotel. Officers will be installed. South siders who will take office are William Graham, 7721 Phillips avenue, vice president; Dorothy Mellick, 5461 Everett avenue, recording secretary, and Cecilia Melnick, 5148 Drexel boulevard, corresponding secretary.

Voice of the South Side

EXPLAINS LACK OF SAILORS.

This is an answer to E. L. P. whose inquiry was "What's the matter with our south side youth?"

It is my opinion that there is nothing wrong with the southeast side youth. In fact, they are not allowed to sail. The instructor does not allow the boys or girls to sail, either on mere general principle or because of minor cloud formations which he believes will always bring a fierce n'easter.

Having personally associated with the group at Calumet harbor I believe that under proper supervision and competent instruction the group would soon become so large as to warrant more boats.

C. G.

ANTICIPATES ALMOST NUDE BATHERS.

Now that hot weather is here again I suppose my neighbors and I will have our traditional complaint about bathers. We live on 73d street near the lake and are therefore subjected to a parade of almost nude bathers going past our windows all day long thruout the summer. Some of them are so exposed that they've become competition for Sally Rand.

It used to be that persons were decent enough to wear bathrobes, kimonas, or pants and sweat shirts over the swimming suits, but each year it's been getting worse and we wonder when it is going to stop.

Isn't there something we can do to get an ordinance or something passed against this violation of ordinary modesty? It's the same all along the south shore.

MRS. R. L. S.

PROTESTS SMOKE IN DOLTON.

Pity me. I am a resident of Dolton and I have to put up with an abundance of black and dirty smoke which drifts in my doors and windows every evening. I guess this has been going on all winter and early spring but because of the weather we hadn't noticed the smoke which had been hanging around our homes.

It's just as tho the Dolton Chamber of Commerce had never presented that antismoke ordinance, or got it passed for fun. The trains continue to go chugging by, pouring smoke out of their stacks. Curiously enough, engineers and firemen appear to "clean up the stack" while passing main crossings or near the police stations.

EUROPE'S FIGHT NOT OURS, SAY HONOR SENIORS

But High School Grads O. K. Preparedness.

yearbook and was captain and publicity officer in the Du Sable R. O. T. C. His ambition is to emulate the career of his father, David Kellum, who is reporter and promotion manager of the Chicago Defender.

Even as a small boy James created newspapers and sold them in the neighborhood for two cents. Next year he's going to the Medill School of Journalism. He thinks we should go to war only if the Monroe Doctrine is violated and that every boy should be given the benefit of R. O. T. C. training because it "makes a man out of you."

Recently he was selected as the official sweetheart of a club of 16 girls who call themselves the "Flashy Debutantes." This was fine, says James, except that it caused no end of trouble with Emily, his No. 1 girl friend. In addition, he's a jitterbug.

Tells of Ambitions.

Bebe Jacquelyn Bibb, of 646 East 51st street, will be valedictorian at Du Sable's graduation because she has the highest average in the class. A handsome girl, she talks earnestly about her ambitions to major in chemistry and mathematics at the University of Chicago and later get her master's degree at New York university.

A career as teacher in the Chicago schools would suit her well, tho she admires tremendously the work of her father, who is a physician and surgeon. At school last year she was president of the physics and chemistry club, vice president of the French club, and treasurer of the camera club.

Extracurricularly, she is interested in camera work, interpretive dancing, bicycling, and swimming. She has two secret ambitions—a trip around the world and a Phi Beta Kappa key.

Wants to Teach French.

Pretty Cleo Surry, who is 16 years old, wants to be a French teacher at Du Sable. During the next several years she expects to attend Herzl Junior college, Fisk college in Nashville, Tenn., and Chicago Teachers college. She enjoys playing classical music on the piano, seeing historical movies, and dancing. Boys? She likes them with nice manners and nice looks. Her address is 4646 Michigan avenue.

Selected as one of Du Sable's outstanding students last spring was Frederick Lights, of 5200 Prairie avenue, president of the senior class and vice president of the student council. Frederick's grades were 11th highest in a class of 352. He plans to be a teacher and will attend the University of Illinois to major in mathematics.

Frederick is proud of a collection of 250 swing recordings but he has several other hobbies as well, including motion picture photography, swimming, mystery stories by Agatha Christie, and double features. For him the ideal girl is one who dresses correctly, gets along with other people, has a will of her own, and is an expert jitterbug.

Edited School Paper.

Heading the Hyde Park delegation of superior students was Jeanne Malstrom, of 6835 Dante avenue, who edited the school paper and maintained a perfect average for four years. She says she accomplished the latter by budgeting her time. Jeanne is going to be a teacher, but she thinks if she had enough nerve she'd like to try her hand as a girl reporter because she has enjoyed writing for the school paper.

Her pet dislike is conceited persons and she likes boys who are modest and have a variety of interests. "I'm not a jitterbug," she says, "tho seven-eights of the kids at Hyde Park are." Many of her leisure hours are spent playing classical numbers on the piano or reading biography.

Hyde Park's Marilyn Werner, of 6927 Cornell avenue, can make any kind of cookies to perfection and expects to major in home economics in college, either at Wisconsin or Michigan State. Tho she has a G-plus average to her credit, Marilyn dates three or four nights a week and likes college boys, especially the ones more than six feet tall and with blond hair. Her friends say they've never seen her when she wasn't in a hurry. This is a tribute to her active membership in a variety of organizations.

Clarinet and Saxophone.

Tho he was a member of the track team, 4A class president, and No. 1 man on the tennis team, Mordecai More's first loves are the clarinet and the saxophone, especially when he's tooting "Tuxedo Junction." He ranked in the first 10 of the senior class and is going to Northwestern university next year to study accounting.

Ability to dance, personality and good looks appeal to him in girls but he admits he hasn't found many who have all three. He doesn't believe the United States should get into the war unless the allies' cause seems hopelessly lost; he and his friends hate the thought of fighting, he says, but they'll go if it's necessary for their country's safety. Mordecai lives at 539 Brompton place.

William Davis, of 6108 Greenwood avenue, who is six feet three and 200 pounds of athlete, smiles good naturedly beneath a shock of black hair. Bill was captain and center on the Hyde Park basketball team which won the central section championship last winter and was president of the monogram club. His ambition is to go to a Big Ten school next year and make a career of coaching. He likes brunettes and prefers to take them to shows and parties, inasmuch as he can't do anything but waltz on the dance floor. He'll go to any movie that stars Tracy, Flynn or Cagney.

Is Sports Editor.

One of Wendell Phillips outstanding students is its mayor—Rudolph Duff, of 4046 South Park avenue. Rudolph also was sports editor of the paper, president of the social club, and regular right end on the football team. He plans to continue his education at Wilberforce college to prepare himself for law study in Chicago.

He is a confirmed jitterbug, and a photography fan. He is attracted by girls who are: [1] beautiful, [2] well dressed, and [3] well mannered. He also is attracted by the music of Cab Calloway. His opinion of the war situation is that we should give the allies everything but lives.

Hilbert Stewart Jr., of 433 East 42d street, Phillips' senior class president, can play seven instruments but has just one ambition in regard to a career—undertaking. First, however, he wants to be a teacher in order to finance a mortician's business.

Meanwhile he plays his instruments in such a way that classmates describe him as "wonderful," whether he's indulging in the classics or swing. Recently he gave a piano concert in the school auditorium. "We ought to help the allies in everything short of troops," he says, when you ask him about the war. "Remember, we went into the last war and found it wasn't so hot."

Stands First in Class.

The best scholar and one of the most alive girls of the Phillips senior class is Dorothy Doretha Lewis, of 3706 Ellis avenue. Dorothy, who stands first in the graduating class with an average of 94.8, is secretary of the 4B class, treasurer of the Girls' Service club, vice president of the Girls' Athletic association, and a student council executive.

With a desire to be a teacher, she'll attend Wilberforce during the next few years and major in mathematics. She's a skilled basketball player, tho in summer you'll usually find her at the 31st street beach or the Washington park pool, where she might be sketching some of her friends. She doesn't care for boys who aren't interested in bettering themselves.

Catherine Lomans, 3932 South Park avenue, say other Phillips students, is shy but "very fair" and well liked. Catherine was vice president of the senior class, the social club, and the National Honor society. She is ambitious to teach home economics in the public schools and next year she'll attend the Central Y. M. C. A. college. She says she really enjoys studying, also drawing and painting in water colors. Other favorite diversions of hers are movies and the stories of Edgar Allan Poe.

Full Back at Tilden.

Milton Emery of 937 East 43d place ranked third highest in Tilden Tech's senior class of 610 with an average of 96.0. Milton, who says he studied no more than seven hours a week, was the driving full back on Tilden's sectional football champions last fall and vice president of the lettermen's club.

He wants to go to some small college and study civil engineering. He'd much rather watch the Chicago Bears in action than go out with girls. Twenty years from now, he says, if he's retired and "taking it easy," he may consider marriage.

Frank Knutzen of 7349 Drexel boulevard has a 92.6 average to show for four year's work and was president of the National Honor society and vice president of the Tilden senior class. He'll take a course in agriculture next year at Purdue university and expects to follow in the footsteps of his father, who is a hog buyer in the stock yards.

At school he likes mathematics, chemistry, and shopwork. He also likes to play golf during his leisure time, or to take good looking brunettes to dances and parties. He doesn't see any reason why we should cross an ocean to fight in a war, but is a firm believer in preparedness.

Model Ship Builder.

So good is Tilden's Joseph Morrison as a model ship builder that he appeared on the "Hobby Lobby" radio program this spring. Joseph, who lives at 5489 Harper avenue, has made 21 model ships, from three inches to two feet in length, and some day he hopes to be designing real ships, or tall buildings. He intends to go to Armour institute to study structural engineering.

Joseph has studied his favorite subject so well already that he was master draftsman of Tilden's architectural class. He also was president of the Art and Arts club and a member of the National Honor society, ranking 25th in his class.

A woman hater, he brags about the fact that he has nveer been out with a girl and says he never will before he's 32 years old. The best book he has ever read is Ludwig's "Napoleon." About the current war he says: "If we're prepared well enough, there won't be much chance of Hitler coming over here. Let's calm down and stick to the Monroe doctrine."

Blond, easy going Elmer Foster of 2437 West 35th street, ranked 14th in the class at Tilden with an average of 93.4. He was feature editor of the school paper and president of the service club and helped to draw up the constitution of the school government. If he goes to college, he wants to study printing, especially color printing. His favorite after school occupation is collecting butterflies and insects and selling them. He also likes to go barn dancing with blue eyed blondes.

Has Highest Average.

Possessor of the highest average in the Bowen senior class is Gertrude Mortimer, 9018 Exchange avenue. Gertrude scored an average of 96.5 out of 97, possibly because she studied three hours a night and did quite a bit of outside reading.

She wants to go to Normal college so she can teach English and history some day in the public schools. She also has a secret ambition to write a novel for lasting value, tho she isn't sure she'll accomplish that inside of 20 years.

Raymond Echt of 8121 Colfax avenue has the highest average of the senior boys at Bowen. He was president of both the National Honor society and the senior honor club and treasurer of the modern history club. He intends to study a general arts course at the University of Chicago, then specialize somewhere else. In fact, he says: "I really want to study for the rest of my life."

He says he may become a doctor, tho he hasn't definitely made up his mind. A music lover, he attended the Grant park concerts three times a week last summer. He also pays attention to sports and never let a day go by this last year without indulging in some form of exercise.

He is attracted by girls who are good conversationalists and not necessarily pretty. Of the European war he says: "We should arm as much as possible but keep our troops here."

Fond of Study.

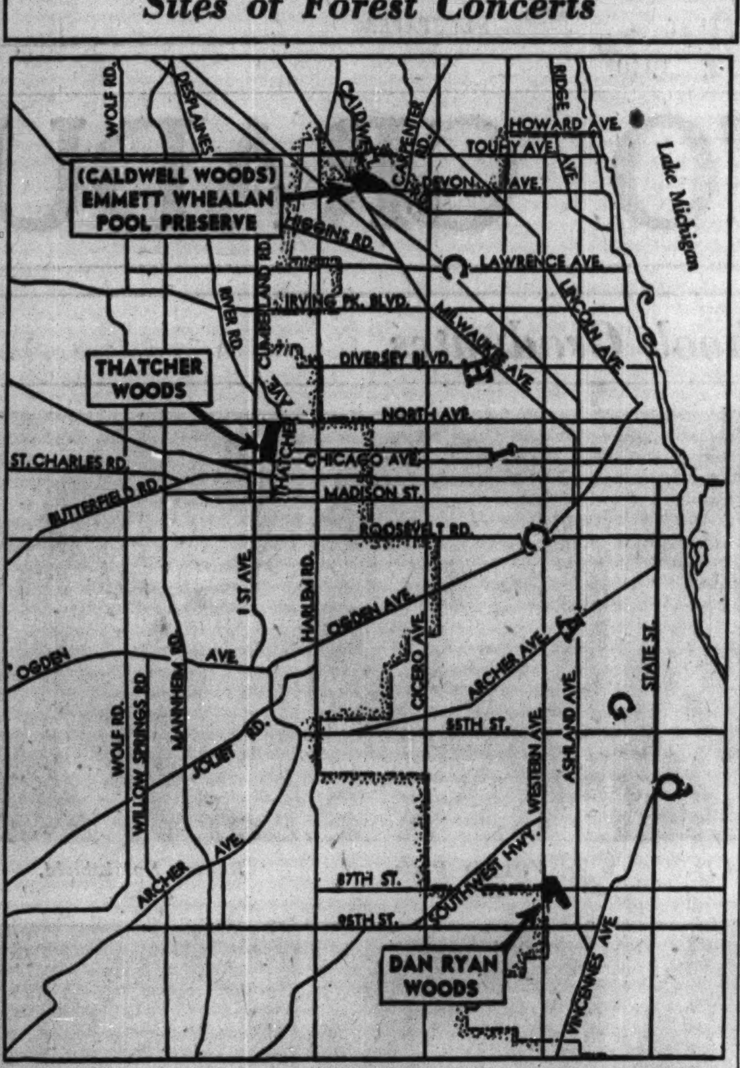
Victor Mintek, 8715 Commercial avenue, also wants to continue his studies indefinitely. "I'll probably be taking post graduate courses at the University of Chicago forever," he says. A lover of scientific subjects, he has the research worker's interest in bio-chemistry and he hopes he won't die before he has "done his bit" for science. Tho only 16 years old, he took second in the city backstroke competition twice and enjoys playing modern music, particularly Debussy, on the piano.

His average, 92.5, was second highest among the boys in his class. He only attends the best movies, has just learned to tolerate girls, and believes there is too much glamor associated with scientists in the public mind. "I know," he says, "for my father's a doctor." He believes America shouldn't get into a war unless it's endangered.

Salutatorian and second high among the senior girls at Bowen is Dorothy Wypijeski, 8226 Saginaw avenue. In class she liked English and bookkeping best; outside of class she's fond of roller-skating, ice-skating, and swimming. An omnivorous reader, she sometimes consumes three novels a week.

She's not sure what college she'll enroll in or what she'll study but she does know that for herself tall boys with a sense of humor and lots of intelligence are best. And she's "definitely not" a jitterbug.

Sites of Forest Concerts



The shaded portions of the map locate the forest preserves where choral concerts will be given this afternoon and each Sunday afternoon thru July 28. The concerts start at 5 o'clock. Platforms and canopies will be provided for the choirs and the listeners may use benches that have been provided by the forest preserve district or arrange for their own comfort on the grassy slopes of the preserves. St. Sebastian's choir will be heard at Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, this afternoon. The Greig male chorus will sing at Thatcher woods in River Forest, and the Metropolitan church choir will sing at Dan Ryan woods, Western avenue and 87th street.

STREET REPAIRS ON SOUTH SIDE TO COST $40,000

The state will pay $40,000 to repair four south side streets it was learned from Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, last week. The state highway division has approved street repairs at 33 locations at a cost of $910,750, which will be taken from the city's share of motor fuel tax collections.

The south side projects are: The 68 foot pavement on Cottage Grove avenue from 80th street to 83d street, $5,000; 70 foot pavement on Indianapolis avenue from Ewing avenue to corporate limits, $15,000; 43 foot pavement on Vincennes avenue from 89th street to 95th street, $10,000, and the 46-48 foot pavement on East 87th street from State street to South Chicago avenue, $10,000.

The program provides for adjusting drainage structures, buildings, concrete bases, and surfacing the approved locations with asphalt binder and surface courses.

81 TO GRADUATE IN FIRST JUNE CLASS AT JONES

Commercial HighClass Exercises Tuesday.

The first June graduating class at Jones Commercial High school, 607 Plymouth court, will have commencement exercises at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in Wells High school, 936 North Ashland avenue. Robert I. White, director of administrative research for the board of education, will be guest speaker.

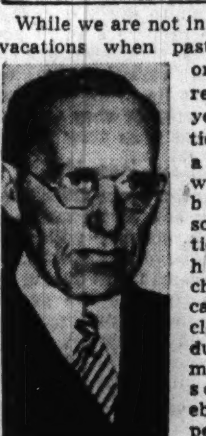
—A Religious Voice of the People—
Edited by the Rev. John Evans



The Rev. Emerson O. Bradshaw.

While we are not in favor of church vacations when pastor and people omit their regular religious duties, yet, being realistic, we admit that a vacation during which there may be a change of scenery for devotions may do no harm. Few churches in Chicagoland actually close their doors during the summer period, but social activity ebbs. During that period, Narthex and Byway will take a vacation and resume again with the aid of its helpers in mid-September.

As we take off for the summer we remind you that one important church activity is nearly ready to begin—the daily vacation schools. At least 20,000 Protestant children will enroll in 200 such schools beginning June 24, and at 35 centers thruout the city about the same number of Catholic children will be given opportunities of directed summer activities under auspices of the Catholic Youth organization, beginning early in July.

The Chicago Church federation's department of Christian education sponsors the Protestant church schools under the direction of Emerson O. Bradshaw. Dr. Bradshaw has directed a series of nine conferences for vacation school teachers at Morris Memorial chapel, 30th street and Vernon avenue, with an aggregate attendance of 1,250. Emphasis in teacher training was placed on creative work in the instruction program.

31,000 ARE DUE FOR MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

Periods Are Announced for 6th Corps Area.

Plans for the summer military training of 31,000 men have been announced by various offices of the 6th corps area, embracing Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. These are divided into four branches of training, which, with the number expected to attend during this summer, are as follows:

1. Citizens' military training camps, 4,410.
2. Reserve officers' summer camp duty, about 3,000.
3. Reserve officers' training corps summer camps for senior cadets, 1,073.
4. National Guard participation in army maneuvers, about 22,500.

Many Partly Trained.

At the same time it was estimated by the various offices that there is a total of approximately 136,000 civilians in the three states in this corps area who have had military training of one sort or another, including that given in high school.

Of these about 70,000 live in or near Chicago, due to the fact that military training is given in 27 of Chicago's 35 public high schools, the most thoro coverage of any city in the country.

The reserve officers are, of course, the best trained of civilians for military purposes. They must have had either war experience or four years of military training, and are required to attend camp for at least two weeks every four years. There are at present 13,700 reserve officers in this area, of which 4,803 live in or near Chicago.

25,141 in National Guard.

The National Guard is the other military organization of civilians. In Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, there are 25,141 national guardsmen, including officers, of whom 9,800 live in Chicagoland.

Beyond these two organized groups, there is a vast number of men from 18 years of age up who have had junior R. O. T. C. training, which does not lead to a reserve commission, or who have spent from one to four summers at a C. M. T. C. camp without receiving a commission.

No accurate record is kept of these men, but it is estimated that 52,500 students have had high school R. O. T. C. training in this corps area, of whom 34,000 now live in Chicago.

Both the R. O. T. C. and the C. M. T. C. were organized under the National Defense act of 1920. There are now in the 6th corps area eight college units, five in military academies, and 52 in high schools.

Camps for Training.

R. O. T. C. summer training will be given this summer at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek, Mich., where 576 cadets will attend; Fort Sheridan Ill., where 300 cadets will be trained, and Camp McCoy, near Sparta, Wis., where there will be 161 R. O. T. C. cadets. At Camp McCoy the six weeks period opened Friday, while at the other two it will open tomorrow. The schedule was announced by Col. John T. Rhett, R. O. T. C. officer for the 6th corps area.

The 4,410 youths between 17 and 29 years of age who will attend citizens' military training camps this summer will go to these three as well as to Camp Brady, in northeastern Michigan, Fort Snelling, Minn., and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., altho the latter two are not in this corps area. Thru last week more than 7,100 applications had been received.

Increase Is Expected.

The two weeks period for which reserve officers attend camp as one means of satisfying the requirement for 40 hours of active duty per year is taken at no uniform time and may be at any of the 6th corps area camps. An increase of several hundred over the 2,700 reserve officers who attended camp last summer is expected.

Members of the National Guard participate in the army maneuvers at Camp McCoy from Aug. 11 to 31.

GUN CLUB FINDS SITE BY CUTTING DOWN ORCHARD

Blue Pk. Group Largest on South Side.

BY JOHN T. M'CUTCHEON JR.

Winfield Roesner, who owns a farm between Tinley Park and Markham, looked on calmly one day in September, 1926, when a group of men with shotguns invaded his farm. When they put down their guns, armed themselves with axes and saws, and began to cut down his 10 acres of apple trees, he even helped them.

This attitude was not surprising, under the circumstances. Roesner was associated with these men in what later became known as the Blue Park Gun club. After several weeks of shooting with a hand trap in some woods near Oak Forest, it became evident that the group would need a permanent location and Roesner offered to lease them his apple orchard ground at 162d street and Crawford avenue.

Becomes Largest Club.

After acquiring the land and many new members, mostly from Blue Island and Tinley Park, the names of these towns were combined to give the club its name. The membership has grown to 275, the largest trap and skeet club on the south side.

The club, thru its president, Cecil Byers, of 7404 South Lowe avenue, has supported the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense reserve, the object of which is the registration of the nation's millions of amateur marksmen for action in case of an emergency.

The matter of a clubhouse was soon solved: after suitable arrangements a tractor was hitched to a neighbor's tool shed about a mile away, and in due time the club had a home. A kitchen has been installed, and members have added a porch to the building.

Open to the Public.

Since its beginning the club's facilities have been open to the public. There are now three straight traps and a skeet field, the latter being one of the first in the Chicago region. It is estimated that more than 100,000 targets are broken annually.

Shooting is done regularly at the club every Sunday thruout the year, and during the summer there are several organized shoots. On June 30 the second so-called "bacon-and-egg" shoot of the season will be held, at which some 50 persons will compete for prizes of bacon and eggs. On July 21 the club will hold its registered shoot.

Concert in Roseland.

Beverly Shea, baritone, will be soloist at the 14th annual concert of the Chapel orchestra of Roseland Mission church, 11032 Indiana avenue, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the church auditorium.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, June 17.

Now that planting is completed, care of the garden must receive continuous attention. Maintenance makes the garden no matter how small or how large it may be. This not only means intelligent cultivation but the regular mowing of the lawn, edging the borders and beds, keeping rampant growths on shrubs restricted, tying up plants needing it, care of the seedbed, and the adoption of a spraying calendar to keep all insects and disease under control. To enjoy high grade vegetables keep them growing rapidly and watch for attacks from insects. Cucumbers, tomatoes, and potatoes are all subject to insect attacks and frequently blight appears.

Tuesday, June 18.

Goldfish placed in the pool will keep down mosquito larvae, and they are an attraction to every one. It is not too late to prepare a small pool for a water lily plant. Dealers can advise suitable varieties. Do not crowd the plants by using too many in a restricted area or they will not flower as profusely as they should.

Wednesday, June 19.

The shade under some trees, such as the Norway and sugar maple, is often so dense nothing will grow under them. However, by sowing annual grasses several times during the summer the surface of the ground will appear green and inviting. Plant food also should be applied or the trees will exhaust the food supply. After the delphiniums flower cut back the flower stalk, allowing all leaves to remain. They contain much food that will return to the roots. An application of complete plant food may be made after the plants flower. If a delphinium turns yellow dig it up and examine the roots for disease; dust the roots with sulphur and replant in a new spot.

Thursday, June 20.

Transplant iris shortly after flowering and up to September. See that the soil is well drained and, if divisions are made, use comparatively large ones which are strong and become established immediately. The iris responds to good treatment. It is among the finest of all perennials for the city garden. If the peonies failed to produce as many flowers as had been expected the cause may be too deep planting or an inferior variety.

Friday, June 21.

If a bare or drab spot appears in the perennial border, small plantings of three or five floribuna roses are excellent. Pot plants can be obtained from dealers. The many hardy asters that are available enable the home gardener to select kinds that fit his particular needs. These plants are very hardy. Cutting the plants back will induce branching and give a bushier plant. Soft wood cuttings can be made now with good results. Do not disturb the foliage of bulbous plants before it turns yellow, signifying that the bulbs have ripened and are dormant. Keep newly planted shrubs and trees well watered to insure rooting.

Saturday, June 22.

Better and larger blooms on hollyhocks may be had if the flower buds are thinned. Do not neglect to shade newly planted seedlings during hot weather. Keep well watered and they will soon become established. House plants that are plunged in the shade should be watered daily to be in prime condition for use next winter. It is a good time to buy a few small pot geraniums for growing on for winter's flowering. Shift when the roots touch the sides of the pots, but do not overpot. Pinch the ends of the stems to induce branching and not allow the plants to flower until next fall. It is not too late to sow some annuals.

ENLARGED LIVING ROOM REPLACES OLD FRONT PORCH

Cooling Unit Serves Two Rooms in House.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Strong, 3846 North Kildare avenue, bought their present home with the intention of remodeling it. Much that was aging and unlovely was eliminated, and much that was modern and lovely was included in the plans and specifications.

The architects, Hooper & Nelson, 118 East 26th street, took a middle aged house, with no heritage of either beauty or appeal, and charged it drastically.

In the original home there were none-too-sturdy steps at the front leading to a large glazed porch. Steps and porch disappeared, and the entrance reappeared at the side; a change which enlarged the living room and added to its light and air. The exterior, with its fresh paint and careful structural changes, now presents a new face to the world. It has dignity and distinction.

Concealed Heating Units.

The interior was no less radically altered: Changed in layout, in equipment, and in decorative treatment.

The new living room is large, with six generous, well placed windows. Radiation was concealed, placed in the walls, thus adding still more space to the rooms. In the dining room there is indirect lighting, and a beautiful bay window with glass shelves and a glass block panel.

In the original layout the kitchen had one of the best exposures in the house, so a bedroom now occupies that space which was once culinary headquarters. Practical reasons were likewise back of a shift in position for the bathroom. [Rooms CAN be changed about in a house, once modernization is under way, and a layout which does not satisfy at all, shifted to a plan which is much more to the family taste.

The architects incorporated one ingenius plan for summer cooling of two rooms. A cooling unit was built into the wall between the dining room and a bedroom. So that during the day the unit is "turned on" to cool the dining room, and at night its direction is reversed and the bedroom enjoys its cooling comfort.

Built-in Shower.

The work of this effective remodeling was done last year. Needless to add, the kitchen was completely modernized, and walls and floors of all rooms entirely refinished and redecorated. And another cooling help was given to the bathroom in the form of a built-in shower.

These are days when we are all concerned with sundry ways of keeping cool this summer. We have already had a taste of a burning sun high overhead and heat waves shimmering from dusty roads and pavements as a foretaste of what's to come.

There are many ways of keeping cool. Some simple, others not so simple, but every effective. However, one great little life saver in a home or in a room, if we aren't ready to invest in some cooling and dehumidifying unit, is the electric fan. These fans have been the object of much research work in the last few years for the purpose of perfecting their construction, increasing their efficiency, and adding more beauty to their design. Besides all this, there are ways of using an electric fan to get the most from it.

For Lower Temperature.

For instance, if you have a bedroom with only one window, raise the window, place the fan on the sill, with its blades facing into the room. Then tilt the fan up slightly so that the air flow is across your bed, but slightly upward. In this way the fan will draw cooler outside air into the room and, in addition to creating a breeze, will also effect a little reduction in room temperature. If possible, leave the bedroom door open. If this is not possible, lower the top sash of window fou or five inches so hot air near ceiling can escape.

If your bedroom has two windows, place bed between them if possible and place your fan in the window with the blades facing outward. In this position the fan will draw cooler outside air across room and bed at the same time it exhausts the hot air from the room.

BAPTIST CHURCH IN WOODLAWN TO MARK 50TH YEAR

Pastor for 40 Years to Return for Jubilee.

The Woodlawn Baptist church, whose congregation has increased from 41 charter members to nearly 1,000 in 50 years, will celebrate its golden jubilee during the next seven days. The week of ceremonies will be under way this evening when Dr. Melbourne P. Boynton, minister for 40 years, returns to preach a sermon. The church is located at 62d street and University avenue.

Another highlight of the week will be the banquet at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening for members of the congregation and their friends. A small group of old timers will be special guests and Dr. Henry M. Cheney will be toastmaster. Mrs. J. Max Harris, 6463 Kenwood avenue, is chairman of the anniversary committee in charge of the banquet, assisted by Mrs. O. H. Runyan, Mrs. C. H. Carpenter, Dr. E. M. Harrison, current pastor, and W. S. Morehead.

Climax Next Sunday.

Climax of the celebration will be a sermon of dedication by Dr. Harrison at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning and the candlelight communion service in the evening with a program by the congregation's young people based on the theme, "Our Church of the Future." Denominational and community night will be held Friday evening at which Dr. A. M. McDonald will give an address and greetings will be given. Mr. Morehead will preside.

The church was organized on June 19, 1890, as the Woodlawn Park Baptist church. In 1899 it was changed to the Lexington Avenue Baptist church and 14 years later it was given its present name. The Rev. W. C. Larned, the first pastor, was succeeded after two years by the Rev. W. R. Wood, who served for five years. It was during his pastorate that the present structure was built.

See Big Expansion.

After the Rev. J. W. Rees had presided for a few months in 1897 Dr. Boynton was called from San Francisco. During his long and distinguished tenure the original wooden building was replaced by the present brick structure in 1902. In 1911 the auditorium was enlarged and in 1924 a four story Bible school building was added. Dr. Harrison succeeded to the pastorate in 1937.

Church Program.

Maria society of St. Matthew Lutheran church, 8000 South Aberdeen street, will sponsor an entertainment in the church basement at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Hayes is paying Joe's expenses for the New York trip.

All honors in the finals went to the southwest and south side of the city. Thomas O'Shea, 14, of 6641 South University avenue; Woodlawn member, was second. Bob Roberts, 13, of 7014 South Wood street, member of Ogden Hill, took third, and fourth place went to Ray Meagher, 8 years old, of 6408 South Marshfield avenue.

MUTUAL TELLS PLANS TO COVER 2 CONVENTIONS

Host of Experts to Give Complete Reports.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Plans for the most complete coverage of the national political conventions in radio history were announced yesterday by the management of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

The Republican national convention will be held in Philadelphia, starting Monday, June 24. The Democratic convention will open in the Chicago Stadium, starting July 15.

The Mutual network lineup carrying the two convention broadcarts will include more than 130 stations. The convention proceedings will also be shortwaved to the world thru WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many Special Features Planned.

Four of the major stations of the Mutual network will contribute their expert broadcasters, commentators, analysts, and special events men for the convention broadcasts.

Besides the actual broadcasting from the convention halls the W-G-N-Mutual audiences will be treated to many airings of sidelight attractions of the two conventions. These programs will originate in railroad stations, hotels, and other points where events of interest and importance occur.

Stations contributing experts who will be engaged in presenting the convention broadcasts are W-G-N, Chicago; WOR, Newark, N. Y.; WFIL, Philadelphia, and WOL, Washington.

Ryan, Henning Head List.

Heading the list of experts to be heard on the convention broadcasts are Quin Ryan of W-G-N, who has broadcast the three previous pairs of conventions of both parties.

Other broadcasters on the Mutual staff include Arthur Sears Henning, chief the the Chicago Tribune's Washington news bureau and an internationally known political writer for more than three decades; Arthur M. Evans, Tribune political reporter; Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual's newscaster from Washington; Gabriel Heatter, New York commentator; Wythe Williams, editor of Greenwich Time, who is equally at home whether analyzing national or international events, and Dave Driscoll, special events director of WOR.

Each of these broadcasters will be heard from the Republican convention in Philadelphia and all but Gabriel Heatter also from the Democratic convention in Chicago.

50 Microphones Available.

The technical facilities for covering the meetings and news events will be handled by staff engineers of W-G-N, WOR, and WFIL, under the direction of J. R. Poppele, chief engineer at WOR who will direct the broadcasts from Philadelphia, and Carl Meyers, chief of the W-G-N engineering staff who will be in charge in Chicago.

More than 50 microphones will be available in the convention halls to pick up the broadcasts. The "mikes" will be strategically located to cover every section of the halls so that the principals in the convention on the platform as well as all of the members in the state delegations on the floor may be heard if they wish to speak.

Mutual also will have portable ultra high frequency transmitters which broadcasters can carry about the halls in making pickups.

Parabolic microphones, which pick up sounds in a concave bowl and reflect them directly into the microphones will be used to pick up the sounds of the crowds in the convention halls. The master broadcasting booths at both conventions, where the chief announcers will work, will be located immediately behind speakers' platforms in the Philadelphia and Chicago halls.

Driscoll, Schreiber in Charge.

Dave Driscoll, chief of WOR special events division, will be the director of the broadcasts originating from the Republican convention in Philadelphia. Frank P. Schreiber, chief of W-G-N's special events department, will direct the Democratic convention broadcasts.

Mutual will establish a traffic control division at each of the conventions and Adolph Opfinger, chief of the network's traffic bureau, will be on hand to schedule broadcasts to the network as fast as the news events become available. Mutual will stand ready to clear scheduled programs to provide listeners with every event of importance from both conventions.

Larry Clinton to Play on W-G-N Show of Week

Larry Clinton and his orchestra will be heard on W-G-N's "Show of the Week" from 5:30 to 6:00 p. m. today. Clinton is currently playing in the Hotel New Yorker. Terry Allen and Ford Leary will sing.

W-G-N Guest

Elissa Landi, glamorous star of the stage and screen, will be the guest star of Friday night's "Fifth Row Center" program on W-G-N and the Mutual network. Fifth Row Center is heard at 7 p. m. Fridays.

CHOOSE WINNERS IN CARRIE CARTER TALENT SEARCH

Massachusetts, Oregon Women Finalists.

Thelma Hansen of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Ethel Chase Christie of Eugene, Ore., have been selected as the national winners in the Carrie Carter talent search by a board of judges consisting of Lillian Gish, Mona Kent, William A. Bacher, Clarence M. Shapiro, and Don Moore.

The announcement ended a two month search, during which more than 10,000 applicants were auditioned thruout the entire country. Each of the 84 stations, including W-G-N, carrying the Carters of Elm Street show held individual auditions. The recorded voices of the semifinalists were sent to Chicago, where the final judging took place. The objective was to find one actress between the ages of 15 and 25 and another of 25 or over. None of the contestants were auditioned for a particular rôle, but on their dramatic ability only.

Writer of Radio Plays.

Pretty 20 year old Thelma Hansen of Chelmsford, a suburb of Lowell, has been interested in dramatics since her first grade school days and has taken part in numerous amateur school and church plays. She is an honor graduate of the Chelmsford High school. She is employed by a beverage concern.

Miss Hansen's ambition is to be an actress either in radio, on the stage, or in the movies. Her amateur experience on the stage has been in such plays as "Holiday," "Stage Door," and "The Late Christopher Bean." She has also been successful in amateur painting, as well as having three radio plays produced.

Husband Killed in War.

Mrs. Christie is a widowed high school English teacher. She was born in Minnesota and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and of the University of Oregon. Her husband, a Canadian flying officer, was killed in action during the last war. She is a charter member of Eugene's Very Little theater.

Miss Gish is currently appearing as the mother in "Life with Father," now in its 20th week at Chicago's Blackstone theater. Miss Kent is the author of the Carters of Elm Street.

William A. Bacher, formerly of Hollywood, is in charge of all programs and production at W-G-N. Clarence M. Shapiro is a talent scout for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Don Moore is associate editor and columnist for Movie and Radio Guide.

Both Miss Hansen and Mrs. Christie will come to Chicago, will be quartered at the Stevens hotel, and will receive a rôle in the Carters of Elm Street for two weeks at an American Federation of Radio Artists' salary of $112.50 per week. All expenses will be assumed by the sponsors. The Carters show is aired over the Mutual network at 12:45 p. m. Mondays thru Fridays.

Italy's Entry Into War, Topic of Review Stand

Italy's entry into the war will be discussed on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand by William M. McGovern, professor of political science, and Irving Pflaum, from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m., today on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Anticipating Premier Mussolini's war decclaration, the Reviewing Stand announced its subject last Sunday as "South of the Swastika." Pflaum and McGovern will review the path Italy took into the conflict and will comment on the effect of Italy's entry on the final outcome of the war.

ELISSA LANDI TO STAR ON W-G-N IN SPY RING PLAY

Philips Holmes to Play Male Lead Friday.

Elissa Landi, glamorous young stage and screen actress, will return to the Fifth Row Center program to play the star rôle in the play, "Enemies Within," next Friday. The drama will be broadcast in the main audience studio of W-G-N, from 7 to 7:30 p. m., over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Featured with Miss Landi will be Philips Holmes, movie favorite.

Miss Landi's last appearance on W-G-N was on March 31, when she was featured in the play, "The Secret Glory."

In next Friday's Fifth Row Center drama, she will play the rôle of a girl reporter who uncovers a foreign spy ring in an American city. Cast in the part of Lorna Carroll, the reporter, she is sent by her newspaper to cover a story involving the shooting of a policeman.

In the course of investigation, the girl reporter discovers the hideout of the foreign agents. Holmes plays the rôle of William B. Douglas, a radio special events commentator who aids the reporter in combating the spy ring.

The play was written by Blair Walliser who will direct the show.

Miss Landi's most recent film successes were the "Count of Monte Cristo," "The Thirteenth Chair," and "After the Thin Man." Prior to making American pictures, Miss Landi was a European favorite and appeared in films in London, Paris, Berlin and in Sweden. Her first Broadway appearance was as Catherine in Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms" in 1931.

Considered one of the most versatile figures in the stage and motion picture world, Miss Landi speaks four languages, has written several novels, plays, poems and short stories, and is a veteran globe-trotter.

Holmes is the son of Taylor Holmes, the stage comedian. He was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., and received his education at Princeton, Trinity college, and also studied in Paris. Holmes is best remembered for his work in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," "The Criminal Code," "An American Tragedy," and "Dinner at Eight."

Supporting Miss Landi and Holmes will be Don Allen and a cast of outstanding Chicago radio actors. Musical background will be provided by the W-G-N orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

JOE'S JAMBOREE BEGINS ON W-G-N NEXT SATURDAY

"Jolly Joe's Junior Jamboree," a program designed to bring out the talents of young entertainers, will start on W-G-N at 9:00 a. m. next Saturday and will be heard every Saturday thereafter.

Featuring Jolly Joe Kelly, a radio star of many years, the program will act as a showcase for child talent.

Any child that can speak a piece, sing a song, imitate animals or famous people, tap dance or play a harmonica, ukulele or any home made instrument, is eligible to take part in the show. Merely address a letter to Jolly Joe, W-G-N, Chicago, giving name and address, age and talent.

THE CHALLENGE OF CHILDREN MIDDAY TOPIC

"The Challenge of the Children" is the suggested topic for the W-G-N Midday Service for the coming week, June 17 thru 21. The program is broadcast daily except Saturday and Sunday over W-G-N at 12:35 p. m. under the direction of Dr. John L. Dickson. Speakers for the week:

Tuesday—Nellie M. Wager, Baptist Missionary Training school.
Wednesday—Prof. Robert Worth Frank, Presbyterian Theological seminary.
Thursday—Frank A. Lindhorst, Board of Education of the Methodist church.

Mantle Selects Ten Most Satisfying Plays of the Season

'Little Foxes' Best Theater Fare of '39-'40

By Cecil Smith.

[Last week this column was devoted to a résumé of the Chicago dramatic season from June 1 to Dec. 31, 1939. Today the résumé is concluded, with a survey of loop theatrical activity between Jan. 1 and May 31, 1940.]

Early January brought three highly publicized openings. Constance Bennett, eager to try her wings in the freer air of the legitimate stage after a prolonged experience exclusively in the movies, undertook to revive Noel Coward's "Easy Virtue." Altho her press agent did everything in his power to pretend that "Easy Virtue" was a new play, or at least a revised version, it proved in effect to be much older than its actual chronological age would suggest. On the three dimensional stage Miss Bennett evidently was fully at ease, and despite flashes of histrionic power she gave herself away as a tyro. Her cast profited from the presence of the capable Viola Roache, who later returned in "The Philadelphia Story," and Richard Ainley, a well trained British leading man who appeared here for the first time.

"Hot Mikado," arriving at the Auditorium on the very night of Miss Bennett's opening at the Selwyn, could lay no claim to novelty after the original swing "Mikado" of the Federal theater. It was strikingly dressed, however, in loudly imaginative costumes by Nat Karson. And in the middle of the second act along came Bill Robinson in a gold suit and a gold derby, to hold his audience breathless with the marvelous economy and precision of his tap dancing. On the whole, the production was more typically Broadway in its outlook than its WPA predecessor, and, for all its smooth direction and good looks, less fresh and spontaneous.

• • •

"Abe Lincoln in Illinois," one of the most thought-provoking plays of the year, on Jan. 8 began a stay at the Grand Opera house which stretched out into 12 weeks of robust business. This was the longest run attained by any serious drama in Chicago since 1929. Raymond Massey handled the rôle of the young Lincoln as naturally and simply as if he had been born to be the mouthpiece of Lincoln's personal philosophy. That philosophy, of course, has become so completely a part of the texture of middle western idealism that Robert Sherwood's dramatic manipulation of it found a deep and eager response in the Chicago audience. "Abe Lincoln of Illinois" admittedly is not a great play, but it is an exceedingly skilful and moving one, and its Chicago engagement was well timed to coincide with the growing demand for a reënunciation of American ideals.

A new musical, "Three After Three," was shortly afterward offered to this city before being taken to New York. The producers had the bright idea of providing a vehicle for the tantalizing and winsome little French movie star, Simone Simon. They surrounded her with other talented folk, such as Mary Brian, Mitzi Green, Jack Whiting, and Frances Williams, and threw in a number of less talented ones for good measure. Pert Mlle. Simon was charming enough, but nobody had supplied her or any one else with any material. The show was costumed and set with an excess of economy, and with liberal reclamation of items that had obviously been used before. [A revised version of this musical finally reached New York two weeks ago with Simone Simon and Mary Brian replaced by Kitty Carlisle and Betty Lawford.]

• • •

Scarcely more tonic was a farce of unashamed banality called "Thanks for My Wife," written by Alan Dinehart and a few others [four others, just to be sure none of the oldest chestnuts in the field of repartee were forgotten]. Mr. Dinehart, Lyle Talbot, and Glenda Farrell, by recourse to a large array of stock devices, extracted such humor as they could from their uncompromising script.

"Life with Father," as everybody recognized from the first performance onward, was and still is the best American comedy to reach the stage since "You Can't Take it with You." Indeed, I am of the opinion that it is much more delightful than the Kaufman-Hart opus, and I am still struggling to understand why it received neither the Pulitzer prize nor the New York Drama Critics' award. It can safely be said that any one who does not enjoy "Life with Father" probably cannot enjoy the theater at all. Happily, the comedy is still available to Chicagoans at the Blackstone theater, where it is being played by its superlative cast.

• • •

The next items on the calendar were less epoch-making. The Mummers, a courageous Chicago group, brought forward "Night Must Fall," but the performance was not quite as impressive as the Mummers thought it was, so that they had to charge their lack of profits off to professional experience. "Night Must Fall" deserved much more praise, however, than the next entrant, a thin and unstimulating affair with lots of plushy girls, designated "Earl Carroll's Hollywood Revue."

In the middle of Lent Helen Hayes and Philip Merivale placed before us Ben Hecht's and Charles MacArthur's courtroom comedy drama, "Ladies and Gentlemen." The play languished here, as elsewhere, because it was not a sufficient challenge to Miss Hayes' notable ability.

At Eastertide Cornelia Otis Skinner arrived for a week of solo dramas which would have attracted more attention if she had offered something new. She was followed into the Selwyn by Paul Muni in Maxwell Anderson's "Key Largo." This brooding tragedy aroused a good deal of controversy among playgoers. Some attributed to it an epic emotional and intellectual quality. Others, among whom I found myself, dissented heartily, calling the author's thinking turgid and unresolved, and feeling that a playwright, no matter how high minded, ought to pay a little attention to the externals of good play construction.

• • •

When Katharine Cornell returned in April for an additional fortnight in "No Time for Comedy," she found that she should have stayed longer in October, for interest had by now become too tenuous to support her well. She turned the Grand Opera house over to "The Streets of Paris," a crackerjack of a lowbrow revue, packed with merriment, adorned by the glittering Carmen Miranda, and lifted to a high level of comedy by Bobby Clark. The lure of quick money at the New York fair led the management to withdraw the show before it was fairly started here.

Meanwhile, "Tropical Pinafore" had opened under local auspices, and had failed to repeat the sensation of the "Swing Mikado." Its pace was too placid and its general technical production was too subprofessional to allow it to live long, in spite of the excellent colored singers in its cast.

Katharine Hepburn enjoyed an undisputed success in Philip Barry's "The Philadelphia Story." Sometimes the performers were hard to hear, because they went too fast, after a year of playing, and talked thru the laughter of the audience. Just the same, the cast was one of the year's best ensembles, and the engagement was a pleasant one.

Since New York judgment has vetoed the Laurence Olivier-Vivien Leigh "Romeo and Juliet," I shall not reopen an old discussion at this time beyond remarking again that the virtues of sincerity and eagerness shone brightly thru a cumbersome, overloaded, underdirected performance. "Romeo and Juliet" was not what Mr. Olivier and Miss Leigh hoped, but I still maintain that it was more effective than its subsequent New York notices would imply.

• • •

The most memorable performance of the season came near the very end, when Tallulah Bankhead, Patricia Collinge, Frank Conroy, and a group of exceptional associates brought Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes" to Chicago. The play unhappily arrived just as the European stalemate turned into a real war, and its rather savage subject matter provided too little release for a disturbed public. The greatest single disappointment of the season is the fact that "The Little Foxes" held on only six weeks to moderate attendance.

The season's last première was Clare Boothe's "Margin for Error," performed by a company that should not have played on the road at a box office scale higher than that charged for the first company in New York. Miss Boothe's anti-Nazi wisecracks sounded trivial in the face of immediate reality, and the comedy did not succeed.

• • •

And so ends the saga of the 1939-'40 theater season. Now it is time to look ahead to the summer and fall, with their promises of such varied items as Al Jolson's new musical, James Thurber's and Elliott Nugent's comedy, "The Male Animal"; the Rodgers and Hart musical comedy, "Too Many Girls"; the Playwrights' production of the late Sidney Howard's "Madam, Will You Walk?" with Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Alfred Lunt, and Lynn Fontanne in Robert Sherwood's "There Shall Be no Night," sponsored jointly by the Playwrights' company and the Theater Guild; "The Time of Your Life," by William Saroyan; Nancy Hamilton's and Morgan Lewis' revue, "Two for the Show"; Franchot Tone in "The Fifth Column," by Ernest Hemingway and Benjamin F. Glazer, and many other plays that will materialize as surely as day follows night.

Rehearsals are under way for "Hold on to Your Hats," the new musical comedy which should brighten Chicago's loop when it opens at the Grand Opera house on July 7. The show will bring Al Jolson back to the stage after his extended stay in Hollywood, and for co-stars he will have Martha Raye, Ruby Keeler, and Jack Whiting. Miss Raye is a newcomer to the stage, but Miss Keeler was kept busy in Ziegfeld extravaganzas until she, too, entered the films. Mr. Whiting was here only a few months ago in "Three After Three."

On the extended list of supporting players we find Lionel Stander, Bert [The Mad Russian] Gordon, Arnold Moss, Gil Lamb, George Church, Margaret Irving, Jinx Faulkenberg, Sid Cassel, the Vass family, the Radio Aces, and the all too briefly labeled Way-Out-West-Where-the-East-Begins Girls. Guy Bolton, Matt Brooks, and Eddie Davis are responsible for the book, which treats of dude ranches and radio singers, and E. Y. Harburg and Burton Lane have contributed the lyrics and music. The entire production will be supervised by Georgie Hale, assisted by Edgar MacGregor as book director and Catherine Littlefield as dance choreographer. Raoul Pene DuBois, who did such a good job for "One For the Money," will design the costumes and sets.

Gertrude Gunter and Alan Peters have taken over the leading rôles of "The Lady Is Right," the Chicago Repertory group's current original musical show. The last three performances will be given tonight, next Saturday and Sunday nights at Forester's theater, 1016 North Dearborn street.

Residents of Milwaukee are rallying around that city's theater committee of the Society of Allied Arts in its attempt to create in Milwaukee a theatrical producing center. Weekly luncheons in the interest of the project are reputedly well attended, and the list of subscribers is swiftly growing. As stated before on these pages the organization proposes to put on six plays—a possible sequence being one by Shaw, one by Shakespeare, a foreign play, a typically American play, and two new works—performed by a professional, nuclear company with eminent actors and actresses in leading rôles. Vladimir Rosing is at present consultant director for the committee.

Joan Blondell.

Statements that "Good-by to Love," a comedy by Sheldon Davis, starring Joan Blondell, will come to Chicago following its present west coast engagements continue to be made, altho as yet without confirmation by local offices. The play is reported to be [a] the story of a chorus girl who decides that she desires the ease and quiet of a Park avenue penthouse, and [b] a revised, streamlined version of "Up in Mabel's Room."

On Wednesday evening the Port Washington Summer playhouse, Port Washington, Wis., will open its second season with George S. Kaufman's and Edna Ferber's comedy, "The Royal Family." Julie Cavendish will be played by Margaret Joyce, who, as Peggy Joyce, played leading rôles in the Chicago Federal theater productions. The performances will run nightly thru Sunday, starting at 8:15 o'clock. The playhouse is located on United States highway 141, 25 miles north of Milwaukee on the shores of Lake Michigan.

RUBY RETURNS TO STAGE

Ruby Keeler finds herself dancing and singing on the stage once more in the musical comedy, "Hold On to Your Hats," due in the Grand Opera house on July 7.

Finds Quality of Productions Above Normal

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special].—Three out of four plays produced on Broadway last season were failures by the box office count. And yet the average quality of the theater entertainment was several degrees better than usual.

Selecting the 10 most satisfying plays from a list of 80-odd, I discovered seven comedies and only three dramas of definitely serious import. These latter were Robert Sherwood's "There Shall Be No Night," Maxwell Anderson's "Key Largo," and Sidney Kingsley's "The World We Make."

Howard Lindsay's and Russel Crouse's "Life With Father," James Thurber's and Elliott Nugent's "The Male Animal," William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," George Kaufman and Moss Hart's "The Man Who Came To Dinner," Samson Raphaelson's "Skylark," and Paul Osborn's "Morning's at 7" were the comedies.

Clare Boothe's "Margin for Error" strikes in between, being what the producers advertised as a "comedy melodrama." There was, however, more comedy than melodrama in those scenes that produced the greatest audience satisfaction in Miss Boothe's play.

• • •

Robert E. Sherwood.

My favorite statistician figures that there were 25 profitable ventures. Fourteen of these were heavy money-makers, which is a better record than has been achieved the last several seasons. Box offices may have been helped by the support of World's Fair visitors, and, in the case of the more popular successes, they probably were. Everybody is keen to see the hits.

Mr. Sherwood's story of the invasion of Finland, "There Shall Be No Night," was a late and dramatic entrant in the list. Writing this magnificent drama with feverish enthusiasm, after the idea had been stirred in his mind by listening to a broadcast from Helsingfors last spring, Sherwood delivered the typed manuscript to Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne the night they concluded their season's work.

Being ardent sympathizers with the Finnish cause, Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne decided on the train that was taking them to their Wisconsin farm, where they had planned to rest thru the summer, that they must return immediately to the stage. The new drama was a challenge to their interest in humanity.

Within a few weeks they were back rehearsing "There Shall Be No Night" in New York. They swept on to a first night that was made supremely impressive by an attitude of sympathetic understanding on the part of the audience, and they have played to a succession of deeply moved crowds ever since.

• • •

The contest of the comedies earlier in the season was interesting. Raphaelson's "Skylark," with Gertrude Lawrence, was the first to arrive. The Lawrence hit was resounding. A week later the Kaufman-Hart "The Man Who Came to Dinner" arrived. This is the piece in which the satirical rogues, who are its authors, take the character of Alexander Woollcott apart and expose it to the view of all and sundry.

It was suspected at the time that the appeal of this play might be limited to those familiar with Mr. Woollcott's petulant irascibilities, but it was soon discovered that the comedy values had been built so well that any good comedian could play it.

In New York Monty Woolley had the Woollcottian rôle. In Chicago Clifton Webb played it. On the west coast Mr. Woollcott himself took a fling at it and was hugely successful until his heart kicked up so much resistance he could no longer ignore it. While Mr. W. was laid up for two days, Mr. Kaufman in person stepped into the rôle. The author-actor—so Claudia Morgan tells me, and she played opposite him—was a grand success, even with only an hour's rehearsal.

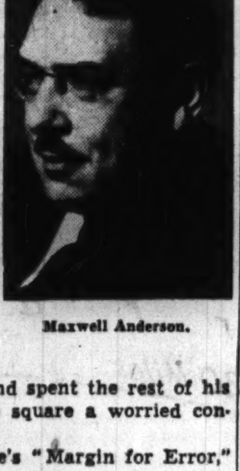
• • •

Ten days after "The Man Who Came to Dinner," William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," struck town. Again audience reaction was immediate and favorable. Saroyan is a rebellious and undisciplined newcomer among the dramatists, but he does believe earnestly that he has something to say in the theater, and he is confident that he has a fresh and agreeable way of saying it. Both the New York Drama Critics' circle and the committee that awards the Pulitzer prize for the year's best play of American authorship agreed with Mr. Saroyan this year. "The Time of Your Life" was given both major prizes.

Two weeks after this event, the Lindsay-Crouse "Life With Father," which had two years in preparation, was produced with a veritable crash of approval. Now the comedy contest was on in earnest, with everybody, particularly the ticket speculators, happy.

So eager were early playgoers to see the successes that they rather shamelessly neglected a tender and in many ways superior entrant, which was Paul Osborn's "Morning's at 7." In this comedy all the characters are in their 60s or 70s, save the juveniles, who are a mere 40. The story is a wisp of a tale involving domestic harmonies and inharmonies that were pleasantly amusing, but never very hearty. Beautifully played by a carefully selected cast, "Morning's at 7" made many friends, but just naturally faded away in the competition after 44 performances.

Comedy excitement died down thru the holidays, when it should have been at its liveliest, but with the new year it took on new life with the production of the Thurber-Nugent "The Male Animal." In its laughter count this story of a timid college professor who is accused of being a communist became runner-up to the champion "Life With Father," and continued in that position until the season's end.



Maxwell Anderson.

Mr. Anderson's "Key Largo," which later was sent on tour with Paul Muni as its star, was also inspired by war and a normal pacifist's reaction to war's character-warping influence. Written largely in verse, it told of an American volunteer in Spain who weakened and deserted in the face of certain defeat and spent the rest of his life trying to square a worried conscience.

Miss Boothe's "Margin for Error," based on the experiment of a mayor of a large American city who sent a guard of Jewish policemen to protect a particularly offensive Nazi consul, is the first anti-Nazi play that has scored anything like a normal success. This may be because Miss Boothe's sense of proportion saves her from indulging an unreasoning prejudice that defeats so many propaganda dramas.

• • •

Mr. Kingsley's "The World We Make" combined a Belasco realism in setting with a Kingsley realism in writing. The result was a drama of somewhat arbitrary situations, worked out with effective sincerity. The heroine escapes from a sanitarium in which she had been pronounced cured of a mental obsession brought on by the death of a brother and the constant quarreling of her parents. She finds a job in a laundry and in her loneliness accepts the protection of a fellow laundry worker. Thru her life with him she regains her poise and a healthy outlook on life.

The Kingsley play is burdened with a few of the standard situations of romantic drama, but these were treated with a fresh and honest attack and were well played. It ran thru 80 performances and then, having been sold for pictures, was withdrawn. Margo of the films scored a success as the emotional heroine and topped her performance in "Winterset" a few seasons back.

These are 10 interesting products of a typical Broadway season. I shall later encase digests of them between covers and issue them as the drama's annual year book.

Sidney, Adler Co-Star.

Sylvia Sidney and Luther Adler will be co-starred in S. N. Behrman's "No Time for Comedy" for the opening production of the drama festival at Kirby theater, Amherst college, starting June 24. Edith Van Cleve will be the director.

RHYTHMS IN RHUMBA

The Colony club's reputation as a mecca for devotees of Latin rhythms now rests upon the active shoulders of Fantasia, who leads her Rhumboleros nightly in a festival of tango, conga, and rhumba music. Carl Ravazza's orchestra is the featured attraction.

[Bruno of Hollywood Photo.]

Vaudeville

Patricia Ellis.

Bill Bardo and his orchestra make their first appearance in a local theater at the Oriental. Sharing the spotlight is Patricia Ellis, a young movie star, whose busy career belies her age. Other performers on hand are Eddie White, Alexander Santos, Doris Claes, and Leslie Davis. "My Favorite Wife," the heralded comedy with Irene Dunne and Cary Grant, is on the screen.

The one and only Ethel Waters heads the stage show at the Chicago theater this week. She has few equals in the realm of popular singing, while her recent excursion into straight drama in "Mamba's Daughters" was an extraordinary success. Another important feature on the bill is Jack Cole, who appears with his Balinese Dancers. Clyde Hager, Franklyn D'Amore, and the Chicago theater ballet round out the list of entertainers. The screen show offers "Torrid Zone," with Ann Sheridan, Pat O'Brien, and James Cagney.

A one time quarter back at Rutgers university, Ozzie Nelson is now the popular leader of "young America's favorite orchestra." Leader and band are in evidence in the stage presentation of the State-Lake theater, where he is assisted by Roseanne Stevens, Don Cummings, the Three Toppers, Barton and Stone. The film is "Gangs of the City," with Lloyd Nolan and Lola Lane.

Marian Miller, the "Queen of the Quiver," is back at the Rialto theater, performing in the company of Marie Cord, Claire Scott, and other beauties. Charles Country and Harry Clexx continue to contribute the comedy. "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady" is the current picture.

Prize Song Contest.

Announcement has been made of the fourth annual prize song competition sponsored by the Chicago Singing Teachers guild for the W. W. Kimball company prize of $100. This year the composer will be allowed to choose his own text, which must be secular, but which may be prose, blank, or rhymed verse. The period during which manuscripts should be submitted will last from Oct. 1 thru Oct. 15. Before that time rules governing the contest can be had by writing to Walter Allen Stults, president, P. O. Box No. 694, Evanston, Ill. Previous winners have been "Evening" by Edward Menges, "Longing" by Helen Benner, and "A Psalm of Praise" by Raymond McFeeters. As usual the guild will publish the winning song.

Value of Ideas Vital to High School Pupils

By the Rev. John Evans.

High school students who regard units, credits, marks, reviews, and assignments as just so many mental hurdles to be cleared between enrollment and graduation will be interested in Bulletin No. 31 published last week by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning. They will read there that genuine education consists not in a sequence of obstacles, but in sequence of controled thought.

"An Experiment in Responsible Learning," the bulletin's title, describes a three year plan, successfully carried out by the coöperation of three high schools in Pennsylvania, which is intended to replace the arbitrary test, usually dominating the pupil's mind, with an interest in the meaning of ideas.

"Conventional schooling in American high schools," explains the bulletin, "consists in a standard series of items to be executed, more or less, well against a time schedule. A true thought sequence no sooner gets under way in a pupil's mind than it is interrupted and must give place to a similar start with another teacher in another subject in order to convince the school administration that the pupil is progressing evenly on all fronts—a thing the human mind rarely, if ever, does."

• • •

The result of this conventional schooling is that the activity which is most critical in mental growth—the getting things thought out and their connections established — is chronically absent. The Pennsylvania inquiry, as proposed by the Carnegie Foundation, consisted in finding a procedure to correct the idea in the pupil's mind that education was nothing more than getting by with assignments and to inculcate instead a healthy interest in the value and meaning of ideas.

"A situation was required which, by its very terms, should keep the pupil aware that the important objects of education are:

"1. To understand as the result of knowledge, and

"2. To apply understanding with the best effect.

"The more nearly a school can incorporate this point of view in its methods the more it will do for a pupil; merely preaching it while doing the opposite is futile."

So much for the purpose of the plan, according to the bulletin, to accustom a pupil to a "progressive habituation to useful ideas!"

• • •

The fundamental innovation consisted in making a teacher selected in any given field, say English, responsible for directing all the English group thru the entire three year period. While each pupil was to work uninterruptedly in every field thruout the three years, his study in each field was to be so related to his total achievement as to suit his comparative ability in that field.

"In the last year a pupil might have two group meetings in one subject and eight in another," the bulletin mentions as an example, "but in either, whatever he did in a subject was to be devoted, not to doing poorly what another did well, but to unifying and making significant in his mind the particular three year crop of ideas in that area which seemed likely to make the largest contribution to his own permanent equipment."

School and college education is now largely identified in the pupil's mind with "hasty, undigested information, quickly absorbed and quickly lost," but under this plan, and the charted results at the end of the bulletin prove it to be true, the pupil "gets his concept of what he considers real knowledge, together with involuntary admiration for it which every human being possesses, solely thru his own observation."

The pupils selected for the project numbered 140, of which 78 were girls and 62 were boys. The basis of selection was considered to be fitness to profit by the freer type of study proposed, together with the pupil's expressed intention to proceed to college.

Three members of the University of Chicago faculty were recipients of the university's $1,000 prizes awarded annually for the best teaching of undergraduate students.

Dr. James L. Cate, specialist in the economic and commercial history of the middle ages, is a native of Little Rock, Ark. He joined the faculty 10 years ago and was made assistant professor in 1936.

Dr. Paul D. Voth, director of the introductory course in botany, is a graduate of the university and joined its faculty in 1932. Two years ago he was exchange professor in botany at Cornell university, and has made special study of the plants and rainfall in the Panama Canal zone.

Dr. Ralph G. Sanger is associate editor of the American Mathematical Monthly. He also is a graduate of the university, and was appointed assistant professor last September, coming to Chicago from the University of Wisconsin in 1928.

"The purpose of the award," said Dr. Robert M. Hutchins at the summer convocation in Rockefeller Memorial chapel, "is to interest teachers in training not only scholars and research workers, but also young men and women for intelligent and public spirited participation and leadership in civic, business, and professional life."

Warner Bros Convention

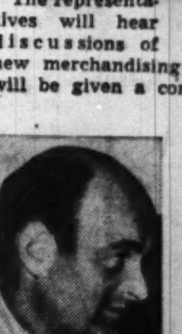
Albert Warner.

More than 150 district representatives and branch managers of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., from southern and western states are expected in Chicago today for the three day annual sales convention of the company, which will be held in the Blackstone hotel, beginning tomorrow.

Three New York executives of the motion picture company, including Maj. Albert Warner, vice president and treasurer and one of the four founders of the company, will speak at various sessions of the convention. The other eastern executives are Gradwell L. Sears, vice president and sales manager of the corporation, who will announce the new Warner Bros. sales policy for 1940-'41, and Charles Einfeld, vice president in charge of publicity and advertising.

Gradwell Sears.

The representatives will hear discussions of new merchandising sales plans and will be given a complete outline of the Warner Bros. production schedule and promotion plans for the coming season. Problems of the theater owners will be presented by the men in the field.



Charles Einfeld.

Ben Kalmenson of Chicago, western and southern sales manager, will preside over the convention sessions. In addition to addresses by the three eastern executives, Carl Leserman, executive assistant to Mr. Sears, will speak on merchandising problems and methods.

'Oscars' for Music

Since motion picture musicians and composers are slighted each year in the awarding of "Oscar" statuettes by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the National Federation of Music Clubs has decided to remedy these omissions. Collaborating with the film studios, state previewing committees will pass judgment on the merits of music in pictures released thru the coming summer and fall and winter season of 1940-'41. Initial awards will be announced at the biennial convention of the federation in Los Angeles in June, 1941. "Oscars" will be given for the best original musical score for a dramatic picture; for the best score which is in part original, but in part includes adaptations or arrangements of existing material; for the best adaptation or arrangement of a stage musical; for the best musical comedy score; for the best musical score for a feature length cartoon; for the best musical scores for short subjects; for the best female vocal performance; for the best male vocal performance, and the best original song.

Current Music News

Helen Howe.

On its 73d annual commencement concert and exercises in Orchestra hall next Wednesday the Chicago Musical college will award an honorary doctor of music degree to Helen Howe, director of music for Chicago's board of education.

Miss Howe has served this city long and well as a recognized authority and leader in the field of music education. She holds degrees from the Musical college, the American Conservatory of Music, the Chicago Teachers' college, and Loyola university. Further studies have been pursued at the University of Chicago and at Fontainebleau, Paris. In connection with her present position she has organized high school choral groups for the annual Good Fellows' banquets sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and for W-G-N's "Citizens of Tomorrow" radio programs. This summer she will again gather together a thousand piece band from the schools for the 11th annual Chicagoland Musical Festival in Soldiers' field. During the opera season she is responsible for the bargain priced board of education performances given for school children at the Civic Opera house.

Rudolph Ganz, president of the college, will address the commencement gathering, as well as Miss Howe. Leon Sametini will conduct the college symphony orchestra for its part in the exercises and the following students will perform: Perry O'Neil, Lola Hutchinson, Lois Anderson, Jacobeth Kerr, Lloyd Mendelsohn, Shirley Trepel, Robert Handwerger, Albert Shlay, and Sybil Goldberg.

The distinguished musician to be honored by the award of an honorary doctor of music degree at the commencement exercises of the American Conservatory of Music will be Ifor Jones, conductor of the renowned Bach choir at Bethlehem, Pa. Allen Spencer, dean of the conservatory, will address the meeting, the 54th of its kind for the school. It will be held in Orchestra hall on Tuesday. Herbert Butler will direct the institution's symphony orchestra in the accompanying program, assisted by these student soloists: Robert Rayfield, Louis Fishman, La Velle Lindburg, Myron Cohen, Fay Cusac, Ethel Korn, Adele Modjeska, Emily Aull, and Ralph Valerio.

Richard Crooks, American tenor, and Jarmila Novotna, Czech soprano, have been added to the roster of singers with the Chicago Opera company next fall. Mr. Crooks has become so well known via radio programs, broadcasts of the Metropolitan Opera performances, and appearances here in concert that he is in no need of introduction. He will make his debut in one of his most famous rôles—the Chevalier des Grieux in "Manon."

Miss Novotna, in private life the Baroness Daubek, came to America for the first time last season to sing with the Metropolitan. She won particular acclaim for her singing and portrayal of Violetta in "La Traviata." This rôle served for her debut in Prague at the age of 17 and will see like service when she first appears on the stage of the Civic Opera house next season.

The commencement concert of the Cosmopolitan School of Music will be given on Thursday night in Kimball hall. Paul Vernon will conduct the orchestra and the soloists performing with them will be Lorraine Istenik, Robert Kalter, Robert Volk, Mark Norman, Patricia Swift, Aldona Grigonis, and Jeanne Panot. On Tuesday and Friday student recitals will be given in the Kimball building, while the commencement dinner and reception at which the diplomas and degrees will be awarded will be held on Saturday in the Chicago Woman's club.

Scenes from "Carmen" and "Faust" will be this afternoon's presentation by the American Opera company in the Woman's Club theater. Camille Anderson, Terence O'Donnell, Gladys McEvoy, Grace Schallerer, Charles Hax, Frances Boris, Claire Hutchins, John Reardon, Gertrude Krueger, Lorraine Baumhart, and Neele King will sing. The musical director and accompanist will be Amanda Macdonald.

In the evening the troupe will give the traditional operatic double bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci." In the former Florence Brown will sing Santuzza; Alice Newhall, Lola; Ruby Zeen, Lucia; John Frederick, Turiddu, and Charles Hax, Alfio. Dorthe Paulsen will sing Nedda in "Pagliacci," assisted by Benjamin Premack as Canio, Mr. Hax as Tonio, Vincent Lawrence as Silvio, and Joseph Folmer as Peppe. Giovanni Berrafato will conduct.

Grace and Kurt Graff and their dance group have moved to Vermont for the summer, locating themselves near Brattleboro. There they will spend a season of intensive technical study and rehearsal in preparation for their 1940-'41 transcontinental tour. A barn studio serves as a classroom and rehearsal hall, and a small outdoor theater on the grounds will house prospective productions. Members of the working group include Dorothy Davies, Ethel Sarasohn, Ida Galler, Ann Devine, Olga Dinuncio, Harold Berin, Arthur Wellendorf, Edwin Gibson, Walter Beck, and Jack Reed.

Izler Solomon, conductor of the Illinois Symphony and Woman's Symphony orchestras, has a busy summer ahead of him. He will conduct the former ensemble in four concerts and the latter in six. On July 11 he will be guest conductor for the Philadelphia orchestra at Robin Hood dell. On July 25 he will appear on Les Concerts Symphoniques de Montréal. Finally, in September, he will direct the NBC Symphony orchestra on three Sunday concerts, the 15th, 22d, and 29th.

Max Wald has been named vice president of the Chicago chapter of the new American Composers' Alliance, Inc., which has its national headquarters at 17 East 42d street, New York City. Other local musicians attending a recent regional meeting here were Florence Grantland Galajikian, Rudolph Ganz, Florence B. Price, Leo Sowerby, and Leon Stein. The alliance's purpose is to "encourage the performance of serious American music and to provide a means of securing just compensation to the composer for such performance."

The Woman's Symphony orchestra has announced its soloists for the four concerts it will give in Orchestra hall next season. They will be in chronological order Mischa Mischakoff, violinist; Robert Topping, tenor; the Chicago Symphonic choir, Walter Aschenbrenner, conductor, and Josef and Rosina Lhevinne, duo-pianists. Mr. Mischakoff was concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra prior to John Weicher's incumbency. Mr. Topping was the male winner of last season's Chicago opera auditions. As to Mr. and Mrs. Lhevinne, altho the former has played and taught here often, this will be the pair's first appearance together in Chicago. Izler Solomon will conduct all the concerts.

Young Artists Series at Park Concerts Urged

By Edward Barry.

When a project as big as the Grant park summer concert series is under way there are bound to be busybodies who take no part in the actual work but who love to tell the toilers how their tasks may be better accomplished. They correspond to the people who line the sidewalk in front of a building excavation, except that the latter seldom believe that they know anything about the technique of steam shoveling and are accustomed, therefore, to hold their peace. In the case of the concert business, everybody believes that he is competent to make suggestions.

The writer of this column, who proudly classifies himself among the busybodies who are determined to help the concert moguls whether they want to be helped or not, herewith puts forth an idea which will, he thinks, make the Grant park concerts an even more useful and admirable institution than they are at present. The idea is this: Schedule a once-a-week young artists' series in which the best of Chicago's youthful singers and instrumentalists will appear as soloists with Grant park orchestras, and devise an audition system so rigorous that no consideration but pure musical merit can play any part in their selection.

Public interest in the Grant park concerts would undoubtedly be increased still further by the establishment of such a series. The opportunity of seeing and hearing young and unknown artists who have survived a rigorous audition might come to be a lure second only in potency to the chance to see and hear the big name soloists who are occasionally featured at Grant park. Debuts are always exciting, and the appearances of these young artists would almost invariably have something of the air of a debut. Even tho some of the singers and players might have previous small appearances to their credit, a presentation at Grant park would be something on an entirely different scale. As for the quality of the performances, all indications are that it would be good. The Illinois Symphony orchestra has proved in the last few years that the number of unknown but thoroly competent musicians in this city is much higher than had been generally supposed.

Benefits would accrue to the sponsors of the Grant park concerts, too, if this idea were to be turned into reality. A young artists' series would increase still further the number of ties between these sponsors and the community they serve, and would strengthen their already excellent reputation for helpfulness and public spirit. The concerts' musical importance would be increased, for the discovery and presentation of the new is one of the greatest musical services which any concert series can provide.

• • •

For the young artists themselves such a series would be a tremendous boon. They would have the chance to appear under the best auspices before thousands of their fellow townsmen, and would enjoy the coöperation of fully professional orchestral musicians and conductors. The value of the prestige and the experience which would accrue to them [to say nothing of the increased self-confidence] can hardly be overestimated.

There has, it is true, been something vaguely corresponding to such a series for the last several years. Minor artists from this and other cities have appeared from time to time on the Grant park programs. However, there has been no regularity in the times of their presentation, and they have been chosen by methods less satisfactory in the long run than an audition system open to all.

The audition idea should be seriously considered. When a place on a concert series depends on personal application and individual initiative a great many young artists who "do not know anybody," or who are shy or afraid of their dignity, will not be heard from.

• • •

With an audition system functioning no young artist will feel he has to know anybody in order to get a chance to be heard. And no one is so shy or so afraid of his dignity as to be unwilling to make application for a place on such a series.

Strauss Writing Symphony.

Richard Strauss' present occupation is the writing of a symphony to help celebrate the 2,600th anniversary of the founding of the Japanese empire next year. The great German composer is casting it in three sections: A "heroic prelude," an extended second movement depicting the national character of Japan, and a closing hymn. Tokio will witness the première. Strauss is one of many composers of various countries who have been asked to write works "expressive of the spirit of Japan" for the music festival to be held in connection with the anniversary celebration.

Grant for Recordings.

A grant of over $40,000 has been made by the Carnegie corporation to enable the Library of Congress to experiment the realm of recording. With the money the library will make master recordings of anything it decides is worth preserving, especially unpublished material, American folk music, American poetry as interpreted by its authors, important radio broadcasts of new or rare music. Distribution of the recordings is planned.

Barnum is the director, and she will have the assistance on the faculty staff of Francis Allis, Chicago dancer, and Louise Campbell, motion picture actress, who will serve as guest lecturer.

Drama Notes and News

On Friday and Saturday the Village theater of Oak Park will give its original musical revue satirizing Utopias, "Political Scandals of 1940," in the Children's theater, Lowell school, Forest and Lake streets, Oak Park. The last performances of this melodrama will be given this afternoon and evening. On Thursday "The Dark Victory" opens and will continue thru Sunday night with a matinée on Sunday afternoon.

Uni-Theater Presents is the name of a new group which will function for from six to eight weeks this summer at the Salt Creek theater on York road, a mile and a half north of Hinsdale. Their season will begin on July 9 with "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," and continue with "A Murder Has Been Arranged," "Night Must Fall," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Biography," and "Pretty Pickle" by Everett Mesenbrink, director of the group.

FROM THE TORRID ZONE

When an "oomph" girl and an "O, what a man" fellow appear in a picture titled "Torrid Zone," ticket buyers have a right to expect something pretty hot. Here are Ann Sheridan and James Cagney as they look in a scene from the aforementioned fillum. Pat O'Brien is also much present in the action (Chicago).

Good morning!

Well, I declare, I never had so much fun in all my life!

Excepting sometimes—maybe.

We in the projection room watching "My Favorite Wife" chuckled softly now and then, laughed loudly and long often, and in between times wore positively idiotic smiles of delight and amusement.

• • •

It IS such a treat to run across a picture where perfect harmony exists between players, directors, and technicians! Where the risque element is droll and clever and never dirty. Where dialog crackles and sparkles, and where all is pervaded by a sort of hearthfire warmth and glow. "My Favorite Wife" provides such gratifying entertainment. [They say the older you grow the more adjectives you use. I've got to watch out.]

Miss Dunne is a favorite of mine, but I like her least as a comedienne. Her comedy always—to me—has a "LOOK! I'm really being AWFULLY funny!" tinge. In other words, it is on the forced and conscious side. She descends to it. As the "favorite wife" of this movie, I found her rather out of her element—but, as ever, NICE—the sort of person anybody—excepting a nonfavorite wife—would like to have around.

AND supported by a cast of bang up natural comedians who often and slyly hog the limelight to the picture's great advantage. . . . Note Granville Bates as a judge, Donald McBride as a hotel clerk, and Hugh O'Connell as one Johnson. And if you don't find Cary Grant, Randolph Scott, and Gail Patrick MOST amusing—I'll certainly be surprised.

• • •

This is the general layout. . . . Ellen, supposed to have been drowned while on an ocean voyage, returns after seven years to discover her husband, Nicky, just married again—to a gorgeous brunette. . . . The two Arden children, a boy and a girl, had been too young to know their mother at the time of her disappearance and are undisturbed by the thought of a new mamma. . . .

Now Ellen, devoted to her family, has no intention of letting another woman carry on.

And so—she appears before the gaze of her husband, just as the door of the elevator which is to carry him and his bride to their suite in a certain Yosemite hotel is about to close. [Here, my hearties, is one of those scenes that provoke laughter loud AND long.]

Well, far be it from me to go into any further details relating to this Lady Enoch Arden, that innocent bigamist, her husband, the irate femme who is neither maid, wife, nor widow, and the virile and handsome specimen with whom—Nicky learns to his great consternation—Ellen has spent seven long years on an isle. All seven and on the same isle. . . .

The Oriental's new movie is grand entertainment.

See you tomorrow.

City's Night Clubs Woo Summer Trade with Famous Bands

Panther Room Books Galaxy of Big Names

Chicago night clubs are hitching their bandwagons to a galaxy of stars this summer, in defiance of the traditional assumption that doldrums are louder than snare drums.

The Hotel Sherman has started off its summer parade of music with Jan Savitt's Top Hatters in the Panther room. Glenn Miller's famous band follows on July 5 for two weeks, with Benny Goodman and others in the offing.

Out at the Beach walk of the Edgewater Beach hotel they now have Will Osborne's slide music, doubling with the Latin rhythms of José Manzanares. On July 13 Horace Heidt's musical knights make their bow, and on Aug. 10 Ted Weems returns to finish the outdoor season. Manzanares continues as alternate and Monday night band all summer.

The Empire room of the Palmer House will bring Ray Noble to Chicago for the first time on July 4, probably for the summer.

Eddy Duchin will make a one night appearance at the Trianon ballroom on June 29, doubling with Bill McCune. Freddy Martin is the name at the north side Aragon.

Phil Levant and Art Kassel are in the offing at the Bismarck hotel, and Chicago's own Crusaders have taken over the Blue Fountain room bandstand in the Hotel La Salle. Clyde Lucas is the ace musical attraction at Bon Air, and the west coast toast, Carl Ravazza, is starring at the Colony club. The Blackhawk is well fixed in the fun firmament with Blue Barron's smooth tunes.

[Seymour Photo.]

Jan Savitt, following the trend toward trademarks for individual musical styles, calls what he is now playing in the Hotel Sherman's Panther room "Shuffle rhythm." But when his strong and well behaved brass section lets go in the ecstasies of "It's a Wonderful World" or "720 in the Books" there is little shuffling on the floor. The music is too exciting. The Savitt technique is smartly conceived, for the music is persuasively fresh, yet pleasantly mellow during the dinner hour, and only cuts loose when the dance minded supper crowd is pressing the entrance ropes.

Savitt does the comedy hit of the evening in collaboration with his dusky vocalist, Bon Bon—a presentation of "WPA" in which Jan appears as something of a fatigued Greek chorus. Bon Bon stars alone in a machine gun version of "Old Man River." Allan DeWitt, romantic baritone late of Tommy Dorsey's band, scores with "Too Romantic" and "When You Wish Upon a Star."

Star of the floor show is Betty Barrett, radio singer with a strong, well controled voice and a distinct personality. Jean Blanche, a dark haired little beauty with wings in her heels, taps out several show stopping routines, and joins the Jitterkids in a strange version of the Boogie Woogie. The Jitterkids also demonstrate the square dance, with the help of the Three Macs and Dude Montana.

• • •

Grace and Bob Conrad, the graceful and gracious leaders of the Eight La Playa dancers at the Colony club, will unveil another exciting routine soon—a Zamba. The spectacular feature will be the "Carmen Miranda" costumes worn by the girls. Owen and Parker, singing team, continue to pile up popularity among those who like their puns buttered with anatomical allusions.

Old Heidelberg, long a rendezvous for lovers of good music as well as good food, now is offering Mary McCormic as its star entertainer. The former opera singer, altho no longer the complete master of a voice that brought her so much fame, displays a gratifying control of the higher, and hence more exciting register. She wisely selects her numbers from a group of semiclassics, avoiding the pitfalls of over-erudition that beset the comeback trails of too many classical artists. "Danny Boy," "I Dream of Jeannie," and selections from "Porgy and Bess," are typical of her better numbers. In the latter she is assisted by the Heidelberg octet. This singing group also presents a musically pleasing minstrel show.

• • •

Bon Air has a new show—new with the exception of the ever popular De Marcos. Joan Edwards, formerly with Paul Whiteman, is the new vocalist; the Three Swifts present their comedy juggling act, and Lou and Jay Seiller furnish more comedy with a ski dance. Bon Air has introduced Sunday tea dancing, with The Dukes and their Duchess as the orchestra.

• • •

The exhilaration of speed with safety has contrived a series of record breaking performances for Riverview park's battery of rides. The seven thrill devices, it is estimated, attract six out of seven visitors to "Chicago's permanent world's fair of fun."

• • •

With all the starring talent on display at Chez Paree, a goodly supply of laurels still are held in reserve for Fred Evans and the Adorables, whose routines he produces. Most popular of the six new numbers is a swing version of the Florodora Sextette. The second show finale, a rhumba fantasy to the strains of "Perfidia," is one of the most excitingly costumed numbers in Chez history.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Don the Beachcomber, having tasted the pleasant fruit of sellout success, plans a third floor addition to his tropical paradise on Walton street, as well as new space in an adjoining building. . . . Another Walton street debut is that of Flo and Walt's, operated by Flo and Walter Ross, who made the Petit Gourmet such a popular north side spot in years past. . . . The exotic "Maxine" at Libby's new Club Era is Tange DeVoe, dark haired beauty who has come up fast in the show world of late. . . . Pliner and Earle will leave the Balinese room shortly and are expected to spend most of the summer in the Buttery, where the Saxonaires and Nonie Wynn are doing such an attractive job of entertaining. . . . Matty Malneck, who won a legion of friends with his compact unit last winter in the Pump room, may bring his augmented orchestra into a loop hotel this fall. . . . Gene Ramon, singing guitarist at the Ranch, selects from his well stocked library of old favorites these five as the most productive of nostalgic pleasure: "A Pretty Girl," "Always," "Getting Sentimental Over You," "Penthouse Serenade," and "Melancholy Baby." . . . Griff [Continental Room] Williams, known as "Father Foo" to a unique band of Iowans who center their entertainment activities on a river shore rendezvous called "Foo Arms" [a name inspired by Bill Holman's famous TRIBUNE comic strip, "Smoky Stover"], has composed a loyalty song for them, "Foo to You, Too, Boo."

Mlle. Boulanger Returning.

After a year's absence in her native land Nadia Boulanger, eminent French organist, conductor, lecturer and pedagog, will return to the United States in September to become a full-time member of the faculty of the Longy School of Music, Cambridge, Mass. Mlle. Boulanger was heard in several lectures and one recital in and about Chicago during her previous visit.

VIVACIOUS VOCALIST

Visual and vocal highlight of Bill McCune's orchestra, now playing at the Trianon ballroom, is charming Katherine Hoyt.
[Murray Korman Photo.]

MERRIEL ABBOTT DANCER

Floor show acts come and go, but the Merriel Abbott dancers remain a steady attraction in the Empire room of the Palmer House. Carol Lynn is one of the girls whose dancing is such an important part of Empire room shows.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

A few weeks ago I quoted from a highly amusing article entitled "The Dub's Complete Guide to Money-Making Bridge," now running serially in The Bridge World Magazine. Apparently the quotation aroused considerable mirth; letters from all parts of the country have reached me demanding further excerpts from author S. Tupper Bigelow's remarkable advice to bridge players. So, with the stern warning that my readers should not take it too seriously, I offer the following:

"Scoring is one of the most important departments of bridge, and one to which too little attention is given in standard textbooks. In fact, the author cannot recollect ever having seen the subject even mentioned in any authoritative work on bridge. Yet a player who has perfected this department of his game should be able, under favorable auspices, to pick up, say, a thousand points a session.

"If you are the host, provide only one score pad and one pencil. Assume full charge of the scoring at the outset. If you are asked to provide another pad, simply explain that this is the only pad in the house. If you are not the host, or you are playing at the club, clear all score pads off the table except one, and assume full charge of it as before.

"During the first rubber of play, show thoro familiarity with the scoring, score accurately, and add the result quickly. If you are being watched, the players' suspicions will be lulled by your efficiency.

"Develop a similarity in your figures 5 and 3. 50's and 30's will then look alike, and will be added as 50's if in your column, and as 30's if in your opponents' column.

"Penalties, if small, can generally be put in your column instead of your opponents' column with small chance of being noticed.

"If your opponents have honors, these should be scored in your column, but if you are caught once on this, thereafter credit both columns with the honors. If you are caught at this you should probably score the honors accurately from then on.

"If your opponents score a small slam, vulnerable, score them 700 for this instead of 750. Most players can never remember which is correct, and you should be quick to take advantage of your opponents' weaknesses.

"At least once a session you should score 700 for one of your 500 rubbers, or 500 for one of your opponents' 700 rubbers. This is easy to do when there are a lot of partial game scores below the line, and if the mistake is drawn to your attention your opponents will readily see that the mistake was easy to make.

"When your opponents make extra tricks, omit to score them as they will be primarily concerned with what score they have below the line. If they notice it, argue with them that they only made their bid, and if this fails, give in gracefully. Then the next time there is an argument they will figure it is their turn to give in.

"Doubled and redoubled vulnerable scoring is quite complicated, and should be thoroly mastered. In scoring in your column, it is best to be accurate, but in scoring in your opponents' column either above or below the line it is generally quite safe to score redoubled bids as merely doubled bids, and doubled bids as if not doubled. If there is an argument, assert vociferously that no one doubled or redoubled, as the case may be. To be thoroly prepared for this contingency, it is often wise at the beginning of the game to explain that you are a little deaf in one ear. It is surprising, too, how often doubles and redoubles are forgotten, and you should never miss an opportunity of this kind.

"Mistakes in adding the score is a favorite method of less skilled scorers, and should only be practiced with particularly unobservant opponents. With these, of course, one or two hundred points can be picked up every rubber. When this method is used, the scores should be carelessly torn up at the end of each rubber, unless you are the host, when it is often fun to save them and go over the scores and calculate how much you have gained in this department of the game.

"When you have a part score, never fail to say, before you bid: 'Let's see, we're 60 on first game.' In case your partner is asleep, this will apprise him of the state of affairs. In circles where this is regarded as unethical, the same result is achieved by picking up the score pad and looking intently at it, immediately before bidding. If your partner is particularly stupid [and Heaven knows most partners are] a meaning cough or clearing of the throat while you are looking at the score will be sure to have the desired effect.

"A little known, but sometimes very effective subterfuge is used when your opponents have just bid and made a small part score, such as one no trump or two diamonds. As soon as the hand is over you should launch into a fairly long funny story, or some very juicy gossip. It is essential that you capture your opponents' complete attention in doing this, and while they are laughing deal the cards and make your bid or pass as soon as possible. The chances are greatly in your favor that they will not notice that their part score is not scored. If they do you have a perfect alibi.

"Putting your opponents' part score in your column is now not considered ethical, and is not recommended. It is rather gauche, and is too rarely successful tactics.

"When you have 100 honors, with the ten on the board, score 150 honors. If any one notices this, the chances are they will not be able to remember whether that was the ten or the nine in the dummy. If they say anything explain patronizingly that it was the nine. The hand is over, anyway, and no one can prove you're wrong. Likewise, when you have A-K-Q, and the J-10 or the jack is on the board, say: 'Let's see, I had 100 honors, didn't I?' If no one says anything, score it, but if you get an argument, it is better to let it pass.

"A good many points can be picked up in the recapitulation, unless, of course, you are playing a match game. For this reason it is better not to play match games unless your opponents are far inferior to you and your partner. The best method of picking up points here is to debit some one [generally the player who is down the most] with the rubber you have lost, and credit yourself with it. If it is, say, an eight point rubber, you have made 1,600 points on the transaction. If this method is used, destroy the score of each rubber as you go along, as before. No one worries much about the recapitulation after the game is over, except to see that it balances, and how much they have to pay.

"It is commonly supposed that only the most careless players revoke, but every one who knows what side of the street he is on, knows that every one revokes now and then and knows equally well that whoever revokes will deny it vociferously even if it is proved he did. There is no record whatever in bridge annals of any one ever admitting that he made a revoke, and probably never will be.

"Generally, revoking is unwise, unless you are playing in a game where no one seems to care much about it. In such a case, of course, many tricks can be saved by the timely revoke. Unfortunately, however, most bridge players have reached the stage where they will call the penalty on you for a revoke, if they know what it is.

"The laws dealing with the revoke are very complicated. Roughly, however, the penalty is two tricks for the first revoke, and an additional trick for each further revoke. As a general rule, therefore, it may be stated that to revoke deliberately does not pay.

"When you notice that you have revoked, and it is too late to correct it, and it is a revoke that will not pay you, continue revoking on that hand in the hope that your opponents will not notice it. By the time the hand is over the declarer will be so confused that he will probably think he revoked himself, and consequently will not open such a delicate subject."

Hearts are trump. South leads and must win all the tricks against any defense.

Solution: South leads the spade seven, which North ruffs. North leads one round of trumps so that South may discard the same suit that East discards, which cannot be a spade since then South could easily establish the spade suit by ruffing. North immediately leads the suit East and South have discarded. Suppose East's discard has been a club. South also lets go the low club, then wins a club lead with the king. The spade ace is then cashed, North letting go a diamond and a spade is ruffed. Now the last heart is cashed. East must hold the spade queen, hence must blank his diamond queen. South thereupon lets go the spade jack. Now it is West's turn to be squeezed; he must hold the club queen to overlay dummy's eight, hence must discard the diamond jack. Declarer leads to the diamond ace, dropping East's queen and West's king together, and cashes the diamond three for the eighth trick.

Notes of Music and Musicians

For the benefit of its Music Students fund, the Illinois Opera guild will present the Victor Puppet Opera troupe in the Woman's Club theater on Tuesday night in a performance of Gounod's "Faust." This novel company made a hit when it was presented at the New York World's Fair last summer as part of a commercial exposition, and it has been equally successful on the subsequent tour of the United States and Canada which has finally led it to this city.

Ernest Wolff.
[De Bellis Photo.]

Ernest Wolff, a Chicago boy and onetime student of the University of Chicago, turned a childhood hobby for puppet making into this present miniature reproduction of an opera company of which he is the director. The unique troupe includes some 200 stringless puppets, including an orchestra, prima donnas, leading tenors, ballerinas, chorus and corps de ballet, with a répertoire of seven leading operas. Costumes and scenery have been designed after or copied from those used at the Chicago Civic Opera house, La Scala in Milan, and the Metropolitan in New York. Using authentic lighting and staging, these performances, except for their size, give the illusion of being the genuine thing.

The music is that recorded by the Victor company, to which the actions of the puppets are naturally synchronized. In this case the voices to be heard will include those of Richard Crooks, Lawrence Tibbett, and Ezio Pinza.

Cave Thompson, familiar blind pianist of Chicago, will give his 18th consecutive annual recital in Fullerton hall of the Art institute on Tuesday night.

Tomorrow night's concert by the Illinois Symphony orchestra in the Studebaker theater will be its next to the last downtown this season. Izler Solomon will conduct, featuring on the program the Overture to Gluck's "Iphigenia in Aulis," Brahms' Symphony No. 3 in F major, Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 16 in D major [Köchel No. 451], and "Mont Juic," a suite of Catalan dances, by Lennox Berkeley and Benjamin Britten.

The last named will be played for the first time in America. The two English composers, while attending the International Society of Composers of Music festival in Barcelona in 1936, witnessed an exhibition of folk dances on Mont Juic, a mountain near Barcelona. Attracted by the dance tunes the two decided to turn them into a suite when they returned home. The result contains four movements: a classical minuet, a gavotte, a sarabande, and a lively waltz.

Florence Kirsch, Chicago pianist, will be soloist in the Mozart concerto. She made her concert début when only 11 with the Chicago Symphony. After extensive study with Artur Schnabel at a later age she returned to play on the Adult Education council's series in Orchestra hall in 1937.

This afternoon will witness the formal graduation of students from two more local music schools. In the Studebaker theater the Chicago Conservatory will hold its annual commencement and concert. The music will be supplied by the school's symphony orchestra under the direction of Ludwig Becker and the soloists will be Earl Bichel, Florence Klein, Robert Basso, Juel Buck, Herbert Donaldson, Amerigo Marino, Mona Bradford, and Raya Burakoff. Mr. Donaldson will be heard in the second and third movements of his Concerto No. 1 for Piano and Orchestra which he wrote as his thesis. Anna Fitzu, artistic director of the school, will speak.

In Thorne hall, Lake Shore drive and Superior street, the Boguslawski College of Music will hold its commencement. Ernest Toy will conduct the college's orchestra, accompanying the following soloists: Leonardo Amaresco, Dr. Toy himself, Rose G. Schnitzer, and Ruth Daniels-Nelson.

Paul Schulze will receive an honorary degree of doctor of fine arts.

The National Association of Negro Musicians, Inc., will hold its 21st annual convention in Chicago from Aug. 18 to 23, inclusive, at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way. Further details will be announced as they are forthcoming.

The American Concert orchestra will give its last concert on the Young Artists' series for the season on Friday night at 8:15 o'clock in the Illinois Music Concert hall, 632 North Dearborn street. William Fantozzi will be guest conductor for the following program, assisted by Ned Rorem, pianist; Margaret Jirasek, soprano, and Robert Norton, bass:

Symphony No. 96, B-flat Major.......Haydn
Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, A Minor [first movement] ....Grieg
Ned Rorem.
Elsa's Dream, from "Lohengrin"....Wagner
Margaret Jirasek.
"Il lacerato spirito," from "Simon Boccanegra" ....Verdi
Robert Morton.
"La ci darem la mano," from "Don Giovanni" ....Mozart
Margaret Jirasek and Robert Morton.
Valse Triste...........................Sibelius
Overture to "The Bat"......Johann Strauss

One of the dates for Albert Spalding's appearances on the Ravinia festival has been changed. Instead of on Tuesday, July 16, he will play the following Saturday evening, the 20th. On this occasion he will play the Tschaikowsky concerto. The American violinist's other appearance remains as scheduled on Saturday, July 13, when he will play the Brahms concerto.

Contrary to the statement made on these pages a few weeks ago in connection with the forthcoming Ravinia festival, Vladimir Horowitz will make at least two other concert appearances this summer. Besides playing with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Ravinia park, he will be heard with the Philadelphia orchestra in Robin Hood dell and with the Los Angeles Philharmonic in Hollywood bowl.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

The 10 cent brown stamp honoring Jane Addams was placed on first day sale at Chicago April 26. This was the final value of the scientists' group and the 20th example of the Famous Americans series.

The design measures 85-100 by 98-100 inch and is uniform with other values of the scientists' group. The plates are curved to fit rotary presses and contain 280 stamp subjects arranged in four panes of 70 each. Plates bearing numbers 22558, 22559 and 22560 were prepared for this stamp in January and the printing of 10 million copies started on March 8, with a press equipped with plates 22558 and 22560. The plates are of the electric eye convertible type, and the printed sheets of stamps may be perforated on any machine equipped with photoelectric cell controls.

Jane Addams.

The portrait of Jane Addams which was used for this stamp was taken from a photograph by Moffett of Chicago, furnished by the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. William A. Roach designed the stamp, Carl T. Arlt engraved the portrait, James T. Vail, the frame, and William B. Wells, the lettering.

Jane Addams, founder of Hull House, America's first and now a world famous settlement, was born Sept. 6, 1860, in the village of Cedarville, six miles northwest of Freeport, Ill. She attended Rockford college, then known as Rockford Female seminary, and graduated in 1881. Even before she went to college, Miss Addams had determined to devote her life to the underprivileged and it was her intention at that time to become a doctor and to work among the poor. A severe illness prevented her from carrying out these plans, altho she had enrolled at Women's Medical college in Philadelphia and spent almost a year there.

While traveling in Europe for her health, Miss Addams learned of Toynbee Hall, social and educational center in London's East End slums, and determined to found a similar institution in some American city. In the spring of 1889 she found the location she desired in Chicago's west side, and there with the assistance of her friends, Ellen Gates Starr, she opened Hull House on Sept. 14 of that year. At first it was planned only to make Hull House a center for social activity in the neighborhood, but before long educational and philanthropic work were added to the activities and within the first year the settlement was working for the improvement of living and working conditions in the community.

For her efforts in behalf of peace Jane Addams shared the Nobel Peace prize of 1931 with Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia. She was the first woman to be awarded an honorary degree by many universities including Yale and Wisconsin. Miss Addams was first pictured on a postage stamp in 1935 when Turkey issued a series to commemorate the 12th Congress of the Women's International Alliance. She died May 21, 1935, in Chicago.

Hull House which she founded, now covers two full city blocks with its 13 buildings and in addition maintains a summer camp near Waukegan. The settlement has a staff of 400 persons, many of whom are volunteer workers, and its various activities were participated in during 1939 by more than 350,000 persons.

The Civil Aeronautics authority has announced that experimental flights from France to the United States will be undertaken during the summer by Air France Trans-Atlantique. The planes will carry French government freight and mail and will not compete with other lines. Plans call for using both the northern route laid out last year by Great Britain and the southern route now used by the Pan American Trans-Atlantic clippers. The United States terminus will be at La Guardia airport at New York.

Service will be instituted on the southern route in the near future with one round trip each three weeks, and later a round trip every two weeks.

The Manual of the Stamps of the Netherlands, Netherlands Indies, Curaçao and Surinam, by A. Arthur Schiller and Johannes de Kruyf, is now ready for distribution at $1 per copy. This work contains 225 pages and over 400 illustrations and will be of interest to general collectors, to specialists in the Netherlands and colonies, and to collectors of air mails, charities and the like. The manual contains information with regard to proofs and printings, plates and plate faults, number of stamps issued, dates of issue and demonetization, forgeries and a complete discription of the subjects portrayed. Separate listing give shades and perforation varieties.

All profit from the sale of this book, above cost of publication, will be paid into the Holland relief fund. Address orders and make checks or money orders payable to Johannes de Kruyf, 134 Haven avenue, New York.

M. M. Albin, 4827 North Rockwell street, writes concerning a society being formed to study the stamp issues of Austria. It is the plan of the new society to make information available to members which has not heretofore appeared in English, by translating books and magazine articles. Eventually an exchange will be operated where members may buy, sell and exchange the stamps of Austria. Mr. Albin wishes to contact collectors interested along these lines and particularly those who are willing to undertake translating and editorial work.

Dealers wishing to obtain bourse tables at the Cleveland convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans should make reservations at once thru E. N. Ong, 700 Hanna building, Cleveland, O. The convention will be held at Hotel Statler Aug. 29 to Sept. 1. Advertising matter for the official program should be sent to F. H. Hawley, P. O. box 1905, University Center Station, Cleveland, O.

A recent query addressed to this department requested the rates for government postal cards from this country to all other countries. An itemized answer to that question would fill a pamphlet. Readers are advised that questions of this nature are best answered by consulting the postal guide, a copy of which may be seen at your local postoffice or at a public library.

Those who wish to exchange correspondence and stamps with fellow "shut-ins" may enter a group being sponsored by D. Lapinski, 1200 North 18th avenue, Melrose Park, Ill. Write to Mr. Lapinski and inclose an unused, unaddressed, government postal card with the following message on the message side: "Dear Shut In—I wish to exchange correspondence with you. My name is [insert your name and address] and I am [insert your age] years old. [The age requirement applies only to those under 16 years and is for the purpose of assigning correspondents to others of similar age.] Please write soon." Use commemorative stamps on all correspondence.

The Netherlands summer charity issue of stamps was scheduled to go on sale May 11 and to remain on sale until July 13. The invasion of that country may have disrupted plans for the first day sale and the entire status of the issue is unknown.

Congratulations to Philatelic Gossip upon the occasion of its 25th anniversary. The editor of this column has been acquainted with this magazine since 1918 when volume V. was being published monthly in 5 by 7 size at Denison, Kas. Twenty-five years of continuous publication is sufficient recommendation for a philatelic magazine.

Here is one country which is not to be accused of exploiting stamp collectors. The American consulate of Seville, Spain, announces it is now illegal to export either canceled or unused stamps from Spain.

Parents May Lead Their Children to Water, but They Shouldn't Push Scared Ones In

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Children and water.

Water, like earth, sun, and air, is a child's natural element. Every child should have water to play in, or to paddle or swim in, if it's a possible thing.

All children love water, as you know when you see them merely with a basin of it or in a puddle, or frisking under a fountain or the spray from a hose. In the shallow edges of a lake or a shelving beach of still salt water they show their delight in it most plainly, but in spite of their love for the element, there are times when children are terrified by the water.

Strangely enough, there are parents and other adults who seem to be annoyed, even infuriated, by these signs of fear in their children. They will scold them, try to pull or push them in, or even carry them forcibly and screaming into the bay or ocean. I have seen children who, as a result, were in what was almost a convulsion, between their terror of the water and their sense of helplessness as they were carried farther and farther out, or dipped in and out up to their necks. Often this is done in a climax of adult irritation. But sometimes it is done without rancor, the idea being that if children are forced in often enough they'll get used to it.

Well, I think that's all a great mistake. Whether eventually the children get used to the water by such heroic means is not the point. Paroxysms of fear are things definitely to be avoided. Even if accustomedness to the water comes more slowly, it is better so. Children are individuals in this respect, as in all others. The things to do is to give them time.

Having watched many young children in various kinds of water, I have noticed that children are very different in their approach to bathing and learning to swim.

Virtually all children love paddling in shallow water, whether there is rough water beyond or not, but even here there are exceptions. Children of 3 or so who have never been near the ocean, and who are rather highly strung, sometimes will not even wade if the surf is having one of its wild spells, which sometimes last for days. In these cases the power and noise either confuse them or frighten them, or affect their nerves as noise and confusion do in any other place. The roaring and pounding of the big water makes them want to keep their distance.

When this is the case the only thing to do is to let them take their time. A little gentle urging each day, the finding of a rocky pool or sandy inlet for quiet play, is about all you can do. I have seen such children come to love rough and still water, and be perfectly at home in both later on.

But even when there is still water bathing, as

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

Bath glorifiers in the jaunty, spicy scent of carnation are wonderfully welcome in warm weather. And, if you like to be as fashionable in your fragrances as you are in your choice of hats, it might be important to you to know that carnation is now very swish. It's simply running away with honors as the peepul's choice!

There are, of course, good, bad, and indifferent carnation translations. One family of glorifiers in this scent is not so casually classified. There's only one word for the beauty and fidelity of the carnation in this cologne, sachet, and dusting powder. The word is "superlative."

It's called blue carnation and it's the pride and joy of one of the oldest and best houses. Their pride is quite justified; it's tops. The piquancy and charm of the carnation are right there in every drop of the cologne, every grain of the dusting powder and sachet. True florals are more rare than you'd think, and this is a triumph.

The blue carnation makes an ideal daytime perfume for the average American woman. It has jauntiness, but isn't too tiresomely brisk. And it has sweetness without the cloying quality. It's appropriate for wear with the moonbeam kind of gown, as it is with the little cotton number that you slip into for cool, casual comfort.

A bath that's all fluffed up with carnation accessories leaves you feeling as crisp and fresh as the natural flower looks. You feel perky, and blinding heat can't defeat you that day!

Try blue carnation. Bathe with carnation soap; rub down afterward with blue carnation cologne. Use the dusting powder to make your skin satin smooth and cool beneath your clothes. And, as a final touch, use a bit of the concentrated, lasting sachet. Apply it to your skin or make a tiny bag of it, to be worn inside your dress. You'll feel flower-fresh all day.

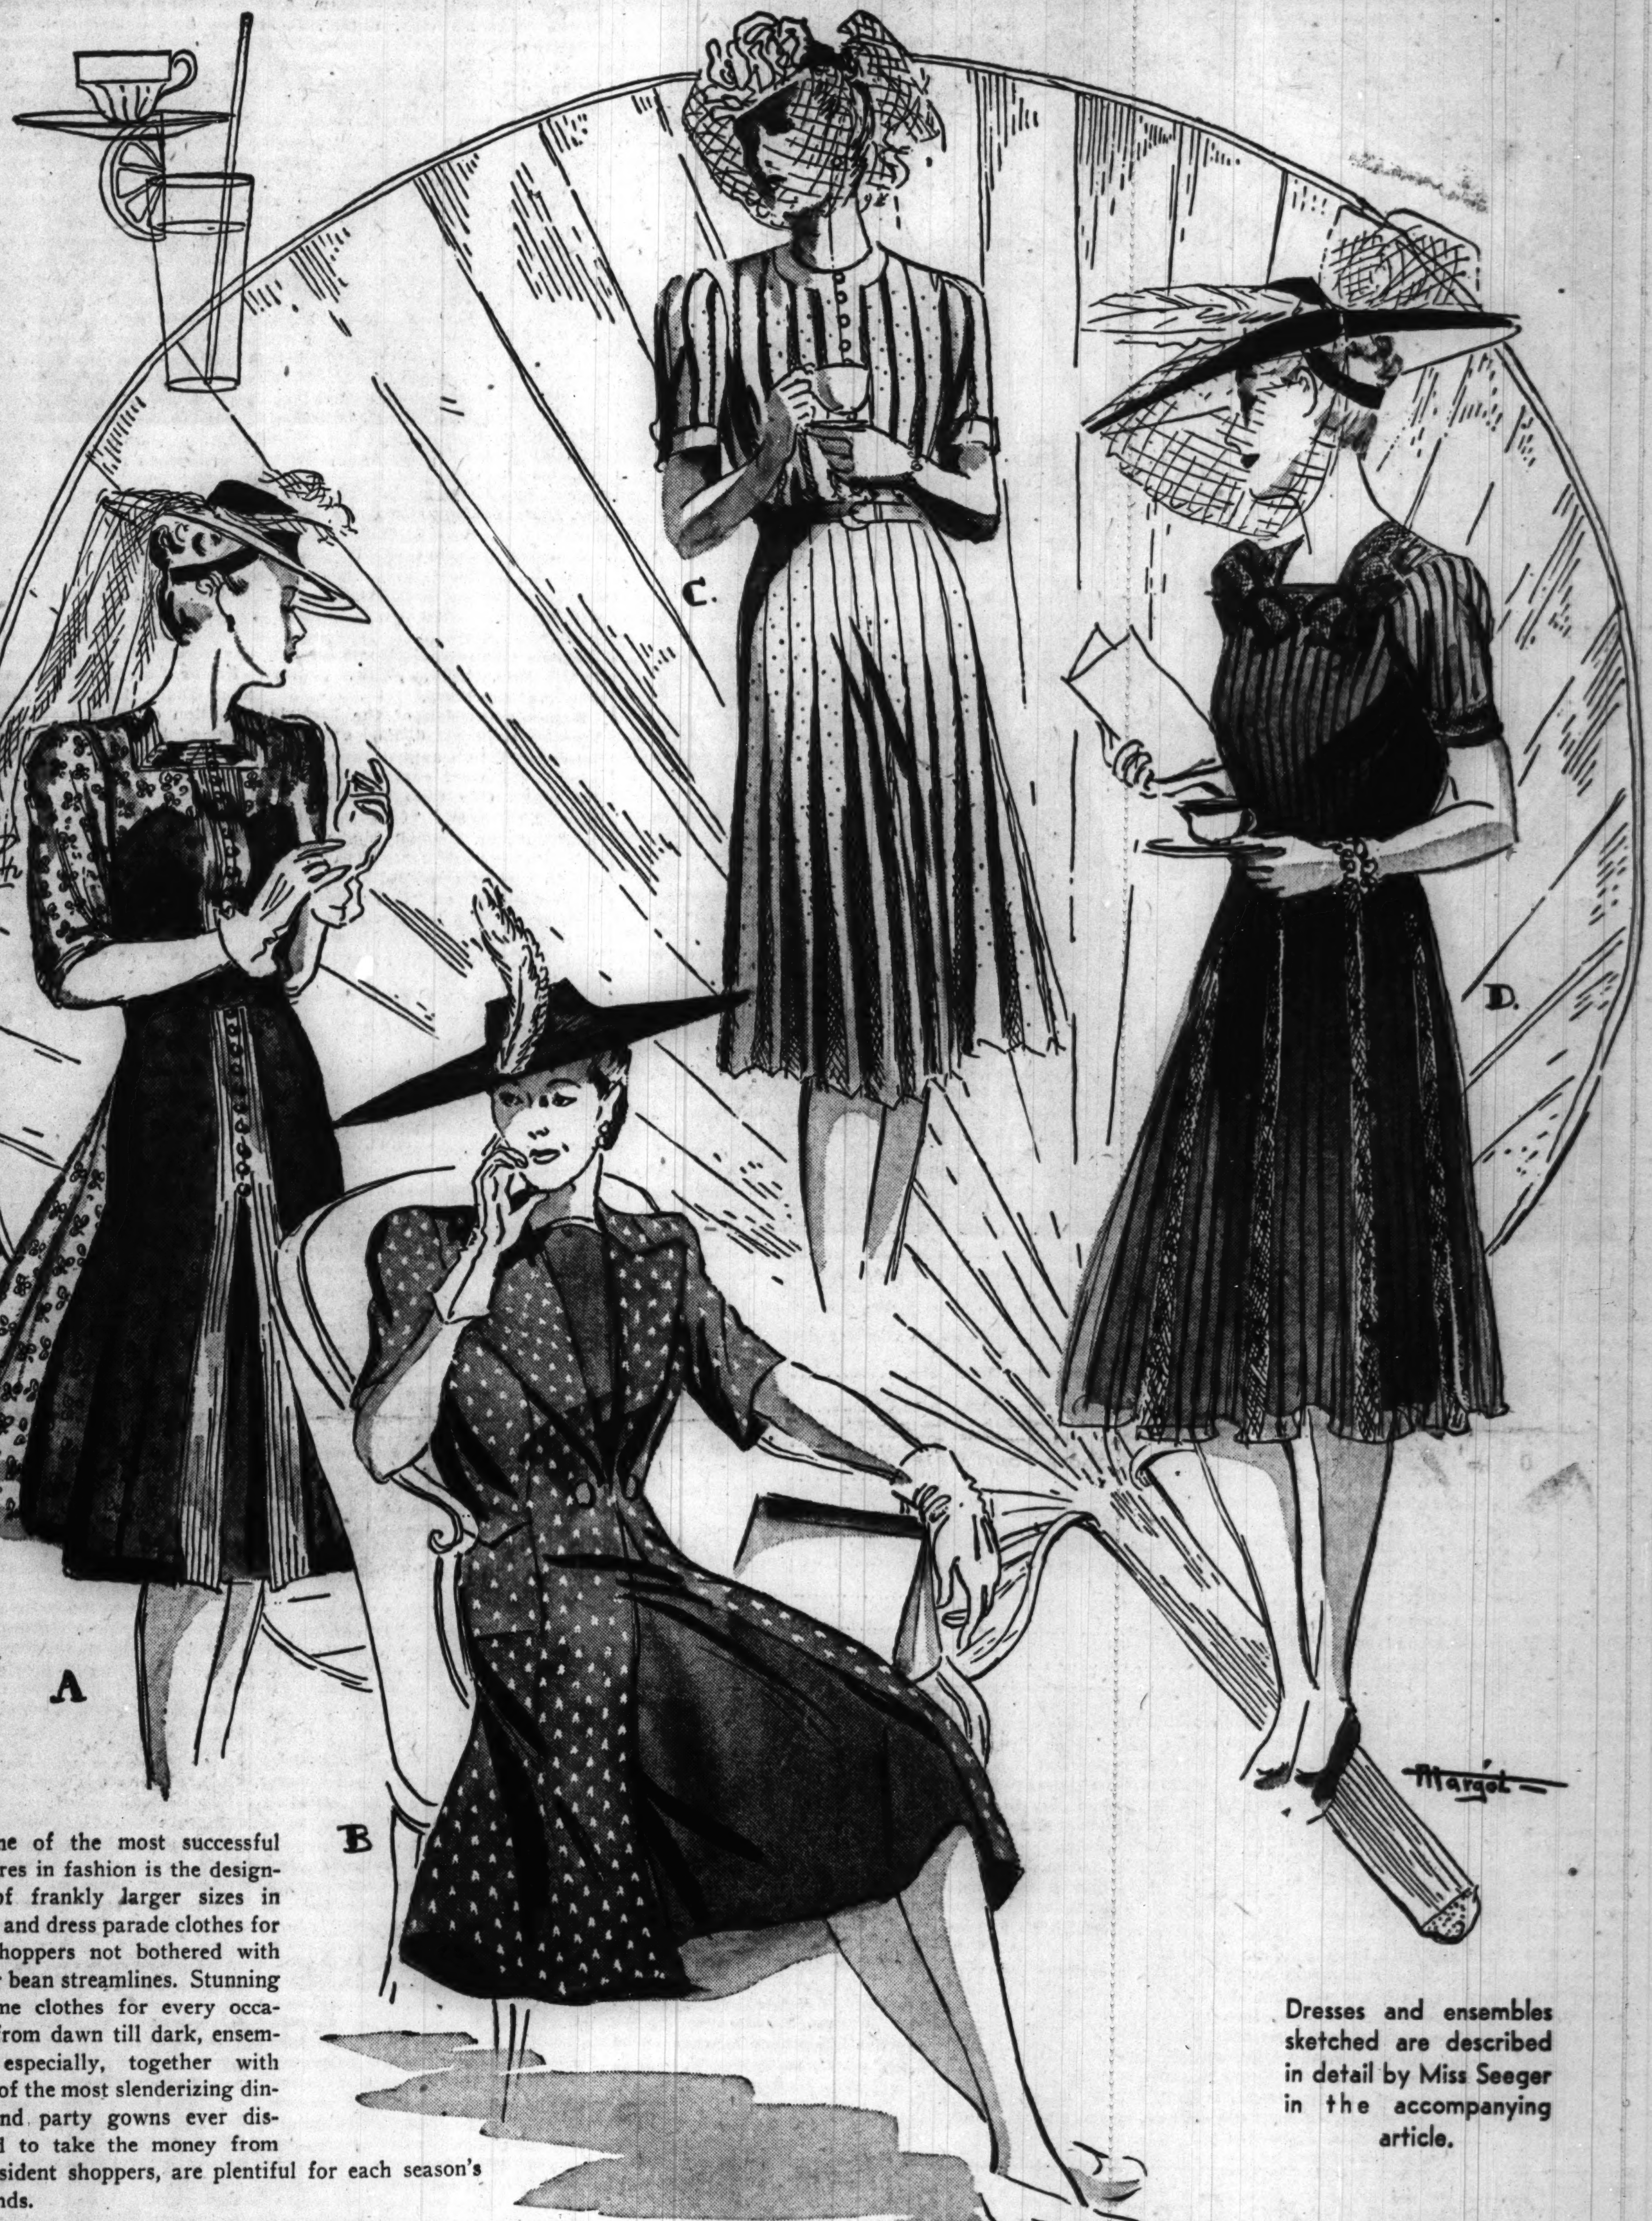
Summer Fashions for the Not-So-Slims

By Rea Seeger



Dresses and ensembles sketched are described in detail by Miss Seeger in the accompanying article.

One of the most successful ventures in fashion is the designing of frankly larger sizes in street and dress parade clothes for the shoppers not bothered with string bean streamlines. Stunning daytime clothes for every occasion from dawn till dark, ensembles especially, together with some of the most slenderizing dinner and party gowns ever displayed to take the money from nonresident shoppers, are plentiful for each season's demands.

Cool costumes for summer are made of novelty cottons and other airy materials, in flattering colors, with long emphasized figure lines, admirably restrained trim, and vee necklines. Elbow and bracelet length sleeves, flawlessly fitted collars, and fine details mark each and every find in the showings. Every model has been cut and fashioned to slenderize, with perfect seaming and workmanship. When white is used for a cooler, it's just the right amount of white, a definite touch that makes all the difference between dowdiness and distinguished simplicity. Simple lines are always stressed, and the results are really something! Sizes run from 14 to 52, and larger sizes can be ordered special. The smartest clothes in town are found in these collections; unexpectedly low prices are combined with the finest of materials and workmanship.

Linen and cotton, nets, sheers, chiffons, combinations of plain and dotted silks, plenty of cool, clean, precise prints that feature small, neat patterns. Small checks and plaids, narrow stripes, and the smallest of pinpoint dotted fabrics compose a most effective assortment from which to choose. Not a single flamboyant printed pattern in the entire showing, a fact which assures the well groomed slenderizing silhouette no matter what the size.

The best model featured is the modestly priced, long fitted coat sold with a simple dress. The material is a novelty weave resembling loose weave linen. The well cut long coat is of a small white dotted stuff, the dress of a solid color repeating the background of the dotted material. Copper with white, pink and blue with white and street shades can be ordered. Such a coat not only tops the solid colored dress sold with it but can easily slide over a cool white or cotton or linen. Most of these duets are sold with an extra dress at the time of purchase.

One piece dresses in navy, deep brown, or black are tremendously popular. They're impeccably tailored in long lines that flatter, vee necklines are uncluttered and cool without any frills or furbelows, and sleeves are usually elbow length or a bit longer. Dark matching slips are fitted as carefully as the dress itself. Some of the chiffons and other sheers have long matching companion coats with wrist length sleeves. Some are softly tucked as the only trim contrast; others have vertical rows of thin lace the same shade as the sheer, while still others have pencil thin lines of white and a small lapel flower of thin white. Skirts are cleverly cut with flat hiplines and plenty of flare around the hemline, and belts are optically invisible because they are of the same material and color of the dress. Unquestionably this collection is one of the outstanding showings of the season. There isn't a dull, uninteresting dress in the shop. Hats, lingerie, house dresses, spectator sports clothes, and beach outfits with the same eye appeal will be found in abundance.

Sketched are four summer daytime dresses for the larger woman, illustrating four of the smart finds out of an almost bewildering assortment of other equally smart models. All are supercool, superslenderizing, and tagged with very modest price marks. (A) An airy and flattering lace textured sheer makes the costume for afternoons and informal dinner party wear. Long lines are stressed with the stitched taffeta band that goes down the front. The tiny buttons are covered with the taffeta. Short sleeves, slightly puffed into the shoulders, flat pressed pleats in the front of the skirt, and a matching underslip are the details that make this the best of the all-purpose summer coolers in lacy effects.

(B) Prize winning summer ensemble of white dotted semifitted coat and dress of plain material. The cool weave resembles homespun linen, making it a good traveling costume or a particularly effecti ensemble for a day in town. The outfit is separable; coat can be worn with white dresses, and the dress with other coats and short jackets or alone as an ideal street dress with contrasting accessories.

(C) Another winner, this time a one piece dress made of alternating bands of jersey and dotted net. The dark stripes are of the white dotted blue or black net and are used most effectively in the shutter plaited skirt. The dress looks like an all-white model until you walk, when the cool navy blue or black stripes show under the break of the plaits.

(D) No summer wardrobe is considered complete without a dress-up dark sheer. Such a dress doubles for afternoon as well as summer parties in town or country. Perky small bows stiffened with horse hair braid accent the square cut neckline. Slightly shirred sleeves end at the elbow. Vertical rows of narrow fine val lace the same shade as the sheer contrast and cool the dress, keeping it amazingly slender in streamline. The underslip is of fitted thin silk crêpe.

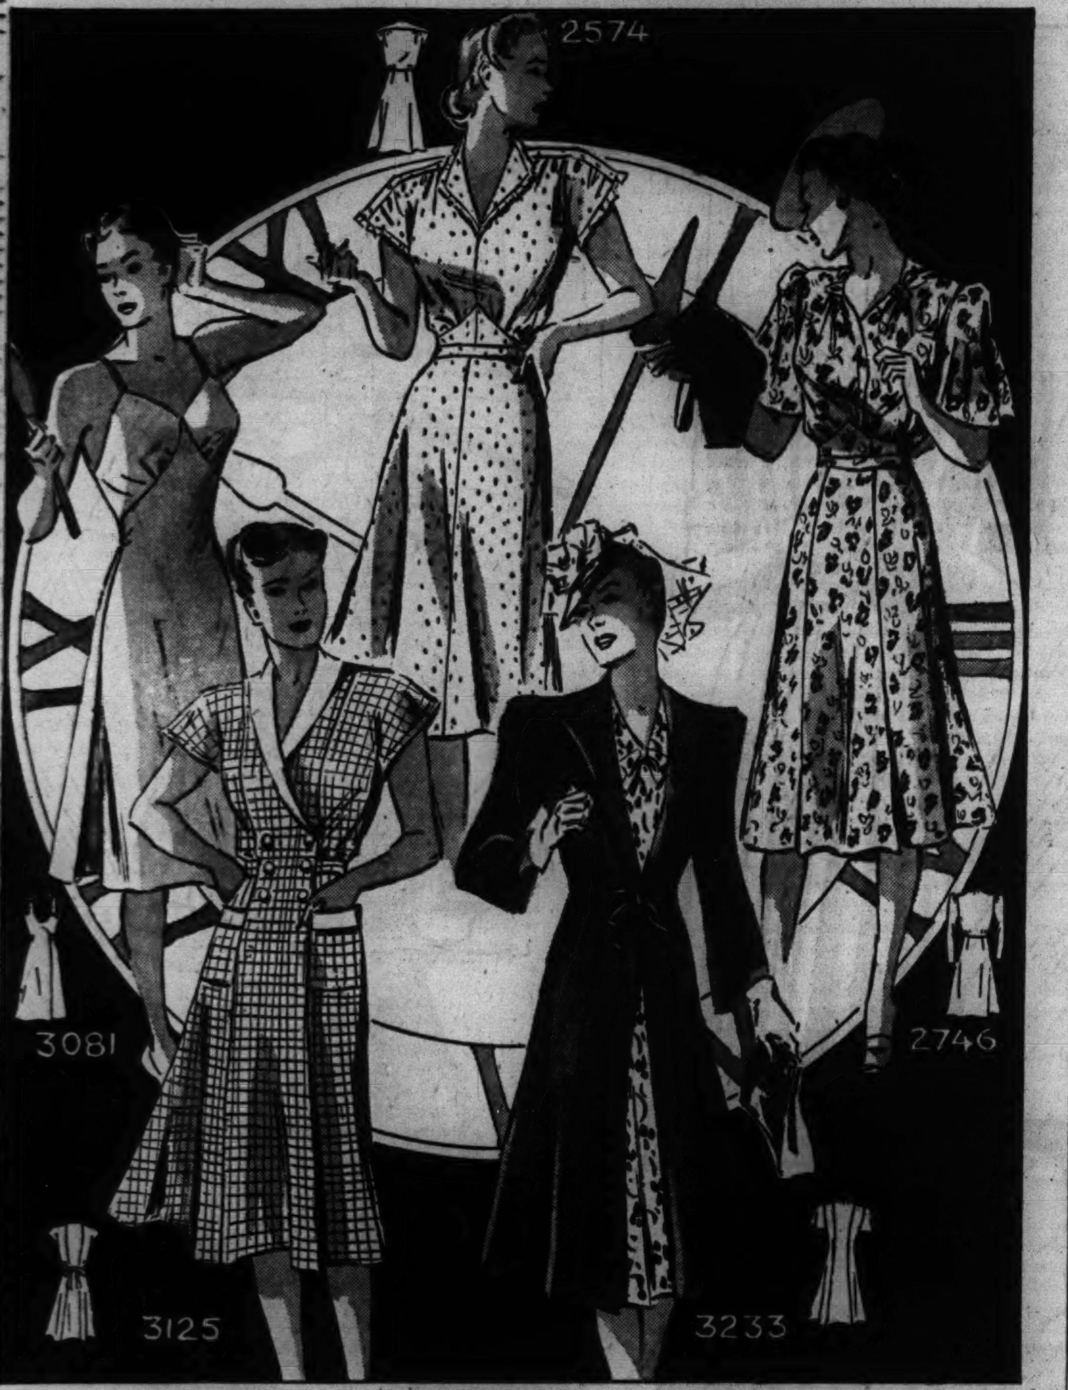
TIPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Most fresh fruit stains in cotton and linen can be removed by pouring boiling water from a height of three or four feet thru the stain.

Experiments indicate that as much as 50 per cent of the minerals and a large portion of the vitamins in vegetables may be lost in the cooking water.

To gain some idea of the wearing quality of a sheet hold the sheet to the light and note how the warp and filling yarns appear as to count, relative size, and evenness of spinning.

Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

Reading clockwise, five delightful, practical, and indispensable summer patterns.

No. 2574, primarily for heavier figures, ideal in sheers, either silk or cotton, plain, dotted, or figured. The cool neckline has a rever collar, the waistline points up into the bodice, the skirt is molded and flared. Notice the pert kimono shoulders.

No. 2746, a woman's dress with unusual charm, to be made in silks, cottons, and linens, plain or printed. Clips dress the neckline, and the sleeves are full and capelike. Clever paneling achieves skirt smartness.

No. 5233, a woman's redingote ensemble, the front panel contrasting. Marvelously chic and slenderizing for busy women who have figure problems.

No. 3125, a frock for home wear, with buttons for accent at waistline, with collared surplice neckline. The pockets are finished to match. Checked and printed cottons and linens, as well as prints, make up well in this model with kimono shoulders.

No. 3081, a fitted slip with bra top or wear under your summer things. Molded hip and skirt flare are important, as is the side plait, which gives necessary fulness without bulk. This garment is beautifully tailored. Make it of silk or cotton.

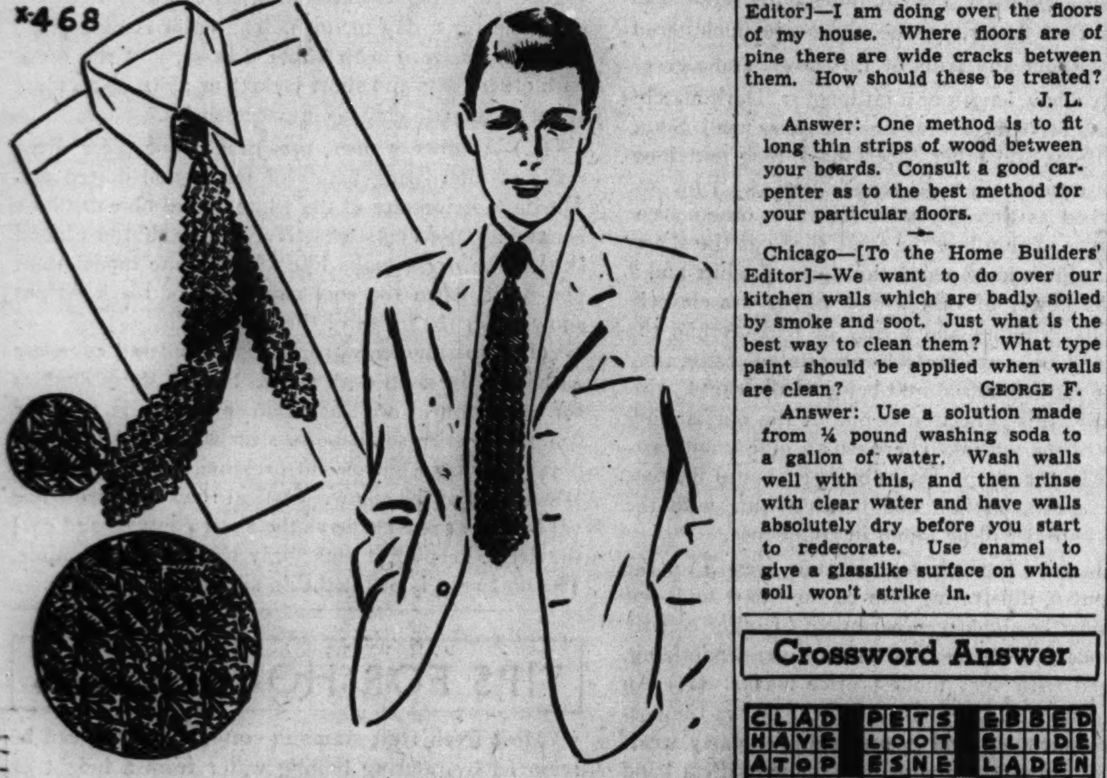
Ties Easy to Crochet



By Ellen Bruce.

One of the nicest hand crocheted ties recently to come out of wartorn Belgium is this good looking design. It is crocheted in a "crazy stitch," which is easy to do. The tie does not stretch or lose its shape when made from No. 10 mercerized crochet cotton with a fine hook. All the pretty shades of red, brown, blue, and green are suitable for year 'round wear.

For instructions in crocheting the tie done in a "crazy stitch," No. X-468, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Home Owners' Queries

Chicago.—[To the Home Builders' Editor]—I am doing over the floors of my house. Where floors are of pine there are wide cracks between them. How should these be treated?

J. L.

Answer: One method is to fit long thin strips of wood between your boards. Consult a good carpenter as to the best method for your particular floors.

Chicago—[To the Home Builders' Editor]—We want to do over our kitchen walls which are badly soiled by smoke and soot. Just what is the best way to clean them? What type paint should be applied when walls are clean?

GEORGE F.

Answer: Use a solution made from ¼ pound washing soda to a gallon of water. Wash walls well with this, and then rinse with clear water and have walls absolutely dry before you start to redecorate. Use enamel to give a glasslike surface on which soil won't strike in.

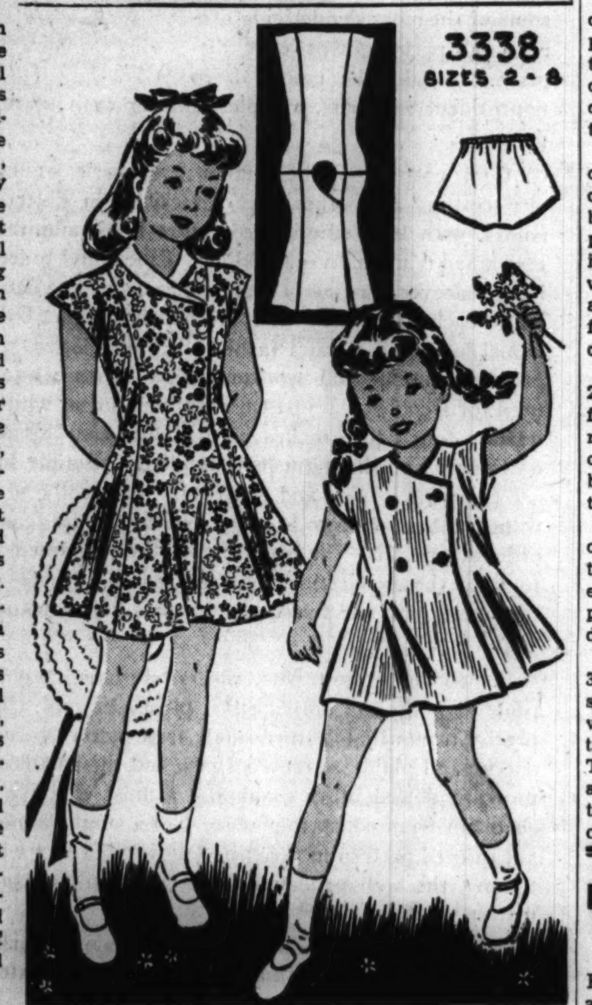
Clotilde Children's Patterns



Experts on child guidance and care will tell you that causes of a child's irritability often are physical ones, and that ordinary discomfort is one of the greatest of these physical factors. Keeping a child cool in summer is one way to smooth her temper, and this pattern is the right one for the job. There are no sleeves, merely caps extending from the shoulders, so that nothing can bind the young arms in hot weather. The neckline, collarless or with a narrow collar, is cool, too, as is the full skirt and fitted, altho loose, waistline. There's no sash to constrict the waist. Buttons are used to fasten the frock at the left side, and if a double-breasted effect is desired another row of buttons is added for decoration.

All the most inexpensive cottons make up beautifully in this juvenile frock for the "dog days." Bias binding is a handy and easy-to-use finish. Panties, incidentally, should match this flowing skirted frock, and the pattern provides for a comfortable model.

Style No. 3338 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of contrasting for collar, or 2 yards of binding.

Address orders for Clotilde Children's Fashions to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

By Carolyn Ramey

Dear Penny:

Resist this one if you can! You haven't told me what you are planning to do with your summer vacation, but I'll wager that a rural background will be there somewhere. Which leads me up to the news of the day. You remember Peggy, don't you? She's here with us for a visit, and we've been sewing like demons. This pinafore play suit is the current construction project.

We both purchased white pique for the one piece suit, because it will look so wonderful with the tan we expect to get! Peggy is using flowered cotton for the pinafore, since she maintains she is going in for the sweet-and-simple this summer. My own pinafore is blue and white checked gingham. It seems to be more my type and I think it will fit well into a country landscape.

My brother Art approves this outfit, surprisingly enough, because he's usually so critical and suspicious of my motives toward his men friends when I come out in something different. Granny chuckled when she saw it, because it reminded her, with limitations, of course, of the sort of thing she used to wear! Naturally, she meant the pinafore. I wonder if Granny noticed the shorts?

Style No. T-8676 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material for play suit, and 3¾ yards for pinafore.

If you join the pinafore enthusiasts, let me know.

CAROLYN.

Etiquet Books Contain Valued Aids to Brides

By Helen Bartlett.

Perhaps there are summer and early fall brides who do not know about the booklets on wedding etiquet that have been prepared by this department and are available to those who would like to have them—those who have wedding etiquet problems. The brides who are interested in this booklet material are invited to write and tell us which ones they want copies of. Just inclose the correct amount in stamps or coin with your request, and the booklets will be sent to you immediately. A little description of the contents will help you decide on those you need.

First, there is "Planning the Church Wedding," 3 cents; 5 cents postpaid. This booklet is the largest of all and contains information such as the procedure of the wedding ceremony, the order of the processional and recessional, the positions at the altar, the sharing of the expenses, responsibilities of best man, etc.

"The Home Wedding," 2 cents; 3 cents postpaid; also advises about the procedure of the wedding, explains the difference between a home and church wedding, suggests the manner of decorating the house, and where to arrange the improvised altar.

"Correct Wedding Apparel," 2 cents; 3 cents postpaid, suggests the correct attire for the principal members of the wedding party for each particular kind of wedding—formal, informal, afternoon, evening. This is written from the etiquet point of view and does not concern problems of fashion such as color schemes, styles of dresses, etc.

"Wedding Breakfast or Reception," 2 cents; 3 cents postpaid, divulges information such as the order of the receiving line at the reception, the correct seating arrangement at the bridal table, duties of the host, and the like.

"Small Weddings at Small Cost," 2 cents; 3 cents postpaid, is intended to help the brides who must practice economy and cut down various expenses without sacrificing any of the dignity or charm of the wedding.

"Selecting the Trousseau," 2 cents; 3 cents postpaid, includes lists of personal clothing and household items with which it is customary for a bride to provide herself before her wedding. These lists have in mind the bride in average circumstances who intends to establish an average home. Of course the lists can be varied by each girl to suit her own peculiar needs. It would be impossible to compile a list that would be entirely suitable to every girl.

For those of you who wish to pick them up personally, call at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower lobby.

Mrs. K. H. Peters, Chicago—I have kept weeds out of a garden path for years by the use of ordinary rock salt. Weeds have no use for it. A dime's worth of the salt, dissolved in water and sprinkled along path, will chase away almost any weed that grows.

* *

Mrs. T. G. Henry, Chicago—Every one is always talking about "building a house that can grow." When we built our house years ago we had in mind also the time when we might want a house that could "shrink"—after the children had married and had homes of their own. Which is just what we did. We built a house which could easily be turned into a two family home, with one-half of it rented. I never have thought that keeping one eye on the future was a bad idea!

Mrs. Dora Wales, Pittsburgh, Pa.—Why won't more people help birds to build their nests? I like birds in my shrubs and trees, and all winter save bits of shredded cloth and yarn and string. Then when they return to my place in the spring, I leave those things around where they can find them.

* *

Helen Ames, Pittsburgh, Pa.—I keep a beautiful soft luster wax finish on my dining room table by applying thin coats of wax when needed. Formerly I piled thick coats of wax, and had hard work polishing. I've learned that thin wax coats give a nicer finish, and take much less effort!

And now—PLEASE—your idea!

"Or—if you insist on my full name—Sir Sri Chattrapati Wadyar Bahadur, Maharajah of Bundelpore, descendant of an illegitimate union between Vishnu and the flame. Rather excessive—don't you think? And you are . . . ?"

"Tom Ferguson."

"American, I fancy?"

"Much so."

"Then—none of my business, I realize—why the Tartar costume? And," pointing at Lois who stood at a short distance, worried and nervous, "why the Tartar lady? Eloping?"

Here—thought Tom—was a question difficult to answer, unless he confessed the truth.

Lois and he were up against it. What they needed was a friend—and the richer and more powerful the latter, the better for them. He had an idea that this picturesque stranger would satisfy both conditions. Besides, he had liked him from the first.

"Okay," he said. "Here goes! To start with—the lady isn't a Tartar. She's as American as I." He turned. "Lois!" he called.

"Yes, Tom?" She walked up.

"May I present his royal highness, the Maharajah of—o—Bunbunder."

"Reggie will do," suggested the Hindu. "That's what they named me at Eton."

He smiled at the two young Americans in his charming, rather melancholy way, and Lois smiled back at him.

"I," she replied, "am Lois—plain Lois."

"Delighted!"

"And now," said Tom, "I'll tell you the rest. We're in a spot—if you get what I mean . . ."

Greatly to the Babu's distress he took Lois and the Maharajah to the farther end of the platform. He told the whole tale—from the theft of the lilac jade to their decision to get it back, from their plan to go to Yal Doebe—"a most sacred place!" the Maharajah interrupted. "No end important to the Buddhists!"—to what had happened this afternoon. And he was taken aback when the Hindu, instead of expressing his sympathy, exclaimed:

"My word, old thing—how I envy you!"

"But why?"

"For being allowed to live. To live—ah—dangerously, beautifully! To live—by Vishnu and by Vishnu—as you please!"

"Surely you, if anybody," Tom said, "can live as you please, seeing who you are. A great Maharajah . . ."

"Too great. Too important. So—so damned important that I'm allowed to taste only the sweet and never the bitter. And—O, the sweet is so dreadfully bitter when you eat it day after day . . ."

Subjects Look on Him With Awed Reverence

For, he explained, he was looked up to by his subjects with superstitious reverence as a descendant of the gods, while, as hereditary ruler of one of the greatest of native Indian states, he was being treated by the British with a mixture of servility and suspicion. Thruout the length and breadth of Hindustan he had no equals and could have no friends—a simple statement which holds a poignant tragedy. And it was doubly poignant since he did not want to be a descendant of the gods; did not want the terrible, crushing authority and dignity which had been bequeathed to him by his forefathers.

"I have a plane," he said, "but I can't use it."

"Not hard to learn to fly," Tom told him.

"O, I can fly all right. But I'm not permitted to—at least, not alone. Always have a beastly Scotch instructor by my side. Perfect bounder. Forever interfering—taking the controls . . ."

"Why do you let him get away with it?"

"Can't help myself. There are the British—don't you see?"

"What have they to do with it?"

"Everything. Won't permit me to fly solo. Won't allow me to have a racing car nor any of the other things I spoke of. Of course I went to Eton and Oxford. But the last ten years, ever since I came on the throne, I haven't been to Europe. Not once."

"Surely you can afford it?"

"Afford it? My dear boy, I'm positively filthy with lucre."

"I don't get you," Tom said. "If I had all that dough . . ."

"You aren't familiar with Indian politics—are you?"

It appeared—according to the Maharajah—that, tho occasionally annoyed at their superciliousness, he was stanchly loyal to the British. But he had no wife, no issue. On his death a cousin would succeed; and this cousin, Prince Kishen Singh, was violently anti-British.

"Therefore," he continued, "the British want me to marry, to have a couple of sons or so—sons to be brought up in the good old imperial tradition. So far, in spite of all pressure, I've held out against it. And in the meantime, lest something happen to me and my cousin succeed to the throne, I'm being watched—what? Supervised. Not permitted to run the slightest risk. Of course it's all done very courteously. Mere suggestions on the part of Sir James Warren, the resident commissioner. Still, there you are."

Maharajah Offers to Finance Expedition

"Why don't you take the bit between your teeth and tell Sir James Whoziz where to get off?"

"You don't know the British. Iron fist in velvet glove." He shrugged his shoulders; sighed; then laughed. "By Jove—there's one thing I can do."

"Yes?"

"Draw a check—for Lois and you."

"F—for—" stammered the young American—"Lois—and . . . ?"

"Right. You need the money and I have it. Extraordinary quantities, I believe. Very simple—what?"

"Yes," agreed Lois with a little quiver in her voice. "Very simple. And, like all simple things, very, very sweet."

"Thank you, my dear." The Hindu smiled. "Well—to return to our goats . . ."

"Muttons!" corrected Tom.

"More goats than muttons in India, my dear fellow. Anyway, the train should be here in a brace of shakes. I'd like you to be my guests, for as long as you please. But you're in a hurry to get to Kashgar. All right. I'll arrange it."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," said Tom. "Damned decent of you. And I'm grateful. But . . ."

"Too proud to accept my friendship? Well—I also am proud. So infernally proud that I refuse to have my friendship rejected—and, mind you, the first time the gods have permitted me to offer it. Besides," with a little wink, "I'm quite the Maharajah, the bally autocrat. I can get most frightfully nasty when people disobey me. So you see, Tom . . . ?"

"Okay!" the latter interrupted with a laugh.

"Splendid! Tell me—can you fly a plane?"

"No."

"Too bad. Or I could have given you mine. You'd have gained a lot of time. And—you know—it's rather tough, crossing the Pamirs with a caravan this season of the year. Chiefly," looking at Lois, "for a woman." He added, half to himself: "By jove—if I could . . ."

"Why don't you?" Tom demanded quickly.

"Why don't I—what?"

"Don't play the innocent! Why don't you do what you're thinking of doing?"

"Don't you see, Reggie?" Lois said. "Here's your chance. Get away from Bundelpore. See America later on. Paris . . ."

"But the British . . ."

"You'll be a safe distance from them," chimed in Tom, a little impatiently. "If they kick up a rumpus all you'll have to do is to cable them two words."

"Two words?"

"Yes. 'So what?'"

A minute or two later the train pulled in. They went aboard and, excitedly, discussed their plan. The Maharajah clapped his hands; a bottle of champagne, ice, and lemons, and angostura bitters were brought; and they had a round of cocktails. They had a second round because they liked the first; and—seeking an excuse for the third—they decided to toast each other and pledge eternal friendship. They clinked glasses. They made appropriate remarks and, in later years, describing the scene, Tom was wont to say that they must have seemed like a trio out of some romantic musical comedy:

"Standing on our hind feet, having risen to the occasion. Swaying from side to side—no, no!—not the fault of the champagne, but the roadbed wasn't so New York Central. Holding hands—and gazing fondly into each other's eyes. Quite sentimental. Still, sort of decent and nice, if you get me."

He would add, with a self-conscious little laugh:

"First act finale, just before the curtain—eh . . . ? All it needed was a bevy of chorus cuties, wiggling their hips and warbling the refrain:

"'A land so strange my heart stands still
With orchids, sun, and dust;
It holds my soul,
This distant goal
Of laughter, battle, lust.
The mountain-tops bloom pale with snow
Above the dripping heat,
While dark girls smile and softly go
On bare and twinkling feet—
Naked feet—
Golden feet . . .'"

"We could hum it. A haunting, minor melody. New York—you remember?—went wild over it last winter when Winthrop Meredith scored that tremendous success of his. 'Moon Over Hindustan,' he called it; with specialty dances by Miss Lois Winters and additional music by Mr. Thomas Ferguson . . ."

Once more they discussed their plan. They discussed it again at length late that night, after they had reached Bundelpore, at supper in the Maharajah's palace, and outlined what had to be done. M'Gregor, the Scotch flying instructor, had to be asked to be ready early in the morning and to have the tanks of the plane well filled, as he was going on a long flight with his master. An automobile had to be waiting to drive them to the field, two miles from town, shortly after breakfast. A box of food had to be packed, a pair of field glasses to be taken along, and heavy clothing provided to shield them from the stabbing cold of the upper air layers above the frozen Pamirs.

Tom got up.

"Time to go to bed. We start at ten."

But it was around seven that the Maharajah came to Tom's room and announced tragically:

"The bally fat's on the bally fire!"

"What's up?" Tom jumped out of bed.

"Just this minute received a telegram from Sir James Warren. He's up country, shooting tigers and things. But he's hurrying back. Wants to see me as soon as he arrives. Urgent affairs of state."

"One of our servants must have spilled the beans."

"I'll find out the culprit." The Hindu's eyes glistened like mica disks. "I'll have him killed—slowly—humorously . . ."

"Any idea," interrupted Tom, "when Sir James will get here?"

"He's up beyond Chitor. Bad roads. Not before nine."

"Which gives us a couple of hours' leeway. We leave immediately."

"Sir James is sure to have warned my beastly Scotch flying instructor that I intend . . ."

"Wait, wait! Got a suit of European clothes you can let me have?"

"O, yes."

"Good. Send me the suit and have Lois called and . . ."

"What are you going to do?"

"If I was a good enough actor to get away at least for a time, with being a deaf and dumb Tartar, I can surely get away with being a not at all deaf and dumb American tourist. Watch me, Reggie . . ."

They watched indeed, the Maharajah and Lois, half an hour later, from a shelter of a clump of trees where they had parked the car. They stifled their laughter while Tom gave a perfect imitation of what the average Britisher, who has never crossed the Atlantic, expects an American to be, both in behavior and speech.

"Well, buddy," he began as he came within sight of McGregor, who was tinkering with the plane, "how they comin'?"

Tom Proudly Admits He's an American

No reply. Tom lit a cigaret, held out his case to the other, who refused with a shake of his head; asked numerous questions, some of them personal, until finally, goaded beyond endurance, McGregor demanded with sardonic intent:

"American—are ye not, mon?"

"I'll tell the world! And I guess you're English."

"I'm not!"—indignantly. "I'm a Scotsman. Frae Dundee."

"Gosh—who would have thought it? Flyer, aren't you?"

"Och—aye," McGregor said grudgingly.

"Swell little bus—ain't she?"

"Och—aye."

"British make?"

"Och—aye."

"May I have a hammer?"

"What for, mon?"

"I'll show you."

"Here ye are."

The heavy tool changed hands, and Tom said, half to himself:

"I hate to do it."

"Hate to do what?"

"This, buddy!" replied the American, as—bamm—the hammer descended on McGregor's unsuspecting head and knocked him cold.

He bent over the prone man and examined him swiftly. He felt relieved when he saw that the other was only in a faint. By this time Lois and the Maharajah had joined him; and the latter took a small envelope, which he had prepared before leaving the palace, from his pocket and slipped it into that of the Scotchman.

It contained thirty thousand rupees in banknotes and a scribbled note:

"You are fired. Here is a year's wages and an additional five thousand to pay for your headache. Give my regards to Sir James and tell him not to expect me back before next spring. [Signed] Bundelpore . . ."

A few minutes later they had climbed aboard.

"We're off!" the Hindu cried as he locked his feet on the rudder bar.

Plane Skims Over Snowbound Mountains

The plane climbed and sped until, by sign of a welter of sugar-loaf mountains, they knew that they had reached the chilly heart of the Pamirs; snowbound, now that winter had come booming out of the northern tundras; tho not completely covered by the great, white cloak. For—as the Maharajah, to avoid a treacherous air current, dropped down a few hundred feet—they noticed that, here and there, the wind had swept the mountainsides clean, exposing the grim, gray, grimacing skeleton of the land, barred with broad bands of glittering silver where waterfalls and steeply descending torrents were frozen into twisted columns.

Then gradually the mountains rolled away toward the west. They grew dim, ghostly. They ceased altogether. There was once more the snow, thickly covering a high plateau that stretched toward Turkestan. And to Tom, as he peered thru the field glasses, it was as if he could see tiny, black spots moving across the wilderness below, toiling on and on, so pitifully, so ineffectually puny against the huge, icy waste.

Animals, were they? Mountain sheep or wild asses or yaks?

Or—men? Maybe—O—the men on whose trail they were: Knox Bradford and Mehmet Khan Ertogrul?

The thought amused him.

They, down there, so slowly progressing. And Lois and he up in the air, swiftly flying. Getting to Kashgar far ahead of them.

But the next moment he reconsidered. Couldn't be they. For—looking back at the little spots below, now vanishing in the distance—he saw they were only two. And Knox Bradford and the other would have a whole caravan, or at least a number of pack mules, led by Mustaffa Abderrahman, their Afghan kaufila-bashee.

Yet, had Tom known, there had been, a few nights before, a small caravan—and Mustaffa Abderrahman. The three men warmly dressed. But feeling the bitter cold intensely, even as, at sundown, they camped close to a blazing fire of pine logs.

The Afghan and the Tartar, Moslems both, fatalists both, were soon asleep. Knox Bradford, the European, remained wide awake for hours, unable to dismiss physical and, too, mental discomfort as quickly as the two Asiatics.

He shivered. Cursed.

Never mind, tho. By the end of the week he would have crossed the Pamirs. Then Kashgar. A few days to recuperate before starting for Yal Doebe, to have a talk there with the old Buddhist priest—have him explain the mystery of the lilac jade.

Riches—the amulet would mean. For himself, and for Mehmet Khan Ertogrul . . .

He stared at the latter. Maybe—he had been a fool to let him in on this proposition on a fifty-fifty basis. True that the man had supplied most of the cash for the enterprise; that Yal Doebe was a holy town where Europeans were not looked upon with favor and that Mehmet, as a Tartar prince, would be able to wield a powerful influence there.

Still, he himself had done the real work. He had been old man Winters' partner; had found out about the existence of the piece of lilac jade; had followed Lois to America; had finally located her in New York at the Club Bombay. And so—fifty per cent was ridiculous. Ten per cent. That's all he'd give. And if the other didn't like it he could damn well lump it! After all, it was he, Knox Bradford, who was in actual possession of the amulet; was carrying it in a leather belt right next to his skin.

At last he dropped off to sleep—to be awakened by the Tartar shaking him, exclaiming excitedly:

"Look!"

He sat up. He stared.

And fear came to both . . .

There were moments, as they approached the Pamirs, when the peaks seemed to press straight up like a forest of lances.

PUPPY LOVE

BY ELSIE JANIS

(Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate, Inc.)

"HEY, JULIET! If you think any of the Romeos on this party are up, you're even dumber than I think." Kitty Cameron blinked at the rising sun. She was not in the habit of seeing it rise—in the country.

"The sun is my Romeo!" Molly Murray leaned further over the balcony's marble balustrade. "Look how he's kissing every little wave down there!"

"Oh! so even the sun's a two-timer." Kitty stepped thru the French windows, which led from the least impressive of Len Richardson's series of guest suites, that she and Molly shared, at the latter's request.

"I've never even been to a big country house, so please let me be myself—at least, when I go to bed," Molly had said; and as no one had any inside information on what this "new find" was accustomed to when she retired, Len Richardson said "O. K., Sweet Jasmine!" and ordered "all white flowers for the little corner."

"Who's down below? Don't tell me they've left a body outside!" Kitty tried to balance her long torso on the marble balustrade, in swimming instructor position, for a better view.

"See, Kitty! He's kissed the tiger lillies down here and they are starting to smile," Molly was whispering.

Kitty gave up her effort to see, and leaned against the balustrade, blinking. "Maybe I'm wrong, but I think that keeper of yours is in the bedroom!"

Molly's bare feet found the tiled floor deftly; she turned toward the French window, blue eyes wide with apprehension. "Oh, Kitty! That's mean," she laughed, "I thought for a minute you meant Mr. Richardson."

"Don't flatter him!" Kittie sank into one of the glorified steamer chairs. "Not that he wouldn't like to slice his income tax by making you a dependent, but he's too wise to pull a sunrise personal appearance on your first visit to his million dollar shack."

"I like him," Molly's eyes were fastened on the home life of Mr. and Mrs. Starling in the branches of the giant cedar, which spread over the balcony, "but when anyone is rich, and also good looking, there must be a catch in it. Oh, look! They've got babies up there!"

Kitty did not look. "Of course, theres' a catch—and he's it! All the girls want to know the answer and you seem to be it. Tell Kitty, baby, are you playing a game, or are you that gal we used to read about—I mean, the 'Virtue gets its own reward' type?"

Molly Looks at Bare Toes for Encouragement

Molly looked at her bare toes; they wriggled encouragement. "I'm straight, if that's what you want to know, Kitty—and when I go crooked, it will be for love. Maybe Mr. Richardson is lovable, but I don't feel a thing yet."

"Oh, so you know how love feels, Miss Voice of Experience?"

"Puppy love, yes!" Molly smiled up at the starlings. "And I don't know that I want to meet any full grown canines."

"Too late, baby, you've met them! I'm going back to bed, beauty sleep being one of the first 'must haves' among the wise female canines. You stick to your guns, sweet, and don't fire till you see the whites of their marriage licenses."

Molly was a very youthful 18, in comparison to the 1939 model. Neither the youngest, or eldest, of seven children, born to the Patrick Murrays in a small upstate village, she had been just another baby, which they welcomed with respectable middle class enthusiasm.

Later on, when the eldest boy became a radio operator on a ship, and the eldest girl became a school teacher in an Albany kindergarten, the Patrick Murrays were not surprised, or shocked, to hear of Molly's decision to go on the stage—she had sung and danced ever since she could talk and toddle. They possessed that middle class virtue—"confidence in children." She left with their blessing—and quite a bit of their savings.

"Let her try her wings," said Pat.

"Sure, darlin', but I hope they will bring her back to Joe," said Mrs. Pat. [Joe was the boy who had introduced Molly to the undisputed happiness of nice, decent "puppy love."]

There was not much "puppy" naivety in Joe's good-by. "Molly o' Mine," he said, as they walked beside the stream where they had waded all their lives, "I trust you, I love you, and I'm going to marry you when you are ready. Remember that, my little love. No matter where you are, I'll be with you in thought, and no matter when you come, I'll be waiting. Will you remember that?"

Molly o' Mine! She smiled happily. Mrs. Starling called the attention of her mate to this unusual human below them, who was sitting smiling at sunrise, instead of staggering about and singing off key.

"I haven't forgotten, Joe, I hope I can't," Molly murmured.

Joe must have heard for he was singing thru a smile, as he baited his hook, beside their "puppy love" Sunday-go-to-meeting stream up state.

At noon that Sunday, Joe had more proofs of his accomplishment for Old Sol to beam down upon than Len Richardson had. Joe grinned back at Sol—he had what he went after. Trout!

Len Richardson was lying on his private beach, trying to decide what bait to use. Old Sol made him squint, as he gazed at what he wanted.

"Well, what do you say, Sweet Jasmine? Do you want a career or comfort?"

"I don't know, Mr. Richardson—er, I mean—Len. Today I'd settle for just this grand salt air. How old are you?" Molly's blue eyes went over him like an adding machine.

Len sat up, ostensibly to light a cigaret. He was thinking of that budding "corporation," his Turkish bath masseur had prodded after the last "binge" he had tried to snap out of.

"I'm 36, Jasmine, but let me tip you off. There are two things not to mention on parties like these—age and connubial bliss." He offered her a cigaret and brushed her fingers with a kiss as she took one from his crested case.

"All right, I'll remember, but I would like to know, whether you are married, or not."

Just what Molly thought "connubial bliss" was, Len could not fathom, but of one thing he was certain—he was facing something very like a faint breath of spring.

"How long have you been in the city, Sweet Jasmine?" he said.

"Five weeks tomorrow. I've been in the show two weeks. Why?"

Len had found out what he wanted to know. The current Richardson separation suit had made the headlines three months before. "I'm wondering how long you will remain as utterly adorable as you are," he said.

Kitty Gives Molly Some Sound Advice

The week-end passed, as usual. Most of the guests passed out around the place, as usual. Molly was at her make-up shelf on Monday night, as usual, but she had heard a lot of "overtures" besides the one the orchestra was playing as she tried to powder over the suntanned setting of her clear blue eyes.

"Are you going to Jack Wilstack's party?" Kitty was late as usual.

"No. Len doesn't want me to go. He says it's a gathering of roughnecks and barebacks. He's taking me to the Rainbow Room."

"Well, good luck, Molly. The guy who said, 'Actions speak louder than words,' didn't figure on locations like the Rainbow Room, so hang your hopes on a bit of 'swing,' but don't go near the terrace, darling!"

"All right, teacher!" Molly ran out of the room with the rest of the small girls.

"O, Len! It's too beautiful!" Despite "teacher's" advice, Molly was on a dark and secluded part of the terrace, which only a few guests knew about. "I never dreamed New York was so grand to look down on!"

Len had moved close to her side and stood, also looking down—he looked at the black waves crowning Molly's head, having seen New York from every angle.

"Why not try looking up? You might find something else you never dreamed of." His voice was low.

"You mean the stars? Oh, I've dreamed of them. I——"

Whatever Molly had dreamed about the stars, was kissed right out of her mind, as Len did an excellent job of the erasing of "puppy love" impressions.

"Do you like kissing me, White Jasmine?" His voice was husky.

Molly's long lashes rose slowly from their resting place on her soft cheeks, to disclose the definite "Yes!" in her dream drenched eyes.

A query flashed from her active mind to her trembling young body, why didn't Joe know about these kisses? Do you have to learn about them in college? The slim young body shivered slightly and responded, "I'm a stranger here myself!"

Len Richardson's arms registered definitely, "Welcome, stranger."

"My White Jasmine! There is nothing I won't do for you," his lips added.

"Having tried everything else, I think I'm taking up extortion!"

Len and Molly turned to glare at Kitty from their personal Paradise, as if she were the ambassadoress from the rival region.

Len cleared his throat. "Smart dialogue, but there's a 'de trop' sign on your chest, where you usually wear that emerald I gave you, Kitty dear."

"Yeah? Well, emeralds have gone down in value, Len dear, and I don't believe in signs. No one at Wilstack's shindig would believe my Rainbow Room story about you two, so I came over to see if Molly had followed my 'no terrace' tip."

"Kitty! This is all very silly!" Molly's voice trembled angrily. "You would think I was a child!"

"I would think so if I didn't know you are. As it is, I don't mind being silly because I know what I'm doing—no matter what I do. You don't, and Len's taking no time out from kissing, to tell you."

"Oh, for God's sake, 'Sister Katherine,' if you are going to preach, let's get a drink to help us wash it down. Come on, darling." Len started toward the lighted side of the terrace, leading Molly by the hand.

"Wait a minute, Len! Stuffy Michaels is waiting for us, and I want to give Molly an earful, even if it goes out the other side. This was all done in fun, as far as the 'roughnecks and barebacks' at the party know. The betting was that Molly had already graduated and is getting her diploma from the 'Headmaster Richardson' tonight. I took the bets and Stuffy came along. I said 'Let me find them by myself, I've got a gag I want to pull on little Molly.' I said that to Stuffy, but I haven't any gag."

"If you had, I would enjoy pushing it into your pretty trap!" Len was smiling, but Kitty knew that "T. N. T."-eed up smile.

"Be yourself, Len. I just want Molly to know what she is in for. Molly, listen! If you're ready to join the league of free thinkers—and dressers, I for one, will welcome you, but from tonight on, you're going to be labeled as 'Len's current yen,' if we don't all go back to that party together. Every guy there knows Len's line—it forms on the right, and you are left."

"Nice talk, my pal!" Len's smile revealed no real humor.

"Molly, I just want you to be sure you're right. My voice was never meant for psalm singin', but don't dive before you know how deep you're goin'."

Len Leaves Girls to Order Drinks

"Maybe my sight is failing, but I think your halo is on your ear!" Len walked quickly away. As he turned the corner from the shadowed part of the terrace and stood in the bright light, he called: "I'll order the drinks. Mickey Finns, I think you said, Kitty?"

Molly burst into tears. "Now look what you've done! I hope you're satisfied!"

"That's just it! When I look at what I've done ever since I was your age, I'm not satisfied. Oh, Molly! Don't get me wrong. I only want you to know the odds. Tomorrow night, if you want to go to Len's pent house, and check your parachute with the elevator boy, I'll be right with you—I don't mean, in the pent house. I mean, pulling for you to get everything you want—from Len, but, honey, be sure you don't want the old wedding band. He'll get you Ray Noble's band, or Lombardo's, no matter what they cost, but Mrs. Richardson is still wearing the other one and she'll have enlarged knuckles as long as it suits her plans."

Molly's sobs had disintegrated to sniffs. "I think he's wonderful!"

They were arm in arm when they met Len and Stuffy Michaels inside. "Well, I guess I'm in for a new set of props! That gang at Wilstack's bet me everything but a vacuum cleaner," Kitty winked at Molly.

"I still don't know why no one thought I would like this place," Molly winked at Len.

"They thought you were not interested in getting up in the world," Len did not pass the wink on to Stuffy. His light touch, not entirely aboveboard, reminded Molly of the terrace. She contributed one of the few blushes of the early summer season.

In quartet unison, they drained their glasses. Kitty rose. "Let's go! I see tongues wagging in champagne over at the Wilstack cabin."

During the three hours' frolic at Jack Wilstack's, Len and Molly were never apart, but they were never alone. Kitty was an adept mistress of ceremonies.

"We'll drop you!" Len's inflection added. "You've said your piece, now lay off," to Kitty, as the quartet stood outside of Wilstack's "cabin" on Park avenue.

This was the kind of a dawn, Kitty knew well. She was not blinking, tho the party had been quite a blinder. "Thanks! Then you can stagger right to the club, Stuffy. Len says he'll drop us. It's a good thing Molly asked me to stay with her."

Molly, already in Len's car, didn't hear Kitty's lie. She was asleep as soon as she sank into the soft upholstering.

"Did she ask you to stay with her?" Len had reached the "chip on shoulder" stage of conviviality.

"Did she ask you?" Kitty countered. "Bring on the dice, we'll shoot for our sleeping beauty." She stepped into the car.

"Take the ladies home, Jenkins. I'll walk."

"Very good, sir!" Jenkins said, as the door slammed.

"Jenkins, we'll go to my place, please."

Molly stirred, as the car started. Kitty's arm went around her protectively.

As the car turned across 72d street, toward Riverside drive, Kitty faced the first reflected rays of sun on the Hudson river, unflinchingly.

Her thoughts raced the Hispano motor. Why was she horning in on this kid's affairs? "I'm only 27 myself—not 67. Well, after all, it's my fault that she ever met that gang. Len and the lugs wanted some new 'talent' for a house party. I told her I'd take care of her but, Lord, I didn't think there was a kid, 18, left that didn't know the summer widower game backwards."

The car drew up in front of Kitty's "love nest," located in a former private residence with three other "nests" of Broadway birdies.

"Molly!" Kitty moved her shoulder brusquely, to waken her.

"What is it?" Molly tried to look awake, and only succeeded in looking surprised.

"Come on, baby, that's the Hudson. You're going into it head first if you don't snap out of your daze."

"I'm out!" Molly said softly—and she was.

"Thanks, Jenkins, and good 'mornnight'!" Kitty walked to the grilled front door; Molly followed her soberly, as Kitty knew she would. Kitty recognized the difference between a drunken stupor and kid-sleepiness. She had known both.

News Goes Around Clubs Like Chain Letter

The news that Len Richardson had found something he couldn't buy went around his clubs like a chain letter. No one broke the links of laughter.

For two weeks Kitty watched his tactics with suspicion. He gave parties for Molly—Kitty was invited. He sent Molly flowers every day. Kitty received some from him every other day. There were no jewels hiding out under the petals of Molly's white orchids, and no requests for understanding aid in Kitty's deep purple ones.

Molly was pointed out, admired, criticized, suspected, and discussed.

Len was, apparently, thrilled by his new "good-night-at-the-door" status. The sight of him, beaming under a "love on the leash" regime, had Kitty down. When Kitty was taken down, she got up and talked.

"Tell me, baby," she patted Molly's ringless hand and singled out the wedding ring digit to emphasize her remarks, "has Len said anything about this little nude number?"

"Oh, yes! He's always wanting to buy me an engagement ring, but I've told him I'll take it—and the wedding ring—at the same time." Molly smiled. "Mrs. R.'s getting a divorce, you know."

"No, I don't know. Does she?"

Kitty did know that the Len Richardson's "separation" suit had been a bi-annual headline for years. She had caused it one year, herself. She knew that Cleo Richardson really loved her wayward mate, and that another "yen" on his part, meant another trip abroad for Mrs. R.—but she always returned to find a contrite and docile straggler, ready to chuck the primrose path and start on another honeymoon.

"Of course, she must know," Molly smiled tolerantly, "and anyway Len says I'm to sit tight and leave everything to him."

"I'd like to be sure he would sit sober, and leave everything to you, sweet."

Kitty left Molly, dangling in day dreams, and called George Ross on the phone. Ross had been Cleo Richardson's lawyer for at least three "bi-annuals." He and Kitty had found a lot in common, besides the settlement, when the Richardsons started a new honeymoon, the year Kitty had almost made the grade as co-respondent. They were still such pals, that her call brought him, bounding uptown, brief case under one arm—and a bottle of Scotch under the other.

"Well, beautiful, this is an unexpected pleasure—or is it just business?"

"I've heard of combining the two, but let's play safe for a few minutes, my brainy one."

Kitty took the "pleasure" from his hand and gave him a kiss in exchange. "George, where is Cleo Richardson? Has she started the spring divorce, and does she know about Molly Murray?"

Kitty was looking pretty serious for Kitty, Ross thought. "Well, I'll tell you. Cleo had washed up Len's last false step, which landed her on the beach at Waikiki. She was on her way home, arrived in Hollywood, heard about this new flareup of his, and now——"

"Does she know that Molly is the 'license or leave me' type?" Kitty interrupted.

George grinned. "I'll say she does. It must have cost her plenty to tell me so for 25 minutes on the phone last night. She's flying east tomorrow, veiled, and in an air berth. She doesn't want him to know that she's back—and worried. She's really 'nuts' about him, you know, Kitty!"

"Plenty! What's more, I think he's 'nuts' about her. I know he's 'nuts' anyway, but I'm not going to see Molly get cracked up with him. He's got her kidded that Mrs. R.'s getting a divorce."

"I have Cleo's own assurance that she wouldn't lose him for a million dollars, and she'd put up a fight even on those terms. Well, we've got to buy your 'angel child' off. Funny, I never thought of you as 'just a mother to guide' anything, except a Rolls Royce, Kitty, old softie."

"There's no question of buying Molly off, but I've got a plan. You keep Mrs. R. in her veil—and if necessary, in her berth, until you hear from me."

"You flatter me, but I'll do my best. The trouble is, she knows from past reunions that if she can get within touching distance, she can get her man back."

An hour later, while George Ross was waiting for the elevator, he might have heard Kitty telephoning, "Western Union, please. A straight telegram to Joe, care of Patrick Murray, Waterford, N. Y."

That night at supper, the "week-end and how to spend it" question came up with its Thursday evening regularity. Len Richardson's yacht was said to be "floating aimlessly about, waiting as usual."

"What about a really select sailing number—say a trio?" was Kitty's suggestion to the owner.

"What would you do for amusement?" His expression suggested suspicion more than interest.

"You men are a riot! You're so convinced that you are the big items in amusement. I'd love a rest. Honest, Len. I know Molly wouldn't go alone with you, because I'd trip her first, but now that we all understand what's what in the combination, I don't mind being just 'Old Alibi Annie,' at all. Quiet, or we'll have some of this gang swimming out to crash the decks." Kitty sipped her champagne, quite content with her "sowing."

Her reaping started when Len called her on the phone next day. "Molly and I think it's swell of you, Kitty. We've planned it all out. I'll go down to the boat at noon tomorrow, and be waiting for you girls. I've ordered everything that I usually take on my honeymoons—well, most everything, only I've got enough for two brides in name only."

Kitty could imagine his expression. He sounded so angelic that she knew he was planning to lock her in a stateroom, accidentally. She had met up with some of his "accidents" in the old days.

"It sounds grand, Len! I'll be matey, old dear. Will the car call for us?"

"I'll tell Jenkins to wait outside my place. You girls will take a cab up there so no one will get on to our hide away cruise." Len was chuckling.

"Don't even tell Jenkins the plan, Len. He's gabby. Just tell him to wait."

After Kitty hung up the receiver she picked it up again and called George Ross for a little reassurance. "Are you all set, George?"

"Sure as shootin' and prepared to get shot! How about you?"

"O. K., I think, but just to play safe, I think I'm going into my prayers."

Home Town Boy Puts In an Appearance

"Miss Murray, please!"

The stage doorman looked up from his racing form, reluctantly. "Saturday night, they're all late gettin' out. Want to send in a card?"

"No, thanks! Not even if I had one. I'm a surprise!"

"Yeah? From the old home town, no doubt?" The doorman looked dubious.

"No doubt at all! Miss Kitty Cameron hasn't come out, either, has she?"

"No, but she——"

"O. K., Molly, make it snappy! I'll do my phoning." Kitty's unmistakable huskiness floated down the stairs by the stage door.

"That's her now," the doorman said

"Hello, Joe!" Kitty held out her hand, "come on outside. It's hotter than it should be, above ground." She practically dragged Joe thru the stage door.

"How did you know it was me?" he stammered.

"I've seen more pictures of you than you could count. Now, listen, Joe, do you understand everything I wrote?" Kitty was breathless.

"Sure! and I think you're swell. I——"

"Never mind about me, Molly's coming right down. Don't forget tho—cut out the 'puppy love'! You're bucking prize winning competition!"

"I get you!" Joe's broad shoulders squared themselves, expectantly.

"You wait now. I'll come out with her—and good luck, Puppy!" Kitty rushed in thru the stage door.

Five minutes later, she and Molly came out together, both carrying week-end bags, sport coats, and other "let's have a party" equipment.

"Molly o' Mine!" Joe stepped into their path. Without waiting for any reaction, Joe grabbed Molly and kissed her thoroly.

Molly's coat fell from her arm; her tip-tilted hat took a bigger tip backwards.

"Joe!" she gasped, as he released her, "Joe! Oh, my darling Joe!"

"Well, you never told me that your friend Joe wears lip rouge." Kitty's drawl was especially exaggerated. "In case Molly won't tell you, I'm her friend, Kitty Cameron. I hope she has bored you about me, like she's bored me about you."

"I'm so glad to meet you, Miss—er, Kitty." They shook hands, as in a first meeting.

"Oh, excuse me!" Molly gasped. "I'm just a wreck from this surprise! Joe, where did you come from—and why didn't you let me know?" Her eyes searched his handsome features, eagerly.

"Well, I'll tell you all about it. Let's get a soda, or—say, were you going somewhere?" He took both the bags as if he had just noticed them.

"I'll say we're going somewhere!" [Kitty jumped aboard her plan] "we are going to——"

"Well, anyway, let's have a soda, Kitty," Molly cut in on the week-end details, just as Kitty hoped she would. All the old "pipe down" signals were flashed to Kitty, including the kick on the shin.

Kitty beamed. "Well, I'll tell you what. You kids get a soda and I'll phone that we'll be late at—"

"That's fine, Kitty!" Molly interrupted, "We'll meet you back here in 15 minutes." They went off, arm in arm, discussing the comparative merits of chocolate and strawberry.

"I think Len will take raspberry!" Kitty murmured. "Hey, Bill, lift these bags inside for me, will you?" She walked in after the doorkeeper and helped herself to his chair. "Want to use your phone—private stuff, Bill."

"O. K. Miss Cameron!" Bill did an "about face" into the street.

A half hour later, Molly and Joe faced what seemed to be an irate Kitty. "I'm so sorry, Kitty darling, but Joe got telling me about everything up home, and——"

"Oh, don't mind me!" Kitty sneered, "I'm just the type to hang around stage doors, waiting, but you'll take the hisses from our host when we make the late entrance."

"Oh, Kitty, please don't be sore at me!" Molly's arms went around her neck; Kitty stood erect, impassive and unresponsive, tho her heart was knocking off knots in expectation.

"Kitty, Joe's come down in Dad's car and he wants me to go home for tomorrow. He wants to start right now. Mama's not well, but she wouldn't tell me. It's just too wonderful that I've got my bag and everything, and——"

"And what am I supposed to do!" Kitty was sticking to her post with great difficulty.

"You can explain to everybody at the party that I just had to see my mother." The word "everybody" was stressed. "Please, Kitty, you can fix anything."

"I'm beginning to think so," Kitty said. "All right, I'll take the slap, but are you sure you want to take a chance on losing 'everybody's' friendship?" There was no doubt about the question, which flashed from Kitty's eyes to Molly's.

Joe stood by, looking dumb as Molly thought he was—and as handsome as she knew he was. Molly kissed Kitty quickly. "I know I care more about Joe than I do about anybody or 'everybody.' Maria, our setter, has eight new puppies, Kitty!"

"Oh, yeah? So you two are going back to keep them company? Well, put me in a taxi, kids, and get on your way. Bless you both! See you Monday, Molly, and I'm glad to have seen the Joe I've heard so much about."

"Good night!" they said in harmonious unison.

Kitty called out of the window, as the taxi started. "Don't look now, but I think that red light ahead is 'everybody's' face."

"What does she mean?" Joe looked after the disappearing taxi.

"Oh, nothing!" Molly squeezed his arm. "That's crazy city stuff. Everybody goes around saying, 'Don't look now, but——' and then, something or other silly."

"Oh, Joe, I'm so glad you came. Let's hurry and get started—home!"

In front of Len Richardson's house, George Ross stood waiting when Kitty's cab drew up.

"O. K.?" Kitty said, as he stepped inside.

"Swell! Off at 12, when I didn't hear from you again. Jenkins has your letter to the expectant host."

Kitty relaxed with a sigh. "I'm sure that flickering light ahead is our bottle of Scotch beckoning, my dear partner."

Len stepped from the wheelhouse as "The Mirage's" motor launch breezed alongside. He leaned over the rail and called, "Welcome aboard the lugger!"

Len Waits on Deck in Speechless Daze

The launch's searchlight flooded and blinded him at the same time. His hearing was still good, however.

"Thanks, darling, and Aloha! as we say in Waikiki," was what he heard. He stood, waiting in a daze, speechless.

"Oh, Len!" She was in his arms, "It is so like you to do this!"

He didn't know what he had done—he only knew he was kissing Cleo again, and that was all he wanted to do.

She drew back to look into his eyes. "I couldn't believe it when George Ross told me, but I was so happy that we don't have to have any 'post-mortems' this time."

"Darling Cleo! My own sweet!" the phrase was punctuated with kisses. Len's eyes were brimming. The captain of "The Mirage" raced the launch's motor in a not too gentle hint.

"Oh, Len, we forgot the captain's existence."

Len held her closer to him. "The captain? I've forgotten the world's existence!"

Cleo stepped out of his arms.

Len grabbed her, hungrily. "This is too wonderful! I can't believe it! I——"

"I'll make you believe it! Oh, here's a letter from George he said you must have at once. Be up in a minute, darling."

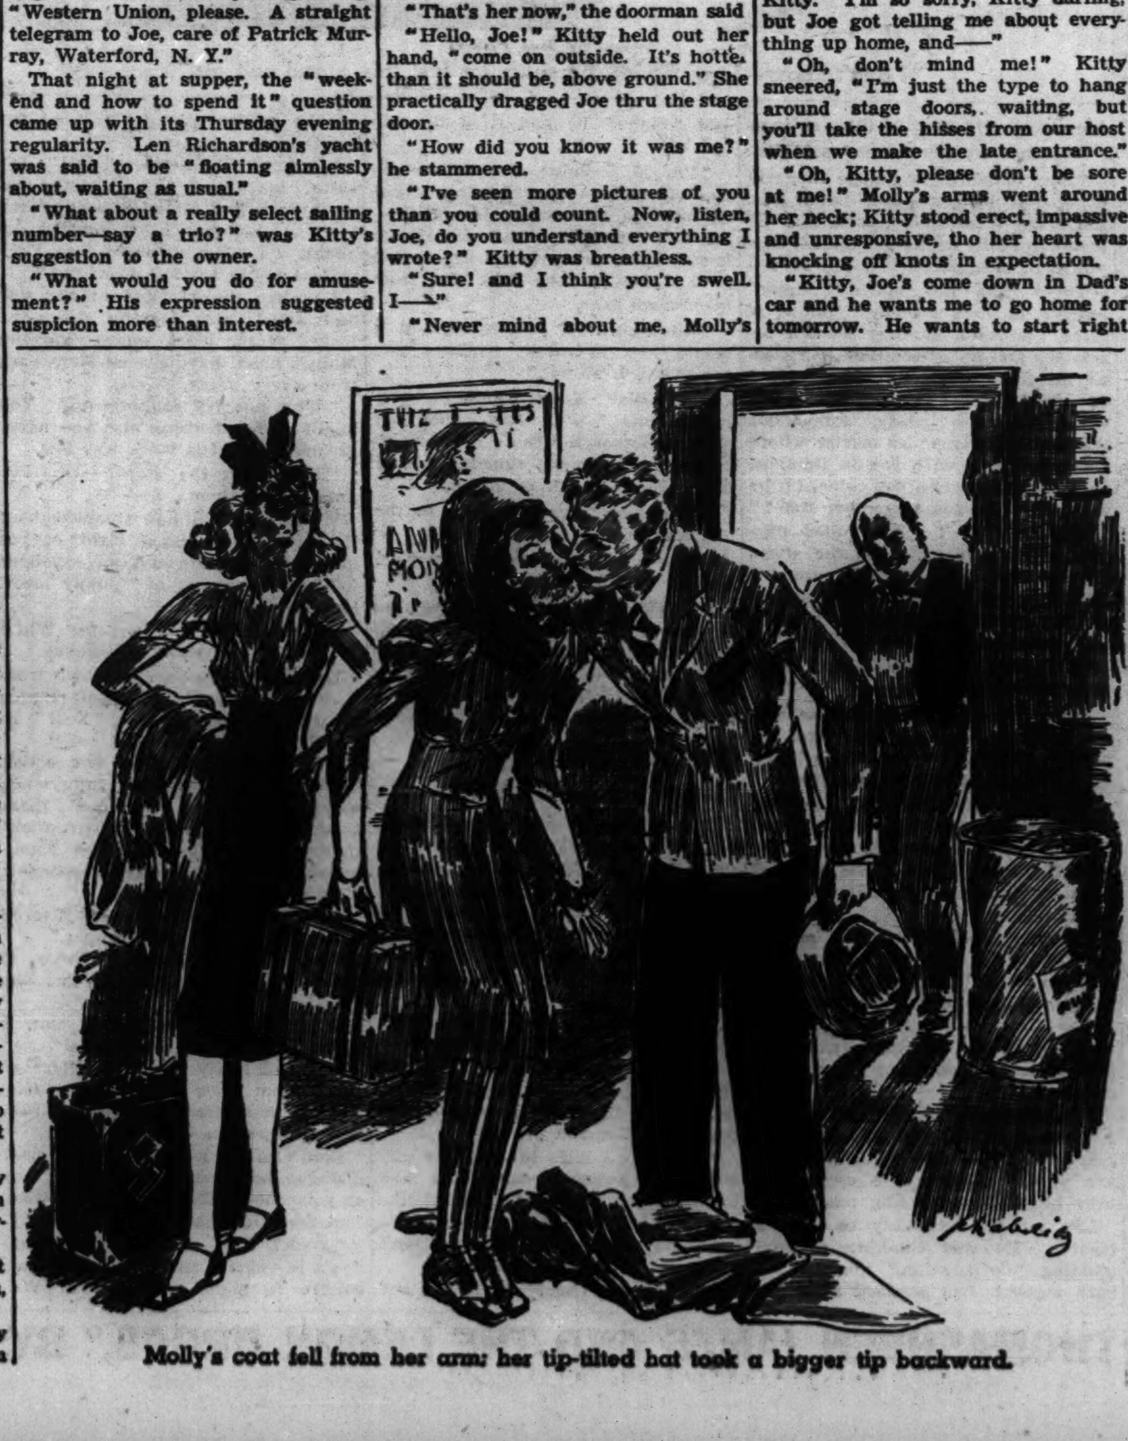
Len opened the letter quickly. "All right, captain, there are no more customers." He walked into the wheelhouse.

The letter was on Ross' stationery, but the first line told him it was from Kitty.

"Len, dear: Excuse an old flame for burning your bridges. I think the only woman you ever really loved is on board. Forgive the tricks, old sweet. She thinks you planned the week-end for her. Don't disillusion her. Molly's gone home for Sunday. —Kitty."

The day letter from Molly placed the last star in Kitty's crown at the weekly Monday afternoon rehearsal: "Kitty, darling: Please tell them I won't be back in the show. Joe had a gold band and the 'nude finger' you worried about walked right into it. He says, 'Tell her that the mother and puppies are doing well—including us.' Much love—Molly."

Kitty smiled and the gigantic Mazda light, hanging stage center, snarled, "Who's this blonde that's trying to show me up?"



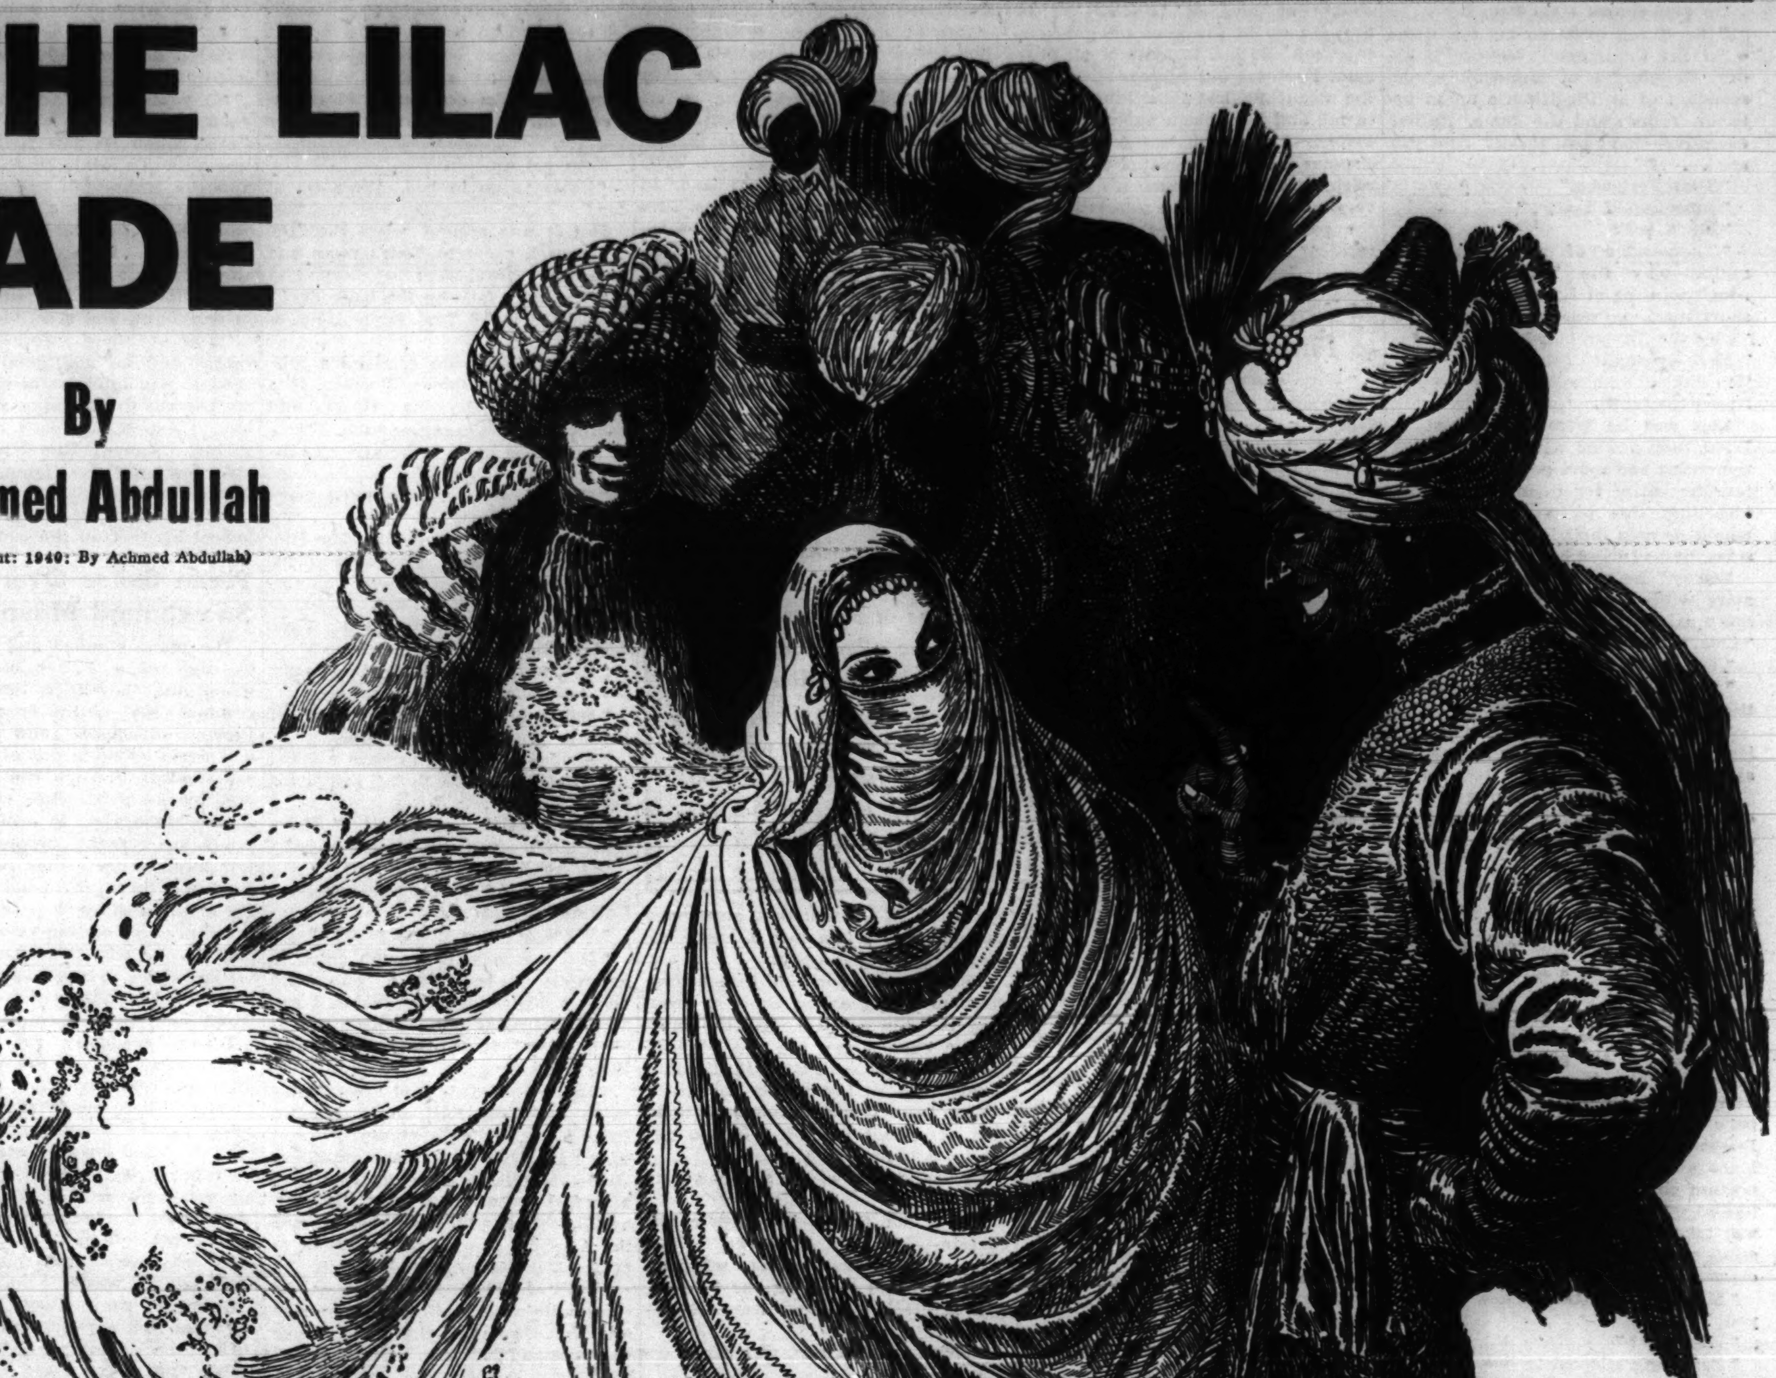
Molly's coat fell from her arm; her tip-tilted hat took a bigger tip backward.

THE LILAC JADE

By

Achmed Abdullah

(Copyright: 1940: By Achmed Abdullah)



"You need the money, and I have it. Extraordinary quantities, I believe. Very simple—what?"

What Has Gone Before

Lois Winters, a dancer at the Bombay Club in New York, does a specialty number of a dance she learned as a child in Chinese Turkestan. She and Tom Ferguson, violinist at the club, are in love. Tom's father, a rich automobile manufacturer, tries to break up the romance and also Tom's musical career, but Lois wins him over when she tells him she will not marry Tom until he has made good on his own. Bradford, who was Lois' father's partner, has been trailing her for some time in search of the lilac jade that her father gave her when he was dying, saying that it meant untold riches. Bradford, accompanied by Mehmet, an Asiatic, traces her to the Bombay Club, and, pretending to rescue her from a drunken man who has accosted her on her way home, they take her to her apartment, drug her, and steal the jade. She and Tom put a detective to work and find out they have fled to India. Lois and Tom decide the jade is valuable enough for them to follow the two crooks, particularly when they see an advertisment for an actress and a musician for a traveling show going to India. They sign up with the show, managed by Ben Einstein but owned by his wife, Yvonne Fleury. On reaching Calcutta they run into Musa Bek and his wife, old family servants of the Winterses, and Musa agrees to help trace the stolen jade. Yvonne becomes jealous of Lois and fires Lois and Tom. They are stranded without fare back to New York. The hotel keeper overcharges them and Tom gets into a row, landing in jail. With the aid of his cellmate and some fancy bribing Tom breaks jail. In the meantime Musa Bek has been on the trail of Bradford and Mehmet. He has a plan worked out to get them.

INSTALMENT VIII.

A FEW minutes later Lois returned. She was dressed in a loose shirt of pale rose muslin embroidered with tiny butterflies, trousers of stiff purple velvet, a short jacket of a slightly deeper tint. Of her face, hidden by a silken veil, nothing was visible except the eyes and the broad, white forehead.

"Scrumptuous!" Tom announced. "What is it?"

"Habeebah's finest. And you'll be wearing Musa Bek's. That's how we'll travel. As Tartars. And, at least where you are concerned, it's the only way to get out of Calcutta—with the police watching the trains and——"

"What about the lingo, my bright little darling? I speak nothing but English, of a strictly American brand. And, as for Tartar, until recently I thought it was a sauce."

"I, on the other hand, speak it like a native. We'll travel as brother and sister."

"Aren't Tartar brothers allowed to open their faces except to eat?"

"Not this one. You've been stricken by a disease which left you deaf and dumb. And I'm taking you home to your sorrowing father."

"My father always did think me dumb, if not deaf. But traveling costs money."

"Musa Bek will lend us his savings. He said that, in the old days, my dad never counted the pennies, was generous to him and his wife. I couldn't refuse him. Nor, practically, did I want to. For what else can we do? And we'll pay him back . . ."

They left early on the following morning to take the train as far as the rail-head, three days' travel north of Calcutta, near Srinagar, whence they would have to proceed by caravan to Gilgit.

Howrah station was in its usual state of turmoil. A tangle of race and color and faith, and, of course, the Babu and half-caste railroad employés using the dignity of blue uniforms to bully the native passengers. In spite of his disguise Tom felt at first conspicuous.

But his nervousness vanished when he noticed that, without as much as a sidewise glance, he was being accepted as a fellow Asiatic. So much so that, happening to bump into a Goanese porter, the man—hating all Moslems and seeing that this particular one, so different from his boisterous breed, seemed quiet and shy—broke into a stream of foul curses and cried:

"How dare you attack a servant of the Ber-ritish raj, O son of a noseless mother? This is a matter for the police!"

Tom's temper, as always, was short. Almost he forgot that he was supposed to be deaf and dumb. But, rapidly, reading the danger sign in his storm blue eyes, Lois interfered.

"Shut up!" she whispered. She turned to an elderly Tartar. "I crave your protection, O hero!" she said. "This person," pointing at the porter, "is insulting my brother."

"Wah," inquired the other, logically as he saw it, "has not your brother good Tartar fists of his own?"

"The Lord had stricken him deaf and dumb. And," amused as she thought how furious Tom would be, later on, when she told him, "his mind is that of an innocent child."

"Allah His mercy!" was the older man's pious exclamation. Then he addressed the porter, passionately, as if stating a truth known to all mankind: "It is a matter of common bazaar gossip that all half-castes are thieving, lousy piglings. Away, O spawn of leprous gutter rats!"

Emphasizes Point with Swift Kick

He emphasized the point by planting a large foot on the small of the porter's back and sending him spinning against a pile of trunks; bowed courteously to Lois; gallantly helped her into the carriage.

He patted Tom on the shoulder.

"Poor, poor lad!" he said with genuine sympathy.

The other people in the compartment, too, were sorry when they heard of Tom's affliction, consideration for the sick and demented being the finest of Asia's virtues. And they regretted that they were so poor, else would gladly have helped when the conductor entered the carriage and asked for tickets. For it was then that trouble started, since Lois and Tom had not counted the money which Musa Bek had given them. All his savings, but—Lois discovered now—so pitifully little. Just about enough to pay their way one-third of the distance to Srinagar.

She wondered what she should do. She could not confer with Tom, since he was supposed to be deaf and dumb. Finally she made up her mind. She gave all the money, except a few rupees, to the conductor, demanding tickets for as far as it would take them. And after a while, when everybody was snoring, she spoke to Tom in an undertone.

"The tickets," she said, "will take us to Chandrapore, somewhere in Rajputana."

"And then . . . ?"

"We'll cross that bridge when we get to it."

"You bet!"

So they spoke bravely. Yet there was doubt in their minds; a certain fear—traveling into the unknown. Presently Tom's fear began disappearing as he looked out, as he listened to the chattering voices of the natives, unable to understand; listened to the rhythmic thud of the train; listened to—it seemed like an echo of it all—the music in a back cell of his brain.

Music of the orient, wailing its minor harmonies.

He would catch it; write it down. First the tunes for Winthrop Meredith's show. Then, later, real music. His symphony. A dramatic tale, expressed in terms of music. Yet not altogether dramatic. There would be, too, elements of humor. Indeed, these people had humor. Poor, most of them; often hungry. Yet they seemed to enjoy life to the full. For instance, this elderly Tartar who had helped him and Lois. He was talking to her—and how he laughed; how all the others laughed!

Tom wondered what the man might be saying; would have been surprised could he have understood. For the other was advising Lois how to deal with the station master at Chandrapore if, without money, she wished to continue her journey to Srinagar.

Chaos Reigns at Railway Station

The station at Chandrapore seemed to consist of a chaotic whirlwind of minute, stabbing quartz grains; seven red necked vultures making unseemly noises in their throats as they quarreled over the carcass of a buffalo calf; two mangy dogs scratching for fleas; three long tailed monkeys up a gnarled tree. Also a rusty water tower. Also, at the farther end of the platform, a group of richly garbed Hindus, evidently waiting for another train. Also Krishna Dass, the Babu station master, of whom the Tartar had told his tale.

A Babu—thought Tom—who seemed twin brother to the Calcutta gaoler. As coffee-brown he was; as pompous as, when Lois approached him and explained her predicament in Tartar, he, being a linguist like most of his breed, replied in the same language:

"Be pleased to take your feet away from here, O female of no importance at all!"

"Listen, O protector of the pitiful" she implored. "Here is my brother. Sick. Deaf and dumb. And we have no money. And—O—it would be so easy for you to give us two a little ticket . . ."

"And," indignantly, "cheat the raj whom I serve? Begone!"

Then Lois, smiling behind her veil, remembered the Tartar's advice. Her hand went up and fumbled with the veil. It slipped, showing a glimpse of her lovely young face.

"Allah!" she said with a sob which proved that her stage training had not been in vain. "How wrong they are!"

"Who?"

"The people who told me about you. They led me to believe that you were generous, a very Rustum in princely magnificence . . ."

She said no more—and Krishna Dass looked at her. Ah—he thought—how beautiful she was! What lips! What a nose! What eyes!

"The people who told you about me," he replied, "were not wrong. Come with me, O charming tulip to be worn in the turban of my soul! Come with me to the little house—" pointing at the office—"and there I shall give you the tickets. Shall also, belike, whisper soft words to you. Words of my heart, O sweetness, and of my heart's pulsing desire!"

He put a fat arm amorously about her waist. He planted a moist kiss on her left ear—at which precise moment Tom, who had been growing more and more angry in spite of his inability to understand a single word, completely forgot the part he was playing.

"Say," he yelled, "cut that out! Or I'll give you such a sock in the jaw that your own mother won't recognize you . . ."

And the very next second Tom's words were echoed admiringly:

"Sock in the jaw! Own mother won't recognize you! Rippin'! Positively inspired—what?"

English of the unmistakable haw-haw Eton and Oxford brand. And Tom, turning, was surprised when, instead of a Briton, he saw a tall, olive skinned, splendidly robed oriental.

He had been one in the group of Hindus at the farther end of the platform. He had heard the commotion and had rapidly crossed over. Now the Babu saw him and salaamed profoundly.

"Your royal highness!" he stammered.

The newcomer must have read the astonished expression on Tom's face. He said with a faint note of apology: "Right-o! Royal highness. So silly. But can't help it. I'm Bundelpore—what?"

"Bundelpore?"

Frosty Flavor Appreciated in Fruit Punch

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A good fruit punch is appreciated first of all for its well chilled flavor, next for its color, sparkle, and garnish. Garnish usually consists of floating fruit, sliced strawberries, oranges, and lemon. Sometimes mint leaves are the decoration.

During June, July, and August the punch bowl filled with cool refreshment is going to appear at all sorts of social occasions, showers, weddings, "teas," receptions, and garden parties. Here are my summer punch candidates for consideration by refreshment committees, six excellent, fruity combinations.

SAUTERNE TEA PUNCH.

[24 punch glasses.]

2 tablespoons black tea
1 quart boiling water
¼ cup sugar
¾ cup lemon juice
6 cups sauterne
Ice, lemon slices

Pour boiling water over tea and let brew for 5 minutes. Strain and dissolve sugar in the hot tea. Cool and add lemon juice and wine. Pour over ice in a punch bowl and garnish with lemon slices.

THREE FRUIT PUNCH.

[Serves 25.]

Juice of 2 dozen lemons
Juice of 1 dozen oranges
2 cups crushed pineapple
4 cups sugar
8 bottles ginger ale
Ice, sprigs of mint

Combine fruit juices and pineapple. Dissolve sugar in two cups of boiling water. Boil for 5 minutes and add with fruit mixture to a bowlful of cracked ice. Add ginger ale and decorate the punchbowl with sprigs of mint before serving.

Here's a good one for a children's party. Grownups like it, too.

GRAPE FRUIT PUNCH.

[Serves six.]

2 cups grape juice
2 lemons
2 oranges
1 quart water
1 cup sugar

Combine grape juice with juices of lemons and oranges. Boil the sugar with 1 cup water for 5 minutes and add with remaining cold water to other ingredients. Chill or pour over ice and serve.

GINGERALE FRUIT PUNCH FOR A LARGE PARTY.

[100 8-ounce glasses; 175 sherbert cups.]

8 cups [4 pounds] sugar
1 quart water
2 quarts lemon juice [about 40 lemons]
1½ quarts orange juice [24-26 oranges]
2 quarts grape juice
1 quart pineapple juice
6 quarts gingerale and water
15 pounds ice

Make a sirup by boiling the sugar and quart of water together for 5 minutes. Cool. Combine fruit juices, gingerale, and water with sugar sirup, and pour over the ice. Adjust the proportions of ginger ale and water to suit yourself. Half of each is recommended. All water may be used, if desired, for this fruit punch.

STRAWBERRY AND WINE PUNCH.

[Serves 30.]

1 quart hulled strawberries
2 cups sugar
½ cup water
3 bottles chilled Moselle or Tokay wine

Place berries in a fruit jar with sugar and water. Cover the jar and chill for six or eight hours. Stir gently occasionally to blend fruit and juices. Combine strawberries with wine in a punch bowl. Use no ice in the bowl.

PINEAPPLE AND WINE PUNCH.

[Serves 30.]

1 fresh pineapple
1½ cups sugar
1 orange, sliced thinly
½ cup Madeira wine
3 bottles Rhine wine

Sliver the pineapple after peeling and slicing the fruit, discarding the core. Place in layers in a bowl with sugar and orange slices. Pour Madeira over the fruit. Cover tightly and chill for 8 hours. Turn into a punch bowl and add the chilled Rhine wine.

My Little Tramp

By Eleanor Jewett.

You would not think to see
Two legs so short and small
That they would only know to rove
And not come home at all.

Two legs whose owner is just six
Trot up and down all day,
Nor ever stop [except to skip]
And LOVE to run away!

There is no block too long for them,
No street too wide to cross;
A chair or couch these legs deride—
Rest is a total loss.

These legs belong to my child, Leigh,
Say, rather, they own her;
What does she look like?
Eyes and curls that bob above a blur.

Designers Give Bag-Carrying Public a Break

By Rea Seeger.

Since we, the bag carrying public, pack virtually everything from cash to week-end wardrobes in the inevitable handbag, much has been done for the capacity of such necessary carry-alls. Size, shape, fabric, frames, and the multiple slits, slots, or compartments, and zippers as well as trick fittings, make the 1940 models, with new models arriving almost daily. Even the largest affairs are surprisingly unbulky. All of them boast swank with a most enviable appearance that blends or harmonizes with almost every costume in the wardrobe.

• • •

So far, few fabrics have escaped the attention of ingenious bag designers . . . linen, silk, novelty fabrics, ribbon, straw, braid, satin, moiré, seersucker, cottons, lace, metal mesh, all kinds of leather and the newest wool materials are covers for the many stunning handbags now displayed. A book, and a good thick book, could be written describing the bags made of patent leather and combinations of leather. Patent leather nowadays is so soft, supple and smooth, that it wears virtually forever, and there isn't a color on a paint card that isn't available in a patent leather bag, pastels thru to brilliant high shades and street colors in dark tones.

• • •

Suede is popular winter and summer, thinner and more supple stuff being used for summer in a dozen or more pastel shades. In winter the dark tones of brown, green, navy, and black take the spotlight, with combinations of gold or silver metal, soft contrast leathers such as kidskin, baby alligator and reptile skins. Pouch bags, trickier strap arrangements than can be counted, handsome frames of composition, wood, metal, or the concealed frames covered with the material of the bag, offer everything. Stitching in contrast colors, off-white or beige is another accent for decorative duty. Quilted, ribbed, plastered effects, ripples, blistered puffings, shirrings, and even lacing make fabric, as well as soft leather, handbags outstanding finds for smart street outfits. Faille, bengaline, satin, and tucked wool crêpe likewise boast similar decorative designs. Huge envelopes, large pouches and modified versions of capacious carry-alls in almost miniature suitcase outlines are now ready all over the town.

Forcing Child Into Water the Wrong Method

there is in a pool, some children are afraid of the water. I have seen it take them a whole summer to get used to the "feel" of the water. If let alone, these near babies, if not forced, will sit happily day by day on the steps or edge of a pool splashing and dangling their feet. Then, suddenly to your astonishment, next summer they may be so fearless that they have to be restrained from taking chances.

Another thing you may observe is the reverse, that a small child who is fearless one year may be timid the next, without any apparent cause. When this is the case the only thing to do is to let them take time to get over it.

Undoubtedly one reason bathing inspires fear in children is the loss of support they experience when they try to swim, that "loss of support fear" which is supposed to be one of the few inborn fears of children. So, not as a swimming instructor, but just as an ordinary person who has watched many children learn to swim, I have a few suggestions which hold true for lots of youngsters.

• • •

First, some children won't have anything to do with artificial support, such as tubes, water wings, and so forth. If this is the case, don't interfere, but others get great delight and gain much confidence in the water paddling around, holding on to some sort of support. They not only enjoy themselves, but become so used to the water that way that they learn to swim easily.

It is a good plan where there is a beach to have children face the shore when they are learning to swim and work toward the shallow water and the shore.

Another frequent mistake grown people make is to try to teach small children a special swimming stroke. Children have a natural stroke. Left to themselves, they all begin with a sort of dog paddle. When they feel perfectly at home in the water with this busy, churning stroke, then they begin to be interested in the overhands, crawls, and so forth.

Swimming is a wonderful exercise for any one. It is especially fine for women, doctors say, but it is best learned when young. So encourage your daughters as well as your sons to be proficient in it.

Of course, that swimming is pleasure as well as profit goes without saying, And, aside from the pure enjoyment of swimming, there is a sense of power that comes with it that is a fine thing for a child to feel.

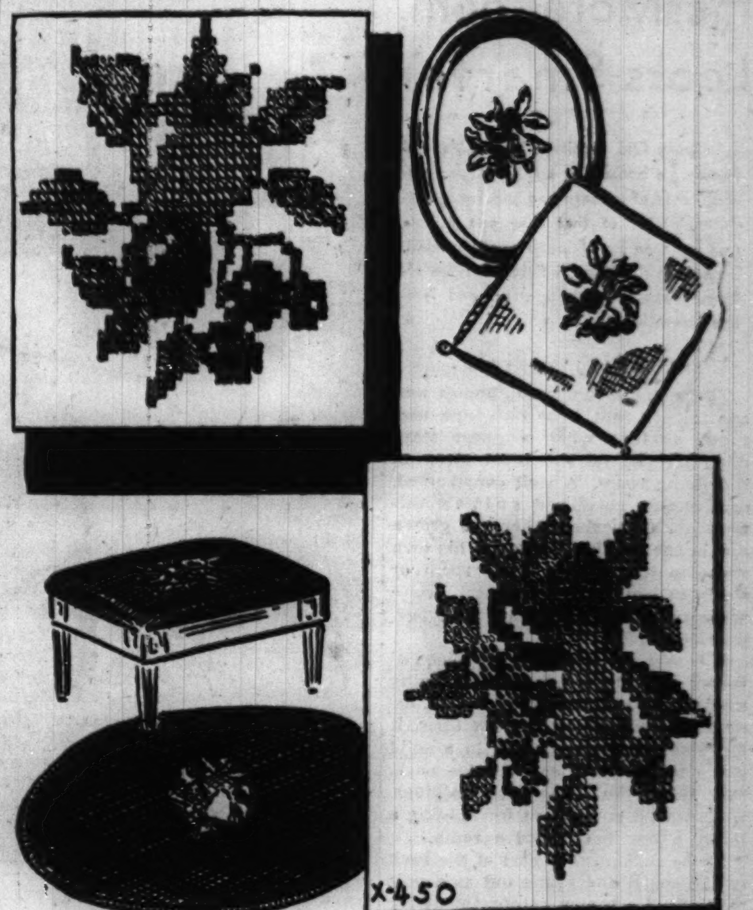
Ideal for a Wall Plaque



By Jean Macdonald.

A simple but attractive needlepoint design, the fruit motif, is an ideal choice for a wall plaque, to be used on a footstool, or for a checkerboard rug. In making the latter, alternating squares are made with the fruit motif, while the others are plain blocks. The directions for doing needlepoint are extremely simple and any one can attempt it. Illustrations accompanying the pattern show clearly all the details involved. For the person who has never done any type of needlework and is anxious to begin, this pattern is suggested as one of the simplest and most fascinating.

For the needlepoint design of a fruit motif, No. X-450, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

This proud beauty adorns the corners of a good looking luncheon set and is done in cross-stitch embroidery. The motifs used on the napkins are a horseshoe and riding crop. It is an ideal set for the hostess whose interest in the sport of kings amounts to a passion. The hot iron transfer pattern contains motifs for 8 napkins and four horses' heads to be used on a cloth 36 by 36 or 54 by 54 inches.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the horse's head, No. X-688, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

There's a very cooling and interesting display of air cooling room units in Chicago now. These units are offered at surprisingly reasonable prices, in view of the fact that they will do a complete summer air conditioning job of a room in your house, your apartment, or your hotel suite. Add to their reasonable cost the fact that these units are portable and self-contained, with dehumidifier and refrigerating coils concealed, and you are faced with something quite new and worthwhile. No plumbing or piping or water connection is needed for their installation; they can be plugged into an outlet as soon as they are installed in your window. Nor are window alterations necessary either, with these small cabinets, which can be set into a window or backed up against one. A number of manufacturers are showing their models at this exhibit. Models which insure your enjoyment of cooled, dry, fresh, clean and circulating air, on the hottest and most humid summer days and nights. These units can also be used for all year round ventilation and filtering of the indoor air.

New Couch-Bed Has More Room, Looks Smarter

"Giving Old Furniture New Style and Beauty," a booklet by Edith Weigle, suggests ways of modernizing hopelessly outdated pieces so that they can take a new lease on life. Price, 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

There are many small homes and apartments that have only one bedroom, so that when a guest stays overnight he or she must sleep in the living room. A well constructed, comfortable couch-bed solves this problem. Or perhaps there's a grown son in the family who wants his own room to look like a work room or study rather than a bedroom. Here again there is need for a double purpose couch.

We saw an excellent upholstered model the other day that is being used in both the situations just described. Built along modern lines, it has sides that come down in a solid plane to the floor and a table back, just above the three back cushions, that is most convenient for holding a lamp, a few books and a radio.

These cushions are part of the back of the couch and swing out as a unit to disclose a roomy compartment for holding extra bedding and pillows. At night, when the couch is to be used as a bed, you simply roll the lower sections out on concealed, steel tracks.

• • •

You then have a bed the size of the standard twin bed with box spring and innerspring mattress. A fitted cover permits this bed to remain made up at all times. In the picture today you see it thus pulled out, but with the slip cover still on. You'd pull off this cover at night and add more blankets, if needed.

The photograph shows this bed-couch with upholstered sides. If you prefer, you can get it with the regular wood sides of mahogany, walnut, or an attractive, light, natural wood. In this case the arms would have small upholstered sections instead of the two boxed end cushions used during the day on the couch pictured.

The measurements of both styles in this couch are: Length, 80 inches; width, 39 inches; height of back, 29 inches, and height of seat, 17 inches.

Perhaps the nicest feature about it is that you may choose your own upholstery from a wide variety of fabrics provided for the purpose. There are interesting tapestries, mohairs, whipcords, cotton damasks, novelty weaves, and heavy rayons. One we thought especially good looking was a nubby, silky rayon weave that had a hand-loomed look and that comes in a number of colors: A deep orange-red, blue, green, brown, etc. Another was a smooth, silky beige, a color that works so easily into any color scheme because it is a neutral tone.

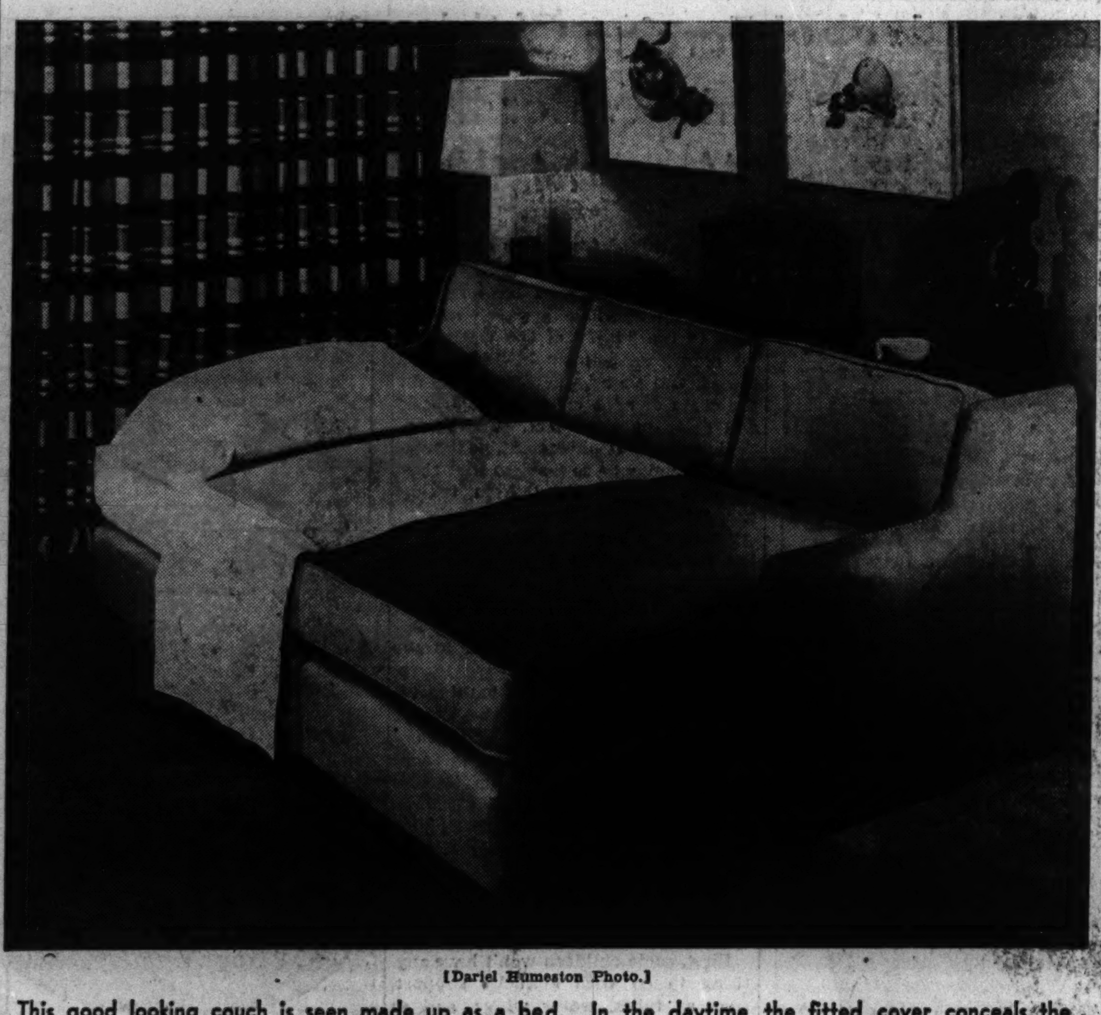
• • •

If you like printed materials you can have a stunning floral linen on this couch-bed. And there are striped fabrics, too.

A friend once told us she disliked studio couches because they were too high. When you sat on one you were perched up too high from the floor, she said. This is certainly not true of the bed-couch under discussion. It is no higher than any living room piece of furniture.

Because of its conservative lines it is possible to use it in combination with traditional pieces as well as with modern furnishings.

And altho it is covered to order it requires only three or four days for this work to be done.



[Dariel Humeston Photo.]

This good looking couch is seen made up as a bed. In the daytime the fitted cover conceals the bedding and the pillow goes in a storage compartment at the rear. The lower sections push back under the three cushions and the bed becomes a couch.

A mixed day here: Mentally and emotionally an improvement over recent past; but avoid risk in afternoon, whether physical or with new notions. Week ahead is less complicated than last, but it calls for added applications of preparedness.

Seek the Best.

Everything the world thought in the last century is subject to correction, for humanity is always changing its habits [tho not its essential nature]. By the same fact we come to the conclusion that everything the world thinks today is also subject to correction. An idea, a policy, a man-made law may have been good for a time: It also may be no good now. We must seek the best, old and new.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead brings results of recent relations with partners, allies, equals, if you celebrate today; you reap what has been sown. Chances to improve home, estate. Danger Sept. 24-Oct. 5; Feb. 1-15; June 19-29, 1941.

Generally favorable, if we take the long distance view.

Universal day—Pick up the odds and ends and if you find they aren't worth keeping, throw them out.

Year ahead—The above advice, but in a more drastic and far-reaching way, is appliable to those born today. Get rid of all the accumulation of friends, ideas, and habits which you can see now have not added any stature to your life. Just as a ship picks up barnacles which have to be cleaned off so the ship can pick up speed, so you ought to get rid of the barnacles you have picked up in the last nine years so you can put on full steam ahead next year.

Names—It is interesting to see what meaning the name Leopold has in numerology. The letters add to a 7, and contain a 4 and a 7, so there is likely to be misunderstanding and limitation experienced during the life. The 7 brings some sadness or even tragedy and the 4 brings obscurity sometimes if these numbers occur often. Leopold of Belgium has a 7 birthpath also. Seven represents a lonely figure.

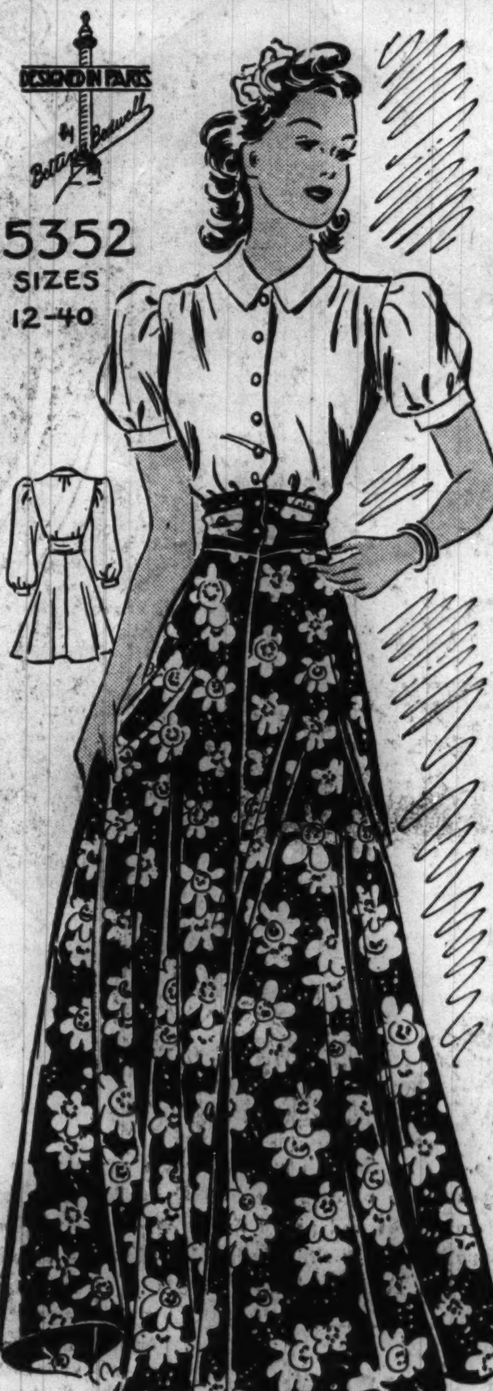
French Peasant Frock Used as an Inspiration of Pattern

By Bettina Bedwell.



History has shown that, thru all sorts of crises, peasants of troubled nations adhere to their centuries-old styles. Perhaps it is this spirit of steadfastness that appealed to the designer of this dress, perhaps not. At any rate, it is an old French peasant style that is modified and modernized for today's pattern. The original model consists of a flowered cotton skirt and a sheer white blouse. The lines of the blouse are strictly shirtwaist, with buttons down the front, short puffed sleeves and typical collar. The skirt has a wide, snug waistband, molded hipline, and full, flowing skirt.

This sort of costume is grand for country club informal dances and dinners, and for informal hostessing in one's own home. It may be made of other materials, too, for more elegant occasions. In street length it is equally smart.

Style No. 5352 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for blouse; 3½ yards for skirt.

If your youngsters have lost interest in the game of croquet, or if you're planning on the purchase of a new set for your summer home, wouldn't you like to pass along the discarded equipment?

Some weeks ago we requested a set for a group of men who are recovering from tuberculosis in a local sanitarium. Generous readers filled the need, and more than 30 patients are now enjoying the game on pleasant days. However, we recently learned that there are more than 200 patients, who would be permitted this recreation, but for the shortage of equipment. Since it is one of the few forms of exercise such convalescents are allowed, we are anxious to locate enough material so that all may be able to play. The majority of these patients are without funds, and the institution is unable to purchase sets. This simple relaxation will help these patients to enjoy some of the long period of time necessary for complete recovery, will help them to mark time while they regain sufficient bodily strength to resume normal routine.

* *

Mrs. P. explains her need in her own words:

"Dear Miss Brown: I am coming to you with my request after asking every one I know to help me locate a buggy. I cannot seem to afford even a second hand one and no one of my friends has a discarded stroller. My little boy is 4 years old and has been in the hospital, suffering with rheumatic fever. He recently came home, but as soon as he was able to play, his ankles began to swell and he tired easily. Another examination yesterday revealed that the heart tissues have been injured. The doctor has ordered me to keep him in bed most of the time, and even when he is up he must be kept off his feet. Any mother of a 4 year old knows how they love to be outdoors, especially with the present warm weather, and how difficult it is to keep them in bed. If I had a stroller, I could take him out at least a little every day.

"Deeply appreciative of anything you may be able to do, I am, . . ."

This address is on the south side of the city and will be given to any reader who has a stroller to donate.

Lake Forest Home Scene of Exchange Sale

By Cousin Eve.

There was a rush to Lake Forest Tuesday. Mrs. J. Ogden Armour's early Georgian house in Deerpath avenue was open to the public for the first time with a Woman's Exchange sale. Also Mrs. Kersey Reed's luncheon in honor of Miss Dorothy Russell drew others. Miss Russell had been in France working with Miss Anne Morgan's civilian relief corps, and is a small creature with auburn hair and an intense story to tell.

The weather wasn't at all nice. It might have been worse, however, but nothing could spoil the loveliness of Mrs. Armour's 18th century house, David Adler's most complete success. Full as it was of tables loaded with elegant trifles and hangers displaying the latest in summer negligees, one was still able to sense the wonderful proportions of the whole. I would say it was the perfection of good taste, from the sweep of the grassy entrance court to the last bibelot in the library or the preciously bound books in the built-in shelves.

The crowd was gay and densely dotted with sunburned girls, hatless and in sports array. Mrs. Armour in silken suit and floral hat was a gracious hostess, and her only daughter, Lolita Mitchell, and her nieces, Mrs. Lester and Mrs. Philip Armour, were also on the spot promoting the sale. Also Mrs. A. Watson Armour and her daughter, Elsa Osborne.

• • •

The inner walls of this house date back 200 years. They are of carved wood painted white, paneled, and exquisite. Arthur Heun discovered and bought these treasures many years ago in England for Mrs. Armour, who kept them put away. And David Adler designed the Georgian shell around them. The rugs of the house are off-white; in fact, the general feeling of the interior is white, but with here and there a touch of clear color. The glassed-in terrace is a beautiful place. Its furnishings, too, are white with an occasional cushion of pale primrose, and at the far end, a hint or two of Chinese red. The vista from this terrace is a wooded expanse with a pond where formerly stood the Arthur Bevans' establishment. The entrance hall of Mrs. Armour's house has an effect of width and white pillars; it is a blithe approach to a domicile that is the acme of comfort and elegance. I fancy [and I may be wrong] that there isn't anything among this ameublement that's not a veritable piece of the period.

In the hall, for example, is an extraordinary clock, wonderful in form and fantasy, an early signed Chippendale. The dining room of this rare house is a dream. Either side of the east windows are deep projecting cabinets of the same carved wall paneling. Here are kept some of the chatelaine's historic pieces of old years—choice, clear crystal of marvelous design. There are goblets and wine glasses of emperors, chalices and small pieces, beautiful as jewels.

On leaving the house we found a small garden door in the left wall. Here is an exquisite little retreat with a pool, rows of white rose trees, and a little garden tea house as sweet and calm as 18th century England.

• • •

Driving across to Mrs. Kersey Reed's tea for Miss Russell, we passed the new Sterling Morton villa on the lake, one of the notable recent houses in Lake Forest.

It has apparently no grounds whatever and stands squarely between Lake Michigan and Lake avenue, a plain, caen stone house, neither large nor small, and distinctly handsome, as befits the wealth of its owners.

Mrs. Reed's beautiful stone mansion was en fête for the party, with guests seated in rows in the black and white marble hall. Mrs. Henry Field introduced the speaker. Miss Russell used a map, giving a brief sketch of her work among civilians in the Argonne. It was all prior to the outbreak in Luxemburg, and therefore did not reek of blood or turmoil. She described the pathetic plight of the very old and the very young, caught in the rigors of a terrible winter, and in the arena of hideous war. There was a whole flock of babies in a convent who wore two cotton pieces, with the mercury at 5 below zero. Personally I found Miss Russell's quiet and unemotional manner more moving than any hysteria could be. She dwelt a little on the odd things salvaged by the refugees — postcards, snapshots, and goats. The latter isn't a bad idea, either. Goat's milk isn't so bad.

Mrs. Reed's guests moved into the handsome dining room facing the lake, where an elaborate tea was served. At the party were Mrs. Bernard Rogers, Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. R. T. Crane, Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Cyrus Adams, Mrs. Mary Adams, Mrs. Gerald Hollins, Mrs. Charles Glore, Miss Naomi Donnelly, Mrs. H. B. Voorhees, Mrs. David Cook Jr., Miss Mary Mitchell, Mrs. C. W. Dempster, in fact, a most representative gathering.

Engagements are the happy highlights of these June days, with invitations to country weddings. The surprise of today is Mrs. George Webster's announcement of her daughter Ethel's approaching wedding to Henry Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Monroe of Wayne and 64 East Elm street in Chicago. It is to be an early evening wedding, celebrated July 3 on the lawn of the Monroe estate at Wayne. Only members of the families, rather numerous they are, will be present at the ceremony. The bridegroom's mother was Anna Hamill, and the Hamills are a small army in and around town, and the Monroes, too, are many. After the bridal supper a garden party for friends will be staged on the lawn and among the trees, and the gardens will be lighted with wonderful new Chinese lanterns in many fantastic shapes and colors that Aunt Lucy Calhoun sent lately from Peking.

These were not sent for the wedding, as there was no engagement at the time of their arrival.

The young newly marrieds will occupy the Monroe town house, with its delightful Chinese collections, this summer.

Another interesting wedding which took place yesterday at Palm Beach, Fla., was that of George Rasmussen of Chicago and Janet Watt, only daughter of the William Watts Jr. They met at Christmas and became engaged at Easter. The new Mrs. George Rasmussen is a tall, slim brunette, poised, pretty, and agreeable. She is a member of the younger set in Palm Beach and very popular, and her young husband is an all around sportsman and athlete who has lived lately on the Rasmussen estate in Lake Forest.

Mrs. George Rasmussen, mother of the bridegroom, is selling her South Ocean boulevard house, "Casanana," while she is in Palm Beach for the wedding. This is a splendid French Renaissance house with large grounds directly on the Atlantic ocean. It is a vast mansion, in the grand style, and its owner is letting it go somewhat reluctantly because of the fun she had building and furnishing it.

It's great fun staying home for a change, and going to weddings in the country and whatnot. There's nothing like getting to know the garden spots of Illinois. An invitation from the board of Grove House for Convalescents, not only to play bridge and imbibe tea, but there are strolls thru the estate of Mrs. Clyde Carr, Mrs. Kent Clow, Mrs. James H. Douglas, and Mrs. William E. Clow as well. Mrs. Kent Clow, Mrs. Howard Fenton, and Mrs. Clarence Prentice are co-chairmen of the benefit. On this board are 40 other prominent women of our north Riviera who will push this party over to success. Among them Mrs. Cuthbert Adams, Mrs. George Dryden, Mrs. Arthur Galt, Mrs. James Houghteling, Mrs. Frederick Scott, Mrs. Arch Shaw, Mrs. Clarke Washburn, and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf.

The American Friends of China lunched at the Palmer House Monday and elected officers. Mrs. Harley MacNair, the charming president, who has lived for very many years in Shanghai, was reëlected. Her vice presidents are Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. R. T. Crane Jr., Russell Tyson, and Mrs. Paul Welling.

At the long speakers' table Mrs. MacNair sat with the officers, and Arthur T. Steele, a writer, who lives in Peking. After the routine of ballot casting, Mr. Steele spoke informally about many delightful things in China, and it was fascinating to hear of his tremendous journeys from the borders of Tibet to Outer Mongolia, Hongkong, and the beautiful great cities of the southwest. He spun a narrative that included a closeup of the little new Dalai lama, 5 years old; an afternoon with the Chinese general, head of the Chinese communist army; a visit to the communist college at Yunnan; a run up into the panda country, and a last glimpse of the American S. S. Panay.

A new society for civilian relief in France has sprung up overnight with Mrs. Frank H. Mulford and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey acting co-chairmen. It is called "Urgent Relief for France," and Mrs. Harold C. Smith is treasurer in Chicago. Among other committee members are Mrs. John J. Bryant, Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, Mrs. William H. Bush, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. Ballard Moore, Mrs. John C. Murphy, Mrs. James Offield, Mrs. B. J. Rosenthal, Mrs. George Silverthorne, and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham. This group working for France in Chicago hopes for help of all sorts, but money is probably the best gift of all.

In Washington the national chairman is Mrs. George Barnett, widow of the late commander of marines, and the treasurer is Mrs. Ernest du Bois.

Arthur Bradley Campbell's friends foregathered in Washington for his dinner-dance last week at Grasslands Country club. The party was in honor of his two debutante cousins, Marjorie and Isabelle Meuser, who were adopted 10 years ago by his mother, the late Lady Huntly. When Lady Huntly died in her Grosvenor square house in London two years ago Arthur Campbell became their guardian. Mrs. Jacob Baur went on from Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. LeRay Berdeau from New York, with uite a large party for the dance. For the summer Arthur has the John Jacob Astor house on the cliffs at Newport, meaning to keep open house for the girls.

There are also four fellowships in honor of the founders and an early initiate.

In the last four years the fraternity's special project has been to aid the blind. Each chapter has helped as the needs of its territory dictated: with legislation for the blind, with personal aid, with preventive work and, in one case, by assisting a kindergarten for pre-school blind children.

The Chicago alumnae chapter sponsored financially an institute for public school nurses in conjunction with the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness two summers ago, and has sold hundreds of towels which the blind are paid to hem.

Weygand Uses Battle Tactics of Gen. Turenne

By May Birkhead.

PARIS. General Maxime Weygand has had such an extraordinary career that quite naturally much of his life has already taken on the character of a legend. It is said that on his arrival in Paris from the near east last month several of his co-workers were ready to put him rapidly in touch with the situation. But in just a moment they were learning from him how the land lay.

Few great commanders, in any age, have probably been more alert to the need of quickly adapting themselves to a given situation or series of them. For that reason he has always been rather a man of expedients than of cast iron theories. About 10 years ago he touched, in his book, "Life of Turenne," on some of the eternal problems that confront the warrior. Of Henri Turenne, marshal of France from 1643 to 1675 and one of that country's greatest military leaders, he remarks: "To know a man you must have seen him in misfortune."

• • •

Weygand cites with approbation what one of Turenne's contemporaries wrote of him: "He made something of every trifle, and he never became proud of a success; if he had a setback, he thought less of grumbling about it than of setting it right, thought more of repairing his faults than of losing time in excuses; finally, he sought rather to have his soldiers love than fear him."

What strikes most the student of Turenne, says General Weygand, is to find him so very well rounded. He was accustomed to weigh problems thoroly in the light of all information that could be obtained on them, and to decide with a kind of superior good sense. Napoleon found Turenne with a mind and character that were in full balance with each other, "as square cut at the base as at the top."

• • •

At the end of this work on Turenne, first published in 1929, General Weygand resumes Turenne's insistence on battle movement at a time when sieges were in great honor, and remarks that he used all means at his disposal, static or dynamic, with the idea of maneuvering out of badly compromised situations.

"Nearly all the rules he practiced are applicable to our time," Weygand writes. "What he taught was lost sight of among Frenchmen until Napoleon revivified them; but, on the contrary, they have been much followed elsewhere. Often, after a victorious war, the conqueror goes to sleep in an illusive confidence in his superiority, while his adversary, trying to understand the causes of his defeat, seeks to rise again. Let us not forget that lesson."

This island resort 30 miles south of Cape Cod is finding the size of its vacation colony increasing every day, and all signs point to what promises to be the most successful summer season in years. On June 9 the island steamship line changed over to its summer schedule so that Nantucket-bound passengers may now have their choice of three boats a day from Woods Hole and New Bedford. And in a few more days the regular Boston-Provincetown-Nantucket air line will bring the local airport within an hour's flying time from East Boston.

Always among the early arrivals is Mrs. Benjamin F. Taylor, whose residence at 145 Main street is one of the most attractive on the island. Mrs. Taylor came down from what the natives call "America" early in May and, as usual, will make Nantucket her home until late in the fall. Col. and Mrs. Robert Stewart are two other Chicagoans who have already arrived and will be here for the entire season.

• • •

The commissioning of the Nantucket Yacht club tomorrow will usher in the summer social season for the entire island and particularly for Nantucket-town. The club will sponsor children's dances every Thursday evening as it has before, and continue the Saturday dances which have been so popular with the older social set. Premier events of the social calendar will be the Independence day ball, the annual masquerade, and the Interclub ball at the time of the annual regatta in August.

Activities in Siasconset, better known as 'Sconset, the picturesque village at the eastern end of the island, also will get under way this week with the opening of the Casino.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Black of 229 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, are included in the list of those who arrive early and stay late. The Blacks' residence at 97 Main street is one of the three famous Starbuck houses which were built by the whaling merchant, Matthew Starbuck, a century ago as wedding presents for his three sons. No visit to Nantucket is complete without seeing the three stately brick mansions which symbolize the affluence and excellent taste of the island's "golden era."

• • •

Two theatrical companies, the Nantucket Players and the Fawcett Players, will bring the legitimate stage to Nantucket audiences during the summer. The Nantucket Players, under the direction of Morgan Farley and Bertram Yarborough, will move across the island from the 'Sconset Casino and produce their 1940 plays in the remodeled Yacht Club theater.

Last summer the Fawcett group pioneered with the development and presentation of one act plays based upon the history of Nantucket, and they will continue to offer this type of drama this season. Robert Wilson, director of the Fawcett Players, announced that his company will move from the small Commercial Wharf studio which it used last season, to its recently acquired Straight Wharf theater.

Friends of the Charles Y. Freemans of North Dearborn parkway are expecting them to arrive on the island this week-end. The Freemans are prominent in the activities of the vacation colony and their son, Donald, is numbered among the most enthusiastic young island skippers.

Plans for a series of power boat races during the summer are being made by the newly organized Doghouse Boat club. Outboard and inboard craft will be included in the racing program outlined for July 4. At the same time the Nantucket Boat club and the Yacht club will be using the upper and outer reaches of the harbor for an extensive program of sailing races

Summer Art Schools Offer Fine Training

By Eleanor Jewett.

It is time to turn our thoughts to summer and summer schools of painting. One of the best of the summer schools near Chicago and in the country is Treasure Hill Art academy at Bridgman, Mich., of which Robert P. Kilbert is director and instructor. Mr. Kilbert is a well known Chicago painter. He is noted for his landscapes, figure and portrait painting. He is a former instructor of the old Smith Art academy of Chicago, which was affiliated with the Julian academy of Paris. Mr. Kilbert is a pioneer graduate of the Chicago Art institute and studied at Paris and Munich.

The Chicago Art institute, the Palette and Chisel club, the Northwest Art league, the Los Angeles Art institute and Washington, D. C., have exhibited paintings by Mr. Kilbert. During a brilliant career as a painter and teacher many honors have come his way. He has recently finished a life size portrait of George Washington in his Masonic regalia which is to be unveiled today at the Illinois Masonic home, Sullivan, Ill.

◆

Treasure Hill academy at Bridgman, Mich., is a short drive from Chicago and is in the heart of the beautiful dune country which another Chicago artist, Frank V. Dudley, has found a source of inspiration for many a stunning picture. Mr. Kilbert paints the dunes rarely; he is more interested in the fertile Michigan fields which lie beyond his school. Several summers have seen a group of farming or grape picking compositions come from this landscape; last summer Mr. Kilbert painted a nude figure under a tree, and the lights and shadows were particularly well handled.

Still life, figure and landscape painting are taught. On pleasant days the classes are held out of doors; if it rains there is a huge studio with good lighting and a cheerful log fire where the work is carried on. Golf, tennis, swimming, hiking, nearly all summer activities are within easy access, and there are living quarters at Forest house a short distance from the school. Classes are open to beginners as well as advanced students. The school was so popular last summer that several of the students are coming for a second session. The classes run from July 1 to Sept. 1.

The Evanston Academy of Fine Arts, 636 Church street, Evanston, of which Carl Sheffler is the director, opens its summer term tomorrow to continue to Aug. 9. There is an out-of-doors landscape class in all mediums, water color, oil and pencil, offered. The class meets in all sorts of interesting places: forest preserves, beaches, the harbor. Transportation is provided.

In the studio there are other classes, among them costume sketching, illustration, advertising design, fashions, and interior decoration. There are life classes and lessons in design and composition. A student may take from one to eight lessons a week. The school offers a splendid opportunity for the beginner to try his wings and for the advanced student to work under expert guidance.

Classes for children from 7 to 12 years old are held four mornings a week from 10 to 12:30 o'clock both outdoors and indoors.

Robert Von Neumann, whom Chicago knows for his paintings on exhibit at the Chicago Art institute thru the years, is an instructor in painting at Milwaukee State Teachers college. This summer he will be in charge of the art colony at the Nahma Vacation school for writers, photographers and artists at Nahma, Mich., Aug. 11 to 24.

The work by students of the Art institute school is on view in the east wing galleries of the museum to July 8. The institute announces with pleasure that 12 pictures were sold from the International Water Color show which closed recently in those same galleries. Among the sales was the tiny landscape in oil by Gertrude Abercrombie which slipped into the show under the designation "miniature." A number of other tiny oil paintings by Miss Abercrombie might be found at the Katharine Kuh gallery, Diana Court building. The miniature approach is a distinct advance in picture charm so far as this particular painter's work is in question: what is cold and bleak in a larger canvas is quaint and cute when reduced in scale. Jean Hugo, the French artist, uses the miniature technique to brilliant advantage; Gertrude Abercrombie follows his lead, but, tho her work has merit, she has a long road to travel before she can equal that of Hugo.

"The Yellow Cloth," by George Braque, which won the Carnegie first prize of $1,000 in the International of 1937 and was given a first prize of $2,500 in the San Francisco World's Fair art exhibit last June, is now on view in gallery 40 of the Art institute. It is an abstraction, poorly conceived and sketchily carried out. Very few considered it worthy of either prize given to it; the juries in each case were modernists. "The Yellow Cloth" is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Marx of Chicago who are lending it to the institute and are also lending "Woman Combing Her Hair," by Picasso, a bit of his Rose Period.

The Chicago Society of Artists recently held their annual election of officers. Frances Badger was elected president; John F. Stenvall, vice president; Fritzi Brod, treasurer; Rowena Fry, secretary, and Grace Spongberg, assistant secretary. Clara MacGowan was reëlected to the board of directors; Flora Schofield and Donald Mundt were elected to fill the two vacancies on the board.

Ben Silbert died last month in Baltimore, Md. He was a painter of repute and his exhibitions invariably drew many visitors. He exhibited a number of times in Chicago and was immensely popular. The last great event in his life as an artist was when 15 of his paintings were sold at auction in New York this winter for the benefit of the Finnish Relief fund and he was congratulated by Herbert Hoover. Ben Silbert was a world war veteran. Russian born, he came to Amerlea when he was 15. He first studied art at the Academy of Odessa. He entered the Chicago Art institute school and later worked as a commercial artist in Chicago. Mature years knew him as a successful painter and etcher. He was 60 years old.

Duchess' War Year Wardrobe Is Luxurious

By Bettina Bedwell.

Those women who figure in news columns and rotogravure sections as glorious examples of the art of dress I always have found to be exceedingly coy, and even downright touchy, when any effort is made to find out the price they pay for their clothes, or how many dresses they buy in a season.

The impression that dressers such as Mrs. Harrison Williams, the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow [Babs Hutton], the duchess of Windsor, and the duchess of Kent always wanted to give to the press, it seemed to me, as one of the press, to be that they were just girls, trying to do their best to dress well on a modest budget. Any mention of extravagance in relation to their clothes was considered indecent, and the reporter guilty of such mention would find all sources of information dried up and barren.

• • •

But the war has shifted the position of those "best dressed" women who remain in Paris and London, just as it has turned a good many other positions cockeyed. The new idea is that these women are the bulwarks of British and French luxury industry, and that the more they spend the bigger help they'll be to such enterprises. They virtually deserve a distinguished service cross every time they compile an extra-extensive, extra-expensive wardrobe. I've just received from Paris a bulky assortment of sketches and information about the spring wardrobe of the duchess of Windsor, which proves the new stand.

The duchess has compiled a spring warbrobe that is composed of about twenty major ensemble units, which, when divided, would make four times that many single garments. Add to this her hats, shoes, lingerie, and so forth, and it's easy to see that she has been a real help to the French fashion industries, cut off by war from a lot of their normal trade.

• • •

Before the war began, the duchess of Windsor was dressed exclusively by one house, Mainbocher. Now she scatters her patronage impartially among all the first rank Paris houses.

Her sports and tailored things come mostly from Schiaparelli and Maggy Rouff, and each has a decidedly patriotic touch to it. A red, white, and blue mixed sports suit already has been described in this column. A Schiaparelli flag blue, alpaca suit, with big wartime patch pockets, has a waist made of a flag print with the slogan "victory or death" running over it. Red, hand knitted silk stockings, and childish one-strap slippers go with this suit, as does a girlish red grosgrain tam o' shanter. A long blue coat is lined with a red, white, and blue flag-printed silk, and the accompanying blue dress has a smocked shoulder yoke held by gold beads.

Dressy ensembles chosen by the duchess often are embroidered with jet. She has the Schiaparelli cocktail suit made of black jersey and the jacket embroidered with a delicate spray pattern of jet. A shirred, black tulle overblouse, and a black shirred tulle hat, trimmed with jet wings, go with it, as do black tulle gloves.

Chicago Social Set Converges on Bar Harbor

BAR HARBOR, ME.

Members of the Chicago social colony, who are ever in the social spotlight at this "gold coast of Maine" resort, are arriving earlier than usual this season, and each day sees many summer residents from all parts of the country arriving by motor, rail, and plane. This century-old resort, with its threefold attractions of mountains, seashore, and scores of nearby lakes, is looking forward to a banner season.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer were among the first to arrive and have been here for almost two weeks. They are at Hare Forest, their beautiful estate on the shore drive. Mr. Palmer will again resume his capacity as president of the exclusive Bar Harbor club, which is scheduled to open the latter part of this month. Other Chicagoans who participate largely in the affairs at this swimming, tennis, and social rendezvous of society include Charles Burrall Piek, William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Eugene R. Pike, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Clive Runnells, Mrs. Harold A. Howard, Mrs. E. D. Hubbard, Bowen Blair, and many others.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, whose summer estate, Baymeath, is one of the most outstanding residences in New England, will arrive next Friday from Chicago with Mrs. Emily Washburn Dean. Her grandsons, Bill and Bowen Blair, active figures in affairs of the young set, are expected the following week.

Miss Pauline Palmer, winsome daughter of the Potter Palmers, is also expected shortly at Hare Forest.

Many members of the Bar Harbor social colony are planning to attend the wedding of Miss Louise de Koven Bowen, daughter of Mrs. E. Winthrop Smith of New York and Chicago and Mrs. Bowen's granddaughter. Miss Bowen will become the bride of John Rodman Wanamaker III., son of Mrs. Disston Wanamaker of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and Northeast Harbor, on Monday afternoon, June 24, at St. James' Episcopal church in New York.

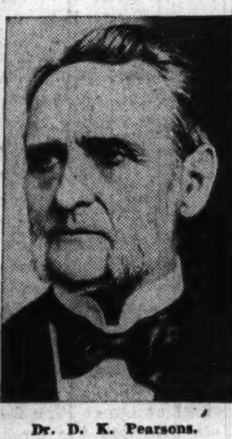
When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, May 5, 1892.

Dear Julia: We were pleased to hear today that Dr. D. K. Pearsons, Chicago millionaire, has offered the Chicago Theological seminary [Congregational] $100,000, provided $350,000 can be raised by other givers before May, 1894. That's the method used by this rich man to help institutions he approves of. It is a lever which pries money out of other people, who can't bear to see a large sum lost by failure of smaller givers to help. Usually purses are opened just to save the day.



Dr. D. K. Pearsons.

Will enjoys the eccentric old physician and has many tales to tell of his shrewdness. Born in Vermont, Dr. Pearsons worked on a farm, nearly ruining his health by the back-breaking labor required to wring a living from that meager soil. He managed to save enough for a year at Dartmouth, but hadn't enough to enable him to finish there. A friend loaned him money to complete his education and this experience determined him to help other students, if he ever became rich.

Coming west with his bride in 1851, he settled in Janesville, Wis., and prospered in his practice of medicine, buying farm and timber land with his savings. Eastern friends asked him to make investments for them and soon he found himself a real estate operator, with money flowing to him in a golden flood. He is said to have given away already more than a million dollars to schools and hospitals. The Presbyterian hospital is a favorite of the good doctor and he has helped it to the tune of $60,000. Lake Forest college, near Chicago, and Knox college, in Galesburg, have also benefited by his gifts.

Altho he is worth several millions, he lives in great simplicity in Hinsdale, a Chicago suburb, spending about $2,000 a year. Reproached by a friend for not living more luxuriously, he retorted: "I have never denied myself anything I have desired or anything I have greatly wanted. I've had all the food I needed, all the clothes I could wear, a good home, good books, and every reasonable comfort."

I met him one day in Will's office and was delighted with his rugged appearance. His clothing is scrupulously neat, but I imagine he wears it much longer than my fastidious husband could be induced to wear his suits. His beard is shaved in the "side-burns" fashion which many of our financiers prefer. His dark eyes look searching at your from under a high forehead. He is a man you would turn to look at, if you met him on the street, for he has something of the Vermont granite in his appearance.

He calls the colleges he helps his "children," for he has no family save his wife, to whom he is devoted. "They are good children," he said, as he talked in Will's office. "No father was ever prouder than I, watching and nurturing them, scolding them sometimes, too. They are my joy and crown."

Will's voice seemed to please him. "You can sway a jury, I guess," quoth he, making Will blush with the direct compliment. "I always urge young men in colleges to learn to speak well; to cultivate their voices; to strive to become orators. No man should leave school until he can speak the English language in beautiful tones, in order to win the hearts of men."

Keeping a scrapbook is another hobby which he urges on students. "Paste in it your choice selections and beautiful compositions," he says. "Some day you'll find you have a treasure house of material on which to draw when you need it.

Chicago Theological seminary is our oldest seminary [I mean the oldest institution for training ministers]. It was established in 1854 and its graduates may be found in many foreign countries. So I am glad to see it given a "life" by Dr. Pearsons.

Your loving friend,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Foot Notes.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons died in 1912 at the age of 92, having given away his entire fortune, estimated at six millions, before his death. Berea college in Kentucky was the recipient of much of his bounty.

Sad Ballads of Yesterday.

Many readers have written us about the gospel song, "If Papa Were Only Ready." Prof. James Taft Hatfield of Evanston recalls singing it in early days. . . . Mrs. Charles Sweet, 1812 Eddy street, Chicago, tells of shedding tears over Willie. . . . Mrs. E. Staats, Downers Grove, sends a second verse, and also a verse of "Whoa, Emma."

Mrs. C. J. Cedarburg, 4254 North Tripp avenue, Chicago, writes: "Your column is a constant source of delight to me, and the song, 'I Should Like to Die, Said Willie' struck a long forgotten chord in my memory, for my sister sang it to me when I was a small girl. Indeed, every 'Nellie' song seemed to have been written for me, for my father sang 'Darling Nellie Gray' as my lullaby, while another old favorite was always sung to me as a greeting and reproach, when I overstayed my playtime. Following is its theme, also melancholy:

'Past 10 o'clock, the rain begins to fall,
And Nellie's far from home;
Vainly to our little one we call,
O, whither can she roam?
Can it be she wanders in the night,
Forsaken and alone?
CHORUS.
'Wake the boys to look for Nellie;
Stay not for the dawn;
Who can sleep, when from the mother's fold,
One little lamb is gone?'"

Women Seek Planks in Major Party Platforms

The National League of Women Voters will ask both Republican and Democratic platform framers to include planks on scientific tariff making and the extension of civil service in their party platforms.

Delegations from the organization will appear at conventions of both parties to present these planks.

Headquarters will be established at the Republican session at the Ritz-Carlton hotel in Philadelphia, Pa., beginning next Saturday. Similar plans are being made for headquarters at the Stevens hotel in Chicago during the Democratic convention.

Both planks are the outgrowth of years of study on the part of the league, which has presented planks at every major party convention since its founding 20 years ago.

Cruising Ships Are Still Plying the Caribbean

By Frederic Babcock.

ON BOARD THE S. S. SIXAOLA.—No matter what may be taking place on the other side of the Atlantic, there has been no interruption in the cruising service of neutral ships, bound for neutral ports, on this side. Nor has there been any inconvenience to the passengers.

Sailing thru the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea for the West Indies, Central America, and South America is still as safe, and as comfortable, as it was before the days of bombers and blitzkriegs. The war zone is still 3,000 miles away.

• • •

On this cruise we are leaving the nonbelligerent United States for the equally nonbelligerent Guatemala and Honduras. Our ship, sailing under the American flag, is a member of the United Fruit company's "great white fleet." It is not as huge as some we have traveled on, nor as highly specialized in its appointments and its recreational facilities, but it has an intimate atmosphere that the superliners never have achieved and never will.

Take a month's voyage on a ship carrying a thousand other passengers and you may know a hundred of them by the time the trip is over. Take a week's voyage on a ship carrying a hundred passengers and you will know them all the third night out. That's how informal everything becomes when you go cruising toward the Spanish Main.

• • •

On this cruise we had scarcely cleared New Orleans before we had bumped into such personalities as Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, formerly commander of the 6th corps area, with headquarters in Chicago, and former assistant chief of staff of the United States army; T. Jefferson Coolidge, former undersecretary of the treasury and now chairman of the board of the United Fruit company; Capt. W. H. Fagen, commander of the Sixaola, and Dr. Walter Simpson, head of the Kettering research laboratories at Dayton, O.

Everybody is out for adventure. Nearly everybody on board seems to be on a mission of writing, or painting, or photographing, or exploring the lands that so far have escaped the attention of a large majority of American tourists. Typical of the adventurers are the J. M. Dimicks, who have given up their home [and his job] to devote a year or so to a Guatemalan and Honduran archeological expedition.

• • •

In New Orleans we had a preview of what lies in store for us. We visited the home of Dorothy Stone to see the relics she has been digging up in Guatemala, and we toured Tulane university's Middle American Research museum.

The museum has a highly intriguing collection of original manuscripts, weapons, drums, masks, tribal pottery, wax figures, costumes, altars, and tombs. One of the tombs is that of a Maya chieftain buried centuries ago. Its walls are covered with carvings depicting men and women and believed to represent the chieftain and his friends and servants. The altar of the virgins is stained with blood—telling of the ancient religious festivals in which the fairest girls of each tribe were sacrificed to appease the gods.

• • •

All these were interesting, but not particularly surprising. What we hadn't anticipated was the collection of shrunken human heads. We had seen similar specimens all along the west coast of South America, but we had no idea they also belonged to Central America.

The heads had been cleaned of bone and hard tissue and then processed with hot oil. While the gradual shrinking was taking place, their features had been moulded into incongruous shapes. No larger than a woman's fist, they had been left behind to give the present day world some idea of customs practiced in the early days. They are weird, uncanny symbols of a strange, forgotten faith.

• • •

Our path across the Gulf of Mexico and into the peaceful Caribbean takes us thru seas of flying fish and fleets of porpoises. One of the strangest sights found anywhere comes when four or five porpoises group themselves at the prow of the ship and play as they speed thru the water. No matter how fast the Sixaola goes, they manage to keep just ahead. What this gets them, or why they do it, is something we haven't found out.

Occasionally we see a lonely island or a lonelier reef. Capt. Fagen points out one isle that, he insists, houses 500 women prisoners, with no men allowed. We pass by without learning further details of a subject that could be the basis of a swell piece of fiction. Once in a while we encounter evidences of the American naval patrol out of Havana. The American flag is kept flying all night, with a searchlight on it, just in case some outsider might wonder what country we're from. Otherwise, only the daily wireless bulletins remind us of the fact that there's a war on overseas.

French Garrison British Fort.

High above the city of Quebec is the stone walled citadel overlooking the St. Lawrence river. First built by the French, then rebuilt by the British, it has for a century been guarded by a French Canadian garrison. Members of the force speak French except when giving military commands, then they speak English. Their uniforms are British and they form a regular part of the Canadian army.

HARVESTING DIXIE'S MYSTERY CROP

On less than a thousand acres in St. James parish, on the Mississippi river 60 miles north of New Orleans, Louisiana farmers have a world monopoly in perique tobacco. Despite repeated attempts, perique, used in fine pipe mixtures, never has been grown successfully elsewhere. No one knows why. The nearest to an explanation science can give is that the product is the result of some soil peculiarity not yet discovered by agronomists.

Martyrs' Shrine Has New Building

At Midland, Ontario, in the blue water district of the 30,000 islands of Georgian bay, vacationists this summer may visit the Martyrs' shrine.

From Toronto north the visitor passes the village of Sharon, where David's Temple, built many years ago by a religious leader from the United States, is preserved by the York Pioneer and Historical society.

The shrine, which stands beside the fort's historic ruins, is now housed in its new building, known as the York Pioneer Museum. Inside are replicas of the log cabins used by the early Jesuit missionaries, who became victims of the merciless warfare between the Iroquois and Huron Indians.

Park Your Horse Here.

In Raleigh, N. C., the parking meters receive nickels not only from automobile owners. Recently a farmer hitched his horse to one, deposited his nickel and allowed as how that ought to take care of her.

Canada Restoring Port Royal, Ancient Town in Nova Scotia

Restoration of the Port Royal habitation at lower Granville, Nova Scotia, is nearing completion. The work is being done by the architectural division of the surveys and engineering branch of the Canadian department of mines and resources, and when completed the buildings and the surroundings will be under the administration of the national parks bureau.

Reminiscent of early French colonist days, the rebuilt "habitation" with its palisades and ancient buildings is a full-size replica of the first fort or "habitation" of Port Royal, built in 1605 by the French under de Monts and Champlain. The timber of the buildings has been put together with wooden pins and the handwrought iron hinges and lathes have been faithfully reproduced in the manner of early 17th century workmanship.

The chimneys have been built with local field stones collected nearby, and the bricks used in the construction of the bake oven, blacksmiths' forge, and for lining fireplaces were made at the site by two old time brickmakers. All woodwork where exposed to view has been hewn and adzed by broadaxmen in the old manner.

The task of delving into the past and making a faithful restoration involved much historical and archæological research, which was carried out in coöperation with several prominent historians and archæologists including Mrs. Frederick A. Richardson and C. C. Pinckney, both of Boston, Mass., who represented the Associates of Port Royal; Dr. C. W. Currelly of the Royal Ontario museum, Toronto; Charles W. Jefferys of York Mills, Ontario, and Dr. J. Clarence Webster and D. C. Harvey, both of the historic sites and monuments board of Canada.

By a scientific method of soil reading employed in an exploratory survey the actual site of the habitation and the boundaries of the various buildings, as well as the positions of most of the fireplaces and the well in the courtyard, were established. Then the soil was sifted and removed down to the original building levels and the positions of all lines and corners of the buildings were staked. The basis of the reconstruction work has been: The Champlain engraving or picture plan, the layout of the buildings as determined by the survey, historical evidence and references to the buildings, practical considerations and probabilities and contemporary building practice in Picardy, France.

As a result of this painstaking work, the re-created Port Royal habitation will shortly stand as a monument unique in the history of Canada.

SALINAS CRUZ, Mexico.—New docks, refrigerating sheds, and storage depots are being built as a part of the program to improve the facilities of Salinas Cruz, on the Tehuantepec peninsula. Latest Travel Clothes Need Little Care

By Rea Seeger.

Few people stay at home these days, peace or war, unless it's impossible to wangle at least the usual two weeks' vacation. Nor is anything done to discourage this urge for travel. America will be on the move, come the first fine days of summer, with alluring travel folders bulging from its collective pocket.

Bantam weight luggage is filled with travel clothes that are the last word in swank comfort, requiring the minimum attention to keep clean, pressed, and in good travel form. Especially processed fabrics, cotton, linen, and the novelty stuffs, all are efficient materials for the hazards of packing and unpacking. Seersucker reigns supreme as the best of the traveling textures. This summer it's used in smart suits, in play clothes, in simple one-piece dresses, and in some of the most picturesque of summer dinner and party dresses. Huge plaids, big checks, brilliant stripes, floral patterns, and the dots give the old, narrow striped seersucker a new fashion life.

• • •

Snowy white and pastel tinted seersucker also makes summer lingerie and negligees that stay at home or gad about, and none of the pieces needs anything more than casual tubbings, and no pressing. Colors are brilliant, flattering, and gay . . . and colorfast. You'll find sleek, tailored models, or less precise affairs, all made of this typically summer-cool material.

Linen is another travel comfort. Especially treated linens are used for dresses, suits, and ensembles. Silk and linen outfits consist of thin, printed silk dresses teamed with smart, long or short coats of contrasting or harmonizing linen, lined thruout with the same print as the dress. Linen is combined with insets of knitted fabric in other unusual costume suits, a narrow band to accent the waistline and to trim cuffs and chest pockets. The underdress is likewise trimmed with the knitted insets to match in color the linen of the suit.

• • •

A well planned travel wardrobe makes all the difference between a good or not-so-good vacation. You'll need a travel suit, either a seersucker or silks and linen or, if you head north, a suit of thin summer wool. The dress and long coat ensembles still are unbeatable travel outfits. The dress is ready for wear with different colored costume accessories, or with other coats or bright colored short jackets. The long coat slides over other dresses, other suits, or is worn with separate skirts and sweaters. Knitted suits, dresses, and ensembles still are flawless traveling companions, for the current attractions are expertly designed and fashioned with gored flared skirts, with slim, fitted streamlines to both jacket blouses, and the one-piece dresses. Complete with hat [several different models are available] one of the best of general purpose outfits is achieved. Dark street shades, stunning shades of old gold, delphinium blue, raspberry, copper, sunny yellow, and many flattering tones of green offer a delightful assortment from which to choose.

Ginghams, chambrays, and the trick material called "shag" offer a third shopping choice for travel clothes, suits, dresses, ensembles, and the play as well as spectator sports clothes. Stripes, checks, plaids, and dots, combined with good wearable, dark background colors make them eye-catching and neat. Shirtwaist outfits are exceedingly trim and wearable. So are the costume suits consisting of dress and short jacket.

• • •

Travel footgear is the most comfortable yet devised. "Wedgies," especially, assure foot comfort, plenty of color and contrast, combined with pleasingly low price marks. Cotton, linen, summer suedes, combinations of linen and leather, gabardine, and leather are a few of the finds around the town.

Play suits, the time-tried classics in printed silk, provide an outfit for sightseeing or for spectator sports events. Less dress parade are the smartly tailored cottons and linens, with the gleaming white and high-colored sharkskins as alternatives.

New this summer are the knee length socks, the lisle lace hosiery in suntan shades or a new dull white tint that goes perfectly with suntanned epidermis.

• • •

Travel lingerie also is designed for the casual treatment by a vacationist. Airy, cool cottons that tub with small effort, that do not need the pressing iron, is the favored material. You'll find cotton underlayers, girdles, corsets, matching bras, and the most obliging of all-togethers. These are made of all cotton, the side panels of cotton elastic, the cotton lace bra tops and the decorative front and back panels of printed or all white dimities, men's shirting, or dotted swiss.

Sweaters, cardigans, summer flannel skirts, flannel suits, and trick combinations of gingham skirts, with short sleeved sweaters trimmed with the same gingham, are other extras of great importance. Add enough cotton gloves, slips, a travel costume of dark silk print, pajamas, and Pullman coat, or the coat with a matching nightgown, and you have all the necessities for a smooth travel wardrobe, easy to keep in smart fashion, practical, cool, and ready for the most strenuous demands of a gadabout summer.

Giant Cacti Once More in Blossom

For the next two weeks Arizona will offer to travelers a sight they may see nowhere else in North America. The giant sahuaro cacti are in bloom.

These sentinels of the desert grow only in Uncle Sam's youngest state, and for ten months of the year stand in somber majesty, presenting perpendicular contrast to sandy horizons.

But in May and June delicate creamy-white blossoms appear at the tips of the great, hornlike arms. The blossoms are viewed by visitors from all over the world.

The giant cacti [Cereus giganteous] are found in the southern and central parts of the state, and especially in the vicinity of Phoenix. Growing to heights of from 20 to 50 feet, they have been known to live to the age of 650 years.

Students of Geology Take Lead in Early Visits to Highlands

BARABOO, Wis.—Leading the influx of summer visitors to this highland region of Wisconsin, recent week-ends have seen geology classes from universities, colleges, and high schools tramping the hills and admiring the scenery. Of course they have been studying geology, too.

Two of the largest groups came from Northwestern and Wisconsin. Those from Evanston had headquarters at the Wisconsin Dells, while those from Madison stayed overnight at Baraboo. Both classes were in charge of faculty members who explained the geological structure of the strange and beautiful formations at the Dells ond at Devil's lake.

Each year more students come to this area, which is said to contain some of the world's most interesting rock patterns. Devil's lake was once a part of the Wisconsin river, but the glacial age cut off the connection and left the lake isolated in its deep bluff-ringed bowl. These bluffs are of hard rock. In contrast, the nearby Dells—the two attractions are less than 20 miles apart—were carved by water out of soft Potsdam sandstone.

Now that the school year is closing many families are coming to the lake and the Dells for their vacations. There are hotels, cabins, cottages, and camps available at both, along with golf courses, tennis courts, swimming, horseback, and fishing.

Situated less than 200 miles from Chicago, with transportation provided by rail and bus lines, the region is also reached by federal and state highways. It is 40 miles north of Madison and midway between Milwaukee, on Lake Michigan, and La Crosse, on the Mississippi river.

Girl Catches Fish Bigger Than Self

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 15.—In a 45 minute battle which left both fish and angler in a state of exhaustion, Betty Hinson of this city landed a tarpon larger than herself the other day, to take first place in St. Petersburg's annual tarpon roundup, in which 6,000 sportsmen are competing.

The 123 pound silver king will top the prize list in all divisions, unless and until a bigger one is hooked and brought to gaff before the roundup closes Aug. 31.

Fishing Tourney Opens on Pacific

Ten thousand dollars in prizes will be given away this summer for the best fish caught in the Pacific ocean off southern California.

These waters containing scores of varieties of fish are the scene of the first annual salt water fishing tournament, beginning June 8 and lasting until Nov. 1. Prizes of tackle and equipment will go to the barefoot boy with homemade pole, the tourist on a $2 a day party, the rich sportsman with a $1,000 outfit.

The limits are the waters from Malibu, movie stars' beach colony north of Los Angeles, south to San Diego. Professional fishermen are barred.

Varieties of fish eligible are marlin and broadbill swordfish, black sea bass, yellowtail, white sea bass, albacore, dolphin, rock bass, halibut, barracuda, mackerel, yellow fin, spotfin, croaker, corbina, blue fin, bonita, and skipjack.

This Port Looks All Right Until One Enters It

By Mason Warner.

LORENZO MARQUES, MOZAMBIQUE.

This capital of Portuguese East Africa presents its best side to the sea. From the deck of the ship we enjoyed a vista of a white and clean business center, from which led out boulevards flanked by the fine residences of wealthy Portuguese.

Our ship docked late in the afternoon. We walked up town at about 7 p. m. to find a deadly dull town. The shops were closed. The streets were deserted. At 9 o'clock the Cantos Casino, center of night life, opened its doors. Chief attractions: roulette and dancing. Taxi girls, sixpence a dance. Not worth the price. Bets at the roulette wheel ranged from 2 shillings to a pound [45 cents to $4.50]. Majority of chips on the layout placed by stooges. Altogether, we experienced a stupid time the first evening in Mozambique.

• • •

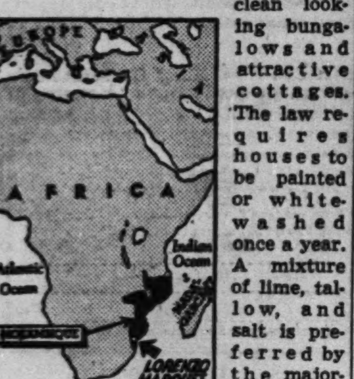
The following day we took the 20 mile drive along the coast to Polana point. The beach road was not inviting. We passed the Oasis, a modern café, but there was not a sign of life about it. In connection with it there was a small area of beach devoted to bathing, with a wire net enclosure for protection against sharks. There were no bathers.

The Polana hotel is over-touted. The most exclusive and expensive hostelry in this part of Africa, famous thruout the southern hemisphere, is a huge and elegant building—but it enjoys little patronage and is a big money loser. It has a lovely setting high above the Umbeluzi river, but the sea beach is rocky and impracticable for bathing. The grounds have a proud display of highly colored shrubbery, crotons, and plants with leaves of yellow, red, orange, and green. Papaya trees bearing fruit are all about. But there are no flower boxes at the windows or at porch railings, and the huge hotel has a stark and barren look.

The inn is supposed to attract visitors from the hinterland, seekers of seaside air and the opportunity to gamble at the casino. Yet when my daughter and I had tea in the lounge there were only two other persons in the spacious room—and they were fellow passengers on our ship.

• • •

Returning to Lourenço Marques we drove thru pretty streets lined with clean looking bungalows and attractive cottages. The law requires houses to be painted or whitewashed once a year. A mixture of lime, tallow, and salt is preferred by the majority of home owners.



We wished to see the real native section of Lourenço Marques. Our chauffeur was reluctant to drive us there, but finally, after threats to call the American and British consuls and the police, he took us into the black district.

The native huts were placed without rhyme, reason, or regularity of any kind. They were built of corrugated iron, tin, pieces of packing boxes, poles, reeds, and mud, all with thatched roofs. They were held together by guess and by gosh, but each was surrounded by a stockade of bamboos or reeds that would not withstand the assaults of a goat. There were no planned streets—only meandering paths—between the crazy-patchwork huts.

The native market was a crowded, inclosed square, in which bedraggled native men and women paid 3 cents a day to squat on the ground and spread out in front of them on the ground the tiny tomatoes, fruits, and other produce they had to sell. The fish and meat stalls were roofed, after a fashion. Protected against the sun were also stalls operated by Indians, selling cheap and gaudy jewelry to the natives. The Indians wore European clothes and stood erect while seeking and serving their customers. The native women, of whom there were too many, wore bright colored cotton prints, some dresses, others simple sarongs fastened at the waist with nothing above. The market was a lively, seething scene, but I doubted if the cash turnover for the day amounted to much.

• • •

The colony of Mozambique has an area of 302,700 square miles—larger than Texas. Of its 4,000,000 population only 23,000 are Europeans. More than half the white population is concentrated at Lourenço Marques. Sugar, copra, and sisal are the chief exports, but manganese, chromium, and other minerals from the Rhodesias are shipped thru the port of Lourenço Marques, one of the best harbors on this coast. The Transvaal also sends wool, fruits, and other products thru this port.

Delagoa bay was discovered in 1502 by Antonio de Campo, one of Vasco de Gama's captains, and some 40 years later was further explored by Lourenço Marques, a trader, for whom the city was named. The Bantu natives waged war against the white intruders for years, and it was not until 1895 that they were finally overcome.

Malaria and dysentery took a terrible toll from the early settlers, but progress has been made toward sanitary improvement. However, there is no reason why a pleasure seeking tourist should spend more than a day here. He had better continue on with his ship, or board a train for Johannesburg.

There are not many trains in southern Africa. One of the best leaves Lourenço Marques for Johannesburg every Friday at 2:45 p. m. It covers the distance of 395 miles in 17 hours. We decided to take it.

NATIVE DANCER

Holding a rattle and an evergreen, a young Indian prepares to take part in a corn dance in New Mexico.

A belle of Lorenzo Marques.

Bass Lakes to Open Season Late in June

Michigan last year issued more non-resident fishing licenses than did any other state. It has 5,000 lakes and thousands of miles of trout streams.

The bass lakes will be opened for fishing June 25. West Michigan communities will celebrate the opening. Elk Rapids, with its Bass round-up; Fountain, with its Bass festival; Hastings, with its Bluegill festival, and Marcellus, also with a Bluegill festival, are among those having programs.

But trout and pan fish are not the only attractions of Michigan waters. There is a deep sea trolling for Mackinaw trout at half a dozen ports.

Trolling fleets operate from Northport, Traverse City, Elk Rapids, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Good Hart.

• Michigan, with 3,121 miles of beautiful shoreline, is first in the hearts of a great many vacationers. Its 6,000 inland lakes, 15,000 miles of trout streams and 40,000 acres of state parks invite you. Awaiting you are 1,000,000 acres of state forests, 13,000,000 acres of good hunting grounds, 12 large game refuges, 9,457 miles of fine highways. There are over 100,000 acres of picturesque fruitland and many fascinating old towns echoing the early days of Michigan. Few realize that Michigan was once a part of France and that French customs, language and land tenure predominated until the opening of the Erie canal in 1825 and Michigan's admission to the Union in 1837. • Consult the advertisments in the Travelers' Guide today, or let the Chicago Tribune Travel Bureau help you plan a Michigan vacation. This department of the Tribune Public Service office can supply you with information about steamship, railroad, bus and plane travel, cost of transportation and accommodations en route for trips and tours to any part of the world which interests you. Services are free. The Tribune Travel bureau sells no tickets—gets no fee or commission from the sale of tickets. So feel free to call in person, write or telephone.

DOMESTIC TRAVEL

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

FOREIGN TRAVEL

East or West, You'll Discover Enchantment

By India Moffett.

Why is that when a Chicagoan says "I'm going to the seashore," no one doubts it is the Atlantic coast that is meant? Or, if the statement is "I'm going to the coast," immediately the listener knows the Pacific will be the traveler's destination. There may be a reason, but, if there is, this reporter does not know it.

This season, as well as last, many travelers are torn between going to the "seashore" and "the coast," for there is a special attraction in the way of a world's fair on each shore. If one elects to spend a vacation on the Atlantic coast, it is an easy matter to include New York and its mammoth exposition in one's itinerary. Or, if one goes west, San Francisco and its smaller but beautiful fair may be visited.

The 1940 New York World's Fair is said to be gayer than last year's and just as interesting; the San Francisco Fair is said to be as beautiful as its predecessor, and gayer. Gayety is something every one will be seeking while on a holiday this summer, when every one's minds and hearts are burdened by the news from overseas.

• • •

If you're going to the coast you probably will want to visit Hollywood, for motion picture stars, their homes, and the studios have a strong fascination for the average person. However, if you've been there once, you may not want to go again. You may prefer to spend your time seeing new sights, and people. Lake Arrowhead, the Yosemite, Boulder dam, the Grand canyon, Lake Tahoe, the Sequoia National park, and the bay region around San Francisco are a few of the many worth while places in and near California.

When you have headquarters in Los Angeles or its environs it is a delightful round trip of about three hours to drive to the top of Mount Wilson, 6,000 feet high. The views are breath-taking and on a clear day one can see not only Los Angeles sprawling out in the distance and the ocean beyond, but Catalina Island. Lake Arrowhead is not far from Los Angeles and the drive there is magnificent. Thru orange groves and then up past Big Bare and Baldwin lake over the Rim-of-the-World drive.

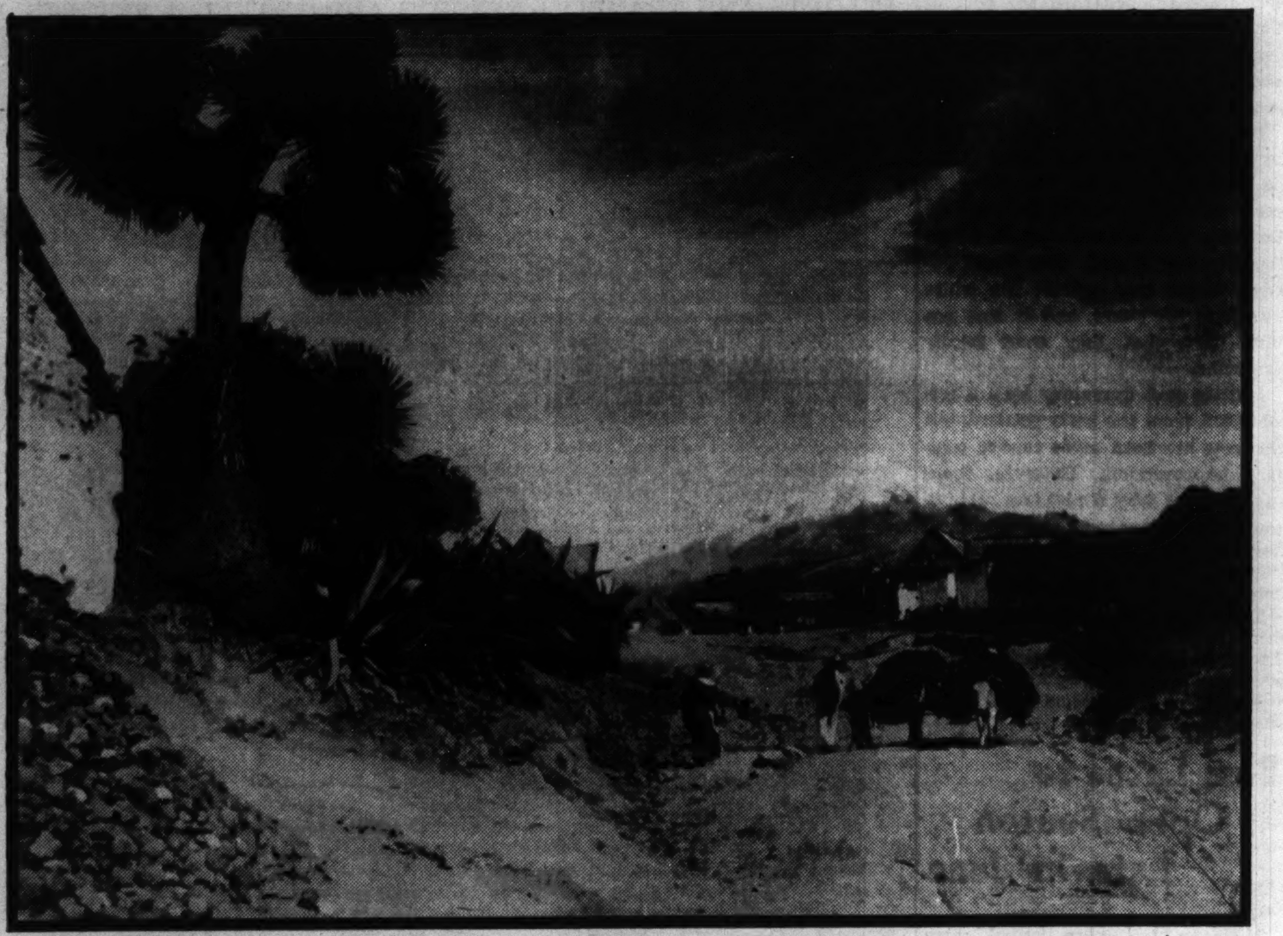
• • •

If San Francisco is your base, Muir woods and Mount Tamalpais are among the wonders to be seen on short motor trips. The drive from Los Angeles to San Francisco is a never-to-be-forgotten one, and, if one has the time to go the long way and visit Santa Barbara and the Monterey peninsula, the trip is doubly beautiful.

If the seashore is your goal, there are as many places from which to choose as there are in the west. To some the most attractive part of the Atlantic shore is the New Jersey one; to others the Connecticut shore offers everything; to others it is the Massachusetts shore that is the most pleasant, and to still others Maine has THE shore. To me, each is lovely and interesting and exhilarating. Asbury Park, N. J., Mason's Island, Conn., Wianno, Mass., and Bar Harbor, Me.—each is charming, and so are dozens of other places in each state.

Take a map and, blindfolded, stick a pin anywhere along the Atlantic coast line and you won't go wrong. It's all delightful. Some places are more fashionable than others, some are more restful and quiet, some are more accessible to New York or to Boston, but each has something to recommend it in addition to that glorious ocean that every seaside resort must have.

New York state has its beaches, too, for both the north and the south shores of Long Island have water fronts. Montauk, the point of the island, is the favorite summer place of many. It has a definite charm, on sunny days and on foggy ones, and it is easy to imagine one's self far from New York when spending even a week-end in the old fishing village.



SNOW CRESTED PEAK—EVEN IN THE TROPICS

One of Mexico's mighty volcanoes, Orizaba, is viewed by travelers on the trip between Mexico City and Vera Cruz.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

ROAMING IN WYOMING.

Chicago, June 5.—To the Travel Editor: The article in the Sunday Travel section regarding the 50th anniversary of Wyoming's admission to the Union tempts me to write you about a delightful trip I took by bus last fall thru a part of that state that so far has not been much frequented by tourists.

We went from Cheyenne to Casper and then north, over the old Jim Bridger trail, thru the Big Horns to Billings, Mont. We passed thru Wind River canyon—a scenic wonder—and along the Big Horn river, visiting the world's greatest hot springs, at Thermopolis, and always in sight of the snow-capped mountains on the right, with isolated peaks in the distance to the west.

The formations at the hot springs are similar to those in Yellowstone park. They are gorgeous in color and peculiar in shape. A fellow passenger told me that the Big Horn canyon, off the highway, rivaled Yellowstone canyon and that the big horn sheep could be seen from the road. From the bus we saw antelope, coyotes, a wildcat, and a mountain goat, along with pheasants and magpies.

From Billings we went to Bozeman, Mont. When we reached the summit of Bozeman pass we were in the midst of a snowstorm, while the woods showed brilliant gold aspen and scarlet alders against the dark evergreens.

This scenic route is little known to eastern travelers. It is well worth the trip. M. E. B.

MAIL FOR SHUT-INS.

Normal, Ill., June 9.—To the Travel Editor: A friend of mine has been in a sanitarium for more than nine years, taking the cure for tuberculosis. She has a birthday June 17, and I wondered if some Tribune readers would send her cards or letters on that occasion. I believe her courage and perseverance deserve a word of praise. Her name and address: Edna Anderson, Fairview Sanitarium, Normal, Ill. A. R.

Chicago, June 8.—To the Travel Editor: Please place my son's name on your shut-in list. He has been put to bed with a heart murmur and, as he has always been active, time hangs heavily for him. He is 12 and is interested in stamps and picture postcards. Won't some other boys please write him? The address is Robert Magnesen, 3614 Augusta boulevard, Chicago. MRS. C. MAGNESEN.

Chicago, June 3.—To the Travel Editor: It will be very much appreciated if you will place on your shut-in list the name of John Steele, care of Fred Uirich, Janesville, Ia. He is an elderly gentleman, confined to a wheel chair, and likes to get mail of any kind. H. C.

Pipestone, Minn., June 7.—To the Travel Editor: Dan McMillan, room C-222, Douglas County hospital, Omaha, Neb., is tubercular and will be confined to that institution for some time. His hobby is reading. He would be delighted to hear from your readers. [MRS.] MARGUERITE ROOD.

Chicago, May 14.—To the Travel Editor: A friend of mine has been bedfast for the last 10 years. Altho she would be unable to reply, she would enjoy hearing from your readers. Her name and address: Miss Lillian Engel, 6 North 7th avenue, Maywood, Ill. A. F.

Chicago, May 10.—To the Travel Editor: I have a 7 year old daughter, who for the last two years has been seriously ill in a hospital. She has tuberculosis of both hip joints and has had five operations. She has been in a body cast for weeks at a time. Letters and cards from travelers and others among your readers would make her very happy. But she would not be able to answer them, as she cannot sit up to write. She gets mighty lonesome, for we are allowed to see her for only an hour once a week. Please arrange it so she can receive some mail. Her name and address: Marion Skeinik, floor F, Children's Memorial hospital, 707 Fullerton avenue, Chicago. May God bless all the kind persons who answer appeals such as this! MRS. E. SKELNIK.

Wabash, Ind., June 6.—To the Travel Editor: My uncle, William Fitzgerald of Dana, Ind., has been bedfast for the last eight years. Correspondence from travelers would help him pass the time. He is about 60 years old. MRS. P. L. MCGRIFF.

La Porte, Ind., June 8.—To the Travel Editor: Mrs. Ella Sensow, 304 Bond street, La Porte, has been a shut-in for 23 years and hasn't walked since 1927. She would greatly appreciate correspondence from travelers. A FRIEND.

THANK YOU DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, May 13.—To the Travel Editor: May I, thru your column, thank the many persons who have sent me cards, letters, and greetings. I cannot begin to answer them all personally. I also wish to thank the railroad officials who have remembered the shut-ins. I am sure all of us greatly appreciate this TRIBUNE feature. It is a sort of link between us and the rest of the world, and it shows that there are still a lot of kindly people in this war-torn old world. May you continue your good work! [MRS.] HELEN MASULLA.

Springfield, Ill., May 12.—To the Travel Editor: I wish to thank Mrs. W. A. Grubaugh for sending in my name, and the many readers who responded. I am deeply grateful. I enjoyed every card and letter, and am sorry I cannot answer them all. EDGAR O. WHITE.

Urbana, Ill., May 13.—To the Travel Editor: About a year ago a friend and I—both of us confined to a sanitarium—wrote in to the shut-in column. We have received so many replies that the response has brightened our whole lives. We are cheered by the thought that people all over the world are thoughtful and kind enough to remember those less fortunate than themselves. I wish to thank them, and THE TRIBUNE. MAXINE SMITH.

Freeport, Ill., May 6.—To the Travel Editor: Please thank the many kind persons who sent mail to Miss Jennie Dagwell during her long illness. She died last month. R. B. H.

Caverns Lure Tourist Horde to Tennessee

By Alden Powell.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Geological formations of central and eastern Tennessee provide tourists with the opportunity of exploring many caves and caverns. Among the best known caves are:

Dunbar, near Clarksville. It is illuminated and has guides who take visitors on a several mile hike thru numerous chambers and corridors. A large lake near the entrance provides boating and fishing.

Jewel and Ruskin, near Dickson. They have unusual formations in a great variety of shapes and colors. They are open thruout the year.

• • •

Indian, in the eastern part of the state. No cavern in America has as many formations of equal diversity, size, and shapes.

Wonder, near Monteagle. Persons who have explored caves in other parts of the country marvel at the beauties from which this one derived its name.

Nickajack, near Chattanooga. There John Sevier wiped out a band of Indians that had revolted from the Cherokee nation because they did not like the treaties the larger tribe had signed with the white men.

Caves on Lookout mountain—one of which contains the Ruby waterfalls—are visited by thousands annually.

• • •

In addition to all these there are a number less accessible but of interest to explorers. Most of these run underground for miles, but there are also sandstone caves that have little depth.

One of these is Hazard, in Pickett State park. Indians once lived there, and later a pioneer named Watson reared a large family in the cavern, which provided adequate shelter. Another is the Alum cave in Great Smoky Mountains National park.

Southern Oddity.

Spoonbread, a southern corn bread so moist that it has to be served with a spoon, is offered as a delicacy to southerners and an oddity to northern tourists in many North Carolina restaurants.

Rich in Folklore.

Many books have been written on the legends of the St. Lawrence and the backwoods areas of French Canada could supply budding writers with many more legends that have never yet seen print.

Newfoundland Still Unspoiled for Travelers

By Stanley Truman Brooks.

When Cabot blazed his trail across the Atlantic in 1497, he could not foresee what would follow his discoveries. But no sooner had he reported to his English merchants on his findings in the new world than interest sprang up in every land. A race then started for control of the new-found land that has not entirely been forgotten by the crowded races of Europe even today.

One of the first ports in the new world was St. John's, Newfoundland. Now most Americans have the idea that this is some port in Canada or in Nova Scotia, and they are surprised to find that Newfoundland has always been a separate entity.

St. John's was settled some time around the early part of the 16th century and may be the oldest city in America. But history is hazy, and we know only that it was one of the most important seaports in America when the Puritans were planning their voyage. It and numerous other fishing villages existed when Cartier first came westward to discover and claim new lands for the French king. For centuries the ships sailing from eastern America or from Europe made St. John's their stopping place before continuing their passage, and as a nautical half way point it also served as one of the main military garrisons of the British.

• • •

Today the remains of its extensive fortifications still dot the cliffy hills that surround the long, narrow harbor. But St. John's is a modern city, nested among the memories and remains of the past.

As late as the civil war in the United States the cable facilities ran only to Newfoundland. So vessels coming from Europe would stop for the news or for orders, and those sailing from American and Canadian ports would stop for their last word with the homeland. Then, when the first cable was finally placed across the bottom of the Atlantic, where would it land except in Newfoundland? Again St. John's saw the efforts of man to bring the world closer together. The first steamer to cross the Atlantic called at the great island on its epochal voyage. The radio genius, Marconi, made St. John's his home when he set up the first clumsy instrument that was to receive a message from the air—the first trans-Atlantic conversation without the use of wires.

• • •

Cabot tower is a stone building sitting high on the cliff at the entrance to St. John's harbor. It was beside its thick walls that Marconi set up his apparatus. The marks of those first poles that bore the antenna may still be seen. This building is now the headquarters of the Marconi system that covers the northland, and it also is the signal station that greets the incoming ships. Deep below it is the narrow entrance of the harbor. All around the cliffs are dotted with guns, breastworks, and terraces for riflemen.

Toward the city that creeps from the water's edge up the long hills are other batteries, with their cannon still mounted in their embrasures. The English, French, Dutch, and Canadians fought over this hill for the control of the fortifications, for it was said in those days that the nation holding this Gibraltar of the north controled the new world.

• • •

After Marconi came other men, with still more ambitious dreams—to fly across the Atlantic. They sent their frail ships into the air, and their last sight of the American continent was the sturdy Cabot tower. Lindbergh saw this land as he flew north on the tour of the world's air lanes. On its last voyage the ill-fated Zeppelin Hindenburg flew low over the Union Jack that fluttered there.

St. John's [and, for that matter, the entire island of Newfoundland] has been a crossroads of the Atlantic. One wonders what new rôle it will play in this seething world. There are two important rôles. The first is as the outpost for the protection of the coast of America and Canada, and the second is as a new sport's land for the American tourist.

Few of us realize that upon this island is one of the largest airports in the world and that its deep harbors and bays are natural seaplane bases. For the last four years trans-Atlantic planes have been flying to and fro on the northern route, and have made numerous landings there. The farthest eastern land in North America, Newfoundland is finding that the eyes of the western hemisphere will see it again as the outpost for this continent. In some of its harbors it could comfortably berth the entire American fleet.

• • •

However, to the majority of persons the rediscovery of Newfoundland means sport, history, a land of unusual and interesting customs.

Game fish abound in the waters. Tuna, larger and gamier than in any other waters, sport in the deep fiords; salmon leap the rapids and falls of the streams, unseen and unknown to most sportsmen. Those who have known of the trout and salmon have not publicized the fact, since they have at last found their Mecca, Nirvana, or whatever fishermen find. There are rainbows, brown trout, and sea trout in the waters that constitute one-third of the island's surface. Moose, caribou, and other game roam the forests, and the snow partridge [a ptarmigan, not a partridge] is found on the hills and barrens within a short distance of the capital.

• • •

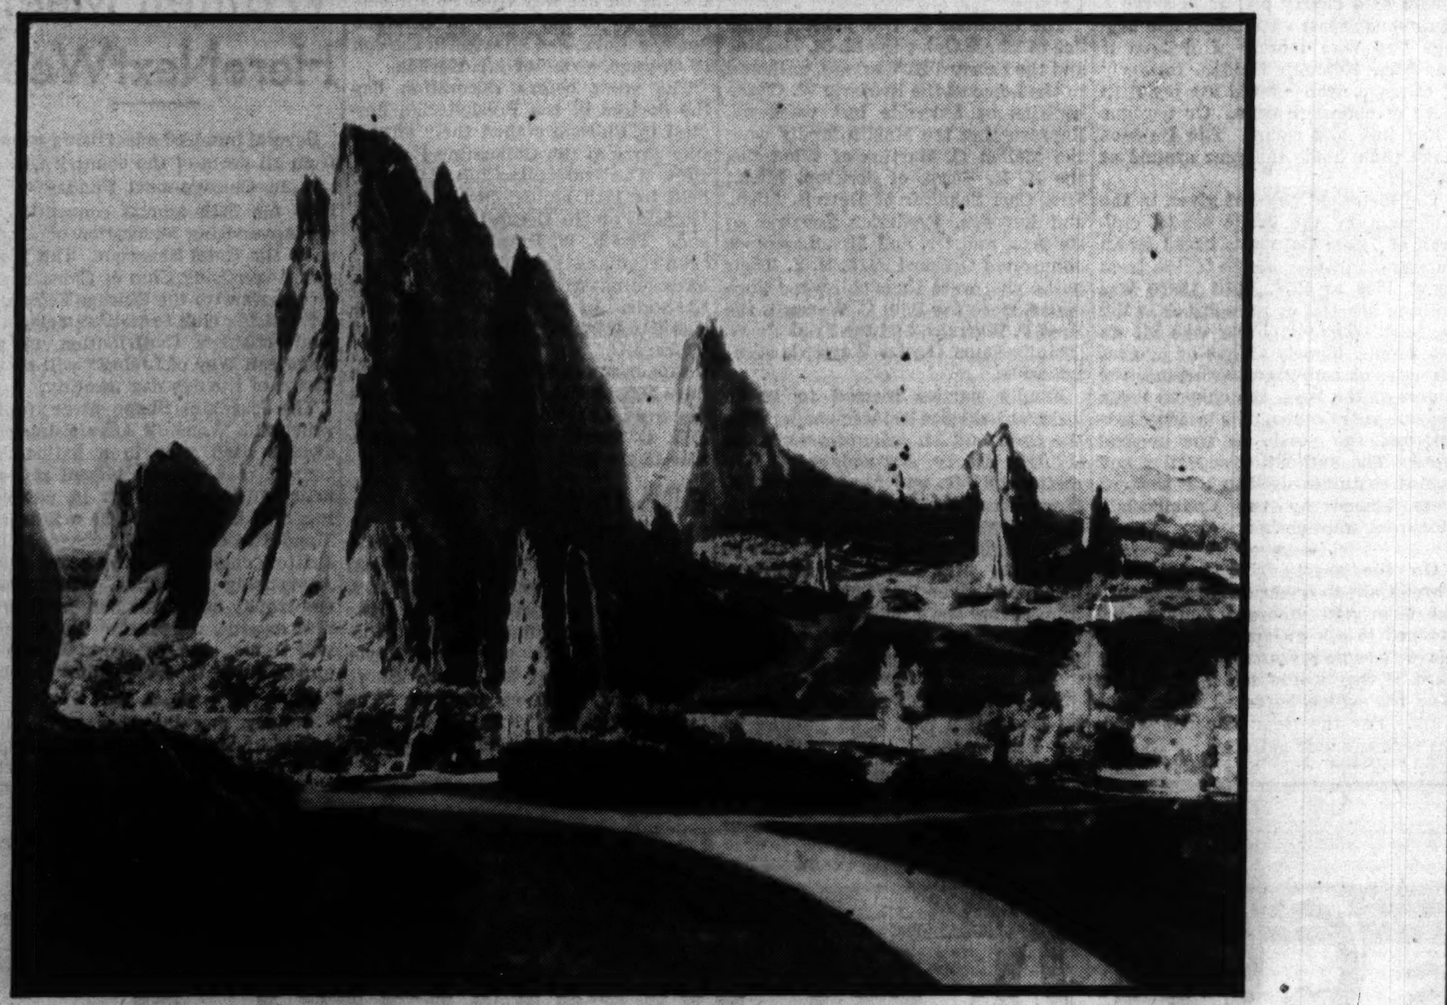
The quaint fisheries along the shores of the great island are a fascinating sight. High spinning wheels still hum in the kitchens of the fisherfolk, and the home crafts of the people are the same as in former centuries. But with all of this the traveler finds comfortable homes and hotels in nearly every village of any size, motor roads leading to all of the points of interest in or near the east coast, and modern hotels in St. John's. One may either rough it in the forests along the fishing streams or sit in St. John's and consume the wines of Europe.

It is an amazing country, and St. John's is both its front door and its nerve center. Newfoundland is the oldest land in North America, the first settled in the new world, and still the unspoiled and undiscovered land for the traveler.

• • •

Today Newfoundland is considered one of the belligerent countries, but because it is part of North America the American government is going to place no obstacles in the way of the traveler.

The best method of entry is by way of Halifax or North Sydney, Nova Scotia. [One must have a passport and British visa.] Sailing from North Sydney, the traveler lands at Port aux Basques, and from there the railways take him across the island or around it to St. John's, or north to the Newfoundland Labrador, the pathway to the far north and the land of the Grenfell and Moravian missions.



"WHEN IT'S SPRINGTIME IN THE ROCKIES"

The morning sun casts an unearthly effect on the massive spirals of the Garden of the Gods. The "garden" is one of the tourist attractions in Colorado's Pike's Peak region.

How It Got Its Name.

Starved rock, center of interest in the Illinois state park bearing its name, has a history of stirring deeds. In 1769 a band of Illinois Indians was besieged on its summit by a tribe of Pottawattomies, and starved to death rather than surrender, thus giving this massive natural stronghold its sinister name.

One First Lady.

Despite North Carolina's claim to three Presidents of the United States —Johnson, Polk, and Jackson—only one "first lady," Dolly Madison, was a native of that state.

Alberta Scene of Three July Events

The province of Alberta, in the Canadian Rockies, will offer three July events of interest to the vacationist.

July 1 will see the official opening of the Banff-Jasper highway, connecting the resorts of Banff and Lake Louise with Jasper National park. Notable in the scene, and paralelling the highway, is Snow dome, 11,340 feet in elevation. It is situated on the great Columbia ice field, termed the "roof of the continent," where the watersheds of the Atlantic, the Pacific, and the Arctic meet.

From July 8 to 13 the town of Calgary, 85 miles east of Banff, will hold its annual exhibition and stampede.

From July 18 to 21 the Banff resort will hold its annual Indian days.

First American Gold.

The first gold discovered in the United States was found in 1799 by Conrad Reed, a 12 year old boy, in Cabbarus county, North Carolina.

From Red Cedar.

Bermula craftsmen fashion native red cedar into book-ends, tables, chairs, lamp bases, and ornately carved ash trays.

My husband and I are planning a trip eastward this summer and wish to visit Abraham Lincoln's ancestral home. We are informed that it is still to be seen somewhere in Virginia. What can you tell us about it? —E. R. H.

The home, a handsome colonial structure, is situated on the east side of route 260, eight miles north of Harrisonburg, Va., in a rather remote section of the Shenandoah valley. The first unit of the homestead was built by the President's great-grandfather, "Virginia John" Lincoln, and the President's father, Thomas Lincoln, was born there. Relatives continued to till the rich soil of Rockingham county until the death of Polly Lincoln, cousin of the President, toward the end of the nineteenth century. Daniel Boone is said to have visited the house about 1772 and to have slept in the upstairs bedroom, beneath the rough, hand-hewn ceiling beams. This older portion has been little changed since it was built 170 years ago. An old sampler, skilfully embroidered by a member of the Lincoln family nearly a century ago, graces the living room wall in the newer wing of the house, and near it is a reel for winding yarn. Tax receipts, a 90 year old valentine, and a receipt for the purchase of a slave are other relics. Five generations of the family are buried in the small cemetery nearby.

How long will the New York World's Fair remain open? —K. W.

Sept. 11 to 14.

Just where is Christophe's Citadel? —G. A. J.

How old is the cathedral in Mexico City? R. S. G.

It was started in 1563 and completed two hundred years later.

What can you tell me about the scenic attractions in British Guiana, in the northern part of South America? —A. M. McF.

British Guiana has been called an unspoiled Eden. Larger than Texas, it has a good year-round climate, districts rich in gold and diamonds, vast forests of hardwoods, and reserves where Arawak Indians still lead a primitive life. Kaieteur Fall, with a sheer drop of more than 800 feet, is one of the attractions. Georgetown, the capital, has a 180 acre botanical garden of tropical plants and blooms. The city is reached from this country by several steamship lines and an air line.

Nature Adds Vivid Charm to Lakeside

By Lolita Linn.

LAKESIDE, MICH. There is some magic abroad when a rather sophisticated group in these days hushes its chatter of guns and politics to quote sixth reader poetry. Yet that is just what happened in Lakeside the other night. Of course the artist in the group started it. He was telling his hostess how he had groped for the words of an almost forgotten poem as he drove from Michigan City to Lakeside thru fields of purple blue lupine. "And what is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days" . . . he was pretty sure of that much, and the fact that it was raining softly did not seem to make the words incongruous. A lady who had been discussing the bond market with her dinner partner prompted him: "Then Heaven tries earth if it be in tune, and over it softly her warm ear lays." With his audience almost thinking the words out loud for him, the artist continued: "Whether we look or whether we listen, we hear life murmur or see it glisten."

Such magic comes easily in Lakeside, for here is a world, not two hours away from Chicago, where summer and peace have full sway, and where it is the natural thing to turn off the news bulletins at night to listen to a bobwhite talking himself to sleep just outside the window.

• • •

To one who has spent the winter among the pale tints of the Arizona desert the vivid greens of this countryside are almost unreal, and during the last two weeks this feeling of unreality has been heightened by the shimmering white of the graceful spiraea. A Lakeside friend who serves passing motorists delicious hamburgers and luscious apple pie says the sprays of spiraea remind her of the showers of stars which trail down to earth from a bursting skyrocket. Inevitably one is reminded of the flowing veils of brides as they approach the altar.

When Lakeside speaks of brides these days it seems to have uppermost in its mind the brides of 50 years ago. For in this tiny all year community two golden wedding anniversaries were celebrated this spring, and many Chicagoans who know Lakeside primarily as a summer home took part in the celebrations.

• • •

Alfred Buller, who greets all comers on the first tee of the Chikaming Country club, and his "lassie from Glasgow" celebrated their golden wedding at Shakespeare house on the country club grounds. This was most appropriate, for Mr. Buller was born in Stratford on Avon, only six doors from the birthplace of William Shakespeare, of which Shakespeare house is a replica. He went to school within the shadow of Warwick castle, whose walls were protected from a vengeful Cromwell by great bags of wool. As I looked at the picture of the castle which hangs in the entrance hall of the clubhouse I could not help but wonder what miracle might preserve it a second time.

Among the Chicagoans who came to congratulate the Bullers were the Orvis T. Henkles, the Clyde H. Schryvers, the Stanley D. Faircloughs, the Dave Wilsons, the Raymond E. Dalys, and the Wallace B. Wolffs.

Three days later the Emory Gliddens, descendants of pioneer families of Lakeside, celebrated their golden anniversary. Mr. Glidden was postmaster of Lakeside for more than 20 years. Across from the Glidden home in front of the fire engine "barn" are what University of Chicago botanists believe to be the two largest sassafras trees in the world. This spring they were in glorious golden bloom as if in honor of their neighbors' wedding day.

• • •

He who thinks the American way of doing things is suffering a decline should have attended the 24th annual pioneer celebration of the Three Oaks Historical society on Decoration day. The women of this old Michigan town have lost not a whit of the ability of their pioneer grandmothers to bake a ham or a cherry pie, or to serve a bounteous repast with hospitable urgings "to take more." I believe it was Mrs. Kenneth Holden, formerly of Chicago, who offered me my fifth piece of chocolate cake. Or perhaps I had just lost count. The Holdens make their home the year around at Lakeside.

The historical pageant given in the afternoon by the grade school children of Three Oaks was based on an impressive history of the region from about 1700 to 1874. But there was nothing boastful or pretentious in the pageant. The emphasis was all on the simple, homely things of pioneer life—the churning and sweeping, the chores of the boys, the chicken reels, the one room school, the cracker barrel, and the gossip in the general store. The authentic properties and quaint costumes used in the pageant were loaned by the Chamberlain Memorial museum.

• • •

On the short drive home from Three Oaks to Lakeside across beautiful farm and vineyard country we stopped to ask a German farmer and his wife, who were working in their yard, if they would sell a few of the blue iris which bordered their front walk. For the large bouquet which the farmer's wife gathered for us they would accept only a quarter. And when we said that flowers not half so fresh would cost us far more than that in Chicago, the farmer had the right answer: "Yes, but this isn't Chicago."

The children of two pioneer families of Three Oaks, the M. M. Martins and the Edward K. Warrens, gathered in the home of the Frederic W. Chamberlains at Lakeside last week-end. Representing the Martin family were the Mellen C. Martins of Winnetka, the A. R. Fords of Jackson, Mich.; Mrs. Carl Schairer of Detroit, Mich., and her son, Frederick Schairer of Chicago, and Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson of Orchard Park, N. Y. Their hosts, who were their childhood playmates, were the Paul C. Warrens, the Fred P. Warrens, and the Frederic W. Chamberlains [Lydia Warren], all of Lakeside.

Family parties seemed to be in order at Lakeside last week-end. With the Raymond M. Ashcrafts were the William Henry Alexanders of Wilmette and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas K. Huntress of Chicago and their little son, Douglas Jr. The Ashcrafts have been coming to Lakeside for some 30 summers. Mrs. Ashcraft said she remembered when members of the Chicago colony were most resentful that their kerosene lamps were to be replaced by electricity.

The Harold J. Gordons of Chicago opened their home in Lakeside Park on Decoration day, altho judging by the skis we saw in the basement a Lakeside country home is rarely closed. Their guests over the holiday were the Broadus J. Clarkes of Chicago; their son, Hal R. Gordon; Miss Louise Evans, who stopped to spend the day on her way from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to her home in Colorado Springs, Colo., and Miss Edith Gordon of Chicago, sister of Mr. Gordon.

The week before Decoration day the doctors of the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago staged their annual stag party at the Chikaming Country club. The Fraternity Club of Chicago held its 18th annual house party at Lakeside on the Decoration day week-end. The F. W. Rowdons, who have been regular attendants at this party, have purchased a home this year at Lakeside. In their party on Decoration day were the John McKinlays of Chicago.

The James G. Kelloggs of Winnetka have rented Mrs. Nellie J. O'Connor's home at Lakeside for the summer. Mrs. O'Connor will spend the summer in the east.

Edith Copeland Bride of Sidney W. Schuman

The marriage of Miss Edith Vicki Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewis Copeland of 3800 Lake Shore drive, to Sidney William Schuman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Schuman, also of 3800 Lake Shore drive, took place on May 15. The ceremony was performed at the Bryn Mawr Country club and was followed by a reception.

Advertising Women Meet Here Next Week

Several hundred advertising women from all parts of the country will arrive in Chicago next Sunday to attend the 36th annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America at the Hotel Sherman. The Women's Advertising Club of Chicago will be co-host with the Chicago Federated Advertising club to visiting delegates. "Advertising's Contribution to the American Way of Living" will be the theme of the five day meeting.

The Josephine Snapp silver trophy, which the Women's Advertising club awards each year in a nation-wide contest to a woman judged to have done outstanding work in advertising, will be presented at a luncheon Monday at the Hotel Sherman. Mason Britton, chairman of the board of the Advertising federation, will present the trophy and three honorable mention awards. A tea for the winners will follow, and the annual banquet and ball will take place that evening.

• • •

Sunday morning there will be a breakfast at the Lake Shore Athletic club with visiting advertising club presidents and stage and screen stars as guests. Mrs. Aubyn Chinn, vice president of the Advertising federation, will lead a round table discussion on program planning. A reception at the Hotel Ambassador East and cocktail parties in both the Pump room and the Buttery are planned for the afternoon with a lake trip that evening. Airplane trips over Chicago are scheduled for early Monday morning.

Tuesday afternoon right and wrong fashions for career women will be illustrated at a fashion show and tea at Marshall Field and company. Wives of advertising men will be invited.

• • •

"Addie," the most popular advertising woman at the convention, will be chosen by general vote along with "Albert," the most popular advertising man, at the annual ox roast to be held Wednesday afternoon at Ilg Air park. The penthouse atop the Hotel Sherman will be headquarters for the advertising women, and will be known as Addie's Attic.

Miss Mae McCain, social chairman of the Women's Advertising club, has planned these events with the assistance of Mrs. Prudence Allured, president; Miss Helen Vance, former president; Miss Marian Schmidt, Miss Kathleen Condon, Miss Elsa Smith, Miss Marie Floto, and Miss Margaret Brooks.

It's GENE KRUPA, that drummin' man, "swinging away" a HEADACHE!

I ALWAYS TAKE BROMO-SELTZER. NOTHING ELSE I'VE TRIED GIVES ME THAT SAME ALL-ROUND RELIEF. IT HELPS HEAD, STOMACH, NERVES!

"My band had played from 8 P. M. till 2 at a popular club outside New York. Then we rehearsed till 5 A. M. for a recording that began at 9. It was afternoon when we finished cutting the wax. Sessions like that can leave your head throbbing!

"When that happens, I duck out for Bromo-Seltzer. It's sweet music to feel a headache slip away—your nerves quit shagging—your stomach settle down. That's what Bromo-Seltzer does for me!`

"Back that same night at 8 o'clock to the 'rug-cutters' (the jitterbugs—and I like them, don't mistake me!). You see a few nice ones in this picture and me drummin' for them."

Krupa has had his own band for 2 years—plays theatres (often 7 shows a day)—clubs (often traveling 150 to 300 miles)—records about 100 tunes a year. He uses more energy on 2 swing numbers than a track star on a mile run ...says Bromo-Seltzer leaves him in better shape for "jive."

Why. BROMO-SELTZER does more for you than a simple pain reliever can

A HEADACHE may be a symptom of some upset in your system. If you get headaches all the time . . . or if they're long drawn out . . . let your doctor help you.

Fortunately, however, the headaches most people get are simple ones . . . from some temporary upset. They may be:

1. NERVOUS—caused by overwork, fatigue, worry, etc.
2. DIGESTIVE or MORNING-AFTER—caused by simple digestive upsets such as a bit too much to eat or drink.

For such headaches, Bromo-Seltzer gives more all-round relief. It not only relieves pain, it also helps the other conditions that go with headache. A simple pain reliever can't give you this extra help. Bromo-Seltzer does all this:

1. RELIEVES PAIN—acts rapidly to ease the "ache."
2. STEADIES NERVES—relaxes the strain and tension.
3. SETTLES UPSET STOMACH—relieves nausea, the "sick" feeling.

For over 50 years, millions have relied on Bromo-Seltzer. Take it according to directions on the label. At any drugstore, soda fountain. Keep it handy at home, too.

Liked more because it does more for headache

IN SWING TALK, the drums are pots and pans, musicians are gates, and good, mellow swing is jive. But in any talk, a headache is a headache, and Bromo-Seltzer is the remedy millions like!

Why take harsh LAXATIVES?

M.E.K., Registered Nurse, from Saráka World's Fair Exhibit answers typical questions asked about constipation by 218,000 visitors.

Q. "MANY LAXATIVES LEAVE ME WEAK. HOW ABOUT SARÁKA?"

A. Doctors warn against laxatives that leave you feeling "washed out." They say that many drugs of a purging nature frequently found in pills, salts and liquid laxatives are often irritating. Your doctor will tell you Saráka is safe. Its soft, moist, lubricating bulk helps provide more natural bowel action. There's no griping, no urgency. Many say they are reminded of their childhood days when constipation was never thought of.

Q. "IS SARÁKA MILD ENOUGH FOR CHILDREN?"

A. Of course. It is as gentle as it is effective. And it is easy and pleasant to take.

Q. "IS SARÁKA A FORM OF 'ROUGHAGE'?"

A. No, it is "softage." Saráka supplies bulk in a soft, moist, gelatin-like form. There is none of the irritation so often caused by sharp seeds or scratchy particles. That's one reason Saráka is so wonderful for chronic constipation.

SPECIAL OFFER: If we receive a letter (postmarked before midnight Wednesday), we will send you a generous trial package of Saráka—the same amount as in the regular 50¢ tin—for only 10¢ to cover cost of handling.

Take advantage of this special offer NOW, and experience for yourself the safe, gentle, satisfying action Saráka is famous for.

Address Saráka, 90 Orange Street, Bloomfield, New Jersey.

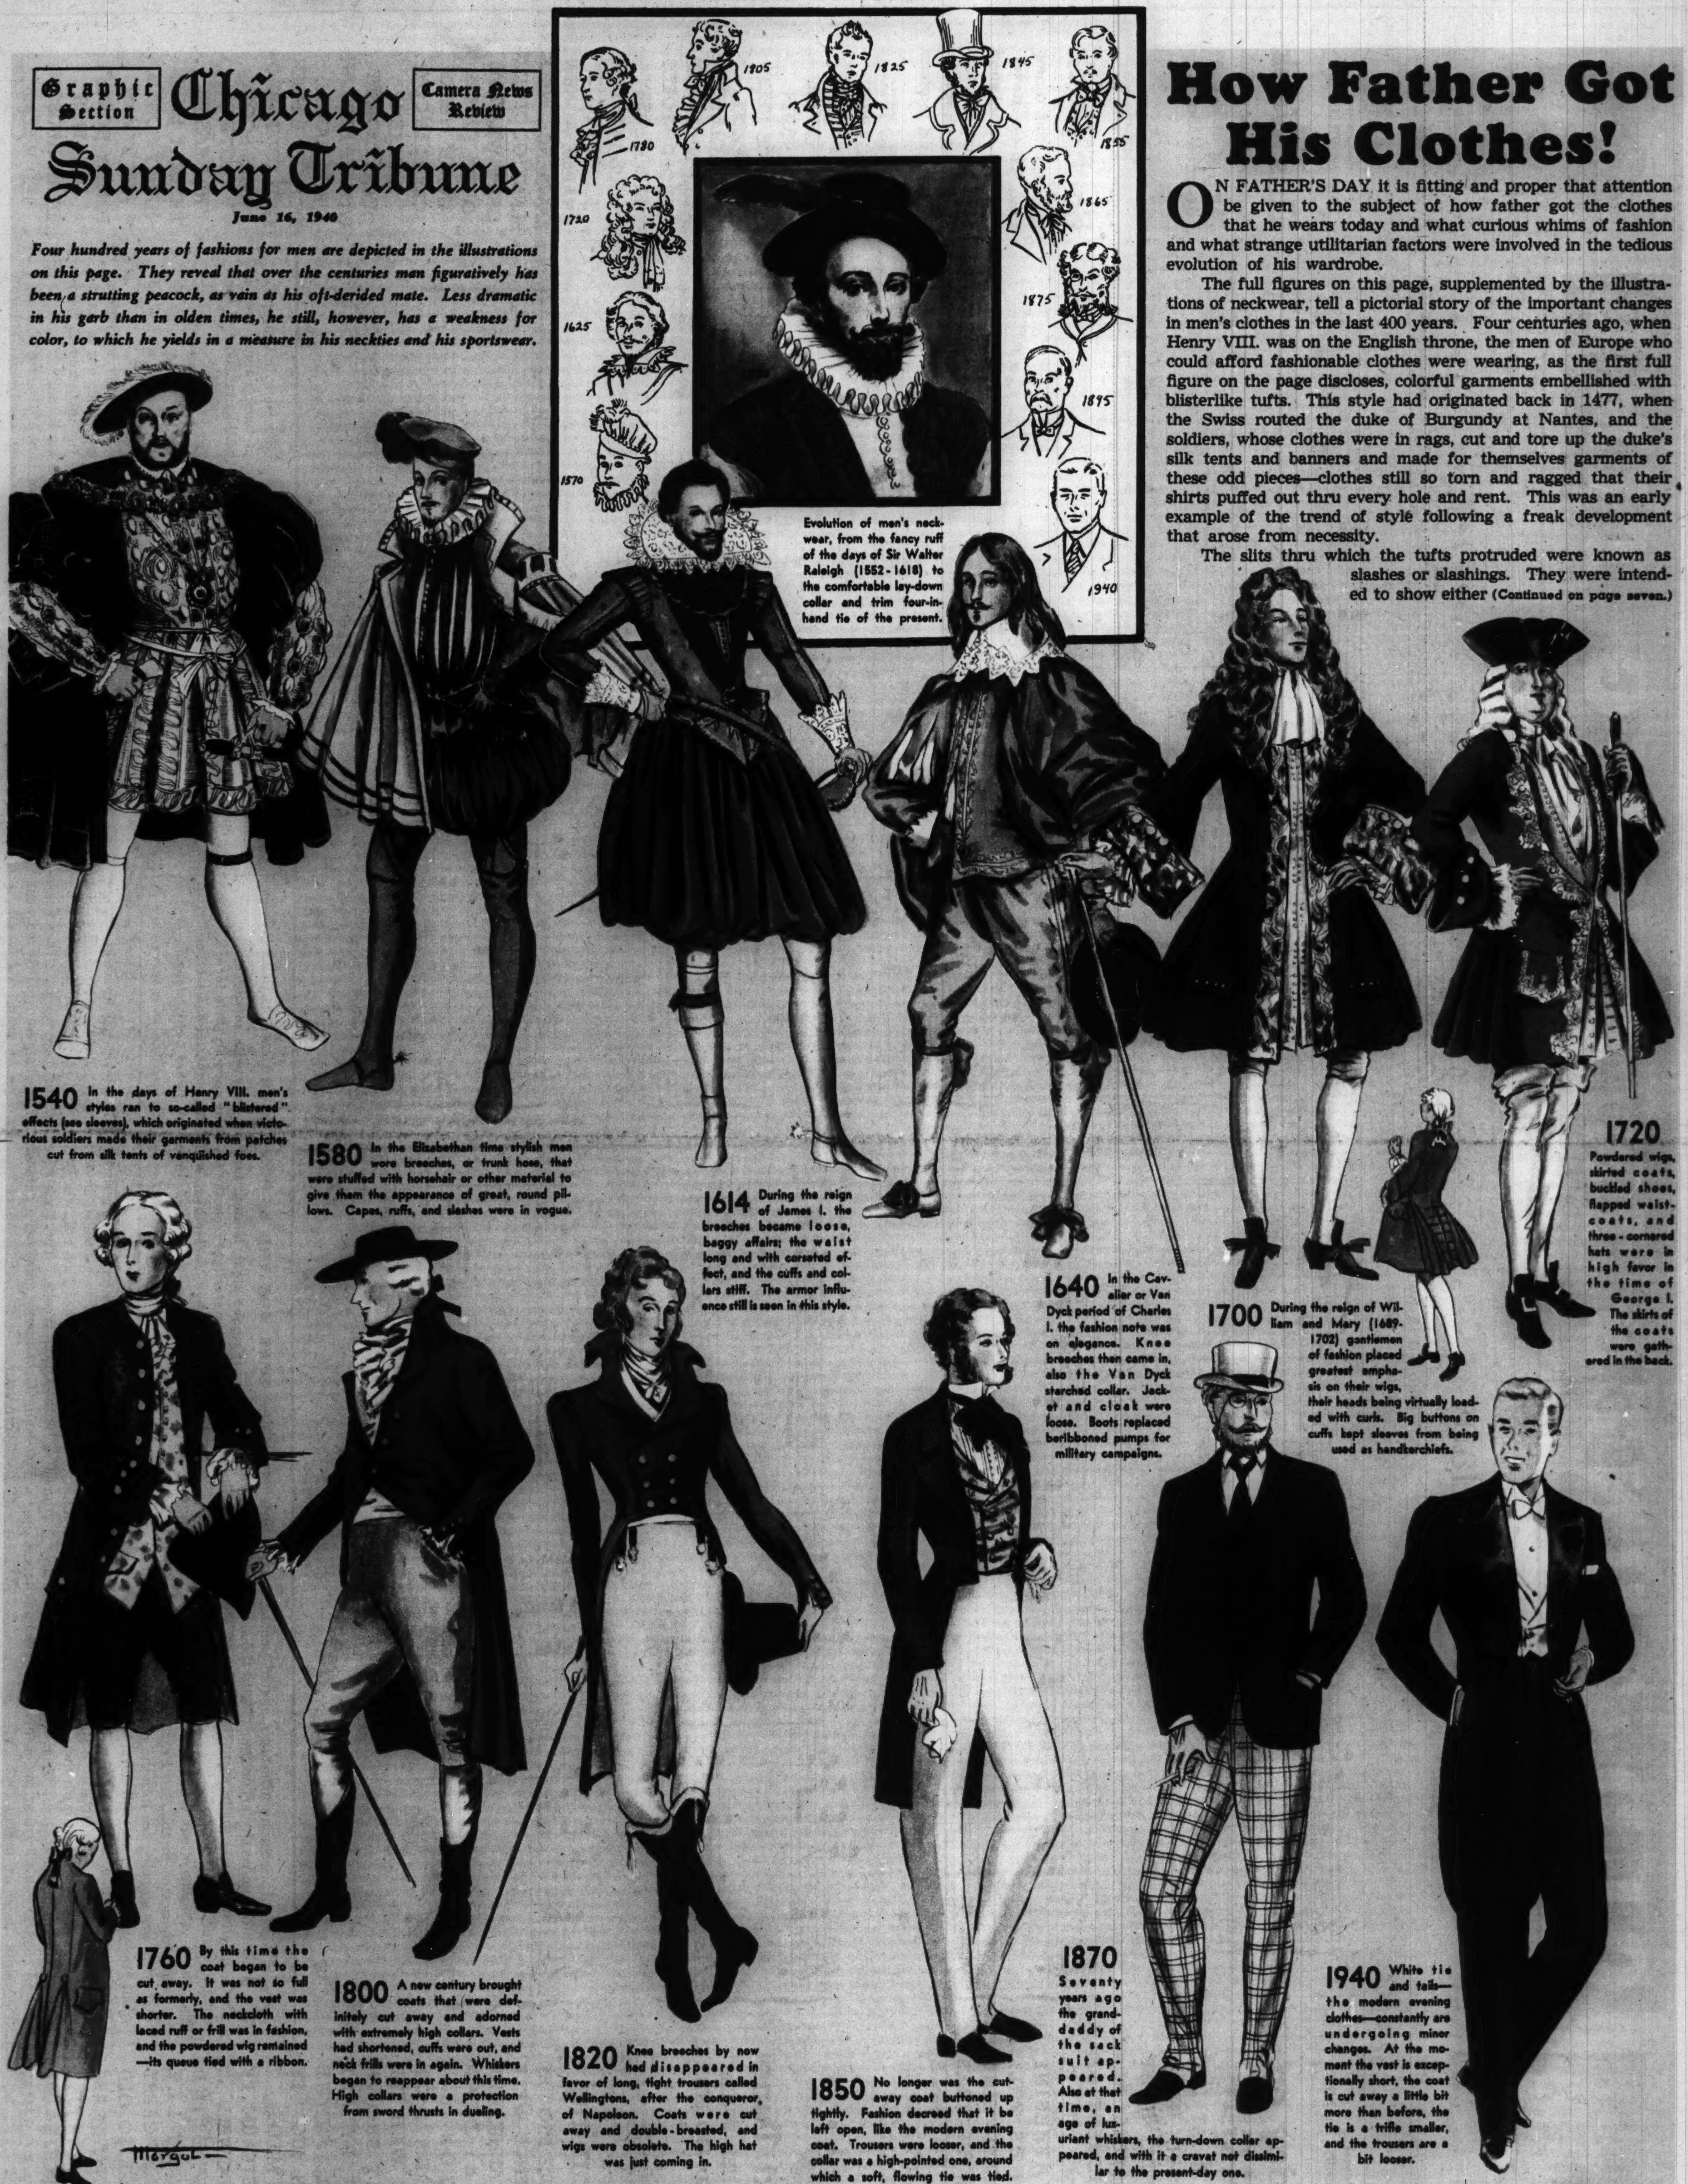
Four hundred years of fashions for men are depicted in the illustrations on this page. They reveal that over the centuries man figuratively has been a strutting peacock, as vain as his oft-derided mate. Less dramatic in his garb than in olden times, he still, however, has a weakness for color, to which he yields in a measure in his neckties and his sportswear.

How Father Got His Clothes!

ON FATHER'S DAY it is fitting and proper that attention be given to the subject of how father got the clothes that he wears today and what curious whims of fashion and what strange utilitarian factors were involved in the tedious evolution of his wardrobe.

The full figures on this page, supplemented by the illustrations of neckwear, tell a pictorial story of the important changes in men's clothes in the last 400 years. Four centuries ago, when Henry VIII. was on the English throne, the men of Europe who could afford fashionable clothes were wearing, as the first full figure on the page discloses, colorful garments embellished with blisterlike tufts. This style had originated back in 1477, when the Swiss routed the duke of Burgundy at Nantes, and the soldiers, whose clothes were in rags, cut and tore up the duke's silk tents and banners and made for themselves garments of these odd pieces—clothes still so torn and ragged that their shirts puffed out thru every hole and rent. This was an early example of the trend of style following a freak development that arose from necessity.

The slits thru which the tufts protruded were known as slashes or slashings. They were intended to show either (Continued on page seven.)



Evolution of men's neckwear, from the fancy ruff of the days of Sir Walter Raleigh (1552-1618) to the comfortable lay-down collar and trim four-in-hand tie of the present.

1540 In the days of Henry VIII. men's styles ran to so-called "blistered" effects (see sleeves), which originated when victorious soldiers made their garments from patches cut from silk tents of vanquished foes.

1580 In the Elizabethan time stylish men wore breeches, or trunk hose, that were stuffed with horsehair or other material to give them the appearance of great, round pillows. Capes, ruffs, and slashes were in vogue.

1614 During the reign of James I. the breeches became loose, baggy affairs; the waist long and with corseted effect, and the cuffs and collars stiff. The armor influence still is seen in this style.

1640 In the Cavalier or Van Dyck period of Charles I. the fashion note was on elegance. Knee breeches then came in, also the Van Dyck starched collar. Jacket and cloak were loose. Boots replaced beribboned pumps for military campaigns.

1700 During the reign of William and Mary (1689-1702) gentlemen of fashion placed greatest emphasis on their wigs, their heads being virtually loaded with curls. Big buttons on cuffs kept sleeves from being used as handkerchiefs.

1720 Powdered wigs, skirted coats, buckled shoes, flapped waistcoats, and three-cornered hats were in high favor in the time of George I. The skirts of the coats were gathered in the back.

1760 By this time the coat began to be cut away. It was not so full as formerly, and the vest was shorter. The neckcloth with laced ruff or frill was in fashion, and the powdered wig remained—its queue tied with a ribbon.

1800 A new century brought coats that were definitely cut away and adorned with extremely high collars. Vests had shortened, cuffs were out, and neck frills were in again. Whiskers began to reappear about this time. High collars were a protection from sword thrusts in dueling.

1820 Knee breeches by now had disappeared in favor of long, tight trousers called Wellingtons, after the conqueror of Napoleon. Coats were cut away and double-breasted, and wigs were obsolete. The high hat was just coming in.

1850 No longer was the cutaway coat buttoned up tightly. Fashion decreed that it be left open, like the modern evening coat. Trousers were looser, and the collar was a high-pointed one, around which a soft, flowing tie was tied.

1870 Seventy years ago the granddaddy of the sack suit appeared. Also at that time, an age of luxuriant whiskers, the turn-down collar appeared, and with it a cravat not dissimilar to the present-day one.

1940 White tie and tails—the modern evening clothes—constantly are undergoing minor changes. At the moment the vest is exceptionally short, the coat is cut away a little bit more than before, the tie is a trifle smaller, and the trousers are a bit looser.

RAYNER, DALHEIM & CO.
MUSIC PRINTERS
CHICAGO

OF A FALL Saturday afternoon, should you be driving thru the Stanford university arboretum toward the sandstone and red tile quadrangle, you might hear the strains of the Cardinal loyalty song, "Come Join the Band."

Seven years ago Griff Williams was saying those words to a group of young musicians in the San Francisco bay region—the idea being that Griff was stepping out into the musical world on his own. He had spent two years or more with durable Anson Weeks. and had a hunch when Anson went east that the coast could use a new orchestra. His hunch was correct. What Griff had to offer was a musical style as golden as the sunsets that burn their way toward the orient, an ability to translate his own and others' ideas into catchy and effective rhythms, and an electric geniality that invariably welded acquaintanceships into friendships in short order.

HERE ARE THE WORDS TO BRAHMS' LULLABY

It's good-night, lullaby, tuck my baby with soft lace,
Let the starlight from the sky shine upon his little face;
Rock-a-bye, rock-a-bye, while the night shadows creep,
Rock-a-bye, rock-a-bye, sleep, my sweet baby, sleep.

(Words copyright 1936 by M. M. Cole Publishing Co., Chicago. Reproduced by permission.)

The combination was irresistible. After several break-in engagements the band was booked into the Mark Hopkins hotel atop San Francisco's famed Nob hill, where Griff had played the piano so often with Anson Weeks. The booking called for two weeks. Two years later Griff finally managed a getaway for his long-anticipated midwestern tour.

That hegira had a double climax—a long engagement in Chicago's famous Trianon ballroom, known as a maker of band names, and a subsequent and still current engagement in the Continental room of the Stevens hotel, Chicago.

Griff was born in The Dalles, Ore. Talented parents passed on a musical instinct to their son, and he was playing the piano early in his life. He planned his college course at Stanford with a medical career in mind, but success in music diverted him.

When Griff was a collegian he was composing and directing campus musicals. He even ventured into the professional field, but a hard-boiled audience said no, and Griff went back to the instrumental field. Now he divides his time between his piano and his baton.

Whether by intention or not, this swing version of Brahms' Lullaby is appropriate. Griff's self-composed theme song is "Dream Music."

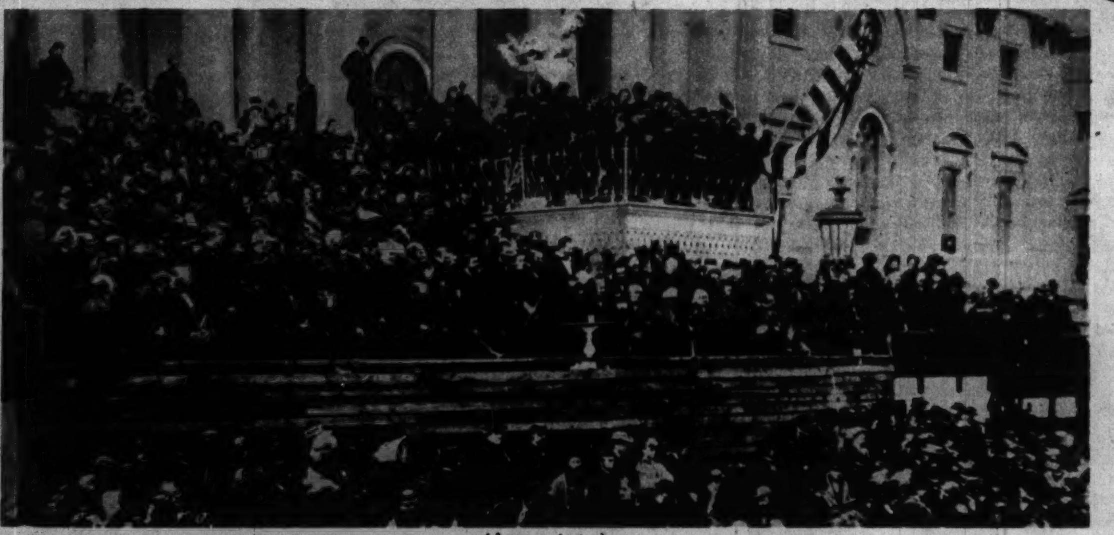
Lincoln and The Tribune—Making a President

A Great Man and a Great Newspaper Teamed

By WILLIAM SHINNICK



(Acme photo.)

ABRAHAM LINCOLN had lost the election for senator in 1858, but his fame had grown immeasurably. The debates with Douglas, delivered before great crowds and recorded verbatim by The Chicago Tribune, had carried his name beyond the limits of Illinois and made him unquestionably the chief spokesman for Republicanism in the west.

His able arguments on the slavery question appealed so strongly to party leaders in Ohio that they waged a governor's race on them in 1859. The race was won and the governor elect, Dennison, asked Lincoln for copies of his and Douglas' speeches. Again Lincoln took an opportunity to show how close he was to The Tribune.

He forwarded to Dennison, as authentic coverage of his own talks, The Tribune's reports. He sent copies of the Chicago Times of that day to represent Douglas' efforts.

"The copies I send you," he wrote, "are as reported and printed by the respective friends of Senator Douglas and myself at the time—that is, by his friends and mine at the time. It would be an unwarranted liberty for us to change a word or a letter in his, and the changes I have made in mine, you perceive, are verbal only, and very few in number. I wish the reprint to be precisely as the copies I send, without any comment whatever."

In the effort to be fair to Douglas, Lincoln leaned backward. The senator's speeches were reported fairly in The Tribune. The historian Edwin Erle Sparks compared the Tribune and the Times versions and found no differences of importance.

It became apparent in 1859 that Douglas might well be the Democratic nominee for President in 1860. Illinois Republicans were convinced Lincoln would be the strongest opponent for him. They acted on this belief. The Republican state committee met in the Tribune office and adopted a "concerted plan" for a press campaign in Old Abe's behalf. Joseph Medill, one of the editors and later principal owner of The Tribune, was a member of the committee.

This press campaign was adroitly handled and proceeded successfully. In December of 1859 Medill went to Washington as a correspondent, but with the added intention of promoting Lincoln's cause. Later he said:

"Before writing any Lincoln letters home I preached him among the congressmen. I urged him chiefly upon the ground of availability in the close and doubtful states, with what seemed like reasonable success."

The east's favorite Republican candidate was William H. Seward of New York, who was radically and outspokenly against slavery. Lincoln was accordingly painted as a conservative who was opposed to slavery extension but was not violently advocating the abolition of the institution in the south.

On Feb. 16, 1860, The Tribune came out editorially in favor of Lincoln for President, the first great city newspaper to do so. It described him as:

"A gentleman of unimpeachable purity of private life. . . . In all of his relations to his fellows he has not yet been guilty of that thing upon which an enemy can place a finger and say, 'This is dishonest,' or 'This is mean.' . . . A man of at once great breadth and great acuteness of intellect. . . . Right on the record. An old line Whig acceptable to Pennsylvania and New Jersey. . . . A man of executive capacity."

• • •

Medill followed this editorial with a Washington letter declaring that Lincoln had ten times as much prominence as he had had a month before. It urged the Springfield lawyer as a man on whom conservative and liberal sentiment could unite.

This was three months before the nominating convention and was the real launching of the Lincoln boom. Eastern newspapers refused to recognize that there was a boom; they ignored the Illinois candidate then and even up to a week or two before his choice. To them Lincoln was only a dark horse being run by Chicago political leaders, including Medill, and a group of central Illinois lawyers who had ridden circuit with the tall orator.

Seward was deeply disappointed and angry at the course of The Tribune. Medill said that Seward "blew him up" for his writings. He quoted the New Yorker as saying to him:

"You have stunned me. I read that letter in which you advocate Lincoln for the presidency in preference to me, giving reasons that are wide of the truth, saying I haven't the strength Lincoln has and would be defeated as Fremont was and that your man out there on the prairies can carry the essential states. Do you mean that?"

Medill said he did. Seward continued:

"I consider this as a personal insult. I had always counted on you as one of my boys. Henceforth you and I are parted. The golden chain is broken. I defy you to do your worst. . . . I shall never trust you again."

Thus ended a friendship at least 12 years old. Medill had considered Seward as his beau ideal of a statesman in some respects, but he wanted a western man and above all a Republican who could win—his friend Abraham Lincoln.

He continued to write his letters from Washington along this line. Also he urged Lincoln to consider nothing less than the presidency. This was done apparently to prevent trading alliances in which the Illinoisan might be offered second place on the ticket by the Seward forces.

The Chicago friends of Lincoln were practical politicians and saw the advantages that would accrue to him if the convention could be held in their own city. It was a raw city of fewer than 110,000, just lifting itself from the prairie mud, and the notion was truly ambitious. Somehow the Chicagoans succeeded in getting the convention and pushed Lincoln another step forward.

He was still, however, an utter unknown in the east, and the Republican state committee made arrangements for him to go to New York and deliver the address that has gone down in history as the Cooper Union speech.

In connection with that speech Lincoln and The Tribune came together again, with rather rueful results for the editors. Lincoln, on the way east, stopped in Chicago and called on Medill and Dr. Charles H. Ray, an associate editor. He said he would like to have them look over his manuscript. He expected a "critical audience"; his ideas and arguments would have to stand, but he would like notes on suggested changes in phraseology.

"Ray and I buckled down to the delicate task," Medill recalled. "One read slowly while the other listened attentively, and the reading was frequently interrupted to consider suggested improvements of diction, the insertion of synonyms, or points to render the text smoother or stronger, as it seemed to us. Thus we toiled for some hours."

They worked again the following morning. Lincoln returned, thanked the editors cordially, glanced at the notes, told a couple of funny stories, and took his leave. The speech was delivered and was favorably received by the eastern press.

"Ray and I plunged eagerly into the report," said Medill later, "feeling quite satisfied with the successful polish we had applied to the address. We both got done reading it about the same time. With a sickly sort of smile Dr. Ray looked at me and remarked: 'Medill, Old Abe must have lost out of the car window all our precious notes, for I don't find a trace of one of them here.' I tried to laugh and said, 'This must have been one of his waggish jokes.'"

Chicago, bursting with civic pride, made vast preparations to receive the delegates to the Republican convention. Its citizens joined in building what was then the largest meeting hall in the United States. A wooden structure 180 by 100 feet, it stood at Lake street and what is now Wacker drive and was called the Wigwam. The Tribune assisted in the fund raising, urging that Republicans who had won bets in the recent city elections contribute and thus use "proslave dollars" to assist the antislavery cause.

At one side of the Wigwam was the platform reserved for the delegates, 140 by 35 feet. On the other side and the ends were galleries capable of holding thousands of spectators—some said 10,000. The building was lighted by gas. The rough pine walls were beautified by the "light, graceful, and entirely successful handiwork of our Republican ladies."

They wreathed the unsightly pillars and the galleries with newly cut evergreens, put up banners, flags, bunting, and the busts of American heroes; they suspended pictures from the walls. The scene within was gay; over the huge stage was a large gilt American eagle. Eight thousand Chicagoans inspected the decorations at a preview on May 12.

Confidently the partisans of Seward moved toward the Wigwam a day or so later. Straw votes were taken on the trains coming in from the east and showed the New Yorker far in the lead. He was accompanied by a group of rooters equipped with brass bands and headed by the noted pugilist, Tom Hyer. This crew was known as the Irrepressibles and made more noise and paraded more than any other group in Chicago.

But the faithful friends of Lincoln were not overawed. On May 15 and 16 The Tribune announced that he was the one candidate of all Illinois. It called him "a man of the people" and "an honest man." It stressed his acceptability to all party elements, said he had no embarrassing alliances and was "without a strain of Know-Nothingism." He was a southerner by birth and could be elected if placed before the people with the convention's approbation.

The Illinoisans knew Seward would have the lead on the first vote, but they went to work manfully to get the support of doubtful states, particularly Indiana and Pennsylvania. Medill, Dr. Ray, Norman B. Judd, a Chicago attorney, and the downstate lawyers worked "like nailers" to this end. In the Tremont house, their headquarters, and other hotels they buttonholed important politicians and made deals (some of which had no approval from Lincoln).

Even the seating arrangements of the Wigwam, in charge of Judd and Medill, were made to serve the Lincoln candidacy. Pennsylvania's men were placed at the opposite side of the hall from New York, and the home state orators of Seward could hardly be heard by the Keystoners. The keen Judd also packed the galleries, issuing tickets of admission to Illinoisans known to be favorable to Lincoln. The men were instructed to cheer for their candidate, the women to wave flags and handkerchiefs at the mention of his name. The technique was found effective when the nomination was made and seconded.

Seward led on the first ballot. On the second Lincoln was almost even. On the third his count was 231½—and only 2½ more were needed to give him the nomination. At this point Carter of Ohio, urged on by Medill, who was seated among his old friends from that state, arose and said, "I rise to change four votes from Mr. Chase to Mr. Lincoln."

W. H. Seward

The nomination was secure for Abraham Lincoln.

The 10,000 spectators roared. The crowd outside learned what had happened when a man on the platform called to another on the Wigwam roof and he in turn set off a cannon. A hundred guns cracked at the Tremont house. Steamboat whistles gave their shrill screeches and church bells rang. A celebration began that lasted thru the night.

On the morning after the nomination The Tribune declared in an editorial:

FOREWORD This is the second of a series of articles describing the important part played by The Tribune in the political career of Abraham Lincoln. Last week's instalment told of the unsuccessful senatorial campaign of 1858.

"Ever and anon there springs from the bosom of the people a man qualified to meet the people's highest wants in great emergencies. . . . A man who by reason of his many virtues, his moral heroism, and his commanding qualities is recognized by all classes as one endowed and anointed for the great work. His credentials bear the impress of a power whose fiat is irresistible and his progress toward the appointed goal is sure as the march of destiny. Scorning adventitious aids, trampling under foot every suggestion of mere policy, with heart all athrob with pure and lofty aspirations and generous aims, he moves right onward with the assured tread and unquailing eye of the born conqueror.

"No other man in the nation stands so near the popular heart today. . . . The people turn instinctively to him as the man for the occasion—as one who has been led by Providence thru all the experiences of lowly life, thru labor and privation, thru struggles and sacrifices, into self-reliance, into honest simplicity of life, into nobleness and purity of character, into a love of justice, of truth, and freedom, that he might be fitted for his work."

• • •

Calmly the tall man in Springfield, who had not attended the convention, received news of the nomination by telegraph. To those who shook his hand he said:

"My friends, I am glad to receive your congratulations, and as there is a little woman down on 8th street who will be glad to hear the news, you must excuse me until I inform her."

His campaign for the presidency that fall, if it can be called that, was equally sedate. He made no speeches, no new pronouncements of policy. Leaving his fate in the hands of his friends and to favoring circumstance, he remained silent.

Perhaps he was wise in this. The Democrats split into a northern and a southern wing, with Douglas, John C. Breckinridge, and John Bell as candidates, and the mustering of Republican votes by his friends was sufficient to win for him.

In this mustering The Tribune had an important part. During the campaign it issued a special edition that was sold at cost to clubs and individuals. Everything in it was favorable to Lincoln. This literature was distributed over the entire northwest, usually thru "Wide Awake" clubs and other Republican organizations. Reading it, voters became familiar with Lincoln's life, his speeches, and his doctrines.

With these specials and a collection of pamphlets on the burning questions of slavery and union, The Tribune threw its entire resources into the fight for Lincoln. Medill was active in committee work, and thru his efforts speakers were sent to doubtful sections. His aggressive support was appreciated by Lincoln, who wrote him in September that he would be satisfied if northern Illinois returned him a majority as big as Fremont had had in 1856. Medill promised that.

After the election and before the inauguration of the new President events so shaped themselves that farsighted men began to see ahead the great conflict that was to be known as the Civil war. The Tribune began to urge reorganization of the northern states' militia. It pointed out that Illinois' armed forces were weak. Later its influence was devoted successfully to getting the Wide Awakes organized into patriotic drilling organizations.

New Device Aids Study of Sun

ALTHO it resembles an anti-aircraft gun in general appearance, the instrument shown in an accompanying picture is not a weapon of war. It is a coronagraph, a new kind of telescope, and its objects are purely scientific. The property of Harvard university's astronomical department, it soon will be installed in an observatory to be erected at Climax, Colo., at an elevation of 11,318 feet, far up in the Rocky mountains. No other observatory is that high above sea level.

The coronagraph pictured is said to be the only instrument of its type now in America. It is a development of the original coronagraph invented by Dr. Bernard Lyot of the Meudon observatory of Paris, which has been employed successfully at an altitude of 10,000 feet in the observatory of the Pic du Midi in the Pyrenees mountains.

Instruments of this description take their name from the corona (crown) of the sun, for it was for the purpose of studying this phenomenon that they were perfected. The corona, it might be explained here, is an irregular luminous envelope surrounding the sun. It is changeable in form, particularly during a period of sun spot activity, and its streamers sometimes are many millions of miles in extent. The corona lies outside the chromosphere, which is a ruddy gaseous layer of incandescent hydrogen, helium, and similar elements.

• • •

In the past the corona could be studied only during a total eclipse, and then only for a very few minutes, but now, by the aid of the coronagraph, it may be studied by direct observation at any time when and where atmospheric conditions are favorable. In order to obtain most favorable conditions it is found necessary to mount the coronagraph at a high altitude, where frequent heavy rains wash the air clean of suspended particles and dust, the least of which produces a solar haze sufficient to mask the corona.

Dr. Walter Bartky, professor of astronomy of the University of Chicago, is among those scientists who are hopeful that the employment of the new instrument will prove highly valuable.

"Hitherto," he says, "we have been confined in our study of the corona during eclipses to extremely short spaces of time separated by long intervals—even of years—so naturally our results have been meager. Results obtained by means of the coronagraph up to a year and a half ago were not wholly satisfactory, in my opinion, but it is hoped that the instrument has been or will be developed to a point where we may obtain a wealth of data."

Among the results to be expected from the proposed coronagraph observatory in the Rocky mountains is the formation of new indices of solar activity. These indices may be used to test the relationships between solar eruptions, terrestrial magnetic storms, aurorae, radio fadeouts, the ozone content of the upper atmosphere, the intensity of ultraviolet radiation, plant growth, and possibly general weather phenomena.

According to Donald H. Menzel, Harvard astrophysicist, the coronagraph will permit the forecasting of widespread electrical storms such as that which crippled the world's communication services on Easter Sunday. He sees a direct relation between upheavals of the corona and magnetic disturbances on earth.

The coronagraph produces what may be termed an artificial eclipse of the sun by the means of a reflecting disk, which at the same time acts as a screen. The remaining radiation from the prominences and the corona may be transmitted into various auxiliary equipment, including a powerful spectrograph. Studies of motions of solar prominences, with color filters and motion picture technique, are to be made in the mountain observatory.

The principle on which the coronagraph operates is that the sun's corona is sufficiently bright to be seen directly, despite the scattering of sunlight near the edge of the sun by the earth's atmosphere, if the air is perfectly clean and clear and if certain imperfections found in ordinary telescopes are overcome. These imperfections comprise principally the scattering of light in various parts of the telescope itself. Red and infrared filters eliminate a great portion of the sky light, which is predominantly blue. Hence light that is very nearly monochromatic (one color) may be used in studying the corona. For the same reason, simple lenses may be used, thereby eliminating reflections. The Harvard coronagraph employs a simple crown lens coated with a newly perfected nonreflecting material.

Altho the corona, as the result of Dr. Lyot's invention, now may be observed at times other than during the total eclipse of the sun, eclipses still will be studied as assiduously as ever, for there are other observations which still can be made only then.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

Pointers on Summer Care

WHEN HOT summer weather arrives dog owners have to keep in mind one or two important points on the care of their pets, altho no marked change has to be made in the foods which make up their diet. Some owners have the impression that it's wrong to give a dog as much meat in the summer as the pet gets during the winter. This belief doubtless goes back to that old myth about meat making a dog "mad." There is no basis for this belief, because meat in some form is a year-around food for dogs. By meat in some form we mean cooked meat as it is included in prepared dog foods, cooked meat such as lamb or beef which comes from the table, or raw meat, in case the owner wishes to feed it.

It is true, however, that our pets may not need as much food in summer as they do when the weather is cooler and the animals are apt to get more exercise. The amount of exercise a pet takes each day is the gauge by which its food should be measured at any time of the year.

Among the most comfortable dogs in hot weather are those with small outside kennels. Here the animals can dig holes in the ground. These small excavations enable them to get the cool earth against their bodies.

Plenty of fresh water is a necessity for dogs during hot weather. If your pet likes to swim, let him go in the water all he wishes. It's refreshing to him, just as a cool swim after a very hot day feels good to us.

One thing the house pet should not get during extremely hot and oppressive weather is too much exercise in the sun. It's possible for heat and too much exposure in the sun to make a dog very ill. You will notice that kennels which are training hunting dogs will not work them on hot days. The dogs are given a short training lesson very early in the morning before the sun's rays are strong. Then the animals are kept in a cool place during the most oppressive part of the day. At sundown they may be given another short training lesson when it gets cooler.

Fat dogs and old dogs especially should be kept indoors during a heat wave and placed in a cool, quiet place. One of the reasons why we urge owners at this time of the year to reduce the weight of their pets (if they are fat) is due to the discomfort suffered by these heavy dogs.

Heat prostration is so serious that all dog owners should not forget what to do if a dog topples over because of the sun and heat. The safest thing to do in case of heat prostration is to call a veterinarian. Until the veterinarian arrives the owner may give the pet a few whiffs of ammonia and keep him in a quiet, cool place.

Flies often make dogs miserable during hot weather. These pests may drive a dog frantic, especially those animals which have been clipped. Owners who have their dogs clipped may believe they are contributing to the animal's comfort, but in most cases they are simply exposing the pet to new discomforts, because insects have their big chance when a dog loses his protective coat of hair. We use a spray in our kennel yard to keep flies away. This disinfectant also is sprayed inside the kennel. Then we give our dogs protection against biting insects by spraying them, too. There are several very good liquids on the market which may be used as fly repellants on a dog. When the flies are very bad they usually attack a dog's ears. If something isn't done the insects may cause ugly sores. To give the dog protection from these biting pests we often apply a mosquito repellent such as we use on our own skin. If such a mosquito or fly dope doesn't irritate our skin it's a safe bet it won't hurt the dog.

To get the terrier's hind legs in a natural position and correctly spaced he lifts the animal by its tail and then lets it down suddenly. The terrier then stands on all four feet. Chicagoland Blossoms in Full Color

● The wild blue phlox dominate whole woodlots during May and early June just as thoroly as do the spring beauties earlier in the season. Rarely are the phlox as abundant as spring beauties, but, because of their longer stems and larger flowers, they overshadow the smaller violets and anemones which bloom beside them.

● None of the cultivated fruit trees which grow in middle western orchards provide the abundance of blossoms which decorate the pear trees. Other trees may have more colorful flowers or more fragrant aromas, but none can match the pear trees in any contest determined on the basis of flowers per square foot. When these trees show their full supply of white blossoms during the spring season the farm visitor gets the impression that the branches are covered with layers of soft, fresh snow.

● Delphiniums, commonly called larkspur, provide one of the showiest flowers cultivated in home and park plots. Most of the delphiniums are perennials, but there also are annual varieties, and their tapered candelabra-shaped flowers, usually in various shades of blue, provide attractive color for many gardens.

Lincoln and The Tribune

Everywhere men were beginning to debate the question: Had a southern state the right to secede? The Tribune did not waver; it was stanchly opposed to compromise and from the first committed to the statement that "the Union must and shall be preserved." It added: "We must and shall be true to the north and the great Republican principles."

As the inaugural date approached there were strange rumors that southerners would never permit Lincoln to take office; that they would seize Washington and keep him and the Republican party out. The Tribune was not worried. It asserted Lincoln could take his oath of office before any public official, and "we have no doubt Mr. Lincoln will be President of the United States and commander in chief of the army and navy before he leaves Springfield."

In lighter vein, a little earlier a Tribune reporter had described a gift to Mrs. Lincoln thus: "At the rooms of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine company we yesterday saw a superb sewing machine, mounted in a solid rosewood full case, and altogether a bijou of an affair, destined as a present to the lady of the President elect, and to find a location in one of the apartments of the White House. It is richly silver plated and ornamented with inlaid pearl and enamel. It is worthy the possession of a duchess."

Happily the alarmists had been wrong about armed opposition to Lincoln's inauguration. He was sworn in on March 4, 1861, in Washington and delivered a carefully prepared inaugural speech. Altho its mildness toward slavery as a southern institution undoubtedly disappointed Medill, the earnest abolitionist, the firm statement that it was the duty of the chief executive to maintain national law against all resistance—South Carolina had already seceded—brought praise from The Tribune. No other American state paper, it said, showed sounder wisdom and higher patriotism.

The President was quoted: "You have no oath registered in heaven to destroy the government, while I shall have the most solemn one to serve, protect, and defend it." That, The Tribune said, was inexorable reasoning to prove why Lincoln must preserve the Union.

• • •

During the next month, while Confederates bombarded Fort Sumter, the paper made stirring calls for action and declared the resources of the government must be devoted to strife "sharp and decisive."

Sumter fell in April, and a famous editorial appeared. In part it read:

"Lenity and forbearance have only nursed the viper into life—war has begun. It may not be the present duty of each one of us to enlist and march to the sound of bugle and drum, but there is a duty not less important which is in the power of every man and woman in Chicago and in the north to perform—it is to be loyal in heart and word to the cause of the United States.

"From this hour let no northern man or woman tolerate in his or her presence the utterance of one word of treason. Let expressed rebuke and contempt rest on every man weak enough to be anything else in this crisis than on the side of the Country against Treason—of Lincoln and Scott against Davis and Twiggs, of God against Baal. We say to the Tories and lickspittles in this community, a patient and reluctant but at last an outraged and maddened people will no longer endure your hissing. You must keep your venom sealed or go down. The gates of James are open, the storm is on. Let the cry be: 'The Sword of the Lord and of Gideon.'"

In that editorial there was a strange prescience, almost a foreknowledge of future events. A time was coming when Lincoln in Washington and the United States were to need the unswerving devotion and active help of every loyal citizen; not only against the enemy in arms but against "fifth column" activities in the north. "Copperheads" was the name applied to the subversive elements spreading poisonous propaganda and promoting sabotage in loyal states. Every city had its quota. No enemy of theirs was more bitter and few more effective than The Tribune.

(The story of The Tribune's battle to support Lincoln thru the dark days of the Civil war will be related in an early issue.)

How Father Got His Clothes

the undergarment or a lining of contrasting material. The fashion reached its height about 1540, persisted until about the middle of the 17th century, and has little if any influence on men's style today. Usually it was the doublet that was decorated with slashes. This brings up the question: What was the doublet?

It was the principal body garment for about 300 years—from early in the 15th to late in the 17th century. It was close-fitting, extending from the neck to the waistline. Sometimes it had permanently attached sleeves; in other instances its sleeves were detachable. It was from the doublet that the modern vest or waistcoat was developed.

Often is heard the expression "doublet and hose,' which means that with the doublet hose always were worn. The first hose, however, were not long stockings as they are known today, but rather the equivalent of modern tights. They were not knitted, but were made of cloths, such as silk, and sewn together. In various countries the styles in hose showed a wide difference. The Italians, for example, favored striped hose. The puffed-out garment that was worn to cover the hips, and which corresponds to trunks of today, was called the trunk hose.

• • •

It was shortly after the days of Henry VIII. that hose of the kind we call tights began to be divided into two parts at the knees, made of contrasting materials, and sewn together. The lower part was called the netherstock, the upper part the upperstock. It was from the upperstock that knee breeches originated. The fourth full figure on page one shows a man in knee breeches, which were the forerunners of trousers.

The garment worn directly over the doublet was the jerkin, which later came to be called a jacket. From the jacket developed the suit coat of modern times. The jerkin was more or less shaped to the body, sometimes rather loose, and frequently with skirts of varying lengths.

The outside garment, worn over the doublet and jerkin, was either the gown or the cloak. The gown, a sleeved garment, was cut very full and long and was open in front. Often it was confined by a girdle at the waist. The cloak, a sleeveless garment, was simply draped over or slung from the shoulders. From these two garments originated the greatcoat or overcoat and the cape, which in one form or another have been carried down to modern times.

The origin of the shirt, the principal part of the body linen, is lost in obscurity, altho it is known that it was important in the gentleman's wardrobe long before Columbus sailed from the old world on his voyages of discovery. By the beginning of the 16th century the shirt was being made of fine materials, linen or colored silks, and embroidered with gold thread.

Shoes with long, tapering points had vanished from the fashion scene before the time of Henry VIII. and had been supplanted by footgear with square toes. In the last 400 years the styles in footwear have changed countless times. From generation to generation the changes have involved low shoes, high shoes, pumps, slippers, and boots of various height. Thruout the whole time, however, leather has remained almost the only material used.

Strange as it may seem, the formal morning suit of today has changed very little in cut since it came into fashion in 1680. At this period it was worn with an extremely long waistcoat reaching almost to the knees. From 1740 to 1750 the coat began to take on definite curves. The cutaway in the front became quite decided and the waistcoat became almost waist high. From 1750 to 1800 definite tails appeared, and from 1800 onward the morning coat became virtually what it is at the present time. The difference in the coat of today is in the material and trimmings. The coat of 1740 was a gorgeous affair of silk or satin, with beautiful trimmings. Some time before the beginning of the 19th century it also had a high collar, which could be buttoned over at the neck to ward off sword thrusts. That was in the days of dueling, when men still wore swords and used them. Tempers were quick and swords sharp, and the throat was a dangerous place to receive a thrust or slash.

The morning coat actually is a development of the military coat of an earlier day. The military coat was provided with buttons on the tails so that they could be buttoned back to permit freedom of movement. In some of the army uniforms of Europe today are seen the buttons, placed for the purpose of fastening back the coattails. Buttons on the cuffs were not placed there, as is generally supposed, to allow for the sleeves to be fastened after being rolled up, but rather to deter soldiers from using their sleeves as handkerchiefs. Thus it was that buttons were sewed on the upper part of the cuff to discourage the aforementioned habit. The fashion spread to nonmilitary coats, as the fifth full figure on page one shows, but on these garments the buttons soon were shifted to the under side of the cuff, where they are found to this day.

• • •

The slit in the sleeve of a nonmilitary coat was intended to permit a frill of lace to be displayed. On military uniforms the slit was absent except in the case of the Guards, the swankiest outfit of the British army.

The morning coat, as time went on, became the recognized garment of ambassadors, especially in England, where they could not greet the sovereign unless attired in morning coats. In the evolution of the dress of an ambassador attached to the Court of St. James's it came to be that the correct uniform was a morning coat of black silk or satin, black silk knee breeches, black silk stockings, black patent leather shoes with large silver buckles, and a sword. A costume such as this is the recognized court dress of today.

Knee breeches, which, as pointed out previously, were a development of that part of hose called the upperstock, were worn generally from the 17th century to well after the beginning of the 19th. During this time long pants, or trousers, were worn only by men of the poorer classes. Silks and satins were the material of the breeches of the aristocrats; wool cloth was the material of the merchant's or tradesman's breeches. Knee breeches at first gave way to three-quarter length pants and finally to full length trousers. Among the early trousers of the 19th century were those known as Wellington trousers (see ninth full figure on page one), which were copies of the garments worn by the duke of Wellington's soldiers during the Peninsular war. They were very tight and fitted inside of the boots.

As long trousers came to be worn by all classes of men, the fashionable man insisted that his be tight and held down by an elastic strap under the instep. Outside of the shifting of the pockets from the front to the side, trousers are very little changed today from what they were several generations ago, altho one season may find them cut snugly and the next season loose. The peg top trouser of 30 years ago has come back in modified form, and the cuff on the bottom, which came in about 35 years ago as a college campus contribution, still remains.

Quite surprising is the history of the frock coat. It has been usually accepted that the frock coat gave way in cut to the present-day morning coat. This idea probably originated from the story about the late King Edward VII., who while hurriedly dressing for an audience with his ministers burst a button from his coat. He was furious, so the story goes, and sent for his tailor.

"I am getting too big here," he said, angrily patting his paunch. "I must have a suit that does not make me appear bigger than I am. I am beginning to look like a pig."

The tailor hurried away and found a morning coat. In this the king met his ministers. Hitherto he had worn a frock coat for the purpose. The next day the tailor fitted his majesty with a new frock coat, but instead of it being double-breasted it was single-breasted. It was loose enough to be buttoned up, but after a heavy meal the king could leave it unbuttoned, holding the fronts together by a cord. Edward wore this type of garment for many years. He did sometimes change to the morning coat, but as a rule he stuck to the single-breasted garment, and as a result it became the fashion not only in England but in other countries as well.

The modern dress coat, commonly called tails, is a development of the frock coat, which first became popular as early as 1600. The cutting away of the front of the coat to form the cutaway of the dress coat extended over many years. Gradually, generation after generation, an inch was whittled off and then another inch, until finally there appeared the full dress coat in its present form.

The dinner jacket as we know it today was the original smoking jacket of 60 years ago. It was a comfortable velvet coat usually worn with a fancy vest. During the World war this garment developed into a formal one, when men became too busy or too bored to bother with full dress coats. Today it is accepted as proper for every evening occasion except the most formal.

• • •

The dinner jacket with silk facings is said to have originated at Monte Carlo. In order to enter the gaming rooms there it was necessary that men wear evening clothes. In the '80s that meant full dress suits, which were not practical for the business of gambling. A French tailor, one M. de Paul of Nice, saw how uncomfortable and impractical were the long-tailed coats at the tables. He designed a coat which he called the casino. It had three-quarter length tails and never was very popular. Later the same tailor produced a coat of the smoking jacket type. He actually called it the smoking, and it was an immediate success. It is the dinner jacket of today. In France it is still called the smoking and in America it frequently is referred to as the tuxedo, after a fashionable country club at Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

It is not often that men borrow styles from women, but that is just what happened in the case of the top hat. More than a century ago the first so-called top hat was worn by women as a part of their riding attire. Men borrowed the style, their hats passing thru many changes until the tall silk hat of the present day was arrived at.

War ever has had a marked influence on men's fashions, and many features of styles have had their origin in military circles, such as the stock, which at first was of leather and worn to protect the neck. Belts of all kinds hark back to the time when men wore swords or daggers. Horseback riding, and marching thru tall, wet weeds, made boots necessary. The wide sailor collar, not worn by men today but frequently seen on little boys, grew out of the necessity of keeping sailors' queues from soiling their tunics.

Thru all the ages different classes of people have worn distinctive garments. Thus the Pilgrims and the Puritans, who believed in simple things and were against all expressions of vanity, limited themselves to the plainest of clothes.

Countless are the explanations of why garments are made this way or that way. Men's coats, for example, button over from the left, opposite to the way of women's coats, because a long time ago when men wore swords they wore them on the left side and reached over across their breasts with their right arms to draw the weapons. Buttoned as the coats were, the hilts of the swords did not catch in them when quickly drawn. No explanation is forthcoming here as to why women button their coats in what apparently is the awkward way.

Know Your Camera

Planning, Selection Help Vacation Photography

IF YOU are a typical amateur photographer, you are planning to take plenty of pictures during your vacation, determined that this time you won't return with a lot of pictures that need some sort of an excuse.

To accomplish this your first step should be to decide upon the type of picture you want to take. Do you plan to prepare a pictorial diary of your trip, limiting your pictures to such records as showing yourself and your family in the different places visited? Do you want to picture scenic beauty? Do you prefer pictures of the historic spots you see, or are you primarily interested in "types," in strange people and in the manner of their living?

If you are primarily interested in photographing the many little episodes of your vacation trip, try to figure out in advance as many typical situations as possible, make notes on these, and take the pictures as you go along. Your notes will include such subjects as loading the baggage on the car, some of the tourist camps you visit, the family gazing over the rim of the Grand canyon, picking oranges in California, or eating lobsters in Maine. Such plans may sound commonplace, but without them you may remember the best picture possibilities after you have returned home and when it is too late to take the pictures.

Much the same method can be followed if you want to picture scenic beauty, historic spots, or just "people." In order to do your planning you must naturally know something about the places you are going to visit. But it is easy to gather such information. You can get it from travel folders issued by the railroads, from the literature published by state tourist bureaus, and from the public library.

Plan to stop near a winding road during your vacation and get a picture of this type. You will need it for your album if you want to prepare a pictorial record of your trip.

You should also do some planning of the technical kind. Remember to take all the necessary equipment, and don't load yourself down with too much. Take along a good supply of your favorite film. Regardless of what they tell you, it is surprising what camera stores in the small towns don't carry.

Besides your camera and film you should take along an exposure meter, filters, and a lens shade, even tho none of these is absolutely indispensable.

It is rather hopeless to suggest that you take along a tripod. You will probably leave it in the car anyway when you go on a hike. Yet it is essential if you intend to make perfect pictures, and indispensable if you want to take pictures of yourself, using a self-timer.

Protect your equipment on a trip. Don't let direct sunshine hit your camera or filters for any length of time. Never put down your camera on sand or dust, or you will ruin your shutter. Cover as much of your camera as possible when taking pictures in spray.

Make notes about the pictures you have taken. Otherwise you will soon have forgotten whether that charming colonial mansion was in Mississippi or Connecticut. If you want to improve your pictures, keep also a record of your exposures. By checking it against your results you will soon know what was wrong with certain shots.

Gems of American Eloquence

● American eloquence has played an important part in the history of our country. From a long list of famous speeches The Tribune is selecting gems of American eloquence which are being presented in this, the Graphic Section, every Sunday. The content of these speeches is important both historically and politically. Persons learning to speak in public will find in them helpful lessons. Speakers and writers can learn a great deal from studying their style. This is the fifty-fourth of the series.

AMONG America's greatest legal authorities was David Dudley Field (1805-'94), who for more than 40 years labored to bring about the codification of common law procedure in the United States. Talented as he was in his chosen field of endeavor, he was scarcely less talented as a public speaker. His address on the subject of the telegraph, delivered at a dinner given in honor of Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, in New York City, Dec. 27, 1863, is typical of his type of eloquence. An excerpt from this speech follows:

"Standing in the presence of the great inventor, I am constrained to congratulate him upon the fullness of his triumph as he remembers the early effort and contrasts it with the marvels of this night in this hall. That little instrument, no larger than the clock upon the chamber mantel, and making as little noise, is yet speaking to both America and Europe; and what it says will be printed before the dawn and laid at morning under the eyes of millions of readers. Did I say before the dawn? It will meet the dawn in its circuit before it reaches the confines of eastern Europe. In the opposite quarter we know that the message which has just left us for the west will outstrip the day. Even while I have been speaking the message has crossed the Mississippi, passed the workmen laying the farthest rail of the Pacific road, bounded over the Sierra Nevada, and dashed into the plains of California, as the last ray of today's sun is fading from the shore and the twilight is falling upon the Pacific sea.

D. D. FIELD

"It is, however, not alone its history which justifies us in predicting for the telegraph indefinite extension. Its essential character must sooner or later carry it to every part of the habitable globe. Of all the agencies yet vouchsafed to man it is the most accessible and most potent. While the machinery itself is simple and cheap, the element from which it is fed is abundant and all-pervading. It is in the heaven above, in the earth beneath, and in the water under the earth. You take a little cup and pass into it a slender wire, when lo! there comes to it a spark from air and water, from the cloud and the solid earth, which the highest mountains cannot stop nor the deepest seas drown, as it dashes on its fiery way, indifferent whether its errand be to the next village or to the antipodes. No other voice can speak to the far and near at the same time. No other hand can write a message which may be delivered within the same hour at Quebec and at Moscow. By no other means may you converse at once with the farmer of Illinois and the merchant of Amsterdam, with the German on the Danube and the Arab under his palm.

"To the use of such an instrument there can be no limit but the desire of man to converse with man. If from this populous and opulent capital you would speak with any inhabitant of either hemisphere, you have here an agent which may be brought to do your bidding. If any, however distant, desire to speak with us, they have this means at their command. How great will be the effect of all this upon the civilization of the human race I do not pretend to foresee. But this I foresee, as all men may, that the necessities of governments, the thirst for knowledge, and the restless activity of commerce will make the telegraph girdle the earth and bind it in a network of electric wire."

The foregoing words present a striking example of how a brilliant man can dramatize the subject at hand, whatever it may be. As the current electrifies the telegraph wire, Mr. Field in his address electrified what to a man without imagination might have been a rather dull subject. Not only did he paint in a series of word pictures the importance of the telegraph, but he looked ahead into the future and drew an amazingly accurate picture of the days to come, with a network of humming wires around the world. Telegraphy of his day was as much a wonder as wireless telegraphy came to be, and perhaps just as mysterious to the people of his times as is television to many of us now.

A Foot Rule for Beauty

Neglect Has Bad Effect on Charm

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

(Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate, Inc.)

ONE RATHER sad deduction must be made from the remarks made by exuberant wearers of "wedgies" or sports model shoes on how joyous life becomes with shoes that can be walked in.

I've heard dozens of girls and women eulogizing the new type of shoe just on the grounds of a foot freedom never felt before, at least not since childhood days. So one is privileged to assume that the old shoes were pretty bad. Naturally this deduction covers a minor proportion of women, for there's been an enormous improvement in the condition of women's feet generally within the last decade because of the sanity of shoes worn.

Yet, I must add, I've never heard so many complaints about ingrowing nails, corns, and other foot ills.

From authoritative sources we learn these facts:

Ingrowing nails almost without exception are the result of foolhardy scissors work by the patient herself. Snip! go the scissors, and the offending corner of the nail is out. A few weeks later the nail has grown forward and a sharp sliver of it has embedded itself into the soft tissue of the nail groove. Infection and swelling are not long in developing, and the result is a typical ingrown nail. Professional intervention by the doctor is essential at this point. Neglect may result in serious consequences. The diabetic is particularly warned against injudicious cutting.

• • •

A common and frequently overlooked cause of corns is a weakened arch. This condition causes an improper attitude of the foot within the shoe and the development of additional points of friction. Often a corn or callus may be the first symptom of a weakening arch.

Most of us are familiar with the appearance of a bunion. The great toe is bent inward toward the lesser toes, and the joint seems to be greatly enlarged. This leads many to believe that a bunion is some sort of growth. Actually it is not. The condition generally is caused by pointed shoes or short stockings, which, by maintaining the toe in an abnormally bent position, cause the joint to spring outward. Inflammation completes the process, and the result is the characteristic knoblike protuberance.

"If you can wiggle your toes in those new shoes," says a shoe authority, "you've taken the first step toward shoe comfort and beauty. And if the shoes fit snugly at heel and instep, without bulging your feet, a smooth-textured skin can't be far behind. One other thing you must always check before buying shoes is that the ball of your foot rests squarely on the ball tread of the shoe. From there on the road to beauty is half paved."

A tight stocking can do as much damage as a torturous shoe. Always buy your stockings a trifle large to get that extra happy wiggle out of your toes.

Care of your shoes is just as important as their selection. Never wear the same pair on two consecutive days. After pounding the pavements for an afternoon, or a whole day, put them on good shoe trees and let them rest for at least two days.

Bathing your feet daily is highly recommended by our authority, who suggests alternate hot and cold foot baths as the best means of retaining that early morning springiness. Alternate from hot to cold and back for five or six times for best results. A foot massage is just as important as a face massage if you really want to keep yourself looking young and beautiful.

Daily foot baths in alternating applications of hot and cold water are highly recommended for retaining that early morning springiness.

ROLE OF ROLLS IN THE HOME

By MARY MEADE

NOT MANY hot breads have more appeal than a panful of sugar-crusted cinnamon rolls fresh from the oven. Unraveling them bit by bit, spreading each bit thickly with butter before popping it into one's mouth, is pure pleasure. One could almost make a meal of cinnamon rolls.

The dough used for cinnamon rolls may be used to make pecan rolls, butterscotch rolls, orange rolls, and many another sweet bun. A sweet yeast dough is the basis for all of them.

CINNAMON ROLLS

1 cup lukewarm water
2 packages granular yeast
1 cup scalded milk
½ cup butter
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 beaten eggs
Grated rind and juice of ½ lemon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
About 7 cups sifted flour
Butter, sugar, cinnamon

Pour lukewarm water over yeast, stir, and let stand about 10 minutes to soften yeast. Scald milk and cool to lukewarm. Cream butter, sugar, and salt together and add eggs, lemon, and nutmeg. Add milk to softened yeast and stir in 3 cups of flour. Beat until smooth. Add butter mixture and enough more flour to make a medium soft dough. Knead until smooth and elastic. Dough should be as soft as possible without being sticky. Place in a greased bowl, cover, and let rise in a warm place, about 86 degrees, until light and double in bulk. Punch down dough and let stand 15 minutes, covered.

Roll dough in about three portions, into thin rectangular sheets. Brush each sheet with butter, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, and roll as for jelly roll. Cut roll into inch pieces. Place slices cut side down in a greased baking pan. Brush tops with butter. Let rise until doubled. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake for about 20 minutes in a 350-degree oven.

To make pecan rolls from this recipe, sprinkle the rolled dough with brown sugar after first spreading with butter. Bake the rolls in muffin pans which have been thickly spread with a butter-brown sugar mixture and covered with pecans.

For other sweet and plain roll and biscuit recipes see "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls," a booklet which sells for 23 cents by mail and discusses all of the problems of baking yeast breads and baking powder breads. Address mail orders to me in care of The Tribune.

Looking at Hollywood

Ed Sullivan Sketches Boyer

Hollywood.

CHARLES BOYER is one movie actor who in a sense is living on borrowed time, because if he had not been sent back to the States for propaganda work Boyer probably would have been with the French northern army that was trapped when the Belgians surrendered.

Boyer is a refreshing character for Hollywood. He possesses genuine culture and dislikes anything that smacks of dilettantism. He collects fine books and has about 3,000 of them in his library. He is married to Pat Paterson, an English actress, and they live in a moderate-sized house in Beverly Hills. Boyer keeps the household accounts, makes out all the checks for the household's bills, and hires and fires the servants. His home, which he designed himself, is one of the most interesting in Hollywood. The library is circular and was copied from his library in Paris. The walls are completely covered with books, and even the door has book shelves in it. His living room has sliding panels in it, so that it can be divided into several smaller rooms.

Boyer's romance with Pat Paterson was a case of love at first sight, and they were married after a whirlwind courtship. Pat had never seen him on the screen when she met him. They are regarded as one of Hollywood's happiest married couples.

Boyer is 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs 155 pounds, has black hair and brown eyes. He is a connoisseur of liquor. Contrary to the popular belief about Frenchmen, Boyer is not thrifty. He likes to spend money, but he seldom spends it on himself. He will buy orchids for his leading ladies and treat the crews working with him to champagne.

Today he is sitting on top of the movie world, but he remembers when things were different. He recalls the day that M-G-M released him (that was only 10 years ago). At the time he was working here making French versions of Hollywood flickers, and an economy wave wiped him out. Today he is in every scene of a picture; he is co-starred with the top names of the business. He can remember when he played a bit part as a chauffeur in Jean Harlow's "Red-Headed Woman."

France never has believed that Hollywood has treated Boyer right. He received his degree from the Sorbonne, then entered the Paris Conservatoire de Drame to prepare himself for the stage. The first play he appeared in was called "The Battle." Years later he appeared with Merle Oberon in a film based on the same play which was called "Thunder in the East," but this time he played the lead.

Ruth Chatterton, convinced that Boyer could be a success in American films, urged him to study English. He took her advice, but his accent, which women now find so charming, still impeded his progress, and producers were afraid to take the risk of giving an actor with a foreign accent an important rôle. Then Walter Wanger met him and offered him a part in "Private Worlds." Over night he became one of filmdom's most sought-after leading men.

Helicopter Nears Perfection

By WAYNE THOMIS

THE HELICOPTER is coming. Two manufacturers in the United States are developing small aircraft of this type that are intended for sale to the private owner. The long struggle to overcome the problems involved in building practical machines of this sort seem to be yielding to advances in knowledge of aerodynamics.

A true helicopter is a craft that can take off in a vertical climb, can hover in the air, can fly forward, backward, or to either side. An airplane with fixed wings can, of course, fly only forward, and only then after a relatively high forward speed has been reached on the ground. The autogiro, a first cousin of the helicopter, has rotating wings but cannot hover, and has proved itself to be inefficient when compared to aircraft performances.

Helicopter engineers say that within two years a craft that can do all the things the cartoonists used to have airplanes doing—such as landing in back yard areas, landing on flat rooftops, or even in a street—will be on the market. It will have a small motor of 65 to 90 horsepower, carry two to three persons, and be the machine that will bring flying within the reach of those who never could master the art of flying an airplane.

One of these new American helicopters is being built by the Helicopter Corporation of America at Long Island City, N. Y. The first model, a miniature streamlined affair, was test flown on May 9 near the firm's factory. The plane has a double set of rotating wings, one set above the other. They turn in opposite directions to balance out torque and are arranged to act as autogiro wings in case of motor failure. In other words, they will continue to rotate freely and generate lift until the craft settles to earth.

The other helicopter is being pioneered by Igor Sikorsky, whose Sikorsky Clipper ships have crossed both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans as part of America's commercial air fleets. On May 20 at Bridgeport, Conn., Sikorsky made the first test flight in his new model helicopter, that has three rotors and a 75-horsepower motor.

The main rotor is directly above the engine. The other two, smaller in diameter, are carried on outriggers at the tail of the craft. The two smaller rotors turn in the opposite direction from the larger, thus again balancing out torque.

In both these new helicopters the engines transmit power directly to the rotors. There is no propeller to pull the craft or push the craft forward thru the air. Direction of movement is controled by tilting the axis of the rotating blades. If it is desired to move forward the rotor is tilted forward and the craft moves in that direction. If the desire is to move sideward the axis is tilted in the direction wanted.

Engineers in the United States and France say that future development of the helicopter will give these craft speeds fully as high as any reached by conventional airplanes today.

MR. COFFEE-NERVES
LOOK, MOTHER, WE'RE BUILDING A CLUBHOUSE!
WELL, STOP IT THIS INSTANT! I FEEL SO NERVOUS, I CAN'T STAND ALL THAT HAMMERING AND SAWING!
THEY'RE OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW BETTER! MAYBE A GOOD SPANKING WOULD TEACH 'EM TO BE MORE QUIET!
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
AW SHUCKS... WE NEVER HAVE ANY FUN
MAYBE YOU THINK FEELING THIS WAY IS FUN. PUT THOSE TOOLS BACK WHERE YOU GOT THEM—CLEAR THIS MESS OUT OF HERE!
THAT'S TELLING 'EM WHERE TO GET OFF! THAT'S SHOWING 'EM WHO'S BOSS!
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
BUT, DARLING, WHY CAN'T THEY BUILD A CLUB-HOUSE? WHAT HARM COULD IT DO?
IT MAKES ME NERVOUS — AND THAT MAKES MY INDIGESTION WORSE! BESIDES, THE RACKET HURTS MY HEAD. YOU KNOW I HAVE A HEADACHE!
TELL HIM TO PIPE DOWN, TOO! HIS YELLING AT YOU IS NO HELP!
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
OH, I HATE TO SEE YOU SO CROSS AND NERVOUS— AND IT'S YOUR OWN FAULT
THERE YOU GO-BLAMING EVERYTHING ON ME!
TELL HIM HE'S RIGHT! IT IS YOUR FAULT— FOR MARRYING HIM! ANYONE WHO HAS TO LIVE WITH HIM IS ENTITLED TO A HEADACHE
MR. COFFEE NERVES
YOU WOULDN'T FEEL THAT WAY ALL THE TIME IF YOU'D PAY ATTENTION TO THE DOCTOR! HE TOLD YOU COFFEE-NERVES CAUSES YOUR TROUBLE!
DIDN'T I TELL YOU TO KEEP AWAY FROM THAT DOCTOR? NOW LOOK— YOU'LL NEVER HEAR THE LAST OF IT!
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
THE DOCTOR TOLD YOU TO STOP DRINKING COFFEE AND SWITCH TO POSTUM! WHY DON'T YOU DO IT?
OH, ALL RIGHT, I WILL! I CAN'T FEEL ANY WORSE!
CURSES! BLAST THAT DOCTOR! I CAN'T LIVE IN THE SAME HOUSE WITH POSTUM!
M-MM DELICIOUS! ICED OR HOT... POSTUM SURE IS SWELL!
THERE! NOW, WHEN WE GET UP THE CURTAINS I MADE, IT WILL LOOK PRETTY GOOD!
BUT NOT HALF SO GOOD AS YOU'VE FELT —AND ACTED — SINCE YOU SWITCHED TO POSTUM!
TAKE A TIP FROM ME – IF YOU THINK YOU'VE GOT COFFEE-NERVES – SWITCH TO POSTUM!

MANY PEOPLE can drink coffee without any ill effects. But many others—and all children—should never drink it.

So if you're nervous or irritable, if you can't sleep, or if you have nervous indigestion—and you think coffee-nerves may be responsible—by all means switch to Postum.

For Postum simply can't fray your nerves—it contains no caffein or stimulant of any kind.

And Postum is delicious! You'll notice it has a distinctive, full-bodied flavor all its own—a cheering, satisfying goodness that has made it the favorite drink in millions of American homes.

So if coffee upsets you, drink Postum, instead. And then—even in two short weeks—see if your nerves aren't steadier. See if you don't feel brighter and happier—thanks to switching to Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Postum, made as you make coffee; and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. Economical, too—costs less than ½¢ a cup. A General Foods Product.

YOU WOULDN'T FEEL THAT WAY ALL THE TIME IF YOU'D PAY ATTENTION TO THE DOCTOR! HE TOLD YOU COFFEE-NERVES CAUSES YOUR TROUBLE!
DIDN'T I TELL YOU TO KEEP AWAY FROM THAT DOCTOR? NOW LOOK— YOU'LL NEVER HEAR THE LAST OF IT!
THE DOCTOR TOLD YOU TO STOP DRINKING COFFEE AND SWITCH TO POSTUM! WHY DON'T YOU DO IT?
OH, ALL RIGHT, I WILL! I CAN'T FEEL ANY WORSE!
CURSES! BLAST THAT DOCTOR! I CAN'T LIVE IN THE SAME HOUSE WITH POSTUM!
M-M-M DELICIOUS! ICED OR HOT... POSTUM SURE IS SWELL!
THERE! NOW, WHEN WE GET UP THE CURTAINS I MADE, IT WILL LOOK PRETTY GOOD!
BUT NOT HALF SO GOOD AS YOU'VE FELT —AND ACTED— SINCE YOU SWITCHED TO POSTUM!
TAKE A TIP FROM ME — IF YOU THINK YOU'VE GOT COFFEE-NERVES — SWITCH TO POSTUM!

MANY PEOPLE can drink coffee without any ill effects. But many others—and all children—should never drink it.

So if you're nervous or irritable, if you can't sleep, or if you have nervous indigestion—and you think coffee-nerves may be responsible—by all means switch to Postum.

For Postum simply can't fray your nerves—it contains no caffein or stimulant of any kind.

And Postum is delicious! You'll notice it has a distinctive, full-bodied flavor all its own—a cheering, satisfying goodness that has made it the favorite drink in millions of American homes.

So if coffee upsets you, drink Postum, instead. And then—even in two short weeks—see if your nerves aren't steadier. See if you don't feel brighter and happier—thanks to switching to Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Postum, made as you make coffee; and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. Economical, too—costs less than ½¢ a cup. A General Foods Product.

SMILIN' JACK
JOY BEAVERDUCK, THE WEALTHY AVIATRIX WHO HAS BEEN TRYING TO STEAL JACK FROM DIXIE LEE, WAS CAUGHT IN A THUNDERHEAD WHILE SOARING-- SHE OPENED HER PARACHUTE-- BUT-- --IT COLLAPSED IN THE STORM --AND JOY WAS HURLED ABOUT MERCILESSLY IN THE RAGING ELEMENTS-- A SECTION OF THE GLIDER STRUCK HER BEAUTIFUL FACE --
I MUST BE BLIND! I CAN'T SEE! MAYBE IT HAPPENED TO ME BECAUSE I KEPT DIXIE FROM GETTING HER SIGHT BACK--BUT I DIDN'T MEAN ANY HARM !!
I ONLY WANTED JACK FOR MYSELF--OH--WHY CAN'T I FALL OUT OF THIS AWFUL STORM? I'M--- --I'M--SUFFOCATING !!
I--I MUST BE IN A VACUUM--LIKE IN TH' CENTER OF A CYCLONE --I--I'M CHOKING---- ---GASP-- NO! PLEASE DON'T KILL ME---
--GASP--ULP-- OH-- I--I'M SO COLD--I-- --I'VE HEARD STORIES ABOUT PILOTS BEING HELD INSIDE THUNDERHEADS BY TH' SUCTION OF TH' CURRENTS--
--AND WHEN THEIR BODIES WERE FOUND THEY WERE FROZEN TO DEATH--BUT I NEVER BELIEVED THEM--OH--I-I'M FREEZING--PLEASE LET ME LIVE--I'LL NEVER BE BAD AGAIN----
OH --- GULP-- GASP--TH' STORM MUST HAVE SPENT ITS FURY---TH' ---- HARNESS--GASP-- PULLS AS IF TH' 'CHUTE IS OPENING AGAIN--
THE PARACHUTE IS OPENING AGAIN--BUT, JAGGED PIECES OF THE GLIDER, THAT WERE SWIRLING ABOUT IN THE THUNDERHEAD, ARE FALLING DIRECTLY ABOVE IT---

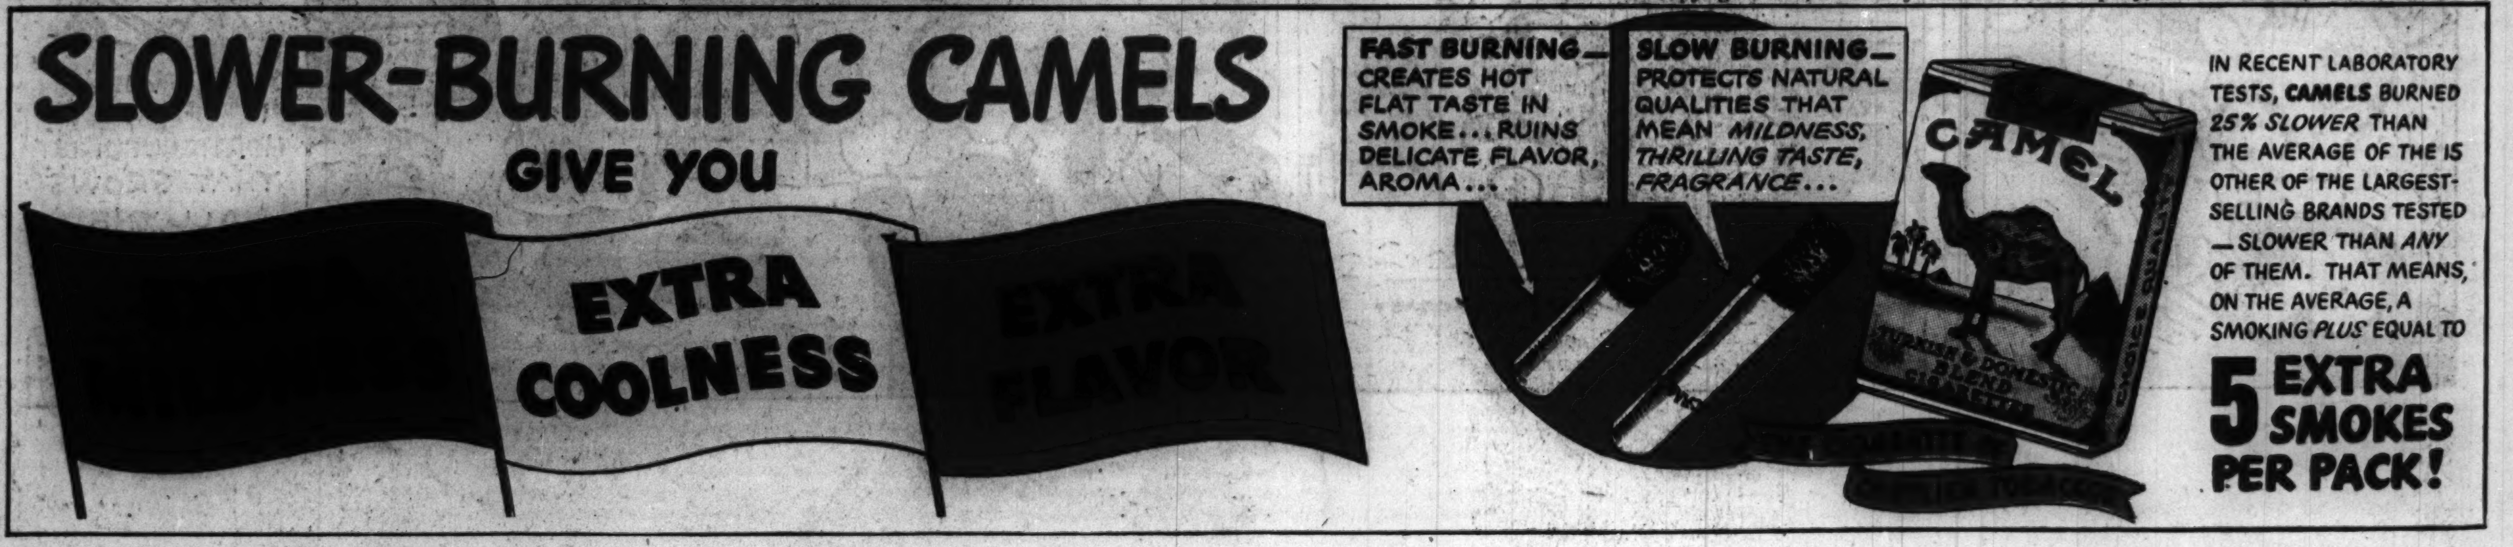
SPEED IN THE WATER — SLOW BURNING IN YOUR CIGARETTE SEEMS TO BE A RULE WITH YOU, PETE
ABSOLUTELY ! CAMELS ARE THE ONLY CIGARETTE FOR ME. THEY BURN SLOWER — AND GIVE ME THE 'EXTRAS' IN SMOKING
SLOWER BURNING CERTAINLY MAKES A DIFFERENCE, DOESN'T IT ? CAMELS ARE SO MUCH MILDER
YOU BET ! I FIND I ENJOY SMOKING MORE WHEN I KEEP ON THE SLOW-BURNING SIDE. CAMELS GIVE ME EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR, AND EXTRA SMOKING PER PACK

Copyright, 1940, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina



SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS GIVE YOU
EXTRA COOLNESS
EXTRA FLAVOR
FAST BURNING — CREATES HOT FLAT TASTE IN SMOKE . . . RUINS DELICATE FLAVOR, AROMA . . .
SLOW BURNING — PROTECTS NATURAL QUALITIES THAT MEAN MILDNESS, THRILLING TASTE, FRAGRANCE . . .
CAMEL
TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES
CHOICE QUALITY
IN RECENT LABORATORY TESTS, CAMELS BURNED 25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS TESTED — SLOWER THAN ANY OF THEM. THAT MEANS, ON THE AVERAGE, A SMOKING PLUS EQUAL TO 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK !

DICK TRACY
FINALLY DISMOUNTING FROM THE RUNAWAY HORSE, JEROME TROHS HIKES THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS, EVENTUALLY COMING TO AN ISOLATED TOURIST CAMP.
GOOD MORNING, STRANGER. DID YOU SLEEP WELL?
CHESTER GOULD
NOT BAD. IT'S AWFUL QUIET AROUND HERE, THOUGH.
YOU SAID IT! TOO DARNED QUIET! —NO CUSTOMERS COME UP HERE.
MA AND I SUNK OUR LAST PENNY IN THIS CAMP—BUT TOURISTS DON'T SEEM TO GET UP THIS FAR.
ER...HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO SELL THIS PLACE?
SELL IT?
DID YOU SAY SELL?
WHY, MAN, WE COULDN'T GIVE THIS PLACE AWAY!
I'M AN OLD GOLD MINER FROM THE SOUTHWEST. THIS PLACE SUITS ME AND I'D LIKE TO STAY HERE.
NOW MY OFFER IS THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS! —IF YOU'LL GET A PIECE OF PAPER AND DRAW UP AN AGREEMENT AT ONCE, WE'LL—MA—THAT OLD GOVERNMENT DEED'S IN THE LIBRARY TABLE DRAWER.
I KNOW. I KNOW.
TEN MINUTES LATER
MISTER, YOU'RE A GREAT LITTLE FELLER. I LIKE THE WAY YOU DO BUSINESS —STRAIGHT FORWARD AND CLEAN— YOU'LL MAKE A GO OF IT.
GOOD LUCK, SIR.
SHE'S RIGHT DOWN HERE, MR. TRACY.
OH, HELLO THERE, MAMMA. JUST WHY DID YOU SEND FOR ME? WHAT'S UP?
I'LL TELL YOU.
IT'S THIS WAY: ONCE A WEEK THE PRISON ENTERTAINS US WITH MOVIES. THE LAST SHOW INCLUDED A NEWS REEL. I ASKED THE SUPERINTENDENT IF SHE'D PLEASE HOLD THAT NEWS REEL FOR YOU TO SEE.
YES, FOLKS, IT'S ROUND-UP TIME IN DOGGIE CITY, MONTANA, AS JOE ATOM, THE MIDGET COW-HAND, RIDES AGAIN.
IN FACT, JOE RIDES RIGHT OUT OF THE DOGGIE CITY ARENA.... AND OUT OF DOGGIE CITY.
DON'T YOU SEE? IT'S HIM! IT'S THAT LITTLE DOUBLE-CROSSER.
BUT JEROME ISN'T THE ONLY LITTLE GUY IN THE WORLD. AND, BESIDES, HE COULDN'T RIDE A HORSE.
HE COULD DO ANYTHING IF IT WOULD KEEP HIM OUT OF JAIL! I TELL YOU, HE'S SOMEWHERE IN MONTANA.
